

Springfield Union

HONOURABLES ARE BANQUETED

NOTABLE EVENT IN BOSTON

Magnificent Climax to Visit of Londoners-Addresses by Senator Hoar, Gov. Bates, Mayor Collins and Others.

BOSTON, Oct, 5-In a spacious hall, bowered in green, illumined by myriads of electric lights and with a golden crown shining over all, were banqueted tonight eight score members of the Honourable Artillery company of London by their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston. Sumptuous in every detail, and with nearly a dozen of Massachusetts' representative men as after-dinner speakers, the entire affair proved a magnificent climax to the stay of the Londoners in this city.

Over the main floor of Symphony hall, Over the main floor of Symphony hall, which was carpeted in red, were more than 50 round tables, at which the larger portion of the two commands were seated. The stage, however, was the feature of the scene. Above the long tables, one of which stretched the entire width of the stage, while others ranged back of it, there streamed to the high proscenium arch long wreaths of alternate English hurel and electric globes, coming to an apex where blazed a golden crown, huga in size but perfect in proportion; the shining gem of the entire decoration.

At the rear of the stage was the shield of the Honourable company of London and facing it on the balcony on the opposite side of the hall was that of the Ancient company of Boston, both surrounded by electric jewels, while on either side of the crown above hung in bright figures "1537"—"1623," the dates of the charters of the two organizations.

organizations.

The tables were mofusely strewn with smilax, roses and orchids, and in addition, each had in its center a massive laurel wreath in which glittered small electric globs of pink and yellow. The balcone which after the feasting, were crowded with ladies were also festooned with laurel wreaths, streamers of electric lights and crossed gliver cannot.

streamers of electric lights and crossed silver cannon.

Into such a scenc of almost regal beauty marched the two companies, not, however, as separate organizations, but side by side, each Ancient escorting an Honourable. The rank and file soon found their seats at the numerous tables scattered over the floor, while the stage was thronged with the gold lace of the officers and the more sombre garb of the invited guests.

It was but a few minutes after 7 o'clock when Col. Hedges motioned for silence, and grace was said by Rev. Edward Everett Hale. Two hours were consumed in the discussion of the substantial part of the evening program.

The speeches which followed all had as a motive the firster welding of the bond of friendship between the two countries. That of Senator Hoar was the most scholarly and that of ox-Gov. John D. Long, the most entertaining. Col. Hedges' introductory remarks were well chosen and when he called for a toast to the President of the United States the band Tlayed "The Star Spangled Banner" and Collector of the Port George H. Lyman responded in his official capacity.

The pext toast was that to King Edward but the recent death of Ambassador Herbert made the response of "God Save the King," which was played by the hymn of praise. There was no other response to this toast, Gov. Bates, The speeches which followed all had who spoke for the State, was eloquent who spoke for the State, was eloquent as well as witty, as was Mayor Collins, who responded for the city. The Earl of Denbigh was then introduced and was hailed with cheers and his remarks, which were full of gratitude for the warm welcome with which the corps had been received, were loudly applauded, especially by his own men who followed it with their unique cheer. United States Seastor George F. Hoar then responded for "Old Mother England" and the vent able Senator unbent to such a degree, his speech being full of anecdotes, that the entire audience was greatly amused throughout. Intense quiet, however, prevailed when he referred to the great loss, '5 he said: "to both countries in the death, a few days ago, of Sir Michael Herbert." "It was the ambition of his life," said Senator Hoar, "that he might produce cordial relations between the two countries. No man was ever better fitted cordial relations between the two countries. No man was ever better fitted for that office. England could not have chosen a man fitter to send with her message of peace and good will. Sir Michael Herbert had won every man's good will in Washington during his brief service." Senator Hoar said in part:

part:
The first speech ever made on this confinent is still one of the best. It was made by the Indian sachem, Samoset, to the Pilgrim Fathers, at Plymouth, on the 18th of March, 1621. It sums up in two words everything needed to be said on this occasion: "Welcome, Englishmen."
We are a people made up of many races, It is eald that, leaving out the negro, we are made up of about the same races, in about the same proportions, that the English were made of in the time of Queen Elizabeth and King James, when the Pilgrims came over and our fathers settled Boston.

Yet England is still the mother country, Whatever may have impened, or whatever may have hopened, or whatever may happen, we have no heartler welcome, no warmer pressure of the hand, than for her.

may happen and the hand, than for her.

It is quite natural that a military organization should be the chasen envoy to promote good fellowship between these two cities. Our great solders and your great solders have, in general, been men of peace. Our great solders washington, and Scott, and Taylor, and Grant, and Sherman, and Miles, have been men of peace. I suppose the same thing, in general, to be true of you. When Lord Castlerengh, after Waterloo, wanted to send the Duke of Wellington over here to take command of your armies, the Duke replied: "It Lee, I shall go only to make peace, which you may as ton over here to take command of your armies, the Duke replied: "It Ito, I shall go only to make peace, which you may as well make now."

We may not always be ready to admit it, but there is nothing that toucnes the neart of an American, certainly of a Massachusetts man, or a Boston man, more than an bonor or kindness from England. It gave us an infinite pleasure when you put the bust of Lowell, our Boston poet; and Longfellow, our Cambridge poet, in Westminster abbey. There is another there, placed as the inscription tells us, by the province of Massachusetts bay, in America, it is to the memory of Lord Howé, an honored Englishman, who was beloved here as at home. On that monument there is an allegorical figure, which I think cannot be found anywhere else in sculpture, the Genius of the Province of Massachusetts Itay. The sculpture, I suppose, is not of the first excellence among the famous works of art to be found in London. But, after all, as a near kinsman of mine said more than 50 years ago, it is pleasant to think that the Genius of Massachusetts Hay has an honest right, and fluds a fitting place in Westminster abbey, among the meroic spirits which the English race has nuringed.

Boston was settled by Englishmen in the beginning. Its institutions were English place in Wesiminster abory, among the heroic spirits which the English race has nurtured.

Boston was settled by Englishmen in the beginning. Its institutions were English. The lice and the unicon still adore the old State House. It was inevitable that as London had en Ancient and Honourable Artillery company, Beston should have an Ancient and Honorable Artillery company. I think you will find that your American kinsmen, have tried to copy you as well as they could. They believe that, after all, the best soldier is the citizen soldier. They had tried during all these years and generations to devote themselves, when not actually in battle—and there have been times when our Ancients and Honorables were not actually in battle—fo cultivating the things that belonged to peace. They have found, as I believe you have, that there is no more delightful martial music than the ringing of cut slass, and no flag of truce like a napkin.

The severest critics of America in England are the men who have severely criticised the same faults. And the severest critics of England in America have been the men, in general, who severely criticised their own country for the same faults.

Shakespeare upon their shelves. The canvas does not live or breathe for us under the touch of Guido or Raphnel. We have no Lawrence or Reypolds to preserve the features of high-born beauty. But at least health paints here with her roses the cheek of the factory girl. The music of Beethoven or Handel may not here rise and swell till it fills the dome which Angelo or Wren builded. But we have the music of children's voices in the well-paid workman's home.

We hope you may feel at home while you are here. When you go back to old Mother England, tell her her hoys are contented and happy and growing. Give her our best love. Tell her we think of her with nothing but friendliness and good will. We have no sore feeling left, even for the spankings she used to give us. If she did not spare the rod, she did not spoil the child.

We mourned with you for the loss of your gracious Queen, allike the type of gentlest womanhood and the most illustrous svererign in history. We look with you with confident anticipation and desire for a long and happy reign for her successor.

The response of ex-Gov. John D. Long to the toast: "Our honorary members," was in his usual velus bright with anecdotes, and vastly entertaining. Gen. William A. Bancroft responded for the Massachusetts volunteer militia. Prof. F. Or Sumichrast of Harvard for "Harvard university," and Rev. William Rider of Gloucester, for "The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston."

Before each guest left the hall he was presented with a souvenir plate, of elaborate design, on which were engraved the arms of England and America, London and Boston, and two companies. One could well imaging that such an affair conceived five years ago took a year of hard labor to work its consumation. The response of ex-Gov. John D.

Horkfort, U.J.

The Britishers who were the guests of the Ancient and Honorables of Boston admitted that drinking through a straw was a new thing to them. That's a care where steams show which was the droit.

Bangod, (mel.,) Newl, Oct. 6, 1903.

BANQUETTED BY BOSTON HOSTS

Honourable Artillerymen of London Complete Their Itinerary on This Side.

BOSTON, Oct. 5-In a spacious hall, bowered in green, illuminated by my-riads of electric lights and with a golden crown shining over all, were banquetted tonight eight score members of the Honourable Artillery Company of London, by their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of

Sumptuous in every detail and with nearly a dozen of Massachusetts representative men as after dinner speakers, the entire affair proved a magnificent chmax to the stay of the Londoners in

Over the main floor of Eymphony Hall, which was carpeted in red. were more to round tables, at which the larger portion of the two commands were seated. The stage, however, was the feature of the scene. Above the long tables, one of which stretched the entire width of the stage, while others ranged back of it there streamed to the high prosecnium arch long wreaths of alternate English laurel and the electric globes, coming to an apex where blazed a golden crown, huge in size, but perfect in proportion, the shining gem of the entire decoration.

At the rear of . the stage was the shield of the Honorable Company of London and facing it on the balcony on the opposite side of the wall was that of the Ancient Company of Boston, both surrounded by electric jewels. while on either side of the crown above hung in bright figures "1537-1638," the dates of the charter of the two organizations. As usual, the tables were proorchids and in addition each had in its centre a massive laurel wreath in which glittered small electric globes of pink

The balconies which after the feasting were crowded with ladies, were also festooned with laurel wreaths, streamers of electric lights and crossed silver

Into such a scene of almost regai beauty marched the two companies Not, however, as separate organiza-tions but side by side each Ancient escorting an Honorable. The rank and file soon found their seats at the numcrous tables scattered over the floor while the stage thronged with the gold lace of the officers and the more sombre garb of the invited guests.

It was but a few minutes after 7 o'clock when Col. Hedges motioned for Hence and grace was said by Rev. W. H. Rider of Gloucester., Two hours were consumed in the discussion of the substantial part of the evening's pro-

The speeches which followed all had as a motive the firmer welding of the ponds of friendship between the two countries. None of them were long shough to be tedious and all were sufficently short to be interesting. That of Benator Hoar was the most scholarly, and that of Ex-Gov. Long the most en-

Col. Hedges's introductory remarks were well chosen and when he called for a tonst to the president of the United States the band played the Star Spangled Banner, and Collector of the Port George H. Lyman responded in his official capacity...

The next toast was that to King Edward, but the recent death of Ambassador Herbert made the response of God Save the King, which was played by the band seem more like a dirge than a hymn of praise. There was no other response to this toast.

Gov. Bates said in part: When we were children, we quarrelled with you ner than yith any other people, but la exercise devloped strength in is both. We have had no serious trouble these scores of years. We have been settled on the shores of Massachusetts bay more (1 less for 283 years and during that three we have been at war with you 11 y ars, and at peace with you 272 years, From present appearances, it will be 272 years more before we shall again declare war against you, better than that we believe that America has fought her last war against England. And this we believe not because we send you ten millions of barrels of flour a year and other necessaries of life in proportion, so that you would starve while fighting us; not because the inventions in modern warfare make it a contest of annihilation; not because the one is afraid and tho other dare not, for the British Linn and the American Eagle have never blinked an eye when facing each other -but because hands have clasped across the seas and hearts have joined, and the ties of blood and the instincts derived from the common origin compel us to march all one way--for the liberty of the individual, the overthrow of the oppressor, the uplifting of the downtrodden and the advancement of the Christian civilization throughout

Gov. Bates, who spoke for the commonwealth, was, as usual eloquent as who responded for the city. The Earl of Denbigh was then introduced and was hailed with cheers and his remarks were full of gratitude for the warm reception with which the corps had been received were loudly applauded and especially by his own men who followed it with their unique cheer.

United States Senator George F. Hoar then responded for Old Mother England, and the venerable senator unbent to such a degree, his speech being full of ancedotes, that the entir audi-inco was greatly amused throughout. Intense quiet, however, prevailed when he referred to the great loss as he said. to both countries in the death ten days ago of Sir Michael Herbert."

It was the ambition of his life, said Senator Hoar, "that he might produce cordial relations between the two countries. No man was ever fitter for that office. England could not have chosen a man fitter to send with her message of peace and good will. Sir Michael Herbert had won every man's good will in Washington during his brief service."

Continuing, Senator Hoar said: "We hope you will feel at home while you are here. When you go back to old mother England, tell her her boys are contented and happy and growing. Cive her our best love, Tell her we think of her with nothing but friendliness and good will."

In conclusion he said: "We mourn with you for the loss of your gracious queen, alike the type of gentlest womanhood and the most illustrious sovereign in history,

"We look to you with confident anticipation and desire for a long and happy reign for her successor."

The response of ex-Gov. John D. Long on behalf of the veterans of the Ancient and Honorable Company, was in his usual vein, full of anecdote and vastly entertaining.

Gen. William A. Bancroft responded for the Massachusetts volunteer militia, Prof. C. Sumichrast of Harvard for the "British citizens" and Rev. William

H. Rider of Gloucester for the clergy. Before each guest left the hall, he was presented with a souvenir plate of elaborate design on which were the arms of England and America, London and Boston and the two companies.

One could well image that such an affair conceived five years ago, took a year of hard labor to work its consummation.

Manchester (1. A.) Oct. 6, 1903,

Down in Boston and vicinity the Honourable Artillery company of London and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston are having a high old time. They have even been farther than Boston and vicinity, and have taken a trip to that most delightful and un-Boston city, Providence, R. I., where they spent five or six hours and were regaled with a Rhode Island clambake and other means of hospitality known to that watery state. They have been to church and the members of the British company have been entertained at dinner by their American hosts. The two companies will make a trip to Canada together, and all in all it will have been a busy and eventful time for the guests and their hosts. There has appeared no evidence that the people of the United States are so much exercised over this visit of the Ancients; but that Boston is in quite a flutter of eccitement over it is clear. The Boston newspapers devote pages to pictures and descriptions of the two companies and their doings, and it is said that not an Ancient of either company can appear on the streets without being followed by a curious crowd. Boston is interested, and is giving the guests a welcome evidently appreciative.

And why not? The members of these companies, arrayed in their gorgeous raiment, may be said to be somewhat conspicuous. Somebody once said that "no band could possibly play all the airs the drum major puts on," but not even a large and colored drum major could exceed in glory or in striking appearance a member of one of these artillery companies. And why not? They are out for fun, and part of their fun consists in making themselves conspicuous, so the more conspicuous the better. And these visitors are not a bad lot. The suggestion that their visit precluded forever the possibility of a break in the friendly relations existing between Great Britain and the United States betrays an exaggerated idea of the importance of the event; but it would be unreasonable to deny that the bond between the two nations is strengthened, if only a little, by this intercourse. The visit is not an event of great international importance, but it is an event of considerable significance, after all. The visitors are welcome, and Boston has done her full share toward making that fact very Bostone Journeal, Oct. 6, 1903.

SENATOR HOAR STIRS HEARERS WITH HIS ELOQUENCE AND HUMOR

With British-American Historical Events for His Themes He Draws Striking Lessons From Visit of London Soldiers to Boston and Predicts Good Results.

continent is still one of the best," said the senator in the beginning. "It was to the guidance of any of your Boston made by the Indian Sachem Samoset fellow-soldiers, from the worthy comto the Pilgrim Fathers at Plymouth on mander down, and get him to take you

Genbus of the Province of Massachusetts Bay. The sculpture, I suppose, is not of the first excellence among the famous works of art to be found in London, but, after all, as a near kinsman of mines and fints at the fifty years ago. It is all fifty years ago. It is experiment on the face of the earth; better and milder than that which he beginning have tried to provide a home. But, as a london had an Annel and Honourable Artillery Company. It was a theory, and not a practise of the great service of the great is the citizen soldier. They had during all these years and generates to devote themselves, when not ally in battle-and there have been so when our notest and Henory's were not actually in battle-to vating the things that belonged to the They have found, as I believe have, that there is no more department of the mental during all these years and generates to devote themselves, when not ally in battle-and there have been so when our notest and Henory and the things that belonged to the two countries. No man was ever been so when our notest and Henory and the things that belonged to the two countries. No man was every ago. They have found, as I believe have, that there is no more department on the face of the earth; better and milder than that which is greatest English to the the strength of the work of the mental of the best and milder that which is greatest English that the best in the was at heave, and not a practise of the great that which is greatest English and the unit of the proving the was one of the most notable of the evening.

"The first speech ever made on this continent is still one of the best." said

"Now, if you will commit yourselves."

"I was his guest shortly before I represented, says the author, as drawing a long bow 'in a proper manner.'

Drawing the Long Bow.

"I was his guest shortly before I represented, says the author, as drawing a long bow 'in a proper manner.'

Drawing the Long Bow.

"Now, if you will commit yourselves."

Pride in Bunker Hill.

races. It is said that, leaving out the nearto, we are made up of about the nearto, we are made up of about the same races, in about the same proportion, that the English were made of in the time of Queen Elizabeth and Kinn and Continuous and Con "Among the things in which English-restless under each other's criticism. But we have sought, if we could, to make peace, which you may as well make now."

"We may not always be ready to admit it. But there is nothing that touches the heart of an American, certainly or a Massachusetts man, or a Boston man, more than an honor or kindness from England. It gave us an infinite pleasure when you put the bust of Lowell, our Boston Doet, and Longfellow, our Cambridge Poet, in Westminster Abbey, There is another there, placed, as the inscription tells us, by the Province of Massachusetts Bay in America. It is to the memory of Lord Howe, an honored Englishman who was beloved here as a home.

An Honest Right.

"On that monument there is an allegorical figure, which I think cannot be found anywhere else in sculpture—the Genius of the Province of Massachusetts Bay. The sculpture, I suppose, is not or the first excellence among the famous works of art to be found in London, But after all, as a near kinsman of mine, but after all, as a near kinsman of mine.

Why Massachusetts Revolted.

Came From Bunker Hill.

Neither of the men has the slightest land says it came from the battle of your Boston of your in Washington during as bound to sweep and history of your in Washington during as bound to sweep and that in here.

Or about the time of the love of friends, without a single assailants.

The old Eighty-eighth, or Connaught

Marines to the Front.

So the word was passed along the eighth, and let the marines pass to the front." This was done. The marines suffered fearfully, but accomplished the

We have gone without the architectu ral glories of palaces and castles and cathedrals. We have tried to perfect the Friendliness and Goodwill.

Oct. 5, 1903.
A $50,000 BANQUET.

The Honorables of Boston Enterials the Honourables of London.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 5 .- This is the two hundred and sixty-sixth fall field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillers Company, and a program for the day's celebration and the entertainment of the Honourable Artillery Company of London has been prepared that, commencing early this forenoon, will end-well any time before sunrise to-morrow morning. After a street parade this morning the company and its guests went on a harbor excursion which lasted well into the afternoon. This evening the big banquet will be given at Symphony Hall, to which function 1,000 members and guards have been invited. The dinner has been prepared with the most exacting for tidiousness and will cost $50,000. Three hundred waiters will be in attendance and the wines will be poured by sevents

Buffols, N. J., 1 Oct. 6, 1903. CLIMAX OF BOSTON'S WELCOME TO THE HONOURABLES

Ancient's Give a Banquet to Visitors and "Hands" Across-the-sea" Sentiment Is Proclaimed and Toasted.

Boston, Oct. 5.—In Symphony Hall, andsomely decorated and illuminated or the occasion, eight score members of the Honourable Artillery Company condon were banqueted tonight by r hosts, the Ancient and Honorable llery Company of Boston, as a clihax to the stay of the Londoners in his city. There were more than fifty ables in the hall and on the stage. The eature of the decorations of the latter vere devices symbolic of the life of the rganizations and of the two hathey represent the tables were decorated with wers and electric lights. In the bal-ties a host of ladles listened to the er-dinner speeches. The dinner be-

MANY SPEECHES MADE.

The speeches which followed had as motive the firmer welding of the bond f friendship between England and the Inited States. Toasts to the President and King were followed by welcoming esses by Gov. Bates and Mayor ns, and in response by the Earl of

ed States Senator George F. Hoar

nited States Sepator George F. Hoar ke to the toast, "Old Mother Eng-l," referring to the loss sustained both England and the United States he death of Sir Michael Herbert, ormer Gov. John B. Long, Gen. Will-A. Bancroft, Prof. F. C. Sumich-tof Harvard, and the Rev. Mr. Wil-l Rider of Gloucester were other speakers.

No expense was spared by the Andents to make the banquet the most sumptuous affair ever arranged by a nilitary organization, and a conservative estimate of the cost of dining close to 1,050 men is $50,000, of which fully me-third was paid out for wines. It was champagne with the first course and champagne right through to the and champagne right through to the last course, and the result of such a lowage can well be imagined by those familiar with the capacity of the An-

WET OUTSIDE, TOO.

It was wet without, too, for rain fell I the evening. The Londoners drank by conservatively. Seventy-five men men present, and the result was they understood much more of peechmaking than did the An-

the cost of serving it for each innigars, in their silver cases, cost a Ancients observed their 266th annual fall field day by taking a trip down the harbor with their English guests. The cruise was literally a "trip down the harbor," because the entire three hours were spent inside Boston

Worcester Gazette. Oct. 6, 1903.

Soldiers' Uniforms.

The gorgeous uniforms of the Honorable Artillery company of London have caused much comment among the military men who have seen them in Boston and Providence during the past few days. The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Massachusetts presents a fairly brilliant appearance when seen in juxtaposition to troops of the State militia, but is quite overwhelmed by the showing of the Londoners when the two commands appear together. Even the redoubtable Governor's Foot guard of Hartford is a sombre appearing force in contrast to the Honorables. The scarlet uniforms of English troops naturally set off any body of men and when the red is ornamented with much gold lace, as is the case of the artillery company, the effect is bound to be still greater. Even the privates of the Royal Garrison Guard of Halifax and the marines from H. M. S. Retribution. now in Boston harbor, attract much attention as they saunter along the street in their bright tunics, forage cap perched on the side of the head, elbows well thrown out, with one hand holding gloves and the other a swagger-stick. They present a very smart appearance and it is not strange to hear American officers lamenting the fact that their men cannot be made to appear equally

The soldiers and sailors of the United States army and navy are admirably uniformed for the service, but it is true they never do look very trim. The marine corps is the only branch of the service that approaches foreign troops in jauntiness. That the advantage of presenting a good appearance is appreciated by the officials of the government, is shown by the proposition now under consideration to provide a bobtailed dress coat or muster jacket for sailors, so as to enable them to appear on the streets of the cities they visit without displaying so much of their chests and the lacings of their trousers. It is argued that when well-dressed the soldier and sailor will behave better than when he presents a sloppy appearance, and that good clothes will be better cared for than those of an inferior grade. The moral tone of any man is apt to be improved by correct dress a truth so well established that Englishmen make it a point when campaigning in remote countries to dress for dinner and for church service as punctually as though at home. By so doing they maintain their own self-respect and command that of subordinates and even enemies.

Dress alone does not make the man and there can be no question but that the American soldier is the superior of any other in the world as regards individual intelligence and initiative. The question at issue is whether he might not be still further improved by a little judicious sprucing up. For service in the field the American equipment is well-nigh perfect, but for show it is lacking and it is barely possible that a little more show in the times of peace might serve to raise the general tone of Rochester (1.7.,) Thevall, Oct. 6, 1903.

$50 PER PLATE

Cost of Last Night's Banquet to the Honourables.

75 MEN POURED CHAMPAGNE

Total Cost of the Dinner Was $50,000 -Cigars Alone Cost the Ancients $2,500-One Thousand and Fifty Men Sat Down to Feast-Wine Flowed Like Water.

By Special Wire to The Herald.

Boston, Oct. 5 .- The great red banquet given by the Ancient and Honourable Artillery Company of Boston for the Hon-ourable Artillery Company of London took place in Symphony Hall to-night. Nothing like it ever occurred in New England, and it is doubtful if a more costly feast was ever set in this country. No expense was spared by the Ancients to make it the most sumptuous affair ever arranged by a military organization, and a conservative estimate of the cost of dining close to 1,050 men is $50,000, of which fully one-third was paid out for wines. It was champagne with the first course and champagne right through to the last course, and the result of such a flowage can well be imagined by people familiar with the capacity of the An-

75 Men Poured Wine.

It was wet without, too, for rain fell all evening. The Londoners drank very conservatively. Seventy-five men did nothing else but pour champagne into the glasses of the assembled thousand men present, and the result was that they understood much more of the speech-making than did the Ancients and other

"You fellows can drink much more than we," said one of the English visitors to a reporter this afternoon, "and as we do not care to go under at this time of the visit, we are drinking very conserva-tively. Two of our fellows were knocked out on Saturday and we all heard from it. This morning we were told that if such a thing occurred to any one of us again, the offender will be dropped from the company here and will have to make the best of his way home. When he gets there he will be dismissed from the Fifty Dollars a Plate.

The dinner consisted of eight courses and the cost of serving it for each in-dividual was about $50.

The cigars, in their silver cases, cost

The Ancients observed their 266th annual field day by taking a trip down the harbor with their English guests. The cruise was literally a "trip down the harbor," because the entire three hours was spent inside Boston Light. An attempt was made on the ocean, the plan being to sail down to Marblehead, but the ground to swell at the harbor mouth was enough to force a change in the course.

Conscord, (4. 7.1)

Boston did herself proud, and the press was great, on the occasion of the visit of the A. & H. A. Co. The gastronomic feats of the warriors were wonderful, but not so trying as blistered feet and Boston Post Oct. 6, 1903

THE SUPERB CROWN OF BLECTR IC LIGHTS AND FERNS OVER THE STAGE. ONE OF THE FINEST PIECES OF THE DECORATOR'S ART EVER SEEN IN BOSTON IN NOT IN THE UNITED STATES.

Boston Post, oct. 6, 1903.

(Photo by Post Photographer.)

TALLEST AND SHORTEST MEMBERS OF THE LONDON HONOURABLES. SERGEANT GILLING STANDS 6 FRET 7 INCHES IN HIS STOCKINGS AND WITH HIS BUSBY MEASURES 7 FEET 10 INCHES. DRIVER PIZEY IS 6 FEET 2 INCHES TALL.

Oct. 5, 1903.

Boston, Oct. 5.—The Ancient and Honourable Artillery parade this morning was followed by a harbor excursion. The banquet tonight will cost $50,000. One thousand covers are laid. There will be three hundred walters and seventy-five specially selected men to pour wine.

Bridgeport (lot.)

The Ancient and Henourables of Loudon and Boston are having the ime of their life. Yesterday in Boston they marched to church to murtial music, the sight calling out thouto see a military parade on Sunday

Newfort (B. J.) News!

ANCIENTS IN FALL RIVER.

Arrive This Afternoon on Their Way to New York and Washington.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 6 .- The Ancient and Honorables of Boston and the Honourable Artillery Company of London arrived here this afternoon on their way to New York and Washington. Preparations in their honor were made by the local military and by a committee of civilians. Buildings in the centre of the city were quite gen-erally decorated. The escort consisted of four batteries of the First Heavy Artillery. Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, and six companies of the naval brigade, including companies from Taunton, Boston, Brockton, Lynn and Springfield.

The Grand Army veterans met the procession at the library and continued with it in the review by the mayor and city government at the city hall. Following a short stop at the Quequechan Club the procession will re-form and at the procession will re-form and at the centre of to be not the procession with restorm and at the city to the New York boat. The schools were closed at 3 o'clock in order to allow the pupils to view the procession. Automobiles were supplied during the short stop at the club to such of the visitors as desired to view points of interest in the city.

Boston Post, Oct. 6, 1903.

The design on the last page of the menu of the banquet to the London Honoursbles, significant of the feeling of "Hands Across the Sea" prevailing.

Boston Post, Oct. 6, 1903.

FEAST O DULL TRADING AND SAGGING PRICES

50 TURTL plast week's level,

Today's stock market dropped into a professional rut, and there was a shrinkage in the dealings to about half the recent daily average. The movement of prices was exceedingly singuish and showed little disposition to get far from the bullish professionals, who had formed a hope that the considerable strength shown last week would serve

Bostone Post, Oct. 6, 1903.

(Photo by Post Photographer.) LIEUTENANT-COLONEL BAILEY, CAPTAIN CUSHING, COLONEL PFAFF, MAJOR BUDWORTH, ENSIGN CAR-Interesting group of London and Boston Honourables, taken on board the steamship during the excursion.

FEAST OF ORATORY AND MUSIC MADE ANCIENTS' BANQUET MEMORABLE

THE POST ARTIST GIVES AN IDEA OF THE GREAT QUANTITIES OF FOOD AND DRINK CONSUMED AT THE ANCIENTS' BANQUET

Boston Post Oct. 6, 1903.

EARL DENBIGH'S ADDRESS

Praises American Hospitality and Pays a Compliment to the American Press

Colonel Denbigh said: "Your Excellency, your Honors, ladies and gentlemen: At the hour of 3 a. m. this morning, just when I was finishing a four hours' con-versation with your indefatigable chairman and our equally indefatigable sec-retaries on the subject of the arrange-ments for next week, I asked him if he could tell me how many weeks we had been in Boston. Colonel Hedges assured me on his word of honor as a citizen of the United States and the commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company that we had only arrived on

This morning, when I was engaged in "This morning, when I was engaged in doing my 247th quick change of uniform since my arrival, I observed to the valet who was assisting me that I had never done so much dressing before in my life, and his reply was: 'I have assisted a good many gentlemen to dress, but the way you slide in and out of your clothes just takes my eye.' (Applause.) I mention this little incident in order to try to convey to you some small idea of to convey to you some small idea of the abject bewilderment in which I find myself—the bewilderment which makes it extremely difficult to make up my mind as to what I should say.

"The other day we visited Providence—that industrial city—which turned out and gave us a most magnificent welcome. We were afterwards entertained—at what suppose Colonel Hedges would call a little lunch—by our kind friends, led by Colonel Gross, and I had occasion to observe that I had a great grudge against Colonel Hedges for the meagre facts he had given me relative to the reception

'We were told we were to go to Providence and enjoy a little clambake. Now, I am surprised at Colonel Hedges. Colonel Hedges is a distinguished citizen of a great country, which possesses many remarkable attributes, and one of the most remarkable of these is the great press, and to whom I beg to tender our thanks, in the name of our company, for the kind way in which they have received us.

"I know that I am only paying a compliment when I say one of the most distinguishing marks of that press is its resourcefulness and its graphic power of description both of things that have happened and of things that might happen.

"Well, ladies and gentlemen, I do not profess to be what is known as a professional descriptive reporter; but considering the education that Colonel Hedges has had in this country I am honeatly surprised at the meagreness of his power of description. For my part if I could not do better than he does could not do better than he does giving an accurate description of ure events, before they occur, I would be my head and retire from business.

"Well, I say for our side, after all we have gone through, that he is the real cause of my object bewilderment." We arrived, as I have been informed, Friday last. One of the first things we saw was the Union Jack flying from the top of Bunker Hill monument (appliause), a monument which it is generituous in these days for me to say that we in England have long felt we could regard without any ill will and regard it as a reminder to the British nation as to how ies ought not to be governed. (Ap-

In consequence of this I think that we can henceforth regard that monument in another light as a monument memory of brave men whom we (Applause.)

Well, ladies and gentlemen, we steamed into a comewhat lonely and dosolate dock. We disembarked. The shed was lonely looking and gave the impression of weather.

We had been told what a hearty welwe had seen told what a hearty were come awaited us. Presently we began our march. We found a crowd outside. We were not surprised to find our old friends, or rather, I should say, our ancient offspring, because we had been told they were there. We greeted them with much pleasure,

"We passed on. We then began to realize what was in store for us. We found Union Jacks hanging out of windows and we were told in strict confidence that there would have been 10 times more only the supply had run out.

"The crowds grew larger and more enthuslastic. We began to feel rather proud and, after all, that we were some-body in particular. We found ourselves going between the lines of your well trained militia.

Saluted American Colors

"We had the pleasure of saluting their colors. I believe it is the first time in the history of the country that Englishmen carrying the British flag and wearing the British uniform have marched on American soil and saluted American colors.

'It has been one unbroken series of kind "It has been one unbroken series of enthusiastic greetings and acts of kindness to us. We had a great reception at Providence, of which I have already spoken. We had that great sight in the streets yesterday, when, I am told, the crowd was larger than has ever before been seen on the streets of Boston. "We had all the militia and your pictures gue corps turning out to do us honor."

turesque corps turning out to do us honor, and today we have had an interesting parade and an equally enthusiastic reception when we were proud to go to Faneuil Hall to pay military honor to the Faneuil Hall to pay military honor to the colors of our friends.

"Now matters have culminated in the gorgeous scene we see before us, a scene such as I have never before beheld, and I doubt if you have either.

"I do not know whether this reflects the more credit on the generosity of those who provided it, upon those who organized it, on the culinary skill, or on the secondary skill, or on the orative skill of those who provided this beautiful scene.

The Meaning of the Welcome

"I have to thank you for these handsome souvenirs, which we will take away with us and look upon as family helrlooms. (Applause.) Now, ladies and gentlemen, it would be affectation on my part to deny that the welcome has come from far beyond the ranks of our real hosis. It would be, at the same time, intolerable conceit on the part of us to suppose for a moment that this welcome was meant for the ordinary hum-drum individuals, as we are. We must go back further for ascertaining the proper meaning of all this.

"We once had a difference on the subject of tea (Applause.) We thought the tea ought to be made in fresh water, hot; you though: it ought to be made in salt water, cold. (Laughter.) That was a trifling thing. Bunker Hill has now flown the Union Jack.

"Well, then, there were some hard knocks on each side, and then at intervals there were hard words. Then, it was after the last edition of hard words, came the news that the Ancients were to wist Lander. "I have to thank you for these hand-came the news that the Ancients were to visit London. The authorities of England said: 'We bear our friends across the water no ill will for what they have said against us; let us see if they bear any ill will toward us. Let us see if we any ii will toward us. Let us see if we cannot give them a downright good reception. We did our best (Applause.) "The reception was led by our late gracious Queen. (Applause.) I cannot say that you got as good a reception in London streets as we have had in Boston. We Britishers are a desperate prosaic, hum-drum lot, and it takes a deal to arouse us, but if you come again it will arouse us, but if you come again it will hum-drum lot, and it takes a deal to arouse us, but if you come again it will be different.

"When our country got involved in troubles elsewhere, and then some other things happened, and we began to think why should we be enemies?" Bach has advantages that the other has not got. Just as two negatives make a positive, why cannot we two enemies unite into one mutual admiration, and why cannot we bring about a whole-hearted feeling between these two nations? (Applause.) That is where matters have run at the present moment." (Applause.

The earl continued: "Tomorrow we have to sive a temporary farewell to kind and generous Boston, and the are going to some of your other great cities, where, we are informed, we shall be as well received as we have been here, and, if so, it shall be shown that the feeling we have met with is not confined to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

"We are going to have the honor of heins received by your President. (Applause.) The British colors will be dipped to the President in salute. (Applause.)

"Well, I have nothing more to say, except that we are proud to be here—all of us are proud—and we shall be ten times more broud if the friendship between the two countries, which now seems to be assured, should be similar to the picture on your label (the menu souvenir), which says 'Forever.'"

When Lord Denbish concluded the applause that followed lasted for several moments. The band played and the men and women shook the napkins and handkerchiefs. As the applause subsided, Lord Denbish stood up and shouted in a clear Denbigh stood up and shouted in a clear military tone:

"Men of the Honourable Artillery Com-pany: Fire for the Ancients; ready, pre-

Then there broke over the hall that short crisp yell of the Britishers, which defies adequate description. It took everyone by storm and won a hearty round of applause from the American people present.

Colonel Hedges then read a telegram Colonel Hedges then read a telegram from the dramatic profession, which read as follows: "Representatives of the dramatic profession of both countries extend best wishes to the Honourable Artillery Company of London. We hope that they may enjoy the hospitality extended here as we have enjoyed that which has been extended to us in their country." The telegram was signed by William H. Crane, John Drew, Hautrey, Warren, and

The next speaker was the Hon. John D. Long, who responded for the honorary members of the Ancients' company, there being but two, King Edward and himself.

Boston Post, Oct. 6, 1903.

MAYOR COLLINS'S SPEECH

Extends Boston's Welcome and Refers to Hospitality of the Ancients

Mayor Collins said: "Colonel Hedges, my Lord Denbigh, your Excellency, ladies and gentlemen: I tender to you my heartiest welcome, but the first thing my heartiest welcome, but the first thing I do wish to refer to is the republican simplicity of this occasion.

"My first salutation is to the ladies. Colonel Hedges, I rise in response to your summons as a pleasure. But, my Lord Denbigh and the artillery company, whatever I might have been able to say in welcome to you has already heen anticipated by the Governor of the Commonwealth. monwealth.

"The welcome of Boston does not need to be expressed by my lips or by any other official. From the time you landed until now the welcome has been everywhere given and is so hearty that everywhere the control of the control where given and is so hearty that everyone of you must have seen it. (Applause.)

If you came on a hostile mission you might have had another sort of welcome.
"You, gentlemen, and my lord, the welcome is such that you will need, to use the word of our military President, to lead a strenuous life. (Laughter and to lead a strenuous life. (Daughter that applause.)

"If you are to be under the guidance of this body of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston you will find that they are men with splendid constitutions, tough people, and of large experience. (Laughter.)

"But, as perhaps the only individual present who knew you in London, I think you can hold your own. You will come back after a brief glimpse of a fringe of this great country and we shall meet again and you will return to old England with the impression that here there is a friendly sentiment to all men and for peace on earth. for peace on earth.
"We bid you God-speed and shall take great pleasure in wishing you God-speed to your homes and all within your lands." (Loud applause.)

Brockton Times Oct. 6, 1903

FIELD DAY OF ANCIENTS.

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—This was the 268th field day of the Ancient and Honora. ble Artillery company, and with the Honourable Artillery company of London the Boston company spent the day in a steamboat excursion along the North shore. The day's program also included a reception and a banquet in Symphony hall

Boston Post Oct. 6, 1903.

GOVERNOR BATES

Tells the London Honourables it is Unnecessary for Him to Extend the State's Greeting to Them

In extending the greetings of the State Governor Bates said: "I am asked to do something unneces-

ary, but yet most agreeable—to extend the greetings of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to the guests of this ocasion. Unnecessary, gentlemen of England, because the welcome has already been spoken by the people of Massachusetts; snoken by the gentlement of England. setts; spoken by them as they gathered by thousands and tens of thousands on the day of your arrival; spoken again yesterday by the multitude that like a great torrent flowed through the streets great torrent flowed through the streets of this city; spoken in the holiday vestments with which our metropolis has clothed itself; spoken in every grasp of the hand, in the smile of every face, in the cheer that has rent the air wherever you have gone—spoken in the intermingling of the Stars and Stripes with the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew; and this we trust has satisfied you that, however your predecessors may have however your predecessors may have fared among us, you are in no danger except from our attempted kindness.

except from our attempted kindness.

"While unnecessary, therefore, it is nevertheless a privilege to say to you, Lord Denbigh, and to you, soldiers of the Honourable Artillery Company of London, welcome to Massachusetts, welcome to her hospitality, welcome to her homes and to her firesides.

"You bring with you the sabre and the gun, but there is no threat in them, rather are they the symbols of that military spirit that has made possible England's greatness and America's future; and while we all look forward to the day when the war-drum shall throb no longer and all the battle flags be furied in the parliament of man and the federation of the world," yet we would not purchase the dawn of such a day at the sacrifice of that spirit that from the beginning of the tribes of men has been presented. from the beginning of the tribes of men has been productive of traits of courage and manliness essential to human char-coter.

acter.

"Yee, we know further that the dawn of such a day can never come except the would-be wrong-doer among men and nathons realizes that there is beful spirit that will fight to avenge the wrongs of the weak and prevent the aggressions of the despoiler.

"For our countries the scenes that aggressions of the despoiler.

"For our countries the scenes that have been witnessed on the shores of New England these last few days have a peculiar interest. Formerly parts of one nation, now separated, we are witnesses of the depth of interest that the one has in the welfare of the other. Then we were but a child, we quarrelled with you oftener than with any other one has in the welfare of the other. Then we were but a child, we quarrelled with you oftener than with any other people, but the exercise developed strength in us both. We have had no serious trouble these scores of years. We have been settled on the shores of Massachusetts Bay, more or less settled, for two hundred and eighty-three years, and during that time we have been at war with you eleven years and seventy-two years. From present appearances it will be two hundred and seventy-two years more before we shall again declare war against you.

Better than that, we believe that America has fought her last war against England. And this we believe, not because we send you ten million barrels of flour a year, and other necessaries of life in proportion, so that you would starve while fighting us; not because the inventions in modern warfare make it a contest of annibiliation; not because the one is afraid.

inventions in modern warfare make it a contest of annihilation; not because the one is afraid and the other dare not, for the British Lion and the American Bagle have never blinked an eye when facing each other—but because hands have clasped across the seas and hearts have joined, and the ties of blood and the instincts derived from the common origin compel us to march all one way—for the liberty of the individual, the overthrow of the oppressor, the uplifting of the downtrodden, and the advancement of the Christian civilization throughout the world."

Oct. 6, 1903. GENERAL BANCROFT

Boston Post

Speaks for the Militia and Recalls the Origin of Both the Boston Ancients and the London Honourables

Major-General William A. Bancroft's speech was as follows:

"The militia, both of this Commonwealth and of the country, will feel much pleased. I am sure, to know that it has been named upon an occasion of so much distinction, and indeed it is highly approprlate that this institution of government should have formal attention at this extraordinary festivity; for nearly 400 years ago, this institution brought into existence one of these famous corps, and, transplanted to another continent, and, transplanted to another continent, brought also into existence the other a hundred years later."

"History tells us that the London company first received royal recognition as the company which exercised arms in the 'Artillerie Garden.' It is a long time since this company began to resort to that London garden, and we hope, after an experience of centuries, that the company will find the flowers of such of the gardens of America as it has an opportunity to visit quite as attractive as were those to be seen in the London garden in 1537.

"I am sure the milital in this community had never a more agreeable duty

munity had never a more agreeable duty munity had never a more agreeable duty to perform than they had when privileged to escort the Boston company and its guests through the streets of this town. I am equally sure that our militia appreciated the highly martial appearance which the London company made. Your command, my lord, looked so 'very smart' (I believe that is what they would say the company made our milities. at home), and I say this of our milltia, who are accustomed to be astonished every year at the marching of the Boston company, of whom a certain commander-in-chief said some years ago that he had never seen envirting like it. It ton company, of whom a certain commander-in-thief said some years ago that he had never seen anything like it. It is certainly a very great pleasure to witness such soldierly bearing and such soldierly precision of movement.

"You have named, sir, the militia—the militia in its broad sense in distinction from the profession of arms. In fact, there is much difference between them; but if we are to believe Sir William Blackstone, your accomplished and learned writer on the common law, the spirit of the British constitution did not find a place for the professional soldier. While what Sir William wrote is not now so keenly felt, yet in theory, at least, I understand it is as true today as it was in 1765. He says: In free states the profession of a soldier, taken singly and merely as a profession, is justly an object of jealousy. In these days no man should take up arms but with a view to defend his country and its laws; he puts not off the citizen when he enters the camp; it is because he is a citizen, and would wish to continue so, that he makes himself for a while a soldier. The laws, therefore, and constitution of Great Britain know no such state as that of a perpetual standing soldier, bred up to no other profession that that of war." bred up to no other profession that that bred up to no other profession that that of war."

"The same idea is expressed in the motto upon the seal of our Commonwealth of Massachusetts: 'Ense petit placidam sub libertate quietem'—which a gallant officer of our milital has somewhat freely translated: 'He will have peace even if he has to fight for it.' The Congress also expresses the idea in our small regular army. In other words, the British and the American conception of military force is an organized body of citizens trained in the art of war, and, while in practice it is found expedient that some men should devote their time and thought constantly to the military service, just as it is expedient that some men should act constantly as firemen of as policeact constantly as diremen or as policemen, in our political plan, every regular soldier is a citizen, temporarily performing special duties for the good of all. "It is, however, peculiarly the part of the militiaman, the citizen soldier, by whatever name he may be called, to exemplify the spirit both of the British constitution and that of the republic of the United States. He studies and of the United States. He studies and practices the profession of arms as a public spirited citizen. He does not undervalue the proficiency of the professional soldier, neither does he underestimate the horrors of warfare. Individually he regards military service as he regards jury duty, or fire extinction, or the exercise of the suffrage. Individually he devotes himself to military service either because he may conceive that he is better fitted for it or because it needs him, and, indeed, he is quite as likely hlm, and, indeed, he is quite as likely to make a personal sacrifice as though he entered some branch of the civil ser-vice. He may enter both services.

"He has no quarrel, however, with any other branch of the public service; on the contrary, he expects to be called upon to aid the civil power in all its branches of administration. He has no jealousy, either, of the professional sol-dier. He admires his attainments, and footing he emulates his accomplishment Time was, it may be, when the poet Dryden, in satirical mood, might have said with some truth:

"'And, raw in fields, the rude militia swarms; Mouths without hands: maintained at vast expense: In peace a charge, in war a weak defence; Stout once a month they march, a blustering band, And ever, but in times of need, at hand.'

"But I am very sure, sir, that in neither country could this now be justly said of the militia, and I should wish to include broadly by this term, my lord, not only technically your militia, but also your volunteers and yeomanry, and in this country the national guard, which is on precisely the same footing as the militia, although called by another name. They stand for order as against disorder: they stand for order as against disorder; they stand for law as against anarchy; they stand for civilization as against barbarism; they stand for peace as against "May I couple, sir, the citizen soldier of the empire and the citizen soldier of the republic, one in language, one in the republic, one in language, one in civilization, one in spirit? Together may they uphold the principles of the great English speaking peoples "Till the war drum throbs no longer and the battle flags are furled of the world."

In the parliament of man, the federation of the world.

"Citizens always; soldiers when needed. Duty alone determines. Zealous, devoted! Loving country! Loving liberty under law! Such a soldier, I make bold to say, had you in Arthur, Duke of Wellington; such a soldier had we in Washington. May

"'Great example stand Colossal, seen of every land.

And keep the soldier firm, the statesman pure,

Till in all lands and thro' all human

The path of duty be the way to glory."

Auburne (F.S.) Bulleton Oct. 5, 1903

LONDON ARTILLERY COMPANY.

Visitors and Their Hosts Leave For Trip West Tomorrow.

Boston, Oct. 5 .- Services at Trinity church in the afternoon was the chief event of the day for the Honorable Artillery company of London, now the guests of the Ancient and Honorables of this city.

The services were arranged by the British residents of Boston and were preceded by a parade, participated in by the English and American Honorables and by the army and navy veterans of the British service now in this city.

Rev. E. Winchester Donald, D.D., Trinity's rector, conducted the services there.

Some of the visitors attended the cathedral of the Holy Cross.

The program for today calls for a harbor excursion and a banquet in the evening. The visitors and their hosts will leave for their trip through the Middle states and Canada Tuesday

Bostone Fost Oct. 6, 1903.

PROFESSOR DE SUMICHRAST

Speaks on the Brotherhood of the Anglo-Saxon Races-Each Land Proud of Its Great Men In Peace and War-Same-Colored-Flags Symbolic of Our Human-Itarian Duties

Professor F. C. de Sumichrast spoke on he brotherhood of the two great Anglo-axon races as exemplified by the ban-uet. He seed to the contract of the contra the said in part:

The keynote of this meeting of the clent and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Honourable Argery Company of London is 'brotherery Company brotherhood slone, but the two great Anglorotherhood of the two great Anglo-

Tords of the sea are both Americans d Britons, and the call of Decatur, tweence, Farragut, Dewey, awakes as dek response in a British breast as les the sound of Drake and Frobisher, Anson and Howe, of Collingwood and uncan, and most of all of Nelson, who he died on the Victory's blood-ained decks, bequeathed to us the ungretable signal: England expects, every an this day to do his duty'—and every his day to do his duty'-and ever ave the same flag-the red, white of our mission here; flags that flags for which our own and and lofty ideals their flags repre-

Boston will have another evacuation tomorrow, but the American troops will accompany the Britishers Boston Post Oct. 6. 1903. SENATOR HOAR

Assures the English Visitors of Their Welcome in Boston, Quoting the Indian Sachem Samoset

George F. Hoar, the senior Senator from Massachusetts, spoke as follows, in "The first speech ever made on this continent is still one of the best. It was made by the Indian Sachem Samoset to made by the Indian Sachem Samoset to the Pilgrim Fathers at Plymouth on the 16th of March, 1621. It sums up in two words everything needed to be said on this occasion: 'Welcome Englishmen!'. 'Our English friends may be sure of their welcome. They are in the house of their friends, in the dwelling-place of their brethren. We cannot show you wonders like those you have left behind. We have few glories of architecture and of art. We have little antiquity. We have no palaces or castles or cathedrals or galleries like those to which you are accustomed at home. Yet possibly we also may have something to exhibit, in a galleries like those to which you are accustomed at home. Yet possibly we also may have something to exhibit, in a modest way, of the fruitage of the tree of English liberty. We must yield the palm cheerfully to other nations in art and architecture and music. We have tried to emulate them, if not to excel them, in the things which constitute the strength and happiness of a free people. We have gone without the architectural glories of palaces and castles and cathedrals. We have tried to perfect the architecture of the people's dwellings, and you will find the English bible and the English Shakapere upon their shelves. The canvas does not live or breathe for us under the touch of Guido or Raphael. We have no Lawrence or Reynolds to preserve the features of high-born beauty. But at least health paints here with her roses the cheek of the factory girl. The music of Beethoven or Handel may not here rise and swell till it fills the dome which Angelo or Wren builded. But we have the music of children's voices in the well-paid workmen's homes.

"We hope you may feel at home while you are here. When you go back to old mother England, tall her her boys are sentented and happy and growing. Give her our best love. Teil her we think of her with nothing but friendliness and good will. We have no sore feeling left, even for the spankings she used to give us. If she did not spare the rod, she did good will. We have no sore feeling left, even for the spankings she used to give us. If she did not spare the rod, she did not spoil the child.

"We mourned with you for the loss of your gracious Queen, alike the type of gentlest womenhood and the most illustrious sovereign in history. We look with you with confident anticipation and desire for a long and happy reign for her successor."

South Towalk, (let.)

Sentinel,

oct. 5, 1903,

ARTILLERISTS FIELD DAY, BOSTON, Oct. 5.—This was the 266th fall field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, and with their guests, the Honourable Artillery lery Company of London, the Boston day's program also included a recer tion and banquet in Symphony Hall this evening. At 19 o'clock the mem hers of the home company assen South Market street, to receive their English comrades. A short march took stenner was boarded for the day's

Ottified Bagles

The artillery men of London who are visiting the Ancients of Boston, are having the time of their lives as any one can well see who takes the time to read the daily story of their vielt as recorded in the estoemed New York Sun

Oct. 6, 1903.

Boston Post

COLLECTOR LYMAN

Draws Lesson From Significance of the Emblems of Both Nations Joined in the Decorations of the Hall

George H. Lyman, collector of the port

George H. Lyman, collector of the port of Boston, spoke in part as follows:

"Look upon these banners, their folds so beautifully and artistically draped and blending in fraternal strength the might of England's standard and the glory of the Stars and Stripes. On the one side is the crowned king of beasts, a lion rampant, and his battle cry is first 'For God' and then for 'his right.' And yonder the king of birds, the American eagle, with pinions raised and talons spread, and his battle cry is 'Union.' And beside the two, ready for attack or defence, stand the shields of both. How noble an ideal is set forth in such a union! Each is the true soldier of civilization and each the knight errant of virtue,

Each is the true soldier of civilization and each the knight errant of virtue, for both proclaim by act and precept the vital germ and principle of all true progress and success—moral force.

"It signifies that the lion of Great Britain and all he represents, and the eagle of America and all he represents, both know that for every reason, selfish or holy, such a success stands for one or holy, such a union stands for one race alone among all the dwellers on this race alone among all the dwellers on this globe. It means that its component parts may dwell apart, but that no other race can or will dare to come between them. It means that if ever joined in common cause, united for God and right, they would march together under the unconquerable banner of progress. It means that however its different peoples may be separated by land or sea, however diverse may be their personal aims or business interests, the history of the past, the needs of the present, the hopes of the future, all point out with unerring hand, as the champion of this world's onward march of civilization, the race of the Anglo-Saxon."

Ingracule! N. 3.,1 Oct. 6, 1903.

"ANY TIME BEFORE SUN RISE" PROGRAM

Ancient and Honorable Military Company Having Fun at Boston.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 5.—This is the 266th fall field day of the Ancient and Honorable artiflery company, and a program for the day's celebration and the entertainment has been prepared, commencing early this forenoon and will end any time before sunrise tomorrow morning.

After a street parade this morning the company and its guests went on a harbor excursion, which lasted well into the afternoon. This evening the big banquet will be given at Symphony hall, to which function 1,000 member and guests have been invited. The exacting fastidiousness and will cost $50,000. Three hundred waiters will be in attendance and the wines will be poured by seventy-five specially seBostone Post, Oct. 6, 1903.

"This vault a You aved Her From Typhoid Fever

Remarkable cures of

Stomach and Nerve Trouble

Reported by all taking this wonderful preparation. Gives fresh strength and vitality

O TIRED OUT PEOPLE

many children

fire escapes or in loved wife of James Haves, place away from the view that the parts of the par id up with a quick pass. CHARLES PARSONS, Gen. Mgr. they would readily pads; state price. W. ALFOWICH, 162 Front the State.

SCHOOL THE ST. CLAIR

193115 19mmns 9I Smith & Smullen Co.

rich, freshes and constraint and the most at once to examine the close of the fresh suits and overcoats. The most are once in the most at once in the most are once in the most are once in the most at once in the most are once in the most are once in the most at once in the most are ti teut Mou os Mou si-1918 oot og uso sott Quickly Builds Up the Run Down System does - Aloots olden out to not so use of take a teaspoont of Outgoin will positively our every case I take a teaspoont of Outgoin before theores were is. apparent advantage to clothe of the trunnt department's hist fall a very

Noon

Mrs. R. L. Moseley, 74 Boylston St., Boston, says:

BILIUE SMEA HOR o taught us that and talked with

Extreme Nervousness Cured

m waves on a rocky coast.

Lord Denbigh's Return

You are welcome, gentlemen; come, musicians, play

ANGIENTS DAZZLE BRITON

Boston Post, Oct. 6, 1903. SCENE OF SPLENDOR AT SYMPHONY HALL

KING EDWARD HONORARY MEMBER OF BOSTON ANCIENTS

King Edward was last evening elected an honorary member of the Boston Ancients. The Hon. John D. Long is the only other honorary member.

Hearts and hands of England and lilization."

memorable a gathering of "brothers of the blood."

Feace and good will, welcome and answer the cheers.

If ever more enthusiasm was bottled up hashed the best horse of all, were blended in the message which will make the cheers of the golden light and the best horse of all, were blended in the message which will make the cheers of the golden light and the best horse of all, were blended in the message which will make the cheers for the missing side were the men of America, cheer for the golden side were the men of America, cheer for the missing cheers for the missing and the best horse of the common good will.

There was nothing to mar the message. If the common good will, the properties of the common good will.

There was nothing to mar the message. If the common good will, the properties of the came stronger and the stronger of the third properties of the common good will.

There was nothing to mar the message. If the golden light on the centre of the came of the common good will.

There was nothing to mar the message. If the properties of the came of the common good will.

There was nothing to mar the message. If the properties of the common good will, the properties of the common good will, the properties of the came of the centre of the came of the centre of the centre of the came of the centre of the centre of the came of the centre of the central decoration. The control of the central central central the party entered the hall, gay with its brilliant decorations.

When the diners entered the lights in the hall were dimmed, and only the magnificent floral decorations showed, a red and green setting in the garlanded smilax and roses which covered the hall. Over the stage, with the five long tables of honor, a large panoply was erected, in the centre of which was the coat of arms of the city of London outlined with colored lights. British and American flags made especially for the occasion flanked the shield on either side, their bright colors a contrast to the back-ground of green.

Southern smilax hid the walls of the hall from view and formed a bank for the profusion of bay trees, while in the corners cypress and box trees were set. At different points of vantage dainty sprays of yellow chrysanthemums lent a touch of color and beauty to the general scene, while the general colors were white, green and gold, with a few dots of red suggesting the artillery color.

Followed the Guests

It was the appearance of the ladles which gave the final touch to the bee wildering scene in the hall. It was magnificent, so dazzling that Lord Denbish confessed that his brain was in a whirl contemplating it.

Boxes of Souvenirs

Before the exercises of the evening great baskets of souvenirs were passed around the hall in brilliant red-covered to boxes. They were the famous long-heralded $25 souvenir menus and decorated plates which took two years in the making.

Then came the real treat of the evening, the speech-making, and it was a treat. The finest orators in public life in State and city were on the platform, and such a feast of eloquence has rarely been heard.

As Colonel Hedges called the gathering to order, the Rev. Edward Everett Hale appeared on the stage to offer prayer. Just a few fervent, solemn words, and then hall in brilliant red-covered dround the hall in brilliant red-covered to each of the such that hall in brilliant red-covered to each provide provide a solemn to the beach around the hall in brilliant red-c crimson glow of Symphony Hall, last night, when the welcome of the United States went out to the Horourable Artillery Company of London.

From a flower decked fairyland where golden lights and brilliant flowers made a maze of color, went the message of the Common cause. A scene of splendor and a feast of glory, stalwart men with beautiful women looking on, made memorable a gathering of "brothers of the Close and solden ight shot through the common cause. A scene of splendor the common cause and good will, welcome and answer the cheers of the audience were still ring-look of the audients followed the audience were still ring-look of the Honourable Artillery Company and the Ancients followed the Ancients followed the Ancients followed the street company and the Ancients followed the street company and the Ancients followed the street about the hall, never crowding each other in the least.

The members of the Honourable Artillery Company and the Ancients followed the street about the hall, never crowding each other in the least.

The hall looked dim and solemn when the street about the hall when Lord Denbigh are sent. The before all were scatt

Another wave one has night.
An

Boston Fost Oct. 6, 1903

EX-GOVERNOR LONG

Reviews Kings of England, Placing Edward VII. as the Greatest of Them All

When Governor Long was introduced Tom Olys stood upon a chair and called for three cheers. Governor Long told a story to preface his speech in replying to the toast "The Honorary Members," Governor Long told how he was proposed for membership at a gathering of the Honorables. He said: "When my name was proposed with others I could not refuse to accept, for I never refuse an honor of that kind, because I follow the good old plan that they should take who have the power and they should keep who can.

"In the group of our honorary members is one who is our brother, and one we have long honored and remember, King

Edward VII. (Tremendous applause.)
"You could add nothing to his title if you were to say his Britannic Majesty, for that is a grand title, an historic title, 'the King of England.' (Loud cheers.)

Governor Long then went through the list of kings and queens from the Norman William to his present Majesty, reciting with historical accuracy the deeds for which they were most distinguished; but of all his predecessors, the speaker said, there was none whose manury was accounted to manure was accounted to manure was accounted to manure was accounted to the same was accounted to the s

the speaker said, there was none whose memory was so sacred to Americans as the name of Queen Victoria.

"And it is a great thing," he said, "and a very high honor to every member of this organization that King Edward stands at the head of the line as an honorary member. We cannot help but admire his manhood and many actions and his love of liberty. There was a time when kings oppressed their people, but King Edward stands as the representative of Christian civilization. He has given freedom to the Irish people has given freedom to the Irish people and there is never anything more significant than his reception in Dublin so recently, so enthusiastic and magnificent.

deant than his reception in Dublin so recently, so enthusiastic and magnificent. Then his visits to the continent have been productive of much good.

"My great hope is that he may some day visit us. I know a royal reception would be given him. When he came here before as a boy—I remember it, about 1859—his simple, unostentatious manners captivated us all. I remember seeing him very well. He must have thought even then that he would be King of Great Britain some day and be colonel of the Honourable Artillery Company, but his wildest flight of fancy never was that he would be an honorary member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and he associated with me. (Loud laughter and applause.)

"I rejoice in the friendship shown by our motherland to us. Of course, we have had some quarrels, but they have been family quarrels. You won at Bunker Hill, and we did not know we were beaten, and we have cried over it ever since, but that is a monument to your valor and to us. We do not regret that one of the causes of our independence was the action of some Englishmen, who we are glad to remember as Channing, Fox and Pitt and others in Parliament.

Lalen News, Oct 5, 1903

COMMANDED THE HONOURABLES

In the widesprend interest taken in he movements of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company and their juests, the Honourables from London. Salem people are reminded that imong the former commanders of the Ancients were two distinguished Salem men, Gen. Joseph Andrews, who was in command in 1859, and Gen. Yeorge H. Pierson who led the galant command in 1870. Gen. Andrews was prominent in military circles of the state, and was mayor of Salem in 1854 and 1855. Gen. Pierson was imong the first soldiers to go to the front in 1861, and one of the best known and highly respected citizens of the city before and after the war of the rebellion. In the widespread interest taken in Loyen News, Octo. 6, 1903.

HONOURABLES HAVE A HISTORY

Organized Under King Hal As the "Honourable Co. of Archers,"

The Honourable Artillery company of London, now the guests of the Boston Ancient and Honorable Artil-·lery company, has been seen by many Lynn people during the past week and the following history of this ancient and much-talked-of corps will doubtless be interesting.

The Honourable Artillery company of London claims to be the oldest armed corps in the British service, under a charter from bluff King Hal. It was founded as the Honourable Company of Archers of the Artillerie Garden," the said garden being situated on what were then Ye Moor-fields, just outside the Moor Gate of the old wall of the city of London, and where the headquarters of the regiment is still situated in spite of all the vast changes in the surround-

In the early days of the American colonies an offshoot of the old corps was established in Boston, Mass., by emigrant members. The Boston association is the oldest organized military corps in America and dates from 1637. A few years ago a representative detachment from Boston visited London at the invitation of the Honourable Artillery company, and was royally entertained by the old corps at the Armory house.

The present visit of the Honourable Artillery company of London is the first occasion that a detachment of British troops in the imposing present uniform of the Foot Guards has come to America. This uniform is that of the infantry battalion of the corps, substituting silver for gold in the appointments. In addition to the infantry battalion there are two batterles of field artillery in the corps.

The history of this corps is full of interest. During its entire existence it has been intimately connected with English history in England. For nearly 150 years, if any riot or disturb-ance was feared, the first call was always for this corps.

In 1763 and 1765 the weavers' riots. were quelled by them, and in 1780 they rendered special service in the Gordon riots.

The London company has elected only one honorary member in its entire history, and that was Capt. Bernard Turner, for the spirited and active part he had taken in suppressing the late dangerous riots—the Gordon riots-in the metropolis."

only two honorary members in its

the present King Edward VII.

The Honourable Artillery company has twice done what no other regiment in the world has ever even attempted, namely in 1798, in the great French invasion scare, which really resulted in the formation of the British volunteer force, they paid into the Bank of England the sum of £1000 to the credit of the Commissioners of the Treasury for the purpose of the defence of the country. A little over a hundred years later, during the late South African war, they gave a sum of £1000 to the Mansion House fund. In 1837, on her accession to the throne, Queen Victoria appointed her father, the Duke of Sussex, captain-general of the company; and later, on his death, she gave the office to Prince Albert, her consort. The com-pany took part in the coronation, and appeared so well that she onered their colonel a knighthood, which he to the disappointment of the corps.

Providence (E. J.,) Journals Oct. 6, 1963

Preparations for the Entertainment of the Ancients.

BELIEVED THAT THEY WILL BE HEARTILY GREETED.

indications Point to a Recention That Will Prove Enjoyable .- Superior Court Matters.-Political Gossip.-An Alleged Mysterious Fatality.

To begin with, the coming of the Ancient and Honourable Artillery Com-pany of Lendon to this town was planned under auspices which were not regarded as auspicious. It seemed no more than courteous to invite this aggregation of warriors to pause in Fan River on its way to New York and to make its brief stay as pleasant as possible; but the preliminaries having to do with the enterainment gave rise to serious misgivings. Unfortunately most of the special movements here originate in the brains of the impulsive, and the impulsive require no great amount of encouragement to inspire a vengeance. The ordinary method of procedure is to borrow a petition asking somebody somewhere to do something or other in this centre and ob-tain signatures. There have been so many such petitions and they have been decorated with names so freely that a hait was not called until 1881. In that year hundreds of conservative residents learned, to their amazement, that they had been advocating what might have amounted to a wholesale killing in the public square, and for some little time after more caution was observed. But old habits have been gradually re-tumed, and it has come to pass once more that almost any kind of a fool hurrah can be started without much reference to consequences. It makes no difference whether it is proposed to

Law Francisco (Cal!) Bulletine Oct. 5, 1903

BOSTON, Oct. 5. This was the Seath

Bostore Ferald, Oct. 6, 1903.

LIKE A GLIMPSE 19 OF FAIRYLAND

Decorations of Symphony Hall on Scale of Quier Splendor Never Before Seen in Boston.

ROSES, ORCHIDS. MYRIAD LIGHTS.

Spotless Napery, Spark ling Silver, Brand New China and Furnishings Lend Added Charm.

It was the veritable glow of the lamp of Aladdin that called forth last evening one impossible-to-be-restrained 'Oh!" on the part of the Honourable Artillery Company and members of the Ancients themselves, as, upon emerging from the arched canopy from Horticult-ural Hall, the full, quiet splendor of Sergt. Fred Purmort's ideal "home

Sergt. Fred Purmort's ideal "home dining room" in Symphony Hall burst forth upon them.

In spite of the elaborate description of what was intended in the decoration for the feast to the London visitors, the crystallized reality was so far beyond even the most poetic imaginings of the enthusiasts that it called forth a spontaneous expression of applause which could not be repressed.

There was no garishness to offend. The lights were subdued. The illumination of the round tables was mellowed by the tiny pea green and American Heauty rose pink incandescent bulbs. Which the genti went about throughout in the heavy coil of smilax forming the wreath upon each table in a marvellous fashion; with a delicacy of magnetism which was bewiching when the firefly lamps glowed among the darker green.

Mr. Spaniding of New York, who deviced

Spanding of New York, who de-all the general scheme of decora-f the interior of the grand banquet produced a most striking effect in anipulation of moses, trailing vines manipulation of roses, trailing vines the heavier tones of the green bay Against a background of nemiocks young first but the bay trees intersed, he thrust forward the most sering depending festions of golden richights ever seen in Boston, is given a massive golden crown, this with seemingly incrusted gems the grouping of the tiny incanning with seemingly incrusted gems, the grouping of the tiny incanning with seemingly incrusted gems, the grouping of the tiny incanning with seemingly incrusted gems, and the grouping of the tiny incannits. Below this crown was on the "looking from the stage, the date the year of the charter of the jurable Artillery Company of Lonand vis-a-vis the date "leas," when Robert Keavna first brought forth inclent and Honorable Artillery uny of Massachusetts.

The back of the hall, in the middle of centre baloony, was a glory of made up of the stars and stripes he British union jack; flanking the of the Ancient and Honorable any, Both scale were jewelled with the lights. Directly facing this, he brincipal table of honor and below the crown, appeared the of the Honourable Artillery Company, with its "Arma Pacis standing forth in letters of light."

slight, not the heavy green background placed great clusters of heroic an Beauty roses with stems three feet in length. They were y at the back, but yases of them, is four feet in height, were at either end of the main & est at which sat Lord Denbigh and Vernor. There was a heavy Lugurel with the line length with the length with the length with the line length with the length reaching to the cornice above was admirably obtained by the use of little pea green incandescents, which twinkled high up on the upper balcony.

The toning of the upper taisony to meet the goft gray tint of the walls

Even more striking and effective was the decoration of the front of the first balcony, which simply glowed with brilliant buils. Great glittering crossed cannon decorated every pilaster, and hetween them swung from one pair to the other heavy festoons of laurel, twinkling with electricity, while between each pair there hung a long green pendant terminating in a glistening electric projectile. Huge bunches of white and red chrysanthemums were placed above the festoons. Choicest orchids were interspersed on the main guest table, extending the width of the stage, with loose American Beauty roses.

In addition to the decorations in the main dining hall the daintiest little boudoir was set apart for Lady Denbigh and Mrs. Sidney M. Hedges, wife of the commanding officer of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. The furnishing was in Louis Philippe chairs and crystal cabinets, Old tapestries covered the walls and there were classic etchings, charcoals and crayons beside. An old armorial heimet and shield added a touch of feudal memory to the general tone of the room. Chairs and lounges were in heavily embroidered tapestry rep. There were roses and orchids at all vantage points.

This room was so situated that Mrs. Hedges and her guests could reach their seats in the right balcony with smallest exertion. Forty-four seats were reserved for these ladies and their friends.

exertion. Forty-four seats were reserved for these ladies and their friends.

The entire hall was richly carpeted in artillery red; the guests sat in the especial souvenir chairs originally described in The Boston Herald, which showed the crossed cannon in the back, supporting a shield of the Honourable Artillery Company of London on the front and on the reverse the arms of the Ancients of Massachusetts. Two of these chairs were allotted to each table of the rank and file. The guests, on entering the dining salon, passed through a corridor lined with bay trees, giant South American ferns and palms.

That which materially contributed to this great dinner was the spotless napery; the sparkling silver and fresh Havliand china, every piece of which was brand new and sent directly from the factory. Nobody was crowded; the round tables, holding each its coterie of it folly boon companions, dissipated all possible stiffness and the charm of the feast was its entire informality.

While, of course, the decorations of Symphony Hall, representing, as it was claimed last evening, from $10,000 to $15,000 in money expenditure, is of greatest moment, the adornment of Horticultural Hall is worthy of comment. The arms of the Honourable Artillery Company faced those of the Ancients of Massachusetts. Those of the Dominion of Canada smiled across at the crest of oid Massachusetts, and the great seal of the city blinked at the cross of Oid Lunon town.

There were many other devices of curious interest to the visitor—the mari-

There were many other devices of curious interest to the visitor—the maritime flag of the port of Boston and the seal which was taken to be the family arms of the Denbighs and Desmonds. Horticultural Hall was as glowing as Symphony Hall was severe.

Hobokene St. g.)
Osterver,
Oct. 5, 1903.

New Jersey's Sacred Soil. When the Honourable Artillery of London passes through New Jersey on the way to Washington, it will be the first time that British soldiers bearing arms have entered the state since the days of the Revolution. During that period the "soldiers of the king," had a most exciting and in the end excedingly disagreeable experience, but that was a hundred and twenty years ago. To-day their descendants are received with real American hospitality and their welcome is as heartfelt as it is effusive. And in passing it may be remarked that since the last British redcoat embarked for home at the end of the war of independence, no foe has invaded New Jersey. During the second war with England, New York, Maryland, the District of Columbia, more than one of the coastwise New England states, Louisana and other American territory, felt the tread of hastile feet. Not so New Jersey; her "sacred soil" has bean inviolate!

Concord (V.H.,) MAGNIFICENT BANQUET.

A Fitting Climax to the Series of Hon orary Fetes.

Boston, October 6-The magnificent banquet given in Symphony hall last night, by the Ancients are. Honourable Artillery Co. of London, was a fitting climax to the series of ovations, fetes and triumphs, excelled even those of a Roman emperor, which have marked the visit of this British military body to Boston.

Columns have already been given to descriptions, in advance, of the sumptuous affair of last night.

But only the brush of a master artist and the genius of a poet-laureate could do justice to the splendid spectacle itself.

Even the unlimited expenditure of the most epicurean of old-world monarchs could have unfolded such a scene, for they had not the magic wand of modern

When Lord Denbigh said he had never before looked upon such a sight, and doubted if many of those present had, there was no dissenting opinion,

The marvels of electricity, together with the florist's art, transformed the already beautiful hall into an enchanted bower.

When the thousand guests were once seated, each group of 11 at a round table, first the laurel canopy, with its superb jewelled crown, over the stage, burst into a soft lambent flame; then the laurel festooned balconies glowed with a rosy light, like the finger-tips of Aurora, and then amber, and ruby, and cool green; last, the smilax-wreathed. rose laden tables were suddenly illuminated with tiny, vari-colored, electric

At the back of the stage a blazing coat of arms of the Honourables, in kaleidoscopic coloring, reflected the coatof-arms of the Ancients, similarly picked out, above the second gallery.

When the ladies entered, at 9 p. m., the grand spectacle was complete. Below, on stage and floor, was the vivid sea of color furnished by the brilliant uniforms of the Ancients, the Honourables, and army and navy officers, varied by the black and white of evening civilian attire. Above, tier on tier, like the terraces of a flower garden, rose the banks of fair faces, and elegant gowns.

The costliness of the fete has already been set down in figures-the thousands of lights, the miles of wire, the miles of laurel, the thousands of roses, the specially woven carpet, the specially constructed furniture and culinary appliances, and the beautiful souvenirs, as well as the victuals and drink,

Boston Record Oct. 5, 1903

Overheard on Tremont st :-"I had a chance to join the Ancients a few years ago."

'Well, why didn't you, old man?" "I'll tell you. In order to get into the organization the applicant, besides several other stunts, must drink three quarts of wine at one sitting without shedding a tear. When I was riding the goat I had just started on the third bottle when they detected a grain of moisture in the right eye, and I was immediately blackballed."

Nowich, (Conn.)
Oct. 6, 1903.

To be polite, the Bostonians are copping their h's as much as possible the British Honourables are in Boston Advertises.

HONOURABLES AFLOAT

BOSTON HARBOR IS CAPTURED

Londoners Guests of the Ancients Aboard the Nantasket on the Local Corps' 265th Field Day.

Triumphal as has been their progress on land, the members of the Honourable Artillery Co. of London yesterday captured Boston harbor. The entire Brit-ish contingent joined with the Ancients in celebrating the 265th fall field day of the American warriors.

From the moment the steamer Nantasket, on which the military men embarked, swung out into the harbor all the pent-up enthusiasm along the water front broke loose in a mighty din of bells, steam whistles and yacht can-

Instead of pointing directly down the harbor towards the ocean, the steamer sailed up the harbor towards the navy yard. Some enthusiastic Ancient mounted a small yacht gun on the forward part of the hurricane deck, and salutes were fired as often as it was possible to load.

The first craft to receive a formal salute was the French cruiser Troude. As the Nantasket neared the rakish looking warship the yacht gun was fired and the whistle roared out a salute. The tricolor of France was lowered three times and the crew of the Troude lined the decks cheering lustily and gesticulating rapidly.

Next passed was H. B. M. cruiser Retribution, formidable appearing in her lead colored war paint. The union-jack was lowered in salute before the Nantasket's gunner had time to "get busy." The British tars cheered the Nantasket, and the Honourables and Ancients cheered the men on the Retribution.

A little further towards the navy yard the U.S. cruiser Chicago came in for an outburst of enthusiasm, and the Yankee blue Jackets endeavored to outdo their French and English comrades in the art of cheering. The Nantasket then started along the navy yard, past the Dominion Line docks and then turned her bow down the harbor.

Out through Broad sound and up towards the North Shore the Nantasket was headed.

As soon as the harbor islands were passed practically all hands went below where an elaborate buffet lunch was The eatables included cold meats, chicken salad, lobster salad, oysters in several styles, ice cream frozen pudding, sherbet and assorted cakes. Liquid refreshments and cigars were also furnished.

By the time the soldiers had finished their luncheon the steamer was off N hant. The sky, which was bright and sunny when the start was made, became overcast and a steadily increasing gale kicked up a heavy sea.

The steamer rolled and pitched, and many of the gallant company on board cast longing eyes towards shore. The sea became so rough and the danger of seasickness so imminent that the steamer was brought about and headed for Hull gut.

As the steamer sailed behind George's Id. the English visitors had their first opportunity to gaze at the big disappearing guns of Fort Warren. The soldiers of the garrison at the fort cheered wildly as the steamer sailed by and the party on the steamer were not outdone in vocifarous politeness.
The steamer proceeded all the way to the Nantasket landing. Here a line was thrown to the pier and the steamer warped about until her bow pointed towards Boston. About this time the rain began to fall and all sought shelter

The Salem Cadet band was on board and patriotic and popular airs were rendered. One of the features of the day was the singing. Lt.-Col. Frank Supplee of the 5th Maryland Regt., who is also a member of the Ancients, did the solo work and led the choruses. surprising thing about the whole affair was the familiarity of the Englishmen with the words and music of our patriotic songs. "The Star Spangled Ban-ner," "Maryland, My Maryland," "Marching Through Georgia" and "Dixle" were sung with a zest, the Honourables entering whole-souled into the spirit of the affair. "God Save the King" and "Soldiers of the Queen" proved that the Ancients know something about British patriotic songs.

Just at present the "cake walk" is all the rage in London, and for the benefit of the visiting soldiery some of the most accomplished dancers among the Anclents executed the negro dance to the accompaniment of "rag time" songs, Their efforts were rewarded with thundering applause.

It was 3 p.m. when the Nantasket arrived at Rowe's, wharf, and the rain was pouring in torrents. To prevent uniforms and equipments getting drenched it was decided to abandon the idea of parading back to Court sq. and Fancuil Hall so Honourables and Ancients took carriages, elevated trains and trolley

But every one had a good time; that is if appearances and beaming faces truly portrayed mental processes. The 265th fall field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co. began and ended in a blaze of glory.

ANOTHER PARADE INCROWDEDSTREETS

As the London Honourables marched through Boston streets again yesterday morning, on their way to the boat for a harbor excursion, they were greeted all along the route by a demonstration fully as enthusiastic as any since their ar-

From every available window, bal-cony, railing, doorway and section of sidewalk people cheered, whistied and applauded the distinguished visitors.

In truth, each time the Londoners step on Boston streets it seems to be for a triumphal march, like that of yesterday, from start to finish. Standing room is at premium, and those who have office windows on the line of march are counted doubly fortunate.

If one could have taken a bird's eye view of the narrow thoroughfares in the Hub during the procession yesterday morning he would have said to himself, "Surely the Honourables demand a good share of the time of Boston's merchants, bankers, clerks and professional men."

As soon as the strains from the cele-brated Halifax band wafted through the streets, men, women and children rushed to the nearest vantage point, and work remained where it was until the last of the escort of Ancients were lost in the maze of color and crowds.

At 10:40 a.m. a fanfare of bugles, followed by a charge of mounted police against the surging crowd at the cor. of School and Washington sts. told the awaiting thousands that the paraders were approaching.

The line of march was a short one, but at all points a marvel of decorative display. At some places, especially along lower Washington st., near Boylston, it seemed as though the bunting had grown on the buildings during the night, so rapidly has the decorating progressed. As Lord Denbigh, accompanied by Maj. Budworth, swung down Boston's hading thoroughfare, there was a perfeet pandemonium of applause in every

"Isn't he the aristocrat in face, but the democrat in bearing," said a female spectator enthusiastically as the nudged her friend.

The visitors were bombarded by cameras all along the route; from tops of buildings the kodak flends besieged the enemy to lay up a stock of material for future reference.

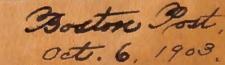

. Every niche and corner on the exterior of the federal building was black with government employees and friends, as the Ancients came down Milk st. So anxious was one spectator, way up in the air, to get a peep at Lord Denbigh and staff, that he came near plunging headlong far into the street below. A friendly hand saved a tragic incident in the day's proceedings, and a shudder passed through the few people on the street who saw it.

Through the lower portion of Milk st. the tenants of the big insurance buildings showered rolls of white tape on the marchers.

At last the paraders, flanked in on every side with curious thousands, arrived at the Nantasket steamship landing and directly boarded the excursion boat.

Thus the fall field day of the Ancient and Honorables had an auspicious be-

Lady Denbigh, in an open landau, drove over the route of the parade, and on reaching the steamboat landing boarded the Nantasket for a moment and then returned to the wharf where she waved her handkerchief in farewell as the boat swung out into the stream.

COLONEL HEDGES

He Recalls Welcome Given to the Boston Ancients When They Visited London in 1896

Colonel Sidney M. Hedges in his speech

Colonel Sidney M. Heages in his speech recalled the trip of the Boston Ancients to London in 1896, concluding; "Can we ever forget the gracious welcome of her Majesty Queen Victoria, whose name will ever stand in history for strength of character and rare qualfor strength of character and rare qual-ities of mind and heart that can never be excelled.

"We remember with deepest apprecia-tion our reception by their Majestles, King Edward and Queen Alexandra, to whom today, I am sure, every member of the Ancient and Honerable Artillery Company would be glad to send a mes-sage of best without for a long and clo-

Company would be slad to send a message of best wishes for a long and glorious reign.

"Let us hope that your voyage in the new Mayflower may prove a harbinger of events no less important in the history of our land and race! Whatever years may have in store for us let us all here resolve that, in storm and sunshine, those great emblems of justice, freedom and daring the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripesl shal, be found floating slide by side!

"America has fought no war and has engaged in no enterprise of national interest in which members of this corps have not borne important parts, so it is perhaps eminently fitting that the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts should give you a national welcome.

tional welcome.
"May these festivities, while they give "May these festivities, while they give us joy for the hour, nor fall in their deeper and more significant meanings. As both nations look on let us hope that these mighty tides which flow in the blood of kindred people may mingle in a great stream of unity and power which shall have important results for the future of the human race.

"Tonight we send a message of greating to your beloved and royal commander, his Majesty King Edward, and to all of your brethren in arms in Eogland, and so, as Tiny Tim observed; May God bless us, every one!"

Boston Advertiser,

SPLENDID BANQUET OF ANCIENTS UNEQUALLED IN MAGNIFICENCE

London Honourables Dazed by Gorgeousness of the Affair-Lord Denbigh's Address a Notable Feature—Eloquent Greetings From Sen. Hoar and Other Dignitaries

But, after all, the first speech recorded in history as made on this continent is still one of the best. It was made by the Indian sachem sameset to the Pilgrim fathers, at Plymorth 1621. Summer to the Pilgrim fathers, at Plymonth, on the 16th of March, 1621. It sums up in two words everything needed to be said on this occasion:-Welcome, Englishmen!"

THE TOASTS.

Col. Durling officiated as togetmaster. The President of the United States "One a 80,000,000 and 80,000,000 in one." Colice-

The second of them but in percent of second or the second of the second

I shill design the state of the Harv rd Univ -"Imperial in her colors, "r dancy and her truth" Prof. de Su-

20 to the who will fight to make citi20 to the who will fight to the who will fight to the who

Straphony hall last night, by the Antire. Above, ther on tier, like the tercicits, to the Honourable Artillery Co of London, was a fitting dimax to the of fair faces, and cleant gowns, and

Colon or Lave already been given to laurel, the thousands of roses, the spedescriptions, in atvance, of the sumptu-

But o, by he brush of a master artist ances, and the heautiful souvenirs, an at d the gor as of a poet-hancate, could well as the victuals and drink. do fuerton in the splendid spectacle irself

Bron the animited expenditure of the most op me, of old-world monarch; age, could not a diagonal and a confidence of diagonal and a confidence of the arrangements proved faultiess.

TO LONDON MILITIAMEN.

"We have made some improvement on this continent since we came over.
But, after all, the first speech rejewelled crown, over the stage, burst into soft lambent flame; then the laurel festooned balconies glowed with a rosy light. like the finger-tips of Aurora, and then amber, and ruby, and cool green; last, the smilax-wreathed, rose lader tables were suddenly illuminated with tiny, vari-colored, electric lamps.

At the back of the stage a blazing

THE ELDL OF DENBIGH

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co.

of Mas charactes "Proud of its history; true to he it idlitions; loyal to the Combinative att, whise name it bears." Chapter, W. H. Rider.

BANGLET A KITTING CLIMAX.

DANGLET A KITTING CLIMAX. The tragt freent banquet given in black and white of evening civilian atterics of ovations, fetes, and triumples, excelling even those of a Roman emperior, which have marked the visit of this latter milliary body to Boston.

Culous Man a fitting dimax to the fet of the fete has already the fet of the fet has already of lights, the miles of wire, the miles of lights, the miles of wire, the miles of lights, the miles of roses, the special content of the fete has already of lights, the miles of wire, the miles of lights, the miles of roses, the special content of the fete has already of lights, the miles of wire, the miles of the fete has already of lights, the miles of wire, the miles of lights in the miles of the fete has already of lights. structed furniture and culmary appli-

To epitomize it was the dinner of the

they had not the magic wand of modern senence

When the two we will be a like a medical the property assumed the following the property when the two wells a medical and Lord Double the Charlest town buch a medical and Lord Double the Charlest town buch-elder of New Hampshire, and Gov. Long, stood in the receiving line, while Col. Hedges and Col. Darling presented the guests. A distinguished group stood behind or near the line, among whom were ex-Gov. Boutwell, Rev. Dr. Hale, Adm. Johnson, Capt. Hodges of the Chl-cago, Judge Lowell of the U. S. court, Lt.-Gov. Guild and Mayor Collins, while the governor's staff made a glittering

The various halls of the building, some of which were used for coat rooms, were superbly decorated. The brick walls being well nigh covered with bunting, flags, the coats-of-arms of the Honourables, the Ancients, the British empire, the United States, the Common-wealth, and all the colonies and dependencies of Great Britain as well as the flags of that nation, of the United States and of Scotland and Ireland.

Photo by Chickering COL. SIDNEY HEDGES.

Naturally, it was Lord Denbigh who was followed with closest attention, especially as he spoke briefly, extemporaneously, and in good voice. He was given "Three cheers and a tiger," when called on, and the great assembly rose a second time to their feet, in the exuberance of their enthusiasm, to cheer and applaud again. He began, with studied courtesy,-

THE EARL OF DENBIGH.

"Col. Hedges, Your Excellency, Your Honor, Ladies and Gentlemen:-At the hour of 3 a.m. today, just as I had finished a four hours' conversation (laughter) with your indefatigable chairman, and our indefatigable secretaries, on the subject of the arrangements for next week, I asked him if he could tell me how many weeks we'd been in Boston, (Laughter.) Col. Hedges assured me, on his honor as a gentleman, and as the commander of the Ancients, that we had only arrived Friday. (Laughter.)

"This morning, as I was engaged in my 247th quick change of uniform (laughter), I observed to the valet, that I had never done so much dressing up in my life. Well," he said, "I've assisted many gentlemen to dress, but the way you slide into your clothes just takes my eye.' (Laughter and applause). I mention this little thing to give you some small serse of the abject state of be-wilderment I find myself in continually.

"The other day we visited Providence, and enjoyed the mogelificent haspitality of that city. ('Hear! hear!' from the Honourables). It was a 'little lunch,' Col. Hedges would coll it. I have a great grudge against Col. Hedges for the meagre programme he forwarded to London. He simply described the day's event as-'Visit to Providence and claim

"I am surprised at Col. Hedges.

(Laughter). He is a distinguished citizen of a great country, which posseses many interesting and remarkable attributes-among which is the enterprise of the daily press. I try to thank them for the kind way they have treated us. "The first distinguishing marks of that press is its resourcefulness and its power of description, both of things that do happen and things that might happen! (Great laughter and applause.)

"Well, ladies and gentlemen, I don't profess to be what is known professionally as a descriptive reporter. would have been vanquished before I begun. But, considering Col. Hedges' experience, I am surprised at his meagreness of description. If I couldn't give a better description of events before they occur than he did I would hide my diminished head, and retire from business! (Laughter.)

"We arrived Friday, and one of the first things we saw was the Union Jack on top of Bunker Hill monument! (Laughter and applause.) A monument, it is superfluous for me to say in these days, we, in England, might regard without any ill-feeling, as a monument of how colonies ought not to be governed. (Tremendous applause and laughter.)

"In another light, the monument might be regarded as a monument to brave men, and that only. (Applause.)

"We steamed into a somewhat lonely and desolate dock, and landed in a large and empty shed, silent as a vault,

"We had been told a hearty welcome awaited us, and we were not surprised to find outside our old friends, or perhaps I should say, our ancient offspring. (Laughter and applause.)

"We passed them, and then we began to realize what was in store for us. eaw the Union Jack hanging out of windows beside the Stars and Stripes, and we were assured that there would have been ten times as many Union Jacks, only the supply ran out. (Laughter and applause).

"As we went on there were more crowds and more enthusiasm, and we began to think we were really somebody in particular." (Laughter and applause.)

We passed through the ranks of your well-trained and well-drilled militia.

"It was the first time in history, I have no doubt, that a British force, with British colors, on American soil, marched past an American force, with American colors, and saluted it.

"From then on it has been one unbroken scene of enthusiasm and hearty greeting, whether we went about as individuals or as a body.

"I was told that yesterday there were a larger number of people on the streets of Boston than ever before seen.

"And now matters have eniminated in such a scene—certainly I never before have witnessed, and I doubt if ever you

Lord Denbigh paid high tribute to the decorations, and to the culinary achieve-ments. He returned thenks for the souvenirs, which he said his men would keep as "family heirlooms," and went on

"But what is behind all this? The welcome comes from far behind the ranks of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co. But it would be intolerable concelt on our part to assume for a moment that the welcome was for such ordinary humdium individuals as we are! (Cries of "No! No!")

"We've got to go farther back. Once we had a difference of opinion on tea! We thought it ought to be made in frish water, and served bot, and you thought it ought to be made in salt water and served cold. (Laughter and applause.)

"That was a tritting thing. "I can't say you got a good a recep-tion in London streets as we got here, because we British pre a desperately pressie let, and need a gred deal of rousing. But I imagine it would be different if you come upon "Then you got little couldie, and some other things happened. We two great nations had been envious of one another. But then we got to thinking if it wouldn't be a good idea to turn two negatives into a positive, and turn two envies into one admiration. (Applause.)

"Why can we not do something to bring this about? And that's where things seem to be getting now! (Ap-

"Tomorrow we say a temporary fare-well to Boston, and we are promised that we shall be received in your big cities with as hearty a welcome as in Boston. But I am not prophetic. If it turns out so, then the feeling I speak of is not confined to the Commonwealth of Mas-

"We're going to have the honor of being presented to your president; and the British colors will be dipped to your president. We should be proud if the feeling should be symbolized by the picture with which this menu closes."

Lord Denbigh here referred to the pleture of an Ancient and Honourable clasping hands, with the word "Forever" beneath it. Long applause followed his manly speech, and he then led the Honourables in their peculiar yell.

Gov. Bates' speech made a great impression. Delivered, as it was, in such sonorous, full diaphason tones, every syllable was audible to the farthest corri-

The speechmaking began soon after p.m., and lasted till 12:35 a.m. Col. Hedges opened, saying:-

COL. HEDGES.

"Could Robert Keayne, the founder of the company, and its first commander, but look in upon us tonight and see these two companies mingling in good fellowship, what foy and pride would be his!

"This thought makes me feel that in some way we are realizing what was in the soul of Robert Keayne, and bringing but a vague and simple dream.

"The growth of our international relations, or rather, the development of our family spirit in these two organizations, company was sent to the 35th anniversary of the Honourable Artiflery Co. in 1887, from the Honourable Artiflery in 188, and friendships have been dated.

"In 1896 came the visit of this company to Londen, one of the most remarkable and enjoyable ever paid by the civilian whose commander-in-chief and officers other.

"And so the history grows, until now medicame this salenting was until now medicame this salenting when the salenting whose commander-in-chief and officers other.

other.

"And so the history grows, until now we welcom" this splendid delegation to our company, my friends, I give you a cordial greeting and a welcome from New England to old England.

to old England.

"The company that came in the Mayflower was so notable that her name is embalmed forever in the history of our the new Mayflower may prove a harblinger of events no less important in the history

eWhatever Years may have in store for us let us all here resolve that in storm and sunshine those great emblems of justice, freedom and daring, the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes, shall be found floating by side!

the Stars and stripes, shall be found floating slde by side.
"Tonight we send a message of greeting to your beloved and royal commander, his majesty. King Edward, and to all of your brethren in arms in England, and so, as T'ny Tim observed: 'May God bless us.

COLLECTOR LYMAN.

Collector Lyman was virile and resourceful as usual.

"A toast to the president is a formal salute to the United States, of which he is the official head, and our country hulls you, our guests from across the sea in the same spirit of welcome and respect that you may be assured he would rethee persually to extend to you, could we have been honored time evering by the presence of our chief executive. Pres of England's standard and the glot. of pant, and his battle-ery is first 'For Goll' and then for 'His right' hell volder the king of birds, the American easile with pinions raised on the his spread, and his battle-ery is 'Union.' At a result the two, ready for attack or defense, stand the shields of both.

the shields of both.

"How noble an ideal is set forth in suc! a union! Each is the tru so.dir of civilization and each the knight error of virtue, for both proclaim by act and precept the vital germ and principle of all of America and all he represents, and the of America and all he represents, know that for every reason, solvely or such a union stands for on race among all the dwellers on this given dwell apart, but that no other race can or will dare to come between them.

"It means that if ever joined in common cause, unted for God and right to would march that if ever joined in common cause, unted for God and right to would march that the under the cause querable humer of procress. It may start however its different peoples may be so arrated by land or sea, however december to the first seal alms or losses as terests, the history of the pass, the loss of the present, the hopes of the first all point out with uncertain hard, a clean point out with uncertain hard, a clean point of this word's onwell may of clyilization, the lace of the Are Sylvon.

of civilization, the fact of the A 5. S x-on.

"Gentlemen, I k upon this land as sign is today. It had her agreefly rely release her forests, her mices-ad her never resources. Rehold her trunsphs in the art and sciences, in mechants, her for and domestic trade, and ner vast in an interests. Ethold her solds at leathing her government, her laws, her court justice, her institutions, I leafer, red solder, her solder of reference, their rating among the mit reaffith certainly that greater is to be a term of a child's success? Mad Mather II the foremest evans list a covering may with honest to a bount of westward to the slower fath greater we steam exclaim, the hold my off and a list and exclaim, the hold my off and a Mayor Collins was brief and witte "Chester Arthur (the only other h. orary number of the Arc res 1 ... King Edward and Lims Files and s 1... American people as much a cor

col. Hibbard, who speke in the Sir F. W. Borden, in the rings g Sir. full of patriotic fe ling for G

PROF. DE SUMCHRAST.

Prof. de Sumichias, in the arg reg to the great work H rath University towards bringing Design and the to the few who "It stee to for pastime, and condemned the public schools of history text to public schools of history text 1 give a brised account of the ing up to the Revolute ying to the ing up to the Revolute ying to the history of touching on the lesters of reamericus towns to the history of reland, Prot do Sum new with these words of God Serving the transfer of God Serving the word of God Serv the more real, the more of lasting that it is not close in two written december our and live of the more than, with the last of the more than, with the last last of the more than the m performing special duties for the good of all.

GEN. BANCROPT.

"It is, however, peculiarly the part of the militiamen, the citizen soldier, by whatever name he may be called, to exemplify the spirit both of the British constitution and of the republic of the United States. He studies and practices the profession of arms as a public spirited citizen. He resurds military service as he regards fury duty of the exercise of the suffrage. Individually he devotes himself to military service, either because he may conceive that he is better fitted for it, or because the he is better fitted for it, or because the he he he he he he he he he had on, it is quite as bleiz to halte a personal sacrifice as though he entered some branch of the civil service. He may enter both services.

"Why I couple, sir, the citizen soldier of the republic, one in language, one in civilization, one in spirit". Together may they like at the lart ciples of the great English of aking peoples.

I'll the ar hum throls no longer and the total flues are farled in the Tullament of men, the federation of the world.

Rev. W. H. Rider made a militant speech, for a parson, eulogizing the

THE EARL OF DENBIGH'S SIGNIFICANT EPIGRAM

"This welome comes from far behind the ranks of the Ancients. We two great outions had been envious of one another. But then we got to thinking it it wouldn't be a good iden to turn two negatives into one positive, two envies into one admirain. (Applause,) And that's where things seem to be getting now."

THE MINU.

Corr Gran Partic.

For Albert Sherts

Altert Sherts

Other of H is at the dinal.

The Santern

Therefor of Pilet of H is a la Previllot.

String Beans.

Pommery Sea at Brit.

Lugrannes of Sweethreads Sovigal.

Groon Pess.

San. A la Militaire.

Oct. 6, 1903.

Baston's Quiet Disturbed. BOSTON, Oct. p.- The quibliness of

he Sa math was broken by the sound of martial music as the Honorabic Arby Company of London and their hoses, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of this city, marched to Trinity church. The services were arranged by the British residents of this city, and the parade included bemy and navy veterans of the British service whose houses are in this city.

Boston Advertises. Oct. 6, 1903.

SEN. HOAR'S GREAT SPEECH TO LONDON HONOURABLES

SEN. HOAR.

We may not always be ready to admit the sart of an American, certainly of a Massachusetts man, of a Boston man, more than an honor or kindness from England. It gave us an infinite pleasure when you but the bust of Lowell, our Boston benefit conferred on one people by another benefit you but the bust of Lowell, our Boston press, and Longfellow, our Cambridge poet, in Westminster Abbey. There is another monument created there, placed as the inscriptin tells us, by the province of all screnusetts Boy, in America. It is to the memory of Lord How, an honored Progrishman who was beloved here as at home.

home.

"On that monument there is an allefooleal figure which I think cannot be found any bere chief in sentence, the found any bere chief in sentence has get continued to Massachusetts have first excellence among the famous works of art to be found in London. But, after all, as a near kineman of mine said more than 56 yes ago: It is pleasant to think that the genius of Massachusetts have have an honest fight, and finds a fitting place in Westnelmeter Abbey among the heroic spirits which the English race has nurtured.

"Roston was actited by Englishmen in the heroing the things in which Englishmen and Americans fect a common pride is the battle of Bunker [Hil]. I do not think either you or we would like to wipe out that memory. It is one of the best examples of Yanke fighting, and one of the best examples of English lighting to be over might, if we had thought of it, have not up a monument to the valor of both sides, like that at Quebec, which bears the americans fect a common pride is the attle of Bunker [Hil]. I do not think that memory. It is one of the best examless of Yanke fighting, and one of the best examples of English lighting to be of which the best examples of Yanke fighting, and one of the text of the province of Massachusetts best examples of English lighting to be of the province of Massachusetts found in Massachusetts
and Americans fect a common pride is the attle of Bunker [Hil]. I do not think that memory. It is one of the best examples of Yanke fighting, and one of the that memory. It is one of the best examthat memory is the continue of the best examthat memory is one of the parties of Yanke fighting to be that memory is one of the best examthat memory is one of the best examthat memory is one of the best exam-

"The first speech ever made on this continent is still one of the best. It was made the Indian sachem Samoset to the light first speech ever made on this continent is still one of the best. It was made the Indian sachem Samoset to the light first fathers at Plymouth, on Mar. 16, and Honorable Artillery Co., Boston should have an Ancient dillery Co., Boston should have an Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co. I think you will find that your American kinsmen have will find that your American kinsmen have will find that your American kinsmen have tried to copy you as well as they could. "They believe that, after all, the best soldler is the citizen soldier. They have tried during all these years and generations to devote themselves, when not actually in battle—and there have been times when our Ancients and Honorables were when our Ancients and Honorables were the Elizabeth and King James, when the Elizabeth and the citizen soldier. They have the citizen soldier. They have the citizen s

I suppose the American general and the British general, if the thing had happened lately, would have been lucky if he got rectly provided with ammunition, and with rations not enough for 24 hours. All Sir William Howe had to do on your side was to move his ships up Charles River and up Mystic River, where they commanded the isthmus, and the Yankees would have been completely at his more. completely at his mercy. He need not, I suppose, have lost a man. He had only to draw the strings, and we were bagged. There was never an example of blundering There was never an example of blundering generalship worse than that on our side; although I believe it is claimed that the officer who led our detachment took possession of the wrong hill.

"On the other hand, instead of pursuing his advantage and easily bagging his game, the English commander stormed our earthworks. His man charged with a magnificant commander with a magnificant commander with a magnificant commander with a magnificant commander stormed our carthworks.

earthworks. His men charged with a magnificent and desperate courage up the steepest and most difficult part of the hill. They were repulsed twice. They stormed our redoubts with a magnificent English pluck, and we held on, also, with magnificent English pluck, until our ammunition was gone, and then sullenly made good our retreat.

"A delightful Englishman, a dear friend of mine, told me this story, which shows British valor over here at Charlestown, occasionally, even now, at home.

"My friend told me that an intimate friend of his was Lt. Col. Holland, a resay he is living now. Col. Holland told he stationed anywhere near the S8th Conquartels with the men of the S8th, so that moved from Portsmouth, the headquarters The reason is that they always get into marines finds a ranger in a public house "Lie down 88th, and let the marines pass to "Neither of the strength in the street, he calls out, the front." Then follows a fight. Idea where that comes from. Col. Holland Hill in American the best marksmen in the world. To reach the Americans were enof the marksmen in the street, he calls out, the front." Then follows a fight. Idea where that comes from. Col. Holland Hill in American. The Americans were enof them were backwoodsmen, and about the Sweeping fire of Americans were enof them were backwoodsmen, and about the Sweeping fire of Americans harpshootments, were bound to sweep away their "The old 88th, or Connaught Rangers, battalion of Royal Marines hehind them Rangers suffered terribly. Half the regirun out. It was time to relieve them, to lie down, in the street support. The ment were killed, and their ammunition and the general rode up and ordered them ing under fire, the usual manner of relieve and lie down, leaving 4 space; and

The exhausted men would form four

"The exhausted men would form four the relieving line would form four deep and all advance and pass between the the shittered, 'Lie down 88th, and let the 'This was done. The marines suffered captured the redoubt. For this service work on their buttons and caps. Col. Holiand added: 'I wore it myself for 26 yrs.' celebrating it over here, you have been fighting Bunker Hill over again, some of you wanted to come over and see the

"Our English friends may be sure of their welcome. They are in the house of their friends, in the dwelling-place of their prethren. We are dwelling-place wonders their friends, in the dwelling-place of their brethren. We cannot show you wonders like those you have left behind. We have have little antiquity. We have no palaces or castles or cathedrals or galleries like home. Yet possibly we also may have something to exhibit, in a modest way, of the fruitage of the tree of English liberty. The music, We have tried to emulate them, if not to excel them, in the thirds which constitute the strength and happiness of and you will find the English Bible and the English Shakespeare upon their shelves. The canvas does not live or breathe for us under the touch of Guido or Raphael. We have no Lawrence or Reynolds to preserve the features of highborn beauty. But at least health paints here with her roses the cheek of the factory girl. The music of Beethoven or Handel may not here rise and swell till it fills the dome which Angelo or Wren builded. But we have the music of children's voices in the well-paid workmen's home.

dren's voices in the well-paid workmen's home.

"We hope you may feel at home while you are here. When you go back to old Mother England, tell her her boys are contented and happy and growing. Give her our best love. Tell her we think of her with nothing but friendliness and good will. We have no sore feeling left, even for the spankings she used to give us. If she did not spare the rod, she did not spoil the child.

"We mourned with you for the loss of your gracious queen, alike the type of gentlest womanhood and the most illustrious sovereign in history. We look with you with confident anticipation and desire for a long and happy reign for her successor."

Lynn News! Oct. 6, 1903.

NAVAL COMPANY ESCORTS ANCIENTS

Left Lynn For Fall River Today

Will Form With the Rest of the Naval Brigade parade is Wholly a Voluntary One, There Being No Pay.

Lynn usually has a share in all of the big functions especially in the mil-hary line and today the naval com-pany under Lieut. F. H. Turnbull left pany under Lieut. F. H. Turnbull left at 12.30 for a tour of duty in Fall River where it will form with the rest to the Ancient and Honorable Artilery of Boston and their guests from across the water, the Honorable Artilery Company of London.

The occasion is the first stop-off of the party on their week's tun through of Canada. The cuts of this country and food advantage of the fact that the city a short while and tendered the were accepted. The escort will consist of the Naval Brigade and a battalier.

Th Lynn company went by the Boston. Revere Beach and Lynn railtrain from Boston to Fall River. a the parade a dinner will be given by the city of Fall River and the Lynn railtrain from Boston to Fall River. a the parade a dinner will be given by the city of Fall River and the Lynn crong. In a smuch as the members to sacrifice many days this summer an invitation was extended to the to sacrifice many days this summer an invitation was extended to the members of the other companies in the Lyan armory to all the uniforms the time and there wile could not space the time and there were several who encepted the invitation.

The parade is wholly voluntary, there being no pay beyond the allowance for car fare and lunch which is provided by hendquarters of the Naval Brigade.

IN REGAL SPLENDOR

BRILLIANT BANQUET IN BOSTON

Honorable Artillery Com= pany of London Guests of the Ancients of the Honourable Artillery company of of the Honorable Artillery company of hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston. Sumptious in every detail, and with nearly a dozen of Massachusetts' representative men as after dinner speakers, the entire affair proved a magnificent climax t) the stay of the Londoners in this city.

On the main floor of Symphony have

On the main floor of Symphony had were more than nity round tables, a which the larger portion of the two commands were seated. The stage, however, was the feature of the scene. Above the long tables there streamed long wreaths of alternate English laurel and electric globes, coming to an apex where blazed a golden crown lung is ex-electric globes, coming to an apex where blazed a golden crown, huge in size, but perfect in proportion, the shining gem of the entire decoration.

At the rear of the stage was the shield of the Henorable company.

London and facing it on the bule my on the opposite side of the hill, was that dates of the charters of the two organibeauty marched the two companies, not however, as separate organizations, but Honorable.

It was but a few minutes ofter 7 o'clock when Colond Hell's a fond of for silence, and grace was said t) Rev. Edward Everett Hate. Two hours were consumed in the discussion of the allegantial part of the evening program.

The speeches which followed, all had as a notive the firmer welding of the bond of friendship between the two countries. That of Seuntor Hope the most scholarly and that of ex-Gov. John D. Long, the most entertaining.

Colonel Hedges' introductory remains a total to the plant of "The S v. States, the hand p total "The S v. Spangled Bunner," on I Colores of a Port G. P. Lyman responds I in his other cial capacity.

The next toast was that to King II ward, but the recent dead of At it. ward, but the read the ward of Herbert made the was played by the Save the King," which was played by the land some more like a directly that project the war no care

Oct. 5, 1903. HONORABLES FIELD DAY.

Boston Organization and Its English Guests Enjoy an Outlag.

Biston, Oct 5 Thi was the 2000 fair field day of the Ancient and Harmana.

Procester Stry, Oct. 6, 1903.

Gov. Long's Witty Speech the Most Entertaining=== Gov. Bates Represents State

A Brilliant Scene in Symphony Hall Where Seated at Fifty Tables the Visitors and Their Hosts Were Feasted and Entertained by the Yankee Speakers.

Boston, Oct. 5.—In a spacious hall, bond of friendship between the two bowered in green, illumined by myriads of electric lights, and with a golden crown shining over all, were banqueted tonight eight score members of the Honourable Artillery Company of Lendon by their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Ecanolist Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Ecanolist Ecanolist

Rish aurel and electric globes, com-R to an apex where blazed a golden to the shiring gem of the entire doners in this city.

Gov. Bates, who spoke for the commonwealth, was eloquent as well as witty, as was Mayor Collins, who responded for the city. The Earl of Denbigh was then introduced and was hard stretched the entire width of the stage, while other ranged back of it there streamed to the high proscentium arch long wreaths of alternate English acceptable, company to the stage of the city. The Earl of Denbigh was then introduced and was hailed with cheers and his remarks, which were full of gratitude for the warm reception with which the corps had been received, were loudly applicable acceptable.

In a greath of alternate Display and the sustained to the high pickets. The shiring and electric globes, coming to an apex where biazed a golden with the shiring gem of the entire the shiring gem of the entire than the shiring that the shiring than the shiring than the shiring than the shiring that the shiring than the shiring that the Duke of Wellington over here to take command of your armies, the duke re-plied: "If I go, I shall go only to make peace, which you may as well make

"We may not always be ready to admit it. But there is nothing that touches the heart of an American, certainly of a Massachusetts man, or a Boston man, more than an honor or kindness from England. It gave us an infinite pleasure when you put the bust of Lowell, our Boston poet; and Long-fellow, our Cambridge poot; and Long-fellow, our Cambridge poot; in Worth of Lowell, our Boston poet; and Long-fellow, our Cambridge poet, in West-minster Abbey. There is another monument erected there, placed, as the inscription tells us, by the province of Massachusetts Bay, in America. It is to the memory of Lord. Howe, an honored Englishman who was beloved here as at home. On that was beloved here as at nome. On that monument there is an allegorical figure which, I think, cannot be found anywhere else in sculpture — the "Cenius of the Province of Massachusetts Bay. The sculpture, I suppose, is not of the first excellence among the famous works of art to be found in London. But, after all, as a near kinsman of mine said more than 50 years ago, it is pleasant to think that the 'Genius of Massachusetts Bay has an honest right and finds a fit place. in Westminster Abbey among the heroic spirits which the English race heroic spirits which the English race has nurtured.

"Boston was settled by Englishmen in the beginning. Its institutions were English. The lion and the unicorn still adorn the old State House. It was inevitable that, as London had an Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, Boston should have an Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. I think you will find that your American brinsmen have tried to conv. you. kinsmen have tried to copy you as well as they could. They believe that, after all, the best soldier is the citizen soldier. They have tried during all soldier. They have tried during all these years and generations to devote themselves when not actually in battle, and there have been times when our Ancient and Honorables were not actually in battle, to cultivating the things that belong to peace. They have found, as I believe you have, that there is no more delightful martial music than the ringing of cut glass and no flag of truce like napkin.

and no flag of truce like napkin.

"There is another thing in which you will not find your Boston cousins bewill not find your Boston cousins behind you. I looked the other day into Anthony Highmore's history of your venerable body. I found that in Charles II's time, or about the time our company was founded, your marshal used to bear a silver badge. The emblem on it was an archer. He is represented, says the author, as drawing a long bow "in a proper manner." Now, if you will commit yourselves to the guidance of any of your Boston fellow-soldiers, from the worthy commander down, and get him to take you about, together or one by one, and explain to you the civic and military glories of Boston, you will find him an adept in the art of drawing the long bow "in a Boston, you will find him an adept in the art of drawing the long bow "In a proper manner," a manner in which he English archer ever excelled him.

"We are a people made up of many races and nations. The instinct of race is strong in the bosom of all of us—Celt and Swede and Frenchman and Saxon. Yet, as I said, England is still the mother country. Your rates asid when the Princess Alexandra came over—

"Saxon and Norman and Dane are we, But all of us Danes in our welcome

Saxon and Norman and Celt and Swe and Frenchman and Englishman and Scotsman are we, but we are all Englishmen tonight.

other great nations of Europe. But surely these can be no greater debt. no greater benefit conferred on one people by another than law, liberty, language, literature. All these we owe to England to England to We have had been English principles, and on English au-

Her father's blood before her father's Bolled up, and proved her truly of his

The severest critics of America in Displand are the men who have severed by criticised England for the same faults. And the severest critics of Engfaults. And the severest critics of England in America have been the men, in general, who severely criticised their own country for the same faults.

"The leaders of our Revolutionary, war, so far as the debate was concerned, were Englishmen — Chatham and Burke and Fox. Our fathers placed the justification for it upon the fundamental doctrines of, the English constitution. It was for a pure simple constitution. It was for a pure, simple English, doctrine that our fathers constitution. It was for a pure, simple English doctrine that our fathers raised their flag against England, and not for any considerable practical grievance whatever. I suppose that before our Revolution. Massachusetts had the best and mildest government on the face of the earth; better and milder than that which England enjoyed at home. But, as Edmund Burke, the greatest English statesman of his day, declared, "It was the English constitution which triumphed in the American Revolution." It was a theory, and not a practice of taxation, against which we took up arms.

"I cannot let this occasion go by without expressing my sense of the great loss to both countries in the death, 10 days ago, of Sir Michael Herbert, his majesty's ambassador at Washington. It was the ambition of his life that he might promote cordial relations betewen the two countries. No man was ever better fitted for that office. England could not have chosen a man fitter to send with her message of peace and goodwill. The illustrious house which has given English history so many famous statesmen and solders, and which has given to literature that sweetest of Christian poets, George Herbert, never had a manlier, or a gentler or a brighter son. Sir Michael Herbert had won every man's goodwill in Washington during his brief service here.

"The love of friends, without single

orhe love of friends, without single Unequalled lot below."

of was his guest shortly before I left Washington in the latter part of last April. I had hoped, with good right, that our very cordial acquaintance would ripen into a pleasant and lasting longiship.

friendship.

"Among the things in which Englishmen and Americans feel a common pride is the Battle of Bunker Hill. I do not think either you or we would like to wipe out that memory. It is one of the best examples of Yankee fighting, and one of the best examples of English fighting, to be found in history. We might, if we had thought of it, have put up a monument to the valor of both sides, like that at Quebec, which bear the names of Wolfe on one side and Montcalm on the other. It was an instance on both sides of clear English bulldog grit. Quebec, which bear the names of wolfe on one side and Montcalm on the other. It was an instance on both sides of clear English bulldog grit, Both parties were so ready and eager to fight that they seem to have lost their heads. I suppose the American general and the British general, if the thing had happened lately, would have been lucky if he got off with nothing worse than a severe reprimand. Our commander sent his forces imperfectly provided with ammunition, and with rations not enough for 24 hours, across a narrow neck of land, to take possession of Bunker Hill. All Sir William Howe had to do on your side was to move life ships up Charles River and up Mystic River, where they commanded the isthmus, and the Yankees would have been completely at his mercy. He need not, i uppose, have lost a man. He had only to draw the strings and we were bagged. There was never an example of blundering generalship worse than that on our side; although I believe it is claimed that the officer who led our detachment took possession of the wrong hill. On the other hand, instead of pursuing his game, the British commander stormed our earthworks. His men charged with a magnificent and desperate courage up the steepest and most difficult part of the hill. They were repulsed twice. They stormed our redoubts with magnificent English pluck, and we held on, also, with magnificent English pluck, and we held on, also, with magnificent English pluck, and then sullenly made good our ferent.

even now at home.
"My friend told me that an intimate friend of his was Lieut. Col. Holland, a retired officer of the Royal Marines. I dare say he is living now. Col. Holland told him that the Royal Marines never could be stationed anywhere near the Eighty-eighth Connaught Rangers. the Eighty-eighth Connaught Rangers. They perpetually stir up quarrels with the men of the Eighty-eight, so that some years ago the Rangers had to be removed from Portsmouth, the head-quarters of the Royal Marines, to another district. The reason is that they always get into a fight when they meet. If one of the Marines finds a Ranger in a public house or meets him in the street, he calls out: "Lie down, Eighty-eighth, and let the Marines pass to the front!" Then follows a fight.

pass to the front!" Then follows apass to the front!" Then follows afight.

"Neither of the men has the slightest idea where that comes from. Col.
Holland says it came from the Battle of Bunker Hill in America. The Americans, were intrenched in a very strong position. Most of them were backwoodsmen and about the best marksmen in the world. To reach the American liner the British had to march up the open slopes, fully exposed to the sweeping fire of American sharpshooters, who, sheltered by their entrenchments, were bound to sweep away their exposed assatiants. The old Eightyeighth, or Connaught Rangers, were in exposed assailants. The old angulyeighth, or Connaught Rangers, were in the first line of attack, with a battalion of Royal Marines behind them in the second line as their support. The regiment were killed and their ammunition ran out. It was time to relieve them, and the general rode up and ordered them to lie down, in the usual conner of relieving under fire. The manner of relieving under fire. The exhausted men would form four deep exhausted men would form four deep and lie down, leaving a space, and the relieving line would form four deep also and advance and pass between the blank files. So the word was passed along the shatter i line: "Lie down, Eighty-eighth, and let the Marines pass to the front." This was done. The Marines suffered fearfully, but accomplished the relief and captured the reddoubt. For this service they were awarded a laurel leaf to be worn on their buttons and caps." Col. Holland added: "I wore it myself for 26 years." "So, my friends, while we have been fighting Bunker Hill over again, some of you, over there. I do not wonder that you wanted to come over and see the spot.

of you, over there. I do not wonder that you wanted to come over and see the spot.

"Our English friends may be sure of their welcome. They are in the house of their friends, in the dwelling place of their brethren. We cannot show you wonders like those you have left behind. We have few glories of architecture and of art. We have little antiquity. We have no palaces or castles or cathedrals or galleries like those to which you are accustomed at home. Yet, possibly, we also may have se thing to exhibit, in a modest way, of the fruitage of the tree of English liberty. We must yield the palm cheerfully to other nations in art and architecture and music. We have tried to emulate them, if not to excel them, in the things which constitute the strength and happiness of a free people. We have gone without the architectural glories of palaces and castles and cathedrals. We have tried to perfect the architecture of the people's dwellings, and you will flud the English Bible, and the English Shakespeare upon their shelves. The canvas does not live or breathe for us under the touch of fuildo or Raphael. We have no Lawrence or Reyrolds to preserve the features of high-born beauty. But at least health paints here with her roses the cheek of the factory girl. The music of Beethoven or Handel may not the cheek of the factory girl. The music of Beethoven or Handel may not here rise and swell till it fills the dome which Angelo or Wren builded. But we have the music of children's voices in the well-paid working its home.

in the well-paid working is home. In the well-paid working is home while you are here. When you go back to did mother England tell her her boys are contented and happy and growing the her our best love. Tell her we think of her with nothing but true hiness and goodwill. We have no sore feeling left, even for the spinkings should do give us. If sho did to spare the rod, she did not spoil the child.

We mourned with you for the less of your gracious queen, along the till.

en! Honorable Arrillery Company of presented with a souvenir plate of caborate design, on which were engraved the arms of England and America, London and Diston and the two companies. One could well imagina that such an affair, conceived five years ago, took a year of hard labor to work its consummation.

Jaunton Healer Oct. 6, 1903.

Some Things to Think About.

From sources that may be regarded as authentic the following data of the dinner given to the visiting British military company in Boston last night. furnishes plenty of food for thought.

"Four hundred and fifty miles of wire were used in lighting the

"Ten thousand roses, six thousand yards of laurel, five thousand chysanthemum blooms and a thousand cases of southern smilax

"The cost of these decorations is $9000-six thousand for the lights and three thousand for the

"The dinner consisted of eight courses, and the cost of serving it. for each individual, was about seventy-five dollars. Eight hundred people, three hundred of them waiters, with seventy-five to pour wine alone, were required to serve it. Of the wines, eight hundred gallons measured the capacity of the hosts and their guests The cigars, in their silver cases, cost $2500, the cigars alone being valued at $800,"

And there are people in Boston surfering for the very necessities of life with winter coming on and coal high. Eight, hundred gallons of high priced wines necessary for the comfort of the Arcients and their guests.

And the total cost of the entire trin that falls upon the hosts is over a quarter of a million of dollars.

Is it any wonder that the poor are discontented and growing anarchists when they hear of such foolishly lavish entertailment as this? Oh, the folly of it, the wickedness of it, even

Moen die Fost

Wille Bosier, is showing the Tipour, of Artiflety company" the strict very right in trumfons. The disactrons it would be for irrora. translamentales the few of the asso to bring up in the police of the Boston Journal, Oct. 6, 1903.

BRILLIANT BANOI

The Earl of Denbigh and Desmond.

Commander of the Hanourable Artiflery Company of London, Made from a photograph taken at his only sitting in America. Lord Denbigh appears

SAIL THROUGH HARBOR TREAT FOR VISITORS

Enthusiastic Cheers From Man-'o-Warsmen and Salutes From Steamboat Whistles Make Trip & Lively One.

While the rain very considerately held cupied the bridge in front of the pilot cupied the bridge in front of the pilot house.

One of the features of the excursion was the fact that the party was cheered by the crews of the warships of three nations, the American cruiser Chicago, the British ship Retribution, and the French cruiser which has been in the upper harbor several weeks.

The same enthusiasm manifested by the Baston public during the several days that the Ancients and their guests have been called upon to "turn out" was shown on the march to the water front. The people seem never to the of seeing the dashing redcoats on parade. Cheering crowds walled the line of march, and the gathering of sight-geers at the wharf was dense.

Lady Tienbich Cheered

Lady Denbigh Cheered.

After both companies with their bands the guests first, Lady Denblgh appeared and was given a lusty cheer. She was and was given a lusty cheer. She was accompanied by Col. Hedges' three married daughters, Mrs. Courtney Baylor, Mrs. J. J. Tillinghast and Mrs. C. H. Eastwick. Col. Darling escorted the ladies. They came aboard for a few minutes just to see how the steamer looked with so many uniformed men aboard. It was a striking picture and must have been impressive, as seen from passing craft.

It was 11.30 o'clock when the gang plank was drawn and the Nantasket poked her nose down stream. Lady Denbigh and her women companions waved with their 'kerchlefs and another mighty cheer was hurled their way from the boat. The steamer first sailed past the warships and turned about when close to the Navy Yard. The English ship Retribution was the first reached. Her crew swarmed the decks and rigging and shouted three cheers, in responsive to three by the Ancients and H. A. C's. Heads appeared at every port hole, looking like photographs on buttons. The Boston company's faithful little cannon barked from the steamer's stem. Tugboats and ferrles and even shop whistles gave shricking salutes and the Nantasket was kept busy responding.

Bunker Hill and Navy Yard,

Bunker Hill and Navy Yard.

The graceful lines of the Chicago were closely studied by the Englishmen, and her crew were given an ovation. Bunker Hill monument, with the American and British colors flying from the peak, was an attraction, and so were the torpedo, gunboats and other craft anchored at the Navy Yard. The H. A. C.'s cast friendly glances at the Mayflower in her dock at Charlestown. Cheers were again exchanged as the American and British ships were passed on the return, and the Frenchman was saluted where she lay further nan was saluted where she lay further Passed Fort Warren.

The Nantasket steamed along the North Shore quite a distance, and, turn ing, passed Fort Warren on her way to Ing. passed Fort warren on her way to Nantasket. The fort was given three cheers and a tiger. Every passing craft saluted. The Englishmen were delighted with Hull, Pemberton and the other resorts. They thought the cottages and surrounding landscape most pictures sale.

During the playing, the Londoners picked up the air of "Marching Through Georgia," and helped their American hosts sing the chorus. In return, the Americans joined with the red coats

Bostone fourwall, Oct: 6, 1903.

BANQUET FITTING CROWN TO WARM BOSTON WELCOME

Feast to London Soldiers One of Rare Magnificence.

VISITORS ARE AMAZED

Eloquent Speeches Follow Peerless Menu—Marvelous Electrical Effects.

Today's Program

1 P. M.-Honourable Artillery Company of London, escorted by a committee of the Ancient and Honourable Artillery Company of Boston, parades from the armory in Faneuil Hall to the South Station.

2 P. M.—Special train of ten cars leaves for New York. A stop of three hours will be made at Fall River, where the H. A. C. and the Ancients will be the guests of the city and local military organizations. 8 P. M.-Off for New York on the steamboat Priscilla.

The climax of the spectacular hospitality that Boston began to extend to the Honourable Artillery Company of London four days ago, a hospitality that has grown as a tidal wave of public enthusiam always grows, broke with brilliancy as the guests were ushered into Symphony Hall last evening, their eyes to be dazzled in the extravagance yet elegance of decoration of flowers and light, their ears to be filled with the strains of sweetest music, their appe tites to be appeased by a feast that has been for months in preparations, and their patriotism to be fired, as the dual patriotism of England and America has never before been fired, by the speeches of some of the most elequent orators of

The day that closed so fittingly began with a promise of rain. For a time, during the early hours of the forencon there came the warm rays of the sun, but after the Ancients and their guests Were well off for a little sea trip along the north shore, the gathering clouds again foretold a shower that shortened the trip and caused to be given up the return march to the respective headquarters of the two organizations.

Salute Stars and Stripes.

The day's opening brought an official there, for the first time in the history of either nation, ordered the soldiers of his King officially to salute the Stars

Then followed the trip down the har-bor and the return in the rain, and then preparations for the banquet of the Boston hosts to the men from Fins-bury-a banquet the like of which has never before been given in Boston, a minds of those present and which, in its every appointment, equaled any of modern times. Lord Denbigh said that in his long military service he had never seen any affair that was like Cheered by Warship Crews.

During the trip down the harbor the Nantasket, the boat that upon which the brief voyage was made, first circled about the American, British and French war vessels in the harbor, the band playing, as each was passed, the national hymn of the land for which the warship fights, the crews responding by lining the rails at attention and cheering as the two veteran companies steamed by. The trip took in the North Shore as far as Nahant, where the rough water began to tell, and the South Shore down as far as Nantasket.

At the banquet in the evening Col. Hedges officiated, with Lord Denbigh as the guest of honor, Governor Bates his staff, Lieutenant Governor Guild, Senator Hoar, Mayor Collins, former Secretary John D. Long, Gen. Chaffee and a score of other men who had won military or professional fame in this and other countries being also guests. The speakers of the evening were Governor Bates, United States Senator Hoar, Mayor Collins, Earl of Denbigh, ex-Governor Long, Collector George H. Lyman, Sir Frederick W. Borden of Canada, Professor F. C. de Sumichrast of Harvard, Gen. William A. Bancroft and Rev. William H. Rider, Col. Charles K. Darling was the toast-

BANQUET ONE THAT AMAZED THE GUESTS

At Symphony Hall last evening all that the Ancient and Honorable Company of Boston had promised during pany of Boston had promised during their years of preparation was offered in a feast to every sense of those pres-ent—a picture of light and color, of life and motion to dazzle the eye, of exquisite music to charm the ear, of old wines and delicious viands to tempt and then appearse the appetite, and of brilliant and patriotic addresses to stir the blood of Great Britain and America and to urge their sons to closer unity, The guests were nominally the Honourable Artillery Company, but there were other guests of honor, men whom ambition had led into the higher spheres of life; men who had won civil fame men who had come from other lands officially to represent their countries: men from other States and other climes, and men who had risked their lives on the field of battle. All these were present to participate in the greatest American military banquet of modern times.

To Feast Through Canopy.

At 6 o'clock there was held in Horticultural Hall a reception, where men in their variety of uniforms and their evening dress came to meet their friends and to be introduced to Lord Denbight

the usual effects of a brilliantly garbed throng of stalwart men moving abou

Tournedos of Filet of Beef a La Preville String Beans.

Toasts and Cheers.

At 9 o'clock, when the dinner was of the spectacle. The gail

Oct. 5, 1903

HONOURABLES GO TO CHURCH

Martini Music Brente Subbath Quist tu in Bostqu

Boston, Oct. 4.-The quietness of Sabbath was stirred to-day by sound of martial music as the H abl Artillery company of London their hosts, the Ancient and able Artillery company of this marched though some of the Postreets to Thank church. The Boston Journal!, Oct. 6, 1903. Gen. EDMUND RICE. Maj, F. FARRINGTON, H. A. C. Maj. P. W. LEGATT, H. A. C.

Rear Admiral MORTIMER L. JOHNSON. Gen. GEORGE M. COLE, Adjutant-General of Connecticut. Hon. A. A. CHAMBERLIN, Governor of Connecticut.

GEORGE A. MARDEN, Sub-Treasurer,

Maj. MUNDAY, H. A. C.

H | Gen. WILLIAM A. BANCROFT.

3 Gen. ADNA R. CHAFFEE, U. S. A.

Lieut.-Col. STOHWASSER, H. A. C.

Hon. GEORGE F. HOAR.

Hon. GEORGE H. LYMAN, Collector of Port.

COL. DENBIGH, H. A. C.

Col. SIDNEY M. HEDGES.

Governor JOHN L. BATES.

Gen. SAMUEL DALTON. Hen. P. A. COLLINS.

6 Lieutenant Governor CURTIS GUILD. JR.

Hon. J. Q. A. BRACKETT.

Hon. JOHN D. LONG.

Maj. C. E. D. BUDWORTH, H. A. C.

Capt. C. A. P. TALBOT, British Consul.

Hon. L. F. C. GARVIN, Governor of Rhode Island.

GEORGE A. HIBBARD, Postmaster.

SI | Hon. N. J. BACHELDER, Governor of New Hampshire.

Adjt.-Gen. AUGUSTUS D. AYLING of New Hampshire.

Gen. JOHN L. TIERNAN.

Rev. WILLIAM H. RIDER.

E Col. CHARLES K. DARLING.

Professor F. C. SUMICHRAST.

Brocktone anterprise,

A PROPER SIGN

HE people of Boston and Providence have shown a fine hospitality in the reception they have tendered the London Ancients cients have taken the lead, of course, in the work, but the general public showed a deep interest in the event, and the fashion in which the visitors have been applauded and cheered and eulogized in public and in private has been a pleasant thing to see.

The people of the world might as well learn a lesson and get together on a friendly basis whenever the thing is possible. There is no reason why the nations should, on general principles, he other than friendly most of the lime. There are real wars and commercial wars now and then, and little misunderstandings between friends; but all that furnishes no reason for maintaining an attitude of hostility or of frigid stand-offishness in the ordipary affairs of life. The American and the Englshman may well meet on a common plane of friendship, even if their aucestors were clubbing each other in the days agone.

And, to do the American credit, he is not the fellow who usually harbors a grudge. He fights and then seems to forget it, and often does forget, as soon as the incident is closed. He is willing to be friends with all the world at any time; and this is the sensible and the proper spirit to dispiss, Bostono Jocirnal

REGEPTION SPLENDID IN ALL OF ITS FEATURES -

Pretty Women in Handsome Gowns and Brave Soldiers in Dashing Uniforms Form Strikingly Brilliant Scene.

Horticultural Hall was a scene of unusual splendor last night at the pre-liminary reception where the distinguished civil and military guests of the Boston Ancients were introduced. The display of handsome gowns and pretty women, together with the bright naval and military uniforms, made a pretty

The reception began at 6 o'clock and continued for an hour, during which time the hall was filled with guests, standing in small groups exchanging greetings and chatting about the costly banquet which was to follow. American and English flags, which were the principal decorations, blended harmoniously throughout. Broad-leaved tropical plants were freely used and harmoniously throughout. Broad-leaved tropical plants were freely used and added to the general effect.

The guests entered the hall at the Falmouth street entrance, where a guard of honor, composed of members of the Boston Ancients, was lined up. The Boston Ancients, was lined up. The receiving line was in the smaller hall, in order to reach it the guests had to in order to reach it the guests had to function the larger one. Those who traverse the larger one. Those who traverse the larger one. Those who composed the receiving line were Lord composed the receiving line were Lord of Denbigh, Gov. John L. Bates and staff, consisting of Adit. Gen. Samuel Dalton, Surgeon Gen. Robert A. Blood, Insurgeon Gen. William H. Brigham of spector Gen. William Gen. Fred W. Hiudson, Commissary Gen. Lot. Col. James G. White of Newton, Lieut. Col. George Glhon of Wakefield, Libut. Col. Fred-Col. Walter C. Hagar, Lieut. Col. John Parlins, Jr. Maj. Frank B. Stevens Parlins, Jr. Maj. Frank B. Stevens Parlins, Jr. Maj. Frank B. Stevens R. Hooper, M. Hedges, commander of the Boston Ancients.

Col. Sidney M. Hedges, commander of the Boston Ancients.

When United States Senator George F. When United States Senator George F. When United States Senator George F. Hoar of Worcester entered the hall he was given a trenendous ovation, which he smillingly acknowledged.

At 7 o'clock the entire company At 7 o'clock file carbon Horticultural Hall across marched from Horticultural Hall across marched from Horticultural Hall across to Symphony Hall under a canopy was to Symphony Hall under a canopy was to Hillantly lighted with small electric buillantly lighted with small electric buillantly lighted with small electric buills. A crowd. composed chiefly of women and their escorts.

Oct. 5, 1903.

ARTILLERISTS TAKE AN EXCURSION

Boston, Oct. 5.—This was the two hundred and sixty-sixth arthum field day of the Armson and Honorable Ar-Siery Entitling, and with their puests, Bonorable Artillery Company of a Rosent he Buston company spent the they in a stoumboat exercision along the there. The day's programme also Boston Journal!

FAIR WOMEN VIEW FEAST FROM BALCONY

One of the Journal's Women Reporters Tells of Scene as It Appeared to Feminine Eyes---Lady Denbigh Present.

Viewing in retrospect the banquet of the Ancients to the Honourables, given last evening in Symphony Hall, many a woman will draw a deep sigh of satisfaction as she declares with a certain note of awe mellowing the tone of elation:

"I was there."

It is a matter of honest pride to table to say so.

It is with a sense of having lost something really salient that one confesses to absence.

If old Luculius himself, with all his glory as a dinner host, had been chairman of the banquet committee, it is doubtful if he could have added any with and wisdom, touch of fairy wands.

From balcony to bulcony, the women looked across garlands of laurel, the sign of victory, studded with embralds, tipped with glowing rubies, divided and sub-divided by crosses of topaz.

The glided pipes of the organ, usually the most prominent feature of Symphony thank all estooned from a marvelous laurel, and festooned from a marvelous convention of diamonds, white and yellow, of graphites and emeralis and rubies, while below, gleaned the joweled inshowed the same circling lowels of light, the same victolous laurel garlands, and in addition the rich crimson and delicate pink of myrlads of long stemmed beauty roses.

Wit and Wisdom,

doubtful if he could have added any

Symphony Hall has served as the setting for many a function. Notables of many lands and cults have gathered beneath its men and the setting for many lands and cults have gathered beneath its men and setting for men and setting for men were constantly moving for the women were constantly moving the worked up and down the stair They walked up and down the stair they pocked in at this door and at that so were setting for the women were constantly moving the property walked up and down the stair they pocked in at this door and at that they pocked in at this door and at the second they proved the stair they proved they proved the stair they proved the stair they proved the sta beneath its roof. But so long as the strength of its foundation stones and timbers endures there is small fear that the magnificence of the love feast of the Ancients and the Honourables will be dimmed.

be dimmed.

From the vantage point of the two balconles the feminine contingent, in attractive evening gowns and glittering jewels, beheld the lords of creation, gay with scarlet coats, gold lace and the pomp of rhilitary garb, or correct in the black and white of citizens dress, sip their wine, toast their country and their friends and cheer justily at every occasion.

It was a fairy land tota which the balt

It was a fairy land into which the bal-

Boston seemed miles away; Symphony Hall was lost sight of, and the place became the banquet hall of an enchanted palace, glorified by the magic

Face River News! Oct. 5, 1903.

To-Morrow's Reception to the Honourables.

Word has been received that in addition to the Fall River companies of tht Naval Brigade and the First Heavy Artillery, the following companies will form part of the escort of the Honourable Artillery Company next Tuesday afternoon: First Heavies, Batteries E. New Bedford, F. Taunton and I of Brockton; Naval Brigade, Companies G. New Bedford, E, Lynn, and H, Springfield

Springfield.
Mr. Robert C. Kerr, who is acting as chalman of the local committee, has requested owners of automobiles to bring their machines to the Quequechan Club next Tuesday afternoon in order that the visitors may be given a shore wide.

The Algonquin Printing Company has kindly offered to furpleh to all who wish to decorate, such material as they have on hand for decorating purposes at practically cost.

Wit and Wisdom,

to the gorgeousness of the scene. Nor, it is to be presumed, that he could have pleased more perfectly the palates of those about the tables.

It is not for the women, however, to attempt any gastronomic analysis of the banquet. For them it was a feast of sight and hearing, and as such was incomparable.

Lustre Not to Be Dimmed.

Wit and Wisdom,

The words of wit and wisdom from the slips of the speakers rose distinctly to lips of the speakers rose distinctly to the farthest corner of the hall, and the farthest corner of the hall, and the crash of music alternated with the crash of music alternated with the condoners. It was all a wonderful dream—to the onlookers in the gallery.

Glancing up from the place of the dinciple of the balconies presented, through the greater presented, through the crash of music alternated with the case.

Lady Denbigh in Simple Gown.

right side of the first batchy that hast of them paused. It was here that Lady Denbigh and a party of attending ladies listened with rapt attention throughout listened making, quite oblivious of the speech making, quite oblivious of the speech along the speech approve eyes. Lady Denbigh was in a Lorgense Them oct. 5. 1903.

The sight of the American flag float ing from one window of Bunker Hil monument, and the British flag from mother, was an impressive sight the British flag has not beer seen in Charlestown since 1775. The Ancients would not murch the H. A C.'s around Bunker Hill, but the Eng. lishmen could see their flag flying from the granite shaft as an indication that no hard feelings exist between the representatives of two great nations, at least during the present visit. The visitors have no reason to find fault with the cordiality of their reception, and the only thing to fear is that the Bostonians will kill some of them with kindness. A $60,000 banquet with 1600 quarts of rare wines will test the capa-city of the entertained as well us the entertainers. The visit of the H. A. C. is altogether the most notable military o casion that Boston has eve known and possibly the experience the visitors has not before gone beyond

Boston Foursel,

GUEST OF HONOR

Mrs. "Jack" Jardner and Mrs. Charles S. Sprague Entertain Wife of English Company's Gallant Commander.

Countess Denbigh was the guest of onor at two informal afternoon func tions given yesterday in Brookline, one by Mrs. Charles S. Sprague at her beautiful residence, Faulkner Farm, and the other by Mrs. John L. Gardner at her villa, Green Hill, on Warren street, A small Jut fashionable company attended each function, a few of Mrs. Sprague's guests journeying over to Green Hill after the departure of the countess from Faulkner Farm.

Countess Denbigh was driven from the Touraine at 12.30 o'clock, accompanied by Mrs. Bates, wife of Governor Bates, Mrs. Guild, wife of the lieutenant governor, and Mrs. Hedges, wife of Commander Hedges of the Ancients

Olman (1 F35) Advertised, Oct. 5, 1903.

SERVICES AT TRINITY CHURCH.

BOSTON, Oct. 4 .- Services at Trin-Ity church this afternoon was the chief event of the day for the Honorable Artitlery company of London, now the guests of the Aucients and Honorables of this city. The services were arranged by the British residents of Boston and were preceded by a parade participated in by the English an American Honorables and by the arm and navy veterans of the British se Checter Pond I, D. D. T. C.

Conducted the services there. Oct. 8. 1903

- Soffentlich begeht Riemanb is Bofton Die Ungeschichtichteit, Die Bergen von ber "honourable Artiffery Company of Lenber" ju einer Theegefellichaft einzula

Partoic Gourneal! Oct. 6, 1903.

LORD DENBIGH CONDUCTING LADY DENBIGH AND FRIENDS FROM THEIR CARRIAGE TO THE STEAMER

The trip ziong the North Shore was participated in by Lady Denbigh and several other ladies.

Wheeling! (14. Val.) News!

TANCY DRESS SOLDIER'S DINNER OF DISTINCTION

Boston, October 5.—This is the 226th fall field day of the Boston Ancient and Honorable artillery company, and a program for the day celebration and the entertainment has been prepared that, commencing early the forenoon will end well, any time before sunrise tomorrow morning. After a street painde, this morning, the company and preds, the Honorable will be poured by 55 specially with the pour special with the spe

. Holyoke Telegelin!

It is estimated that the visit of the Londor: Honourables to Boston, with their entertainment, will cost a quarter of a million. Here are the items, according to the Boston Post: Banquets, $30,000; steamship transportation, $30,000; private entertainment $50,000; railroad money arion, $25,000; souvenirs $25,000; accommodation of 5". b. der de, Sers, $8,000; wines, etc., $15,000; entertainment en ranc. $20,000; decorations $8000; uniforms, $5000; music, $5000; 11.1 ... office sire; incidentals, $5000; total, $251,000.

Boston Foundal, Oct. 6, 1903.

(Copyright by Purdy, 1897.)

Senator Hoar,

Who was the chief orator at last night's banquet to the H. A. C.'s.

Louisvelle (Kep.,) Courier- Journal, Oct. 5, 1900.

ARTILLERYMEN MARCH IN BODY TO CHURCH.

Will Leave Boston Tuesday On a Trip to the Middle States and Canada.

Boston, Oct 4 -The quietness of the Subbath was etlered to-day by the sound of martial music as the Honorable Attillery Company, of Lendon, and their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of this city, marched through the streets to Trinity church. The services in that edifice had been arranged by the British resi. dents of this city, and the parade included, hesides the two military bodies, those army and navy veterans of the British service whose homes are in this city. The line of march was well lined with spectators.

tions were constant win the two organizations win the first to the Middle States

Boston Fost. Oct. 5, 1903.

THE HONOURABLES

The visit of the London company cannot be regarded as a private affair of our own doughty Ancients. It has stirred the popular heart to a welcome which is clearly beyond precedent in this community and which, we doubt not, will continue throughout the tour upon which this representative organization of Englishmen is to enter. The American people have made these men their guests in a popular sense.

It was not simply curiosity which gathered the tremendous crowd in Copley square yesterday to see the Honourables go to church. There was a deeper and better sentiment. It was that of welcome and good feeling. If respect for the day restrained the hurrans and modified the applause with which they were greeted on this occasion, the great concourse there and all along the route of their march spoke louder than any acciemations. It was a remarkable demonstration for a Sunday in Boston. There is nothing to quite equal it upon record here, taking everything into consideration,

Without assuming any great technical international importance for these incidents,' must appear to the most indifferent observer that the fact of good feeling and good fellowship has been demonstrated in a notably pleasant way, Bostose Journal, Oct. 6, 1903.

CHICAGO'S JEALOUSY IN PRINT

Of any of an inches fruits the decision of the 3 oston Journal! Oct. 6, 1903.

Internationalism

The City of Boston and the Fraternity of the Nations.

Last night's banquet in Symphony Hall was perhaps the most remarkable event in international hospitality that ever occurred on these shoresremarkable not only for the lavish expenditure which it entailed, but also for the significance with which it is freighted at this particular time. Among the statistics of the occasion was an expenditure of $60,000 for the banquet alone; $6000 worth of elaborate electric effects and $3000 worth of flowers. Four hundred and fifty miles of wires were used in lighting; 800 people were employed in serving the banquet alone. The cigars, in silver cases, cost $2500. Fifteen thousand electric globes competed with the sun.

These figures are not rehearsed for estentation, but to indicate that around the Cradle of Liberty irrepressible international sentiment has been developed, a sentiment which expresses much not only for the present, but for the future, and with which provincialism will have to reckon more and more in the future.

Boston is a city of all races, not overlooking the race whose forerunners touched Plymouth Rock. But Boston never saw so cosmopolitan a Sunday as the last Sunday. Boston never saw such an outpouring of the people in fraternity. Indeed, it is probable that never before in the United States was there such metropolitan illustration of the new internationalism as that elicited by the church parade of the Honourable Artillery Company of London.

While these expressions of comradeship are welcome, it is to be noted that in the United Kingdom there is a stand up fight for and against economic retalisation upon British customers outside the empire. Just what the end of this struggle will be, no one can now safely forecast, but there is an easy opportunity in the struggle for commercial empire, as distinguished from territorial control, for many things to happen during the next few years that will test the efficiency of the court of arbitration at The Hague.

But the greatest territory of free trade on the clobe is the United States. And our American economic cystom is not provinced, but is here because it has cosmopolitanized the new world—and lifted the standard of life of 80,000,000 of people high above that of the most advanced and favored peoples of the old world. Our tailf is preferential in humanity.

Coti 5,1903

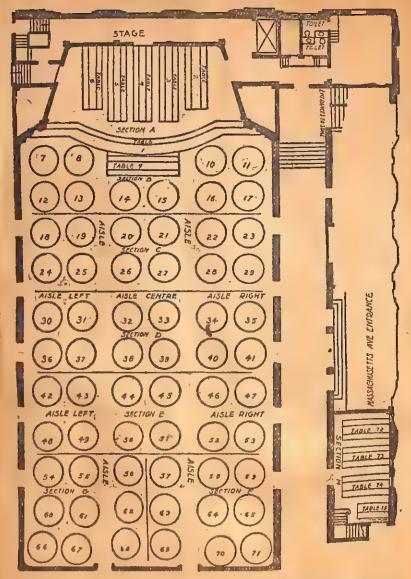

Boston Company Took the Britishers for Bail Along Coast.

By Associated Press.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 5.—This is the 266th autumn field day of the ancient and honorable artillery company and with thoir guests, the honorable artillery company of London and Boston company, spent the day in a steamboat excursion along the North shore.

The day's program also included a reception and banquet in Symphonic

Boston Freald, Oct. 6, 1903.

ARRANGEMENT OF THE BANQUET TABLES.

Ectica (1.3%) Herald Disputch, Oct. 6, 1903.

WITH THE ANCIENTS TO-DAY AND TO-NIGHT

Harbor Excursion To-day and To-Night 75 Specially Selected Men Will Pour Wine at a Banquet.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 5.—This is the 266th fall field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company and a programme for the day's celebration and entertainment has been prepared that, commencing early this forenoon, will end—well any time before sunties to morrow.

After a creet parade this morning the congany and its guests went on a harbor excursion which lasted well into the afternoon. This evening the hig banquet will be given at Symphony Hall to which function 1,000 members and guests have been invited. The dinner has been prepared with the most exacting fastidiousness and will cost $50,000. Three hundred walters will be in attandance and the wines will be poured by 75 specially selected map.

New York! St. 3.) American, Oct. 5, 1903.

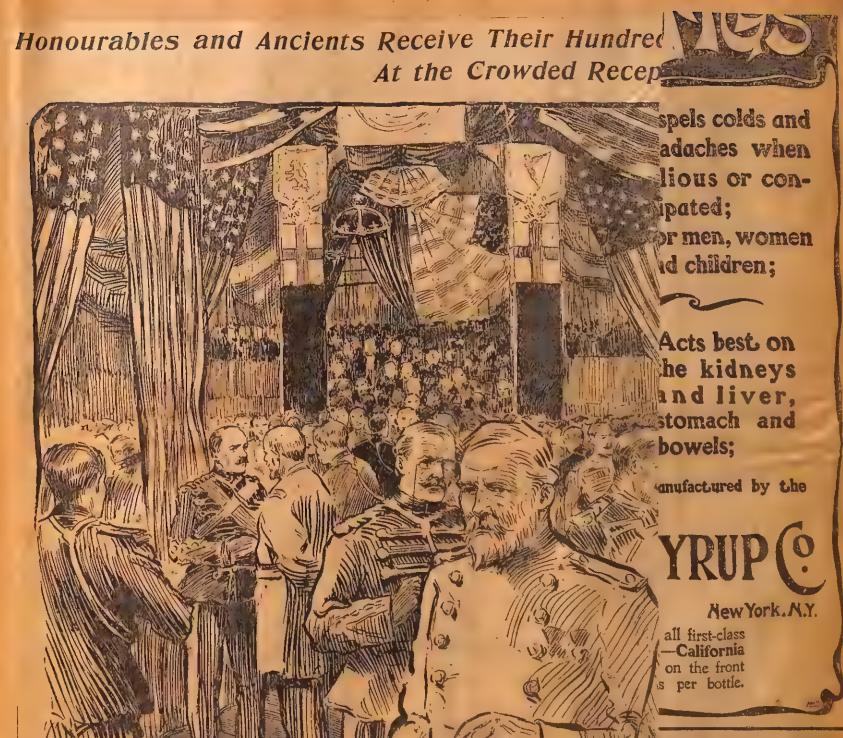

OLD GUARD HOST TO HONORABLES.

Englishmen and Boston Ancients to Be at Madison Garden Fair To-night,

When the Old Guard's Fair opens at bladison Square Garden to-night, there will be present well-known women of fashion as guests of the Old Guard, the famous Ancient and Monorables of Boston and also the Honorables of England.

The Colonel C. amender of the English Honorables is King Edward.
There will also be present the survivore of the pioneers of international rifle shooting the men who kept the championship in America in years past, the nost stiff ing of when is Colonel John V. Bodine The venues have exercised a most important lifts we toward by a most important lifts we toward navier the cold Guard

Boslose Herald, Oct. 6 1903.

IFROM A SKETCH BY A HERALD STAFF

GIVEN HARD BLOW

President Appoints John
P. Nields. Senator Ball's
Choice, District Attorney

Honourables and Ancients Receive Their Hundreds of Guests

At the Crowded Reception Held in Horticultural Hall.

3 ostore - Yerald, Oct. 6, 1903.

GOV. BATES SPEAKS FOR THE STATE, MAYOR COLLINS FOR THE MUNICIPALITY.

Collector Lyman Responds to the Toast to President—Senator Hoar Speaks to "Old Mother England" — Prof. Sumichrast Spokesman for Harvard.

"Hands have clasped across the seas and hearts have joined, and the ties of blood and the instincts derived from the common origin compel us to march all one way-for the liberty of the Individual, the overthrow of the oppressor, the uplifting of the downtrodden, and the advancement of the Christian civilization throughout the world."--GOV. JOHN L BATES.

"One of the first things we saw was the union Jack flying from the top of Bunker Hill monument, which we is England have long felt we could regard with no Ill feeling; rather we look upon it as a reminder to the British nation of how colonies ought not to be governed."-LORD DENBIGH.

"The company that came in the Mayflower was so notable that her name is embaimed forever in the history of our country. Let us hope that Your voyage in the new Mayflower may prove a harbinger of events no tess important in the history of our land and race!"—COL. HEDGES.

reme is embalmed forever in the instery of the starty your voyage in the new Mayflower may prove a harbinger of everds no tess important in the history of our land and important in the history of our land and race!"—COL. HEDGES.

These words, spoken by the Governor of the commonwealth, the commander of the commonwealth, the commander of the common wealth, the commander of the common and the common department of the common and the common department of the common and the common department of the prevailing spirit of last hight's last to the guests of a nation.

As a feast, the banquet was the morth of the common and the country. It was a dinker to trival the feasts of Lucullus or to her to rival the feasts of Lucullus or to rival the feasts of Lucullus or nition of the incor and of kith Was an informal recession to the Horticultural Hall, in which the color scheme of decorations was as brilliant and showy as that of the banquet hall was rich and subued.

Beneath intertwined colors of St. Andrew and St. George and the stars and stripes, under the seals of Massachusetts and Canada, under the shadow of the coats of arms of the Honourables and of the Ancients, brushing helmets in turn against the American flag and the union jack. Londoners and Bostonians discussed the social pleasures of the days since the arrival of the visitors—days which have been so full of the round of pleasure as to make Lord Denbigh inquire how many weeks he has been in America.

During the height of the reception Senator George F. Hoar, the orator of the evening, entered the hall, and his reception was a notable tribute to the distinguished statesman. Englishmen and Ancients alike made way for the venerable senior senator, breaking passage through the crowded hall and standing at salute in touching tribute while the senior senator proceeded to the head of the line.

Across Massachusetts avanue, on velvet carpet and under a canopy which blocked the busy thoroughfure, the line proceeded to Symphony Hall for the elaborate ceremony of the evening. It was prompt 7 o'clock, the scheduled hour, when the line began motion, So perfect were the arrangements and so well acquainted were the thousands with the location of their seats through a printed list and diagram, that the thousand men sat down to dine like a huge family about the family dinner table.

The menu was as follows:

BANQUET to the Honourable Artillery Company of London bu the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachuseits. Two Hundred and Sixty-Sixth Fall Field Day, Symphony Hall, Boston, October Fifth, Nineteen Hundred and Three.

MENU.

Cape Cod Oysters. Clear Green Turile. Prince Albert Sherry. Aiguillettes of Halibut Cardinal. Cucumbers. Polatoes Hollandaise. Haut Sauterne. Tournedos of Filet of Beef a la Previllot. String Beans. Pommery sec et brut. Epigrammes of Sweetbreads Green Peas. Sorbet a la Militaire. Cigarettes. Squab Chickens Roasted. Romaine and Tomato Salad. Bombe Glaces International.

Petit Fours.

Cheese. Cigars.

and gold.

After the dinner the ladies were admitted to the balcontes at $330 o'clock and the appearance of the favored spectators at a scene such as but few have been privileged to gaze upon was greeted by a Chautauqua salute, the gentlemen rising in their places. The entry of Lady Denoigh was greeted with a roughly "three sheers."

New York! (13/) Hoild! Oct. 6; 1903.

As the Honourable Artillerists did not turn pale even at the attack of a Rhode Island clambake the dogs of war may as well forget how to bark.

Boston Herald Oct. 6, 1903.

TOASTS AND SENTIMENTS.

President, King Edward, and State and City Included in the Evening's List.

Following is the list of toasts, together with the sentiment voiced by the toastmaster following each introduction:
1 "The President of the United States," the Hon. George H. Lyman. collector of the port of Boston and Charlestown.

"One in eighty millions and eighty millions in one."

2. "His Britannic Majes, King Edward VII.," the band. "The manly chief of a manly peo-ple, the apostic of fellowship among the nations of the earth."

3. "Welcome from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts," the Hon, John L. Bates, Governor of Massachusetts. "From western bills to eastern strand." The Bay state greets you heart and hand."

4. "Welcome from the City of Boston." the Hon. Patrick A. Collins, mayor of Boston.

of Boston.

"As God was with our fathers, so may he be with us and with those gathered within our gates."

5. "The Horourable Artilley Company of London," Lieut.-Col., the Earl of Denbigh and Desmond.

"May we never meet them but in peace; never engage them but in hospitality; never part from them but in lore."

6. "Old Mother England," the Hon. George F. Hoar, United States senator, "The stalwart son honors the sturdy parent."

7. "Our Honorary Members," ex-Gov. John D. Long.

"Two in number: Edward, King and Emperor, and John D. Long, the best fellow of all princes, the prince of all good fellows."

8. "Our Canadian Neighbors," Col. F. W. Hibbard of Montreal.

"Not cold, but full of warmth and glow, is our fair lady of the "Harvard University," Prof. F. C.

"Imperial in her colors, her history and her truth."

10. "The Volunteer Militia," Maj.-Gen. William A. Hancroft, Massachusetts volunteer militia (retired).

11." "The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts," the Rev. William H. Rider.

"Prond of its history; true to its traditions; loyal to the common-wealth whose name its bears."

MUSICAL PROGRAMME.

Gems from Popular Operas Played for Entertainment of Distinguished London Visitors.

The musical programme at the banquet included selections from popular operas and other pleasing numbers. It

4. Selection, "The Prince of Pilsen".......................Luders

5. a. March, "London,"......Missud
b. Intermesso, "H' awatha" 6. Grand selection, "Carmen"

7. Excerpts from "A Country

S. n. March, "Soldiers of the 10. Reminiscences of "All Na-

GREETING BY COL. HEDGES.

Good Fellowship the Keynote of the Speech Made by the Commander of the Ancients.

Your Excellency, Lord De thigh, and Gentlemen: Words cannot adequately express the pleasure I feel on this occasion in welcoming you, our guests from beyond the sea, and I cannot but feel that the mission has been fulfilled of God bless us, every one!"

No Adame Frankright Oct. 5, 1903.

The British flag floating from Bunker Hill monument is one of the strange sights caused by the visit of the lot ton Heaton of a to do ton Boston . Jerald Oct. 6, 1903.

THE TIDE OF ORATORY.

Col. Darling Acts as Toastmaster and Starts the Ball Rolling with Toast to President.

Col. C. K. Darling was introduced by Col. Hedges as toast naster, and said.
"The first toast is 'The President of "The first toast is 'The President of the United States,' one in 30 millions and 30 millions in one.'"

The long round of cheers which president of this toast was stopped in a moment by Col. Hedges, who said, "We are unfortunate in not having the President of the United States present with us innight to respond to the toast in person, but we have a very table representative in the person of the collector of the port, and it gives me given to introduce Collector George H. Lyman." (Applause.)

IN THE PRESIDENT'S NAME.

Collector Lyman, Responding for the Chief Executive, Says England Has a Right to Glory in Our Success.

The toast, "The President of the United States," was responded to to time Hon, George H. Lyman, collector of the port, whose address follows:

the done among all the dwellers on 1/1.s globe. It means that its component parts may dwell apart, but that no other rare can or will dare to come between them. It mears that if ever joined in common cause, united, for Go I and right, they would march together under the unconquerade banner of progress It means that however its different peoples may be separated by land or set, however diverse may be their personal alms or business in terests, the history of the past, the needs of the present the hopes of the future, all point out with unerring hand, as the champion of this world's chawful march of civilization, the race of the Anglo-Saxen.

At the close of Collector Lyman's response, three cheers were asked for the King of England, and were given with a will by every one in the hail.

The second toast was: "To His Britanic Majesty King Edward VII. The manly chef of a manly people; the apostle of fellowship among the nations of the earth."

earth."
this the response was made by the with "God Saye the King," in all, Briton and American, heartily

Mis excellency, Gov. John L. Bates was wildly obsered when he arose to respond t wine toest. "The Commonlills to eastern strand, the Bay state greets you heart and hand." Laughter and applause frequently punctuated his remarkable address.
Gov. Bates said:

GOV. BATES' ADDRESS.

He Looks Forward to a Strengthening of the Ties Between England and Our Own Country.

In extending the greetings of the state Gov. Bates said:

I am asked to do something unnecesfory, but yet most agreeable—to extend the greetings of the commonwealth of Massachusetts to the guests of this occusion. Unnecessary, gentlemen of England, because the welcome has already been spoken by the people of Massachusetts, spoken by them as they gathered by thousands and tens of thousands on the day of your arrival, spoken again yesterday by the multitude that like a steat torrent flowed through the streets of this city, spoken in the holiday vestments with which our metropolis has clothed itself, spoken in every grasp of the hund, in the smile of every fade, in the cheer that has rent the air wherever you have gone-spoken in the intertional time of the stars and stripes with the brosses of St. George and St. Andrew; and this we trust has satisfied you that, however your predecessors are averaged among us, you are in except from our attempted the greetings of the commonwealth of unnecessary, therefore, it is constituted a privilege to say to you, and Denbigh, and to you, soldiers of the Honourable Artillery Company of sondon, welcome to Massachusetts, welcome to her hospitality, welcome to her nomes and to her firefides.

You bring with you the sabre and the man but there is no threat in them; eather are they the symbols of that military repirit that has made possible England's greatness and America's future; and while we all look forward to the day when "the war drum shall throb no longer and all the battle flags be furled in the parliament of man and the federation of the world," yet we would not purchase the dawn of such a day at the sacrifice of that spirit that from the beginning of the tribes of men has been troductive of traits of courage and mandiness executing to human character.

Ave, we know further that the dawn of such a day can never come except the would-be wrongdoor among men and battons realizes that there is head to eath of spirit that the dawn of such a day can never come except the would-be wrongdoor among men and the calm of speace that same force, this spirit that the light to average the wingsteadons of the despoiler.

For our countries the scores that have need witnessed on the shores of New Mays at the state of days have a con our countries the scenes that have been witnessed on the shores of New England these last few days have a be-dilar interest. Formerly parts of one lattice, now separated, we are witnesses of the depth of interest that the one has in the wolfare of the other. When we were but a child, we quarrelled with ou oftener than with any other people, or the exercise developed strength in annihilation; not because the one is afraid and the other dare not, for the British lion and the American eagle have never blinked an eye when facing each other—but because hands have clasped across the seas and hearts have joined, and the ties of blood and the instincts derived from the common origin compel us to march all one way-for the liberty of the individual, the overthrow of the oppressor, the uplifting of the downtrodden, and the advancement of the Christian civilization throughout the world.

As Col. Darling arose to propose the next toast, it seemed as if the great crowd could not sufficiently vent their enthusiasm in cheers, yells, handclapping and pounding of tables. The toast was: "The Honourable Artillery Company of London—May we never meet them but in peace; never engage them but in hospitality; never part from them but in peace; never engage them but in hospitality; never part from them but in love."

"Before introducing the distinguished commander of this illustrious body." said Col. Hedges. "I wish to say that on our visit to London in 1896 it was due to his untring endurance and work that we had such a beautiful time. Now, I want to introduce Lord Denbigh, colonel commanding the Honourable Artillery Company. I want you to greet him with three cheers. Now all up."

LORD DENBIGH'S SPEECH.

The Distinguished Englishman Pays a Felicitous Compliment to His . Hosts and to Boston.

There was no need to call for cheers-

There was no need to call for cheersbefore he asked, they were being given in great volume and three good American 'rousers' welcomd th English lord as h arose.

"Col. Hedges, your excellency, your honors, ladles and gentlemen, he said." At the hour of 3 A. M. this morning, just as I had finished a four-hour conversation with your indefatigable chairman on the subject of the arrangements for next week, I asked him if he could tell me how many weeks we had been in Boston. Col. Hedges assured me on hisword of honor that we had only landed on Friday,

"This morning, when I was engaged in doing my 24th quick change of uniform since my arrival, I observed to the valet who wus assisting me that I had never done so much dressing up in all my life, and his reoly was; "Well, I lave assisted a great many gentlemen to dress, but the way you, side out of your clothes just takes my eye."

"I mention this little instance in order to try and convey to you some small sense of the abject state of bewilderment in which I find myself—bewilderment which makes it extremely difficult for me to make up my mind as to where I ought to begin.

"The other day—I forget how long age—oh, it was only on Saturday—on Saturday—on Saturday we visited Providence, that great manufacturing city, which turned out and gave us a most magnificent welcome. We were afterward introduced to what I suppose Col. Hedges for the meagre terms of what he had been plosed to call the 'programme of events' which he had forwarded to us in England, and how he had condensed the words, 'a visit to Providence and a clambake.'

N. I am surprised at Col. Hedges. I'm with the had orderned col. Strong proceedings in the words, 'a visit to Providence and a clambake.'

N. I am surprised at Col. Hedges. I'm with the had orderned coll in the programme of events' which he had forwarded to us in England, and how he had condensed the words, 'a visit to Providence and a clambake.'

words, 'a visit to Providence and a clambake.'

Now, I am surprised at Col. Hedges, He is a dr against clitizen of this first country which possesses many remark be and interesting attributes, and one of the most remarkable of these is its great press, the representatives of which I see before me, and to whom I may be founder in the name of our country of great press, the representatives of which I see before me, and to whom I know that I am only paying a compilment when I say that one of the distinguishing characteristics of that press is its usefulness and its graphic power of description, both of things that do happen and of those that might happen. ("Denbish, you're all right," cried some one.)

"Denbigh, you're all right," cried some one.)
"Well, ladies and sentlemen, I don't profes sto be what is known professionally as a descriptive reporter. I should confess to being vanquished before I hegan when considering the education which Coi. Hedges has had in this country.

siness siness "I say that our absolute unprepared-ess for all that we have gone through the real cause of my abject hewilder-tent. Now, gostlemen, we arrived, as have been informed, on Friday last ment in another light, as a monument to brave men and that only. (Great applause.)

"Well, we stepped into a somewhat lonely and desolate dock and we were presently, after receiving the hearty greetings of our friends, in a large shed which was as silent as the tomb. We had been told that a hearty welcome awaited us, but presently we went outside and began our marach. We were not surprised outside to find our friends, or, rather, I should say, our Ancient offspring, because we had been told they were there. We then began to realize what was in store for us.

"We found union jacks hanging at all of the windows, and we were told in strict confidence that there would have been 10 times as many union jacks only the supply had run out.

"We went out and the crowds grew larger and more enthusiastic, and we began to feel rather proud and as if after all were were somebody in particular. ew found ourselves going between lines of your well drilled and well trained militla. We had pleasure in saluting their colors and I suppose it is the first time in history that a British force, carrying the British colors and wearing the British uniform, had marched past and saulted the stars and stripes.

"We went on at length and found ourselves amidst more enthuslastic scenes and since that time it has been one series of enthusiastic greetings and kindnesses to us, whether we appeared in the streets as a body or whether we went about merely as private individand since that time it has been one series of enthuslastic greetings and kindnesses to us, whether we appeared in the streets as a body or whether we went about merely as private individuals.

"We had that great reception at Providence. We had that great sight in the streets yesterday, when, I am told, the crowd was larger than has ever been scen before in the streets of Boston. We had all the militia and your local corps turning out to do us honor and today we have had an interesting parade and an equally enthusiastic reception on the occasion when we were proud to go down to the headquarters at Faneuil Hall and pay military compliments to the colors of our friends.

"Now matters have culminated in the gorgeous scene which I see before measene such as certainly I have never observed, and I doubt if many of your ladies and gentlemen present have, either. I don't know whether this reflects the more credit on the generosity of those who provided it, on the organizing skill of those who managed it, on the culmary skill of those who have cooked it or the decorative skill of those who provided this heautiful scene. I have also to thank you for these beautiful souviners which you have given us and which we shall take away with us and look upon as family heirlooms.

"It would be affectation on my part to deny that the welcome has come from far beyond the ranks of our royal hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company. It would be at the same time intolerably, conceited on my part and on the part of us all, as members of this corps, to suppose for one moment that his welcome was meant for such ordinary and humdrum individuals as a trifling thing. Bunker Hill has altready been disposed of by that Unian at the water and hot. You thought it ought to be made in salt water, and cold. That was a trifling thing. Bunker Hill has altready been disposed of by that Unian at the were made to us the news that a little band of our friends, the Ancients, were going to visit London and all of us said that we bore our friends acr

We have each of us, perhaps, got advanages which the other has not. Why cannot we, speaking the same language, and coming from the same stock, just two negatives make a positive, why cannot we turn two envies into one mutual admiration, and why cannot we do something to bring about a whole-harted friendship between these two nations? That is practically where we have arrived at the present moment, or at least where we seem to be getting. "Tomorrow, unfortunately, because our time is limited, we have to give a temporary farewell to kind and generous Boston, and we are going to some of your other great cities, where, we are informed—but I am not going to be prophetic—that we shall be as well received as we have been in Boston, and if so, then we can say that the feeling which I have referred to is not confined to the commonwealth of Massachusetts. (Applause.)

(Applause.)

"We are going to have the honor of being received by your President (Applause) and the British colors will be dipped to the President in salute. (Ap-

"I have nothing more to say except that we are proud to have been here. All of us are proud, and we shall be ten times more proud if the friendship between the two countries which now seems to be showing itself should be symbolized by the picture which closes your menu and which is labelled 'Forever.'

"Now, members of the H. A. C., fire for the Ancients. Present!" and the visiting Londoners let out a volley of cheers which will be remembered for many a day, led in person by their colonel, the Earl of Denbigh.

ACTORS SEND GREETING.

Telegram from Representatives of Theatrical Profession of Both Countries Tendering Best Wishes.

Before the next toast was offered, Col. Hedges read the following telegram: "Representatives of the theatrical profession of both countries extend best wishes to the Honourable Artillery Company of London, with the hope that pany of London, with the hope that they may enjoy the hospitality extended here as we have enjoyed that extended to us in both countries.

"WILLIAM H. CRANE,
"JOHN DREW,
"CHARLES HAWTREY,
"NAT GOODWIN,
"CHARLES WARNER,
"KYRLE BELLEW."

SPEECH OF MAYOR COLLINS.

His Honor Declares Welcome of the City Is but the Echo of That Extended by the Governor.

Mayor Collins said: Col. Hedges, my Lord Denbigh, your excellency, ladies and gentlemen: I tender to you my heartlest welcome, but the first thing I do wish to refer to is the republican simplicity of this occasion.

My first salutation is to the ladles.

simplicity of this occasion.

My first salutation is to the ladies.

Col. Hedges, I rise in response to your summons as a pleasure. But, my Lord Denbigh and the Artillery Company, whatever I might have been able to say in welcome to you has already been anticipated by the Governor of the commonwealth.

The welcome of Boston does not need to be expressed by my lips or by any other official. From the time you landed until now the welcome has been everywhere official. From the time you landed until now the welcome has been everywhere official. From the time you landed until now the welcome has been everywhere official. From the time you and another sort of welcome and my lord, the welcomy of you might have had another sort of welcome. And my lord, the welcome is such that you will need, to use the word of our military President, to lead a strenuous life. (Laughter and applause.)

If you are to be under the guidance of this body of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston you will find that they are men with splendid constitutions, (Laughter.)

But, as perhaps you in London, I wish you can hold your own. You will shak you can hold your own. You will the you can hold your own. You will meet again and you will return to old England with the impression that who knew your own. You will neet again and you will return the back after a brief glimpse of a reason of this great country and we shall of this great country and we shall of this great country and we have a friendly sentiment to all one and for peace on earth.

We also you godspeed and shall take great pleasure in wishing you godspeed to your homes and all within your lands. (Loud applause.)

SENATOR HOAR IN HAPPY VEIN

Speaking to "Old Mother England," He Tells His Auditors Some History, Especially Concerning Bunker Hill.

continent is still one of the best. It sums up in two words everything needed to be said on this occasion: Welcome, Englishmen!

Finglishmen!

Finglishmen!

We are public made up of many races. We are made up of about the same races, in about the same proportions, that the English were made of in the time of Queen Elizabeth and King James, then the Pilgrims came over and of great settled Boston.

Tel English were made of in the time of Queen Elizabeth and King James, then the Pilgrims came over whatever may happen, we have no heartler welcome, no warmer pressure of the hand, than for her.

It is quite natural that a military organization should be the chosen envoy to promote good feliowship between these two clies. Our great soldiers, and you promote good feliowship between these two clies. Our great soldiers, and you may an addition of the common of peace. Our great soldiers — Washington and Scott and Taylor and Grant and Sherman and Miles, have been men of peace. Our great soldiers — which you may as well make now.

When Lord Castlerength, after Waterlioo, warnet the other than the common of you. When Lord Castlerength, after Waterlioo, warnet prese to take bommon of you may as well make now.

When Lord Castlerength, after Waterlioo, warnet the other promotes the heart of an American, certainly of a Massachusetts man or a Boston man, more than a hoor or kindness from the near the promote of Massachusetts man or a Boston man, more than a hoor or kindness from the promote of a fellowship of the promote of Massachusetts and the promote of Massachusetts Bay. The sculpture, I suppose, is not of the first excellence among the famous works of art to be for think cannot be found anywhere else in sculpture, the Genius of the Province of Massachusetts Bay the suppose of the promote of Massachusetts Bay the suppose of the promote of Massachusetts Bay had the Genius of Massachusetts Bay the suppose of the promote of Massachusetts Bay had the promote of Massachusetts B

Saxon and Norman and Dane are we.

But all of us Danes in our welcome of thee.

Saxon and Norman and Celt and Swedc and Frenchman and Englishman and Scotsman are we, but we are all Englishmen tonight.

We owe great debts to each of the other great nations of Europe. But surely there can be no greater debt, no greater benefit conferred on one people by another than law, liberty, language, literature. All these we owe to England.

literature. Air these land.
We have had our differences and, unhappily, our wars. We have been restless unier each other's criticism. But we have sought, if we could, to find the justification of our wars in English principles, and on English authority.

who severely criticised their ow courtry for the same faults.

The leaders of our revolutionary war, so far as the debate was concerned, were Englisamen—or than and bury and Fox the farmer of the state of the farmer of the far

"The love of friends, without a single foe, Unequalited lot below."

"The love of friends, without a single loss."

I was his guest shortly before I left Washington in the latter part of last April. I had hoped, with good right, April. I had hoped, with good right, that our very cordial acquaintance would ripen into a pleasant and tasting friendship.

Amount the Illings in which Englishmen and Americans 10 in a more in pride is the battle of Bunlow if a lide not thank either you of we well. We to whise out that memory it alone of the bast wint far memory it alone of the bast wint far memory it alone of the bast wint far est extra of Englishment in the bast wint has a far in the star of Lander Lander with the star with the star of Lothesday and the est extra of Lothesday and the star of Lothesday in the star of Lothesday in the star of Lothesday in the star of the star of Lothesday in the star of the st ma. A. the last merry. H. n. on the complete of all suppose, last 1s a met the half only to draw the strings, and we were bagged.

There was never an example of blurdering generalship worse that the officer who led aur detailment that the officer who led aur detailment that the officer who led aur detailment the officer hand listed of dealing he advantage and easily baseds. Some earthworks. His men charged with a magnificent and depend out to be the steepest and most difficult poor the steepest and most difficult poor the steepest and most difficult poor the steepest and with the steepest and with any or proficent English plur and the steepest and with a magnificent English plur and the steepest and with the start of the steepest and with the start of the steepest and with the start of the en to re that comes from. Col. Helin I saws at came from the Rattle of invites Hill in America. The americans for intrenched in a very strong posien. M st of them were backwoodsman rel about the best marksmen in—the logal. To reach the American lines the int.-h hal to march up the open slopes.

The line that the sweeping fire of imm.-hal to march up the open slopes.
The old Sith, or Connaught Rangers, vero in the first line of attack, with a actual no royal marines hebind them to the second line, as their support.
The Rangers suffered terribly. Half he recament were killed, and their amnunition ran out. It was time to reieve them, andsthe general rode up and irdered them to be down, in the usual narner of relieving under fire. The exusied men would form four deep and le lown, leaving a space; and the reliving line would form four deep and le lown, leaving a space; and the reliving line would form four deep also und advance and hass between the blank files. So the word was passed long the shattered line: "Lie down, sith, and let the martnes pass to the rotter from the marines pass to the rotter fand captured the redoubt. For his service they were awarded a laurel caf to be worn on their buttons and raps "ol. Holland added: "I wore it ross if for 26 years."

So, my friends, while we have been ghting flunker Hill over again, some f you, over there. I do not wonder hat you ware the come over and see he spot.
Our English friends may be sure of have no Lawrence or Reynolds to rve the features of high-born beau-Rut at least health paints here with roses the cheek of the factory girl. ie music of Beethoven or Handel may there rise and swell till it fills the me which Angelo or Wren builded. I we have the music of children's in the well-paid workmen's ome.

We hope you may feel at home while who hope you may feel at home while when you go back to old hother England, tell her her boys are contented and happy and growing. Give her our best love. Tell her we think at her with nothing but friendliness and good will. We have no sore feeling left, evan for the spankings she used to give list. If she did not spare the rad, she did not spail the child. We moutred with you for the loss of it gravious Queen, alike the type of gentlest womanhood and the most illustrious sovereign in history. We look with you with confident anticipation and desire for a long and happy reign for or successor.

WORDS OF EX-GOV. LONG.

Responding for Honorary Members He Refers Chiefly to King Edward VII.

The response to the toast "Our Honorary Members," by ex-Gov. Long, was Drefaced by the remark of Coi. Hedges if the ware but two honorary members in the comp by when he was made the comp by when he was made in the comp and Albert, he was a first the comp and the comp an recently surprised our senior senator.

And how grandly the line terminates in that exquisitely gracious, pureminded Queen, not merely queen, but, thank God, wife and mother, whose name is sounded in praise by the American people as well as of her own.

I am glad to see King Edward making these visits to other countries, and my one houe is that he will some day extend this visit to fis. What a royal welcome would we give him! I remember his visit in 1859.

I rejolee in the tributes that have been paid to the mother land. Who can pay them so graciously as our senior senator? We do not forget that one of the causes of our independence was one which we sometimes fail to emphasize. We owe our independence as much to England as to any other nation—to the men of England, Camden, Fox, Pitt, Barry and the rest, who on the floor pleaded our cause.

Nor do we forget that we owe much to the mother of the present King and to Prince Albert for standing by us during the war of the rebellion. Let us not forget that when the recent war with Spain was on, the one power which was in sympathy with us was England. (Cries of "Good! Good!") And in those fateful days at Manlia, when Dewey was meeting the unfriendly associations of other nations, the flag of England (Applause.)

I join with you therefore as an honorary member, in extending a cordial welbrothers, brothers in all that makes for I not Eay—aye, it is written—brothers in dealny.

RESPONSE FOR CANADA.

Col. Hibbard Speaks in Place of Sir Frederick W. Borden, Minister of Militia.

The toast, "Our Canadian Neighbors," was to be responded to by Sir Frederick W. Borden, minister of militia and defonce of Canada, but he was unavoldable detained at his home, and Col. F. briefly, referring pleasantly to the ladies and giving many expressions of good Ancients.

SPEAKS FOR HARVARD.

Prof. F. C. de Sumichrast Responds to a Toast---Deprecates Alleged Inacouracies in School Histories.

Prof. F. C. Sumichrast made the response to the toast, Harvard University." He said

The keynote of this meeting of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Combany of Boston and the Honourable Artillery: Combany of London is "brotherhoot" company of London is "brotherhoot" not military brotherhood alone, Anglo-Saxon nations. This is evidenced by the spontaneity, the warmth, the cordiality of the welcome which has been given my fellow-countrymen by the federal government, whose guns thundered out a salute as the Mayflower steamed up the harbor last week, monwealth of Massachusetts, by the head of the great city of Boston, and by the multitudes which crowd the streats whenever the British regiment Now, a welcome is moken on behalf

Now, a welcome is spoken on behalf no less warm than the other welcomes which have preceded it. Yet it may well occur to many to ask what part the university has in this event which will pars into history, and wherefore it is is simple. Not only were the foundations of the hoble institution whose fame has gone into all lands and the estatlishment of the Ancient and Honorade Artillery Company of Boston practically synchronous, but among the mnumerable ties which bind the lined States and Great Britain together, some of the strongest are to be found in the history of Harvard. For Harvard is, indeed, a lasting monument to English interest in America, and its name and the name of the city in Englishman and of an English City.

Recognizing then, as we so willings do, that we are bound by community of interests, of purpose, of high idais; rejoicing as we do in your triemphs won, applauding your efforts and taking pleasure in the many proofs you give of that sturdiness of character dear to the true Anglo-Saxon; secure ourselves in the power, position and influence we have conquered by centuries of perseverance, we cannot but help feeling suprise when unmistable proofs of hostillity manifest themselves in logislative halls, in the press or in conversation and influencourse.

The pastime of twisting the lion's tail has long been a favorite one on this side, and has been the delight of demagogues and irresponsible journalists. Yet it has not even the excuse of pleasing you and not hurting us; it is an offensive and lowering pursuit, which detracts from the one who practises it, while not raising the opinion of the object of it for those who indulge in it.

The average school history is partisan and inaccurate, giving a colored view of the differences which led to the Declaration of Independence and that war which was to make the United States free forever from any foreign domination. But these school histories do not lay stress on the fact—indeed, they do not refer to it—that the Britain of the 19th century, the Britain of Victoria and of Salisbury, is not the England that was sm. directed by George III.

Meetings such as this, for which we are so greatly indebted to the Boston commany, undountedly do much to promote a better understanding, and I can only hone that the memories of this visit, memories so dear to us Britons, will affect the minds of Americans as they affect ours and tend to draw us closer yet to one another. When it has been given to an Englishman to see the null pick from the next not deliver the rought over to deliver the Pourth of Liuly oration.

The other cause to which I have alluded, the hostility of a portion of the Very first (P. J.)

The Boston newspapers have become illustrated dailies since the arrival of the Honourable Artillery Company of London.

vostare Frein Cdl. Oct. 6, 19.00.

MAJ.-GEN. W. A. BANCROFT.

"The Volunteer Militia," Citizens Always, Soldiers When Needed, the Theme of His Address.

Maj.-Gen. William A. Bancroft, M. V. M. (retired), rose in answer to the toast "The Volunteer Militia." He said: The militia, both of this commonwealth and of the country, will feel much pleased, I am sure, to know that it has been named upon an occasion of so much distinction, and indeed it is highly appropriate that this institution of government should have formal attention challent should have formal extention at this extraordinary festivity; for nearly 400 years ago, this institution mous corpus, and, transplanted to another the company, and, transplanted to another the company and, transplanted to another company for ther a hundred years later. Pany first clist us that the London comition company with the terror and the company will find the flowers of the company will find the flowers of the gardens of America as a find that company will find the flowers of the gardens of America as a find that company will find the flowers of the gardens of America as a find the company will find the flowers of the gardens of America as a find the company will find the flowers of the London garden, and we have the company will find the flowers of the London gardens of the London company had the guests through the streets of this town. I am equally sure that the marching of the Boston company and its guests through the streets of this town. I am equally sure that the marching of the Boston company of whom a certain commander in chief swhaft the wery smart. I believe that it say this of your disay at home, and the marching of the Boston company of whom a certain commander-in-chief swhaft the ward in the london company of the london gardens of the Boston company of whom a certain commander-in-chief swhaft the marching of the Boston company of whom a certain commander-in-chief swhaft the marching of the Boston company of whom a certain commander-in-chief swhaft the marching of the Boston company of whom a certain commander-in-chief swhaft the marching of the Boston company of whom a certain commander-in-chief swhaft the marching of the Boston company of whom a certain commander-in-chief swhaft the profession of arms. In fact, there is much difference between them in the profession of arms. In fact, there is much difference between the profession of a solder, while was in 1765. He says:

T

branches of administration. He has no jealousy, either, of the professional soldier. He admires his attainments, and when opportunity puts him upon an equal footing he emulates his accomplishment. Time was, it may be, when the poet Dryden, in satirical mood, might have said with some truth:

And raw in fields, the rude militia swarms;
Mouths without hands; maintained at vast expense;
in peace a charge, in war a weak defence;
Stout, once a month they march, a blustering band,
And ever, but in times of need, at hand.
But I am very sure, sir, that in neither country could this now be justly said of the militia, and I should wish to include broadly by this term, my lord, not only technically your militia, but also your volunteers and yeomanry, and in this country the national guard, which is on precisely the same footing as the militia, although called by another name. They stand for order as against disorder; they stand for claw as against anarchy; they stand for civilization as against barbarism; they stand for peace as against war.

May I couple, sir, the citizen soldier of the empire and the citizen soldier of the republic, one in language, one in civilization, one in spirit? Together may they uphold the principles of the great English-speaking peoples

"Fill the war drum throbs no longer and the battle flags are furled in the Parliament of men, the Federation of the world."

Citizens always; soldiers when needed.

the world."

Citizens always; soldiers when needed.

Duty alone determines. Zealous, devoted! Loving country! Loving liberty under lew! Such a soldier I make bold to say had you in Arthur. Duke of Wellington; such a soldier had we in Washington. May their

Washington. May their "Great example stand
Colossal, seen of every land,
And keep the soldier firm, the statesman pure,
Till in all lands and thro' all human story
The path of duty be the way to glory."

THE REV. W. H. RIDER.

Invokes Blessing on Both Countries. and Then Londoners' Cheers End the Banquet.

The closing address was by the Rev. William H. Rider, at 12:30 A. M. He said: "Out of all this glad evening, this day which no one of us will forget, may we not rise, one and all, and invoke the favor of our God upon those who are our neighbors and are close to us; upon the prosperity of England, the wealth of our own republic; let us rise, and may the father's blessing descend upon us, each and every one."

With another round of rapid-firing cheers from Lord Denbigh's company, the great banquet to the visiting Honourble Artillery Company of London, England, was brought to a close. day which no one of us will forget, may

GUESTS AT THE HEAD TABLE.

Col. Hedges Flanked on the Immediate Right by Col. Denbigh and on the Left by Gov. Bates.

The guests at the head table were: 80-Gen. N. A. M. Dudley. 28-Gen. Edmund Rice.

28—Gen. Edmund Rice.
26—Maj. F. Farrington, H. A. C.
24—Rear Admiral Mortimer L. Johnson.
22—Maj. P. W. Legatt, H. A. C.
20—Gen. George M. Cole, adjutant-general of Connecticut.
18—The Hon. A. A. Chamberlin, Governor of Connecticut.
16—George A. Marden, sub-treasurer.
14—Maj. Munday, H. A. C.
12—Gen. William A. Bancroft.
10—Gen. Adna R. Chaffee, U. S. A.
8—Lieut.-Col. Stohwasser, H. A. C.
6—The Hon. George F. Hoar,
4—The Hon. George F. Hoar,
4—The Hon. George H. Lyman, collector of port.
2—Col. Denbigh, H. A. C.
1—Col. Sidney M. Hedges, A. & H. A. C.
15—Gen. Samuel Dalton

1—Col. Sidney M. Hedges, A. & H. A. C.
3—Gov. John L. Bates,
5—Gen. Samuel Dalton
7—The H n. P. A. Colinis, mayor of Boston.
9—Lieut Gov. Curtis Guild.
11—The Hon. J. Q. A. Brackett.
13—The Hon. J. Q. A. Brackett.
13—The Hon. John D. Long.
15—Maj. C. E. D. Budworth, H. A. C.
17—Capt. C. A. P. Talbut, British consul.
19—The Hon. L. F. C. Garvin, Governor of Rhode Island.
21—George A. Habbard, postmaster.
23—The Hon. N. J. Rich Ider. Governor of New Hampshire.
25—Adit-Gen. Aug. D. Ayling of New Hampshire.
27—Gen. John L. Tiernon.
25 The Rev. William H. Vider.
11—Col. Charles K. Darling.

According to the St. of the city

As the other war games are over, the Honourable Artillerymen of London might be taken to a fintDoster Realed Cet. 6, 1903.

FULL LIST OF GUESTS.

Names of Ancients and Their London Visitors Who Gathered About the Banquet Tables.

Following is an alphabetical index of the Ancients and their distinguished guests who were seated at the banquet tables:

Edward W. Abbott.
Frederick L. Abbott.
William V. Abbott.
J. H. Abraham, H. A.
C.
Carl Adams.
Charles C. Adams.
George Adams.
George E. Adams.
Joseph W. Adams.
Samuel G. Adims.
Wilber F. Adams.
Wilber G. Altenborough, H.
Samuel Alloud
Capt. E. E. Allen.
George H. Allen.
W. A. Allen, H. A. C.
G. Austin, H. A. C.
G. Austin, H. A. C.
G. Austin, H. A. C.
B. Allen.
B. H. Attenborough, H.
G. Austin, H. A. C.
G. Austin, H. A. C.
G. Austin, H. A. C.
B. Hon. Horace G.
Allen.
Allen.
A. C.
C. Austin, H. A. C.
G. Allen.
G. Austin, H. A. C.
G. Austin, H. A. C.
G. Austin, H. A. C.
G. Allen.
B. H. Attenborough, H.
G. Austin, H. A. C.
G. Austin, H. A. C.
G. Austin, H. A. C.
B. Allen.
B. H. Attenborough, H.
G. Austin, H. A. C.
G. Austin, H. A. C.
J. T. Austin, H. A. C.
B. Allen.
B. H. Attenborough, H.
G. Austin, H. A. C.
J. T. Austin, H. A. C.
B. Allen.
B. H. Aller, H. A. C.
Austin, H. A. C.
Austin, H. A. C.
Allen.
Austin H. A. C.
Allen.
A. C.
Austin, H. A. C.
Austin, H. A. C.
B. Allen.
A. C.
B. Allen.
A. C.
B. H. Aller, H. A. C.
Austin, H. A. C.
B. H. Aller, H

George F. Babbitt.
Chtries Baison
Thomas M. Babson.
Sil Bacharach.
Hon. N. J. Bacheller.
Paniel B. Badger.
col. E. W. M. Balley.
Jonn C. Baird.
Caaries T. Baker.
Granies H. Barrett
Col. Ricard T. Barrett
Col. Ricard T. Barrett
Saw. Brackett
Col. Ricard T. Barrett
Col. Ricar

William A. Batty.

Dayle, Den. cour, H. A. C. C. Dracesti, H. A. C.
Dracesti, H. A. C.
Pent, is Direct.
Dracestic Circle of Control of Control
N. Duckestics, Control
N. A. Duckestics, Control
N. A. M. Duddey,
D. Duncan, H. A. C.
A. G. Durzin,
D. Bosav,
S. M. Dealam
D. Bosav,
S. M. Dealam
D. Bosav,
S. M. Dealam
D. H. A. Datton,
D. H. A. Dyar,
Mater A. Dyar,
S. R. Dyas, H. A. C.
L. C. Dracestics, Durzin,
D. H. A. Dyar,
S. R. Dyas, H. A. C.
L. C. Dracestics, Durzin,
D. Durz William H. Emerson,
John A. Emory,
W. B. Emery,
The Hoa, W. H. H.
Emery,
t apt. Hove England
O. Fregite, H. A. C.
there's Frans
H. E. Evans, H. A. C.
Themas W. Evans,
Fred A. Ewille. F. May C. R. Fitzhenty,
M. C. R. Fitzhenty,
M. C. R. G. R.
Col. Andrew Fitz,
C. Andrew Fitz,
C Sels ston Gdbm. William H. Goddwih.
Willia B. Gaines. Col. W. F. Gordon.
A. S. C. M. H. A. C. J. Gordon-Smith.
B. A. C. H. A. C. J. Gordon-Smith. Ala Bird gard-N. T. Gorham. Js., Alex P. Graham. Cart. G. F. Gratwick. George M. Gray. Hobert S. Gray. Thomas L. Groon, H. J. F. Greenwood, H. C. Gooding, H. A. William P. Groventein, William P. Groventein, M. D. Curris Guild, Ir. Gov. Curris Guild, H. Devight Hill, M. D. Lew C. Hill. Unide W. Hills. George E. Hilton. Capt. Frank F. Eitch-George F. Hills, George F. Hillson, Capl. Frank F. Sitel cock.

The Holl.

The Holl.

The Holl. Hoag.

The Hon. George F. Holl.

Hoag.

The Hon. George F. Holl.

Hoag. The Hop. Edwin R. Halley, William K.

R. Halsey, H. A. G.
Honte, Capt. C. G. Hodges,
Hamilton,
Hamilton,
Hamilton,
Hamilton,
Hamilton,
Honges, U. S. N.
J. F. Hodge,
W. W. Hodges,
How W. Hodges,
Honges, H. A. G.
Honges, H. Honges, H. A. G.
Honges, H. G.
Honges, W Haley, H. A. C. The Hon. Richard W. Wolf Jackson.
T. H. James, H. A. C.
Freelelt, Jagues
H. Jarrett, H. A. C.
Jaynes
Bernard Jenney, Jr.
David L. Jewell.
Maj. A. M. Johnson,
A. W. Johnson, H. A. C.
E. C. Johnson, H. A. C.
Frank M. Johnson,
John F. Johnson,
J. M. John Capt. W. H. Keeley.
J. C. Kendall, H.A.C.
George B. Ketcham.
George W. Kimball.
Otls Kimball.
Henry L. Kincaide.
A. King, H. A. C.
D. B. Kingsburg.
Charles W. Knapp. L. Lieer, Jr., H. A. C. burg, H. A. C. Henry H. Litchfield.

Benj. F. Lamb.
Charles A. Lamson.
Danlet H. Lone.
William B. Lantz.
A. L. Lattrop.
Samuel C. Lawrence,
I. B. Lawton.
Arthur E. Leach.
Chas. W. Leatherbee.
Frank W. Lee.
Grank W. Lee.
Grank W. Lee.
Whilliam H. Lord.
Mnj. P. W. Legatt, H. Arthur T. Lovell.
A. C.
Charles E. Leggs.
Charles A Lettriers. A. C. Charles B. Leggst. A. C. Lovel. Capt. A: C. Love, H. Charles A. Leighton, Charles Leighton, Capt. William C. Lovel. The Hon. Arthur H. Lovel. George A Levi. Lovel. The Hon. Francis C. Lovel. D. M. Lewis, H. A. C. George F. Lowell. C. W. Lare. Winslow B. Lucus, W. L. Leggar P. Lewis, William C. Lewis, W. Carl Lewis, W. Carl Lewis, W. Carl Lewis, Thomas G. Libby, M. Capt. Walter M. Lind-Jerome E. Lyneb, Albert W. Lyons, M. M. M. Lind-Jerome E. Lyneb, Albert W. Lyons, M. M. M. M. Land, M. M. L. Lynn, M. Capt. Walter M. Lind-Jerome E. Lyneb, Albert W. Lyons, M. M. M. Land, M. L. Lynn, M. M William II. Mitchell.

1. M. Waste ld

2. M. Marster, edge M. Marster, e F. Mountage Viver Viver Large A. Moreovaca II. N. Niccolson, II. S. at I. Viell. Al. C. Nickerson, II. S. at I. Viell. Al. C. Nickerson, W. J. W. Nodder, M. W. J. W. Nodder, M. W. J. W. Nodder, M. A. C. Art will exceed A. C. A. C. Art will van a A. J. Norris, H. A. C. Nichols.

E. M. C. C. A. C. A. C. A. C. A. C. Nichols.

E. Liout, John D. Nichols. Col. William H. Oakes, William H. Gimsfed, Henry P. Oakman, Thoraca, C. P. P. Olney, Thoraca, C. P. P. Olney, Thoraca, C. W. Olley, M. L. C. Conclust William Osward, C. W. Ollyer, M. A. C. Coo D. C. Olley, D. C. C. W. Ollyer, M. A. C. Coo D. C. Olley, D. C. Oo The Hon, James Phil-

Maj. George F. Quimby. William J. Quinnell. George J. Quinsler. Col. Arnold A. Rand, J. C. Randlett, R. Rand, J. C. Randlett, Robertson, J. Rands, J. B. Richardson, J. R. Richardson, C. P. Richardson, C. P. Richardson, Krank B. Riddell, The Rev. William H. Col. Harry E. Russell, Chalefo A. Russell, C. Randson, J. Randson, R. Randson James A. Roalty. Charles M. Robbins. C. E. Roberts. H.A.C. The Rev. Oliver A. Roberts. R Frost Smith H. A. C.
Prof. Justin H. Smith.
Edward E. Snow.
Alfred Sorensen.
George W. Spaulding.
R. Speller, H. A. C.
F. J. Spencer, H. A. C.
F. L. Spielman, H. William H. Stacy. Hugh L. Stalker, Mal. C. E. Green W. A. Sterling, H.

George A. Shackford,
W. A. Shartruck,
Abraham Shaw,
Joseph C. Shepherd,
John Stopard,
L. H. Shepard,
Thomas Slerwin,
H. T. Sherwood,
H. C. G. Stewart, H. A.

C. C. Stewart, H. A.

C. Stewart, H. A.

C. C. Stewart, H. A.

C. Stewart, H. A. Thomas Sherwood, H. C. G. S. Stewart, H. A. C. William G. Shillaber, Capt. Jumes A. Shipbon, Capt. Jumes A. Shipbon, Capt. Shuran. Capt. Shuran. Capt. Shuran. Capt. Thomas T. Stokes. Fanks P. S Thomas Talbot.

Carl. C. A. P. Talbot.
C. F. Taylor, H. A. C.
G. F. Taylor, H. A. C.
Gen. S. Taylor.
Gen. Carl. T. P. Tenple.
C. C. Thayer.
William H. Thomas.
Charles G. Thompson.
George M. Thompson.
George M. Thompson.
George M. Thompson.
T. P. Thompson.
T. P. Thompson, H.
A. C.
Gen. John L. Tlernan.
T. Tillingbart.

Trod W. Tirrell.
Will. B. Torrell.
Will. B. Torrell.
Will. B. Torrell.
Will. B. Torrell.
Will. G. Tirenb.
George M. Thompson.
Tracy H. Tucker.
Thomas J. Turner.
Thomas J. Turner.
Thomas J. Tutte.
The Market M. Tillingbart.
William Tyner. A. C. den. John L. Tiernau. J. J. Tillinghast. G. H. A. Wade, H. A. C. Henry F. Wade, Horace W. Wadleigh, E. B. Wadsworth, C. F. G. Wagstan, H. A. C. Col. G. R. Wallace, Col. Heary Walker, P. L. Waiher, Hustavis F. Waller, Ereman A. Walker, T. G. Wailer, T. G. Waller, W. F. Walters, W. Walters, Joseph S. Williams, Joseph S. Williams, H. A. C. I. Ward, John G. Warner,
L. Warren, H.A.C.
Jiemon B. Warren,
B. Waterbury,
I. S. Waterman,
Jan R. Waterman,
J. Watts,
J. C. L.

B. Wentworth.
B. Wentworth.
A. C. Weston, H. A. C.
A. C. Weston, H. A. C.
A. C. Wheaton,
C. Wheaton,
C. Wheaton,
C. Wheaton,
C. Wheaton,
C. White,
George A. White,
George D. White,

A. Wolfson.
Beverly R. Wood.
J. C. Wood, H. A. C.
William B. Wood.
H. C. Woodward.
John H. Woodman.
Lleut.-Col. Charles B.
Woodman.
Charles A. Woolley.
James Woolley.
James Woolley.
L. Wright. H. A. C.
Franklin A. Wyman.
George A. Wyman.

Bostone Feebed! Oct. 6, 1903.

THE COMMITTEES.

Men Upon Whom Fell the Duties Pertaining to the Honourables' Banquet.

The committees upon whom devolved the duties pertaining to the banquet

Executive—Col. Sidney M. Hedges, chairman; Sergt. E. F. Lewis, Col. J. P. Bradley, Lieut.—Col. A. M. Ferris, the Hon. J. D. Long, J. O. Burdett. Col. M. H. Oakes, A. Shuman, Capt. A. A. Folsom, Capt. E. E. Alien, G. P. Floid, G. H. Leonard, Lleut. J. D. Nichols.
Finance—A. Shuman, chairman; Capt. E. E. Allen, Caleb Chase, G. H. Morrill, Jr., Capt. J. Fottler, Capt. S. Hichborn, Sergt. J. Edgar, Lieut.—Col. A. M. Ferris, Hotels and banguets—Sergt. Fred M.

Larn, Sergt. J. Edgar, Lieut.-Col. A.
M. Ferris.
Hotels and banquets—Sergt. Fred M.
Purmort, chairman; G. L. Stevens,
Lieut. J. M. Usher, F. E. Atteaux, W.
S. Brikgs, Sergt. A. Fuller, Sergt. W.
Oswald, D. P. Cheeney, Lieut.-Col. E.
W. M. Bailey, A. B. Seeley, Maj. H. G.
Jordan, Gen. F. W. Wellington.
Press and printing—Capt. J. Stearns
Cushing, chairman; Capt. T. J. Olys,
Col. H. E. Smith, Fred McQuesten,
Lieut, A. A. Gleason, Capt. E. P.
Cramm, Col. C. K. Darling, Capt. E. R.
Frost, A. T. Lovell, Maj. C. G. Davis,
Lleut. F. C. Brownell.
Transportation—Capt. Albert A. Folsom, chairman; Lieut, E. Grover, Capt.
E. Huckins, Sergt. F. J. Hutchinson,
Lieut. J. E. Cotter; Capt. J. H. Brown,
Sergt. H. W. Patterson, Col. H. Walker, William Firth, Sergt. J. L. White, Sergt. R. W. Bates.

Bostone Feebled, Oct. 6, 1903.

COUNTESS' DRAWING ROOM.

Splendid Apartment Fitted up for Lady Denkigh at Symphony Hall.

After an informal dinner at the Touraine, Lady Denbigh's party drove to Symphony Hall, where a drawing room of great beauty had been fitted up for her and her guests, but which she did not occupy, as the hour was late and the party passed right that the hall and mere seated by the ushers. After the were seated by the ushers. After the speeches were over the distinguished guest viewed the room from the doorway and said many naturing things of its great heavily and wealth of topestries with which the walls wore hung. Valuable pletures of olden times also added their mural decoration, and statuary, in bronze and marble of exquisite design, rested on the matble columns. The value of the decorations was set at $25.6. The furniture was of old French p. ttern, mahogany frames, with tapestry coverings representing Parisian scenes. The room was carpeted with green brussels, and from the ceiling depended a crystal, crown, held in place with gold tassels and a frame of French gill entwined with smilax. It was the chandelier, and from its thousands of inty gas jets were reflected the prismatel thus of its crystal purity.

A couple of French cabinets of costly curles were set off to advantage by the filekering tapers in the brase sconces that studded the will. Cut flowers in crystal jurdinteres stood about the floor and a vase of Jack roses occupied the central point of a hundsome centre table. The windows were hung with

Providence (96.5.,) Telegrand, Oct. 6, 1903. HONOURABLES LEAVE HUB

Much Heralded Tour of This Country and Canada Now Under Way-Will Be in fall River Late This Afternoon.

Boston, Oct. 6.—The much-heralded tour through this country and the Artillery company of Boston the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Massachusetts having lery company of Massachusetts representative man as after-dimer. specific recompany of London, began today, atter days of entertainment and sight-four days of entertainment and sight-seeing in this section. All officers and members of the London company, about members of the London company, about members of the London company, about members of the London of the Ancients and Honorables is 150 strong. After year terday's strenuous day the members of the large to the two companies were allowed to take a rest during the morning.

The party left the South Terminal iverse table, one of which stretched the large tables, one

THE BANQUET

Fitting Cilmax to Boston's Recep-

· kerjevet CE. Com hore, Oct. 6, 140,2

HONOURABLES BANQUETTED.

Speeches Full of Friendship Between England and America.

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—In a spacious hall, bowered in green, illuminated by myriads of electric lights and with a golden crown shining over all, were barqueted tonight eight score members of queted tonight eight score members of the Honourable Artillery Company of London by their hosts, the Abeter, and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston. Sumptions in every detail, at dwith nearly a dozen of Massachusetts's representative men as after-dinner speakers, the entire affair proved a magnificent climax to the stay of the Londoners in this city.

Over the man floor of Symphony Hall, which was corpeted in real, wermore than 50 round tables, at which the larger portion of the two command were scated. The stage, however, we the feature of the stone. Also the long tables, one of which stretched the the feature of the stene. All is the long tables, one of which stretched the entire width of the stage, while others ranged back of it, there streamed to the high prosenium aich long vireation of alternate English laurel and the electric globes, coming to an apex, where blazed a golden crown, huge in size, but perfect in proportion. It shining gem of the entire decoration. At the rear of the stage was the shield of the Honour, bie Company of London, and facing it on the balcony on the opposite side of the hall was that of the Amient Cempany of Boston, both surrounded by electric jewels, while on either side of the crown above hung in bright figures, "1737-1638," the dates of the charters of the 1633," the dates of the charters of the two organizations.

1638," the dates of the charters of the

As usual, the tables were profus by strewn with smiler, roses and orehid and, in addition, each had in its centre a massive learned wreath, in which glittered small electric globes of 1 m, and yellow. The balcomes, which, in ter the feasting, were crowled with ladies, were also ostooned with Landwreaths, streamers of cle tric lights, and crossed with silver cannon.

Into such a seme of almost real heauty marched the two commons. Not, however, as separate organizations, but side by side, each Americanting an Honourphy. The parameter of the sound file soon found their seats as a numerous tables scattered over the floor, while the stare was through with the gold lace of the officers the more sombre garb of the ranks. the more sombre garb of the part guests.

The speeches all had as a concurrence welding of the large of tedious, and all were suffer in to be interesting. That is floar was the most retoke?

THE HONOURABLES IN CHURCH

Visiting A-tillerymen Go as Guests of British Residents of Boston, Boston, o. 4 "h cance a Sortial's was atsired to an analysis as the line of lery Company of Latina and the the Ancient and a reason of this column and a reason of the column of this column and a reason of the latin and a rea

Boston Herald, Oct. 6, 1903

Snapshots Taken on Harbor Trip of the Honourables By a Staff Photographer of The Boston Herald.

1-Sergt. Tilling, the Tallest Man, and Driver Pizey, the | 8-Lord Denbigh Reads a Letter. Shortest Man. in the H. A. C. Delegation. 2-Lord Denbigh and Adjt. Budworth.

4-Lord Denbigh, Col. Hedges, Col. Darling and Col. Ferris.

5-The Scene Forward on the Main Deck.

Bostore Herald, Oct. 0, 1700

Ancients and Their Hundreds of was decided to penalty except which was necessary for the carry "To the F

as Stannard pleaded guilty and threw | we would have to spend in language himself on the mercy of the court, it selves that part of the French we

We republish a characteristic editoin which our old and esteemed friend, Col. Henry Watterson, replies to certain comments made by The Herald a few days ago on the attitude of this distinguished Kentucky journalist concerning the isthmian canal project. Col. Watterson is a strenuous opponent of the plan of building the canal by the Panama route, and apparently is strongly in favor of having this isthmian waterway constructed along the Nicaragua routeat least, he considers that it is the plain duty of the President to order "the Nicaragua work to begin under the mandatory clause of the Spooner act." Those who read Col. Watterson's comments will, we think, notice that he has little or nothing to say concerning the merits or defects of the isthmus at Panama as a place for canal construction. He speaks of the property of the French company at Panama in exceedingly bitter manner, and refers to the work which that company has done as a delusion, a snare, a scandal and a tragedy, and as being something which we should avoid as a pestilence and famine. But all this has no bearing on the question of whether or not the narrow backbone of our continent can better be pierced for navigation purposes at Nicaragua or Panama.

It thus seems that Col. Watterson's condemnation of the Panama project rests upon his belief that certain individuals or interests are to profit materially by the purchase of the Panama canal property, and possibly through the payment which the United States government may be called upon to chase by the United States government make to the government of the United for millions of dollars of States of Colombia. It may be that it has been the interest of some one—Hutin or Lampre—to push forward the sale of the French Canal Company's property for the ruppess of some one—construction of not $100,000. property for the purpose of securing a iberal commission for so doing. We dare say that when men enter into pegotiations of this kind they neither work for love nor for their health; but we fail to see what bearing this has political campaign in that state upon the intrinsic merits of the project carried on under conditions which itself, or why there is any reason for preductive of the hardest per ana. supposing that the transcontinental ings. That picturesque political railroad representatives would be any less active in opposing a Nicaragua some of the newspaper accurately canal plan than they have been-if Col. Watterson is to be trusted-in thwarting canal plans both at Washington and at Bogota. Further than this, if the schemes of a matter of fact, Mayor dalay personal enrichment are to determine no means, even from a the question of whether our govern- point of view, the black chart ment should or should not enter upon a plan of canal construction at the isthmus, we shall certainly have to throw ranks to the ross seen ... the entire project overboard. We can wealth he shore a she not believe, with his knowledge of ha- a very rich man, has never healtate tional affairs, that Col. Watterson is ignorant of the jobs that were concocted to put money into the pockets fair contribution to the support of Rus of interested individuals through the ernment, and that they frequently ha nstrumentality of the Maritime Canal fited by official favors simply Company of Nicaragua. We doubt as rich men they were in a whether in the history of our national secure these affairs there has been a scheme more Take, for cleverly worked than was this one un-out of our plan of canal construct assuming that this work hall no b performed. This outgo our istumia canal commission estimated to be $40 rial from the Louisville Courier-Journal, 000,000. In other words, we were to pay to the French company for work > money that we should have been compelled to spend in carrying on the work already done the same amount of on our own account Whether or not this canal property with its franchises, could have bee bought shortly before for $6,000,000, we are not prepared to say. We never knew that such an offer was made, though in this respect Col. Watterson may have been better informed. A half-finished canal, whose further construction is in doubt, is of all things in the world a piece of property the most difficult to dispose of that can possibly be imagined. If we should be so foolish as to build a canal at Nicaragua, unquestionably the canal property at Panama would be worth nothing, be cause there is not enough commercia use to bring profit to one ship caual for a number of years to come, to nothing about two waterways. less the engineers of our isthmian con mission are entirely mistaken, we not proposed to pay a cent of m that we should not have been upon to pay out upon our own are my been undertaken, and we are not to pay a single cent for work which we do no mistakes of the French company.

the directors and shareholders of the Ancients and Their Hundreds of Distinguished Guests Rise to the Toast "To the President of the United States" at the Symphony Hall Banquet.

" "River (kelalid) Oct. 6, 1903.

GRAND CLIMAX

Honourabies Entertained at a Sumptuous Banquet in Boston.

SENATOR HOAR'S ADDRESS

Gov. Bates Speaks for State and Mayor Collins for City.

1 or Ton. Oct. 6.-In a spacious hall, t word his good, illumitated by myrmor of he in lights, and with a golds ". ,tev. saring over all, were ben-Q1 faction that eight score members of the Arthurst Attacky on fairy of Letter 1; their hosts, the Amerent and Litteral. A thery company of Bos-tompitous in every detail, and with the same that is a control of the distance of the distance of the same to the stay of the large of the same to the stay of the large.

ther of Symphony

are of electric lights, and crossed

e livan of praise. There was no other response to this teast.
lovernor B.t.e., which ke for the C. in evenlth, w. s. as usual, eloquent as well as witty, as was Mayor Collins, who responded for the city.

"In Earl of Denbigh was then introduced, and was halled with cheers and his remarks, which were full of grattide for the warm reception with which the corps had been received, were loudly appluaded, especially by his own men, who followed it with their unique cheer. United States benator George F. Hoar on responded for "Gld Mother Engud," and the venerable senator unbert such a degree, his speech being full anecdotes, that the entire audience as greatly amused throughout Interpretation of the first to the great loss of Sir Michael when he is the state of the great loss of Sir Michael when he is the state of the great loss of Sir Michael when he is the state of the great loss of Sir Michael when he is the state of the great loss of Sir Michael when he is the state of the great loss of Sir Michael when he is the state of the great loss of Sir Michael when he is the state of the great loss of Sir Michael when he is the state of the state of Probert.

"cannot bet this occasion go by withcannot bet this occasion go by withcannot be this occasion go by withcannot be the great

I both Countries in the death, i)

Cannot ago, of Sir Michael Herbert, his majesty's ambassador at Washington, he said: "It was the ambition of his life that he might promote cordial relations litreen the two countries. No many was ever better fitted for that office.
England could not have chosen a man' was ever better fitted for that office. England could not have chosen a man fitter to send with her message of peace and good will. The literations house which has given English history so many famous statesmen and soldiers and which has given to literature that tweetness of Christian poets, George Herbert, never had a manlier, or a geniler, or a brighter son. Sir Michael Herlich hid won every man's good will in Washington during his brief serivce here.

The love of friends, without a single oe, unequalled lot below."
"I was his guest shortly before I left

Washington, in the latter part of last April. I had hoped, with good right, that our cordial acquaintance would ripen into a pleasant and lasting friend-

continuing he said:

Continuing he said:

"Among the things in which Englishmen and Aericans feel a common pride is the battle of Bunker Hill. I do not think either you or we would like to wine out that memory. It is one of the best examples of Yankee fighting, an increase of the less, examples of English fighting to be four line in the tory. We might, if we had thought of it, have put up a monument to the valor of both sides, like that at Quebec, which bears the names of Wolfe on one side and Montcalm on the other.

It is an instance on both sides of the line is the names of world on the other.

It is an instance on both sides of the line is the name of the other.

It is an instance on both sides of the line is the name of world and eager to fight that ties were so ready and eager to fight that they stem to have lost their heads. a suppose the American general and the British general if the thing had hang ned leas, would have been lucky ji they got off with nothing worse than a on his forces imperfectly provided with ammunition, and with rations not train for 14 hours, across a narrow neck of land, to take possession of Bunker's high.

All Wellion Hove had to do on the raids was to move his ships up they command the isthmus, and the Yankees would have been completely at his mercy. He med rot I support the strongs, and we were bagged. There is was never an example of blundering on of the wrong hill. On the other the English commander stormed ent English pluck, and we held o

. n. you aght over the Battle of quarrels with the men of the 88th, se that some years ago the Rangers had to be removed from Portsmouth, the headquarters of the Royal Marines, to another district. The reason is that they always get into a fight when they meet. If one of the Marines finds a Ranger in a public house or meets him in the street, he calls out. "Lie down, eighty-eighth, and let the Marines passed to the front."

to the front." Then follows a fight.

Neither of the men has the slightest idea where that comes from. Colonel Holland says it came from the battle of Bunker Hill in America. The Americans were entrenched in a very strong position. Most of them were back-woodsmen, and about the best marks-nen in the world. To reach the Ameri-can lines the British had to march up the open slopes, fully exposed to the sweeping fire of American sharpshoot-ers; who, sheltered by their entrenchments, were bound to sweep away their exposed assailants.

The old eighty-eighth, or Connaught Rangers, were in the first line of attack, with a battalion of Royal Marines behind them in the second line as their support. The Rangers suffered terribly. Half the regiment were killed, and their arimunition ran out. It was time to relieve them, and the general rode up and ordered them to lie down in the usual man-ner of relieving under fire. The ex-hausted men would form four deep and lie down, leaving a space; and the re-lieving line would form four deep also and advance and pass between the blank liles. So the word was passed along the shattered line: "Lie down, 83th, and let the marines pass to the front." This was done. The marines suffered fearwas done. The marines suffered fear-rully, but accomplished the relief and captured the redoubt. For this service they were awarded a laurel leaf, to be worn on their buttons and caps. Colonel Holland added: "I wore it myself for 26

So, my friends, while we have been So, my friends, while we have been celebrating it over here, you have been fighting Bunker Hill over again, some of you, over there. I do not wonder that you wanted to come over and see the spot.

Our English friends may be sure of their welcome. They are in the house of their friends, in the dwelling-place of their brethren. We cannot show you wonders like those you have left behind. We have few glories of archimature and of art. We have little anwonders like those you have left behind. We have few glories of architecture and of art. We have little antiquity. We have no palaces or castles or cathedrals or galleries like those to which you are accustomed at home. Yet, possibly, we also may have some ining to exhibit in a modest way of the fruitage of the tree of Engish liberty.

the fruitage of the tree of Engish liberty.

We must yield the palm cheerfully to other nations in art and architecture and music. We have tried to emulate them, if not to excel them, in the things which constitute the strength and happiness of a free people. We have gone without the crchitectural glories of palaces and castles, and cathedrals. We have tried to perfect the architecture of the people's dwellings, and you will find the English Eible and the English Shakespeare upon their shelves. The canvas does not live or breathe for us under the touch of Guido or Raphael.

We have no Lawrence or Reynolds to preserve the features of high-born beauty. But at least health paints here with her roses the cheek of the factory girl. The music of Rechoven or Handel may not here use and swell till it fils the dome which Angeo or Wren builded. But we have the music of children's voices in the well-paid workmen's home.

whene while we here. When you go back to old Mother England, tell her her boys are Mother England, tell her her boys are contented and happy and growing. Give her our hest love. Tell her we think of her with nothing but friendliness and good will. We have no sore feeling left, even for the spankings she used to give us. If she did not spare the rod, she did not spoil the child.

We mourned with you for the loss of your gracious queen, alike the type of gentlest womanhood, and, the most illustrious sovereigns in history. We look with you with confident anticipation and desire for a long and happy reign for her successor.

The response of ex-Governor John D. Long on the subject. "Our Honorary Members," was in his usual vein, full of ant-dotes and vastly entertaining.

of antedotes and vastly entertaining.

General William A, Bancroft responded for the Massachusetts volunteer militia, Professor C: Sumichrast of Harvard for Harvard university, and Rev. William H. Rider of Gloucester, for the "Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston."

Before each guest left the hall, he was presented with a souvenir plate of elaborate design, on which were the arms of England and America, Londno and Boston, and the two companies. General William A. Bancroft respond-

Fall River Herbld, Oct. 6, 1903.

(Photo by Chickering.) MAJOR W. EVANS. Senior Major of the Battalion, London Honourables

. face . Fived . Feela Col.

(Photo by Chickering.) LIEUTENANT-COLONEL, THE EARL OF DENDICH, Commanding the Landon Henourallas.

78, suce & tev Bost, Octs: 6, 1903

HONOURABLES BEGIN A TOUR OF COUNTRY

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—The much her- New York via Fall River, where the alded tour throughout this country and two companies were entertained until Canada of the Ancient and Honorable the departure of the steamer, by the Artillery company of Massachusetts First Heavy Artillery, M. V. M., and having as its guests the Honourable the Massachusetts naval brigade. Artillery company of London, began today, after four days of entertainment and sightseeing in this section. Ail Officers and members of the London company, about 165 in number, started on the trip. The escorting column of the Ancients and Honorables are 150

The members of the home company began to assemble at the armory in Fancuil half at noon. An hour later. escorting their guests, the Ancients marched to the South terminal station By special train, start was made for

Tolerto, (0.,) Blade,

FIELD DAY OF THE HONORABLE ARTILLERY

Boston, Oct. 5.—This was the 266th autumn field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, and with their guests, the Honorable Artillery Company of London, the Boston company spent the day in steambont exeur sion along the north shore. The day's program also included a reception and banquet in Symphony Hall this evening

Dowce Citizen

TWO NOTED COMPANIES.

The Honourable Artillery companof Landon, like the Augent ing Ha orable Arallery company, of Hogoris an extremely old to be of the con-tit was founded early in the sixteen; contary, under Henry VIII., and pos sesses certain, proposes and the ties of its own. The King minmander is the L | | of Desmond. It possible actual military for the cers of rank in the militin to carry a risket to its uniform serves the purpose orary devoration. It helps to the purpose of t the militing of the man to the militing of the Artiflety cong... New York Mail

In one in victio, par cular the Hoable Armiery of Jonal Pard the Low and Honora le Arellery (B r 2 very much atthe form are ongother a blo so,diers and don't do co They was notice united as a cofight, The fighting was done in the illustriou erage 13

20 6 5 0 Ba , 50 2 2 300 23 . Of Horse

AT THE BANQUET

at the Ancients' banquet, Lady Denbigh and hundsome in a slightly decollete in of black tucked chiffon, trimmed with black lace. Around her neck was trug of pearls with a diamond penint Her hair was arranged in a pomof h k velvet. A large bouquet of "I win present I to her, after her . " d appasse.

Pates were a becoming costume 1 led net and white chiffon " simple trimming of Renals-

it. l'e gown was gray mouseline " much shirred and ornamented in embroidery and lace. Her as a delicate blue chiffon with blue A pearl necklace completed

M. 88 Molly Johnson was beautifully for med in a nott, shimmering white libwith fagotting. A white chip hat with black and white plumes and bows of black velvet completed the costume.

diss Collins looked girlish in a white

Mrs. Charles Gibson wore Persian slik. out decollete and trimmed with lace and pink chiffon. Her ornaments were

J. L. Gardner wore a black silk . I and white Renaissance lace waist, purple hat with pompons of black chiffon. Her jewels were magnificent pearls and diamonds.

"ord tringle Argued! Oct. 5, 1903.

Due Credit.

(madeford Journal.)

Palier editors who refer to the Lowell Citigane.

COMMANDER AND OFFICERS OF THE BOSTON ANCIENTS.

The London Ancients have captured Boston, and the air will be lurid with international hospitality for two weeks to come. Nobody knows how much the outing will cost the men who take part in it as hosts and guests, but it would furnish in the aggregate what would be a handsome fortune—or would have been, a few years ago, before "handsome fortunes" were of the sixfigure dimensions. On Monday even-ing the Boston Ancients are to give the ing the Boston Ancients are to give the visiting Ancients a banquet in Symphony hall, and a most gorgeous card of invitation is issued with the national "colours" (as the British put it) in full glory at the top. This is the "Two Hundred and Sixty-sixth Fall Field Day Reception and Banquet," and Boston will do the proud thing in the line of gastronomics, and probably also in post-prandialism. On the 14th the London Honourables will give a retrain banquet at the Somerest; and when you come to invitation cards, the source of the source of inches long and 11% inches wide, and on it is an etching. thehes wide, and on it is an etching the wing the London Ancients on pa-reground. It is a fine piece of work and will be highly prized by those who are fortunate enough to get one. Buston Profes act. 5, 1903.

New York, St. 3.) Telegraph. Oct. 6, 1903.

THE ANCIENTS ARE COMINGI

Fair of the Old Guard Opens in Mad. ison Square Garden.

The Old Guard's fair opened in Madison Square Garden last night in a blaze of glory, color and brass buttons. A conspicuous feature in the decorations, the intertwined colors of the United States and Great Britain, hespoke the arrival from Boston of the Old Guard's English guests, the Honourable Artillery of London,

The Honourables, 250 strong, accompanied by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston, will be met at 3 o'clock to-morrow afternoon at the foot of West Twenty-third street and escorted to the Waldorf-Astoria, the visitors' headquarters.

Last night's most interesting event was the presentation of the Palma trophy to the victorious American riflemen in the presence of the veterans of previous international matches.

A fine array of presents from various friends of the Old Guard were placed on exhibition and attracted much notice. Among them were some splendid cut glass pieces, two automobiles, a carriage, two pianos, fifty cases of whisky and an

The booths were thronged throughout

Boston Transbright, Oct: 6, 1903.

FURNISHED BY BOSTON FIRMS

Local Business Houses Provided the Matetials Which Aided in Making a Success of the Great Symphony Hall Banquet

Not only was the banquet given last evening in Symphony Hall by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts in honor of the Honourable Artillem Company of London an excellent Artillery Company of London an excellent demonstration of Boston hospitality, but it was likewise powerful proof of the ability of Boston business houses to provide the hospitality of Boston business houses to provide the hospitality all the the best of everything. Practically all the material for the grand banquet, both in the way of food and drink and in decoration was founded by business in this city.

the way of food and drink and in decoration was furnished by houses in this city. The beautifully decorated souvenir plates a their handsome white leather cases were it Limoges china, made to the order of Limoges china, made to the order of the cases. The designing of these plates of occasion. The designing of these plates very expensive alone, to say nothing of the napery. Of which an immense nearly of which an immense and small, was furnished for the napery. However, the company. To release by C. F. Hovey & Company. To release by C. F. Hovey & Company. To release that the decorations of this sort the deal-board floral decorations of this sort the deciral properties of the case of

Londord Eng Snaphie,

TWO HONOURABLE COMPANIES.

NOTABLES OF THE LONDON TOYOURABLE ARTHLERY

American hospitality is proverbial, like our own. The members of the Honourable Artillery Company who left yesterday for Boston, on a return visit to the Ancient and Honourable Artillery Company of that city, may therefore lock forward to what their hosts call a "good time." When a detachment of the Boston Company came to London seven years ago they were made abundantly welcome by Queen Victoria at Windsor, by the present King and Queen at Marlborough House, and at a ceaseless succession of official and private entertainments. These courtesies would in any circumstances have been fully reciprocated; but since the Spanish War there has been a rapprochement between the two nations which should invest the present occasion with a specially cordial and sympathetic character. The visit, like that of the American warships to our waters a few months ago, will doubtless serve to illustrate in a gratifying fashion the warmth and depth of the Anglo-American understanding. On narrower grounds the trip will, of course, be highly interesting. The Boston Company is an offshoot, duting from the seventeenth century, of our own H.A.C., whose record goes a hundred years farther back; and the two companies have much a common, both historically and actually, in respect of organisation and methods. The fraternisation between them, on this as on the former occasion, will be an agreeable and memorable event in the annals of the two organisations.

Bestone Stockleser Oct 6, 100. LADY DENBIGH

IS KEPT BUSY

Monday was another busy day for Lady Denbigh, and although she admits that the strenuosity of the time since sinhas been in Boston has som the wearied her she says that the heart greeting and welcome she gets every. where enables her to keep up

"Boston is a city of humpy, twiped "Boston is a city of humpy, two-streets," says Lady Denbugh, "but to applying a streets," says Lady Denbugh, "but to applying the streets," says Lady Denbugh, but to a street, and the he rife; do not traitions of its difficult has seemed to ill of us extraction ry.

"Lord Denbugh is withing and the company of the streets, and the says the says velcome in Providence are. N. and anticipated anything like the husinsm. nl the kindness that hem everywher. The America ? tre certainly endowed with it. g "I will have much to 14, of a periences when I return to Lon;" fink few of us dreamed that would be of such a giorious : it.

Yesterday Lady Denbigh u. .. ine, and par in the offern go 2. Cardne, gave a tree at her these lence, it which Lade 19-1 he gu st of heror Robyr , e the the in interest the see we which the greats in luter 1 1, igh, Mrs Hood wife or . . . todges of the cruss to the William of the William of the Children of the Child After that the tarty land oct. o, 1903.

British Brethren Entertained.

Hearts Beat Warmly For Guests.

POSTIN. Oct 6. Eight score memis of the Honourable Artiflery comive Lordon were banqueted libere to the hosts, the Ancient if a ble Artiflery company of the Artiflery company of the Artiflery company of the nichas man as after-dilucer of the transfer officer proved a large of the stay of the

The male floor of Symphony hall, h was repetal in red, were more to ind tables, at which the Forman of the two commands to to of the state, however, was to the of the scare, however, was to the of the scare, Above the state that the state of the state that the state of the state while all its

of the stage was the women, were also fes' larel wreaths, streamers
' and crossed silver can-

- יים מותרת השל הוו והם ל דירי ל היילי. Cal Elver in H. le.

FLEASING MENU.

thank we consumit in the diaof oviders,

if he Athert charry of a Mantic of the of the Mantic e tresta de la contract la Prodillot.

L. Pripo or a reads Soviene.

rt , , , r , p r'. Christon 1 mighed.

Papa to mind was no other response to this toast. Gov Bates spoke for the state and Mayor Collins for the city. The Earl of Denbish was then introduced and was hailed with cheers. His remarks, which were full of gratitude for the warm welcome with which the corps had been received, were loudly applauded, especially by his own men, who followed it with their novel cheer.

with their novel cheer.

The response of ex-Gove John D. Long to the toast, "Our honorary members," was in his usual vein, bright with anecdote and vastly entertaining. Gen William A. Bancroft respnded for the Massachusetts volunteer militia. Prof F. C. Shumichrast of Harvard spoke F. C. Shumichrast of Harvard spoke for "Harvard University," and Rev William Rider of Gloucester for "The Ancient and Honorable artillery company of Boston." Before each guest left the hall he was presented with a souvenir plate of elaborate design on which were engraved the arms of England and America, London and Boston, and the two companies.

the two companies.

United States Senator George F. Hoar responded to "Old Mother England" Intense quiet prevailed before he referred to the great loss, as he said "to both countries in the death a few days ago of Sir Michael Herbert." "It was the ambition of his life," said Senator Hoar, "that he might produce cordial relations between the two countries. No man was ever better fitted cordial relations between the two countries. No man was ever better fitted for that office. England could not have chosen a man fitter to send with her message of peace and good will. Sir Michael Herbert had won every man's good will in Washington during his brief service."

SEN HOAR'S WORDS.

Senator Hoar said: The first speech ever made on this continent is still one of the best. It was made by the Indian sachem Samowas made by the Indian saction same-set to the Pfigrim Futhers at Plymouth on March 16, 1621. It sums up in two words everything needed to be said on this occasion. Welcome Englishmen!

We are a people made up of many races. It is said that, leaving out the negro, we are made, up of about the same races, in about the same proportions, that the English were made of in the time of Queen Elizabeth and King James, when the pilgrims came over and our fathers settled Boston.
Yet England is still the mother country Whatever may have hannened or try. Whatever may have happened, or whatever may happen, we have no heartler welcome, no warmer pressure of the hand than for her.

It is quite natural that a military or the hand than that a military or the chosen entered that the chosen entered that the chosen entered the chosen

It is quite natural that a military organization should be the chosen envoy to promote good fellowship between these two countries. Our great soldiers and your great soldiers have, in general, been men of peace. Our great soldiers—Washington and Scott, and Taylor and Grant, and Sherman, and Miles, have been men of peace. I suppose the same thing, in general, to be true of you. When Lord Castlereagh, after Waterloo, wanted to send the duke of Wellington over here to take command of your armies, the duke replied: "If I go I shall go only to make peace, which you may as well make now."

AMERICA'S HEART.

We may not always be ready to admit it, but there is nothing that touches the heart of an American, certainly of a Massachusetts man, or a Boston man, more than an honor or kindness from England. It gave us an infinite pleasure when you put the bust of Lowell, our Boston poet; and Longfellow, our Cambridge poet, in Westminster abbey. There is another monument there, I seed as the inscription tells us, by the closure of Mescachuestts bay in our rea. It is to the memory of Lord House honor i Eachsha and who is about the reast at them. On that near point there is at all gorden forms, it is to the found in a local than a saligation, it is to the reason of the found in a local to the first of the first saligation. In the saligation of the found in a saligation, is not of the first old the found in a saligation of the found in a saligation of the found in a saligation of the first old the adorn the old state house. It was inevitable that as London had an Honorable artillery company, Boston should have an Ancient and Honorable artillery company. I think you will find that your American kinsmen have tried to copy you as well as they could. They believe that, after all, the best soldier is the citizen soldier. They have tried during all these years and generations to devote themselves, when not actually in battle, and there have been times when our Ancient and Honorables were not actually in battle, to cultivating the things that belong to peace. They have found, as I believe you have, that there is no more delightful martial music than the ringing of cut glass, and no flag of truce like a napkin.

"IN PROPER MANNER."

"IN PROPER MANNER."

"IN PROPER MANNER."

There is another thing in which you will not find your Boston cousins behind you. I looked the other day into Anthony Highmore's history of your venerable body. I found that in Charles II's time, or about the time your company was founded, your marshal used to wear a silver badge. The emblem on it was a silver archer. He is represented says the author, as drawing a longbow "in a proper manner." Now, if you will commit yourselves to the guidance of any of your Boston fellow-soldiers, from the worthy commander down, and get him to take you about, together, or one by one, and explain to you the civic and military glories of Boston, you will find him an adept in the art of drawing a longbow "in a proper manner," a manner ip which no English archer ever excelled him.

We are a people made up of many ever excelled him.

We are a people made up of many races and nations. The instinct of race is strong in the bosom of all of us—celt and Swede and Frenchman and Saxon. Yet, as I said, England is still the mother country. Your laureate said the mother country. But all of us Danes in our welcome of thee.

thee.

Saxon and Norman and Celt and Saxon and Frenchman and Englishman and Scotsman are we. But we are all Englishmen tonight.

We owe great debts to each of the other great nations of Europe. But other great nations of Europe and the surely there can be no greater debt, no greater benefit conferred on one people by another than law, liberty, language, literature. All these we owe to Epp. by another than these we owe to Eng.

land.

We have had our differences and, unhapply, our wars. We have been restless under each other's criticism. But we have sought, if we could, to find the justification of our wars in English principles and on English authority.

Her Father's blood before her Father's face Boiled up, and proved her truly of his

The severest critics of America in England are the men who have severely criticised England for the same ly criticised England for the same faults. And the severest critics of England in America have been the men, in general, who severely criticised their own country for the same faults, CHATHAM AND BURKE

The leaders of our revolutionary war, so far as the debate was concerned were Englishmen. Chatham and Burke were Englishmen. Chatham and Burke and Fox.

Our fathers placed the Justification Our fathers placed the Justification of it upon the fundamental doctrines for it upon the fundamental fundamen and which has given to introduce that awardest of Christian poets, George Herbert, never had a manlier, or a gentler we a brighter son. Sir Michael Herbert had won every man's good will in Washington during his brief service

The love of friends, without a single foe

The love of friends, without a single foe Unequalled lot below.

I was his guest shortly before I left Washington in the latter part of last April. I had hoped, with good right, that our very cordial acquaintance would ripen into a pleasant and lasting friends him. friendship.
BUNKER HILL

Among the things in which Englishmen and Americans feel a common pride is the battle of Bunker Hill. I do not think that either, you of we would like to wipe out that memory. It is one of the best examples of Yankee fighting and one of the best examples of English fighting to be found in history. We might, if we had thought of it, have put up a monument to the valor of both sides, like that at Quebec, which bears the names of Wolfe on one side and Montcalm on the other. It was an instance on both sides of clear English bulldog grit. Both parties were so ready and eager to fight that they seem to have lost their heads. I suppose the American general and the British general, if the thing had happened lately, would have been lucky if he got off with nothing worse than a severe reprimand. Our commander sent his forces imperfectly provided with ammunition, and with rations not enough for 24 hours, across a narrow neek of land, to take possession of Bunker hill. All Sir William Howe had to do on your side was to move his ships up Charles river and up Mystle river, where they command the isthmus and the Yankees would have been completely at his mercy. He need not, I suppose, have lost a man. He had only to draw the strings and we were bagsed There was never an example of blundering generalship worse than that on suppose, have lost a man. He had only to draw the strings and we were bagged There was never an example of blundering generalship worse than that on our side, aithough I believe it is claimed that the officer who led our detachment took posession of the wrong hill. On the other hand, instead of pursuing his advantage and casily bagging his game, the British commander stormed our earthworks. His men charged with a magnificent and desperate courage up the steepest and most difficult part of the hill. They were repulsed twice. They stormed our redoubts with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also, with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also, with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also, with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also, with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also, with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also, with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also, with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also we with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also we with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also we with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also we with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also we with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also we with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also we with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also we with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also we with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also we with magnificent English pluck, and we held on also we with magnificent English pluck, and we with also we with magnificent English pluck, and we will be at Chartestown, you fight over the battle of Bunker Hill occasionally, even now at home.

MARINES AND CONNAUGHTS. A delightful Englishman a dear friend of mine, told me this story, which shows that if you have not built a monument to British valor over here at Charlestown, you fight over the battle of Bunker Hill occasionally, even now at home.

My friend told me that an intimate friend of his was Lieut Col Holland, a friend of his was Lieut Col Holland, a retired officer of the Royal marines. I dare say he is living now. Col Holland told him that the Royal marines never told him that the Royal marines never tould be stationed anywhere near the could be stationed anywhere near the could be stationed anywhere near the could be stationed anywhere near the sath so that some years ago the rangers had to be removed from Portsmouth, the headquarters of the Royal mouth, the headquarters of the Royal mouth, the headquarters of the marines, to another district. The reamarines, to another district. The reamarines, to another district. The reamarines him in the street, he calls out meets him in the street, he calls out "Lie down, Sth, and let the marines buss to the front!" Then follows a fight. Neither of the men has the slightest idea where that comes from. Col Holland says it came from the battle of Bunker Hill in America. The Americans were intrenched in a very strong position. Most of them were backwoodstanen, and about the best marksmen in the world. To reach the American littles the British had to march up the open slopes, fully exposed to the sweeping fire of American sharpshooters, who sheltered by their intrenchments were bound to sweep away their exposed essailants. The old Sth, or Connaught Rangers, were in the first 'the of attack, with a battalion of royal marines behind them in the second line, as their support. The Rangers suffered terribly. Half the regiment work killed and their ammution ranout. It was time to relieve them and the general rode up and ordered them to the down, in the usual manner of cally user ander three. The exacust different yould form four deep aid by long. Remain a space, and there example, would form feur deep also and advantant pass between the blank files, the word was passed along the shate of the last of the last mar.nes (a.s. to the frent." This wis done. The marines suffered fearfully, but accomplished the relief and cap-tured the redoubt. For this service they were awarded a Laurel leaf, to be worn on their buttons and caps. Col Holland added, "I-wore it myself for

26 years."
So, my friends, while we have been celebrating it over here, you have been fighting Bunker Hill over again, some of you, over there. I do not wonder that you wanted to come over and see the snot

SURE OF WELCOME.

Our English friends may be sure of their welcome. They are in the house of their friends, in the dwelling place of their brethren. We cannot show you of their brethren. We cannot show you wonders like those you bave left behind. We have few glories of architecture and of art. We have little antiquity. We have no palaces or castles or cathedrals or galleries like those to or cathedrals or galleries like those to which you are accustomed at home. Yet possibly we also may have something to exhibit, in a modest way, of the iruitage of the tree of English liberty. We must yield the palm cheerfully to other nations in art and architecture and music. We have tried to emulate them, if not to excel them, in the things which constitute the strength and happiness of a free people. We have gone without the architectural glories of palaces and castles and cathedrals. We have tried to perfect the architecture of the people's dwellings, and you will find the English Bible and the English Shakespeare upon their shelves. The canvas does not live or breathe for us under the touch of Guido or Raphael. We have no Lawrence of Reynolds to preserve the features of high-born beauty. But at least health paints here with her roses the cheeks of the factory girl. The music of Beethoven or Handel may not here rise and swell till it fills the dome which Angelo or Wren builded. But we have the music of children's voices in the well-pald workman's home.

We hope you may feel at home while you are here. When you go back to old mother England tell her her boys are contented and happy and growing. Give her our best love. Tell her to think of her with nothing but friendliness and good will. We have no sore feeling left, even for the Spanking she which you are accustomed at home.

think of her with nothing but friendliness and good will. We have no sore feeling left, even for the Spanking she used to give us. If she did not spare the rod she did not spoil the child.

We mourned with you for the loss of your gracious queen, alike the type of gentlest womenhood and the most illustricus sovereign in history. We look with you with confid at anticipation and desire for a long and happy reign for her successor.

Salford ot Times oct. 0, 1903.

If there are two organizations on earth which are purely ornamental in character and which can have no possible relation to warfare now, or at any future time, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and their guests, the "Honourables" from London, must be so classed. Yet one would hardly have expected to remind them of the fact, as did Governor Garvin of Rhode Island at the clam bake on Saturday, when he expressed the hope that every military organization in the world would become nierely ornamental. It was a most Christian sentiment in the worthy governor's heart, and yet it was one of those things which had been better are some harmless fictions that a ust be tolerated for civility's sake, which should not be "referred to be the presence of company."

Trovecter Taxelle Oct: 6, 1903.

SENTIMENTS OF VARIOUS TOASTS

King and President Remembered.

Following 's the list of toasts regree. er with the sentiment voiced by the coastmaster following each introdu-

1. "The President of the Urical States," the Hon George H. Lymna, collector of the port of Boston and harlestown.

"One in eighty millions and eighty millions in one." 2. "His Britannie Majesty, King Edward VIL" the bane.

"The manly chief of a marly people, the apostle of fellowship among the nations of the earth."

3. "Welcome from the Common-wealth of Massachusetts," the Hon-John L. Bates, governor of Massa ht-

"From western hills to eastern strand.

The Bay state greats you heart and hand." 4. "Welcome from the city of Bo-ton," the Hon Patrick A. Codins, mayor of Boston.

"As God was with our fathers, so may He be with as fill with those gathers by thin our mass.

5. "The Honeurable Arthery Company of London," Linds-Col. the Earl of Denbigh and Desmind.

"May we neer not their but in peace; never engine their but in headthart nown part from them but in love,"

6. "Old Mather England," the He George F. Harr United States and "The statwart son homes posturely pare t

"Our Honorary Members," Ex-Gor

"Two in number. Diward, king and emprior, and Jon. Fr. 2018, the best tellow of an princes, the prince of a 1 good fellows." 8. "Our Canad. at Neichbors," Co. F. W. Hibbard of Mortrea.

"Not cold, but ful, of warmth and glow, is our fair lady of the "Harvard University," Prof F. (de Summehr st.

"Imperial in her colors, her hictory are ber truth"

[6, "The Volunter Milmin," Magaze William, A. Boreralt Massach were volunteer milital treatered).

"The har time of them sho who will not be make out to ship worth he you."

11. "The Anciet, and Hoverto to Hery Company or Massachus !" Rey William H. Milar.

"Prought is history true to the track to from the man of the track to the true to the track to the true to the track to the true to the track to the track to the track to the true to the track to the Aso, Steret

HONORABLE ANCIENTS.

Eoston, Oct a - This v . a. full field day of the Ano. orable Arni'ory comi 23 to 25 . . with their gipets, the Itorica, tillery copingly of London, commany sign the day in a secondary "xethrsion along the nor ', st. te s program do muss a trans-tematel it. So white h. In A. Io se o lethe man race L'Ever . Felalidi oct. 6, 1403.

READY FOR VISITORS

The City Streets Are Alive With Holiday Crowds.

MANY FINE DECORATIONS

Quequechan Club Headquarters for the Afternoon,

f. 1., 1 : .ys has arrived and all in-. It to one of the finest apthost distinguished paof her this city. At 3:15 thoon the Ancient and Ardliery company, of London Admits conjunt of London London and the company of London London

r of the principal healt-ely decorated with Brit-colors, including flags

11. " " of celd ! Republicand Wet 1, 1703.

touking. The men were put to work this forencon and at the time this is written they are assuming a look which has but seldom been seen before. Not content with the usual method of sweeping by means of the machines drawn by horses, men have been put on the street with brooms and are taking off every particle brooms and are taking on every particle of Jirt and refuse.

The advence guard composed of street fakirs has already struck the city and the streets are filled with them. They offer every variety of souvenir from a plain British flag up to elaborately enamelled designs bearing various combina-tions of British and American colors. One enterprising fakir was noticed this morning trying to sell to a crowd of fakirs an elaborately trimmed picture of kirs an elaborately trimmed picture of the King and Queen of England. It was certainly a very handsome piece of work and the fakir was doing his best to sell it to a number of Portuguese by swearing by all his gods that it was a picture of the King and Queen of Portugal. A newspaper headquarters has been opened in the Borden block. D. P. Keefe is presiding over it.

Fall River Herald Oct. 6, 1903.

A Weeks' Programme.

This is the programme arranged for the Ancients until October 13:

At 1 p. m. today in Boston company will be formed on South Market street and march made through Merchants' row, State and Court streets to Court square, where the Honourable Artillery company will be taken in escort. Thence the line will move through Scoliay square, Tremont street, Winter and Summer streets to the South station. The Honourable Artillery company and the escorting delogation of the Ancient The Honourable Artillery company and the escerting delegation of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company will leave the South station by special trains for this city, New York, West Point Wishington, Niagara, Toronto and Mettread at 2 p.m. Returning they wing the in Roston on Tuesday, Oct. 13. Each of the travellers will be furnished on the train with a detailed itinerary of the trip. Exceptional courtesies to the conjuny and its guests have been tending and accuracy.

edujany and its guests have been tendred and accepted.
W. Inceday, Oct. 7, at West Point there will be a review of the Cadet battool by remission of the United States reder utment and of Colonel A. L.
M.lis, "apertheadent of West Point, I'mereday afternoon, the two companies will be escorted to their hotel by the Old Carolland by companies representing will be escorted to their hotel by the Old Curid and by companies representing the Mi onto Men of Washington, D. C., on Conditional uniforms of Revolutionary to the Linstol, R. L., train of artillery the Covernor's Foot guards of Hartford, Conn., the First Light infantry of Providing the Clark of the Charlest of Richmond, Va., Blues and the Clayland, O. Greys. The Old Guard will take the two companies in automobiles through Central park and Riverside drive to historic Claremont, where

First, Cet. 8, upon arriving in Wash-ir, n. the two companies will be es-corted by a troop of United States cav-alry to the Arlington hotel, the head-constitution of the constitution of the con-alry to the Arlington hotel, the near-quarters in that city.

Saturday, Oct. 10, the two companies will start from the Arlington hotel at the arm for Mount Vernor, the house of d half from the Court West metal They of return to Washington in time to use the White house at 12:30 p. m., viol. President Russevelt will receive

So day Oct. 11. at Niagata Palls, and live! Lee from the Natural Food construct to the part of the part can be accepted by members who desire.

Monday, Oct. 12, in Montreal, courtesies will be extended by the city and the militia. They will probably include a life of the certiful L. hive the desired a drive. t siont Royal and a smoker at the indsorbatel. Headquarters, Windsor

Hail River Helalet Oct. 6, 1903,

Honourable Artillery Company.

J. H. Abraham, W. A. Allen, C. Ansell, Jun., C. P. Attenborough, E. H. Attenborough, V. Barrett, A. I. Barnett, R. W. Bateman, E. Bennett, Capt. H. J. Bertram, H. L. Bishop, A. F Blades, S. J. Boreham, R. W. Bradshaw, F. Y. Bright, P. G. Browne, C. J. Brymer, Major C. E. D. Budworth, M. V. O., S. H.

Byron.

Lieut T. J. Cartland, R. E. Childers,
J. H. Clark, J. F. Clements, R. C. Cole,
A. D. Collins, D. Cookes, Lieut. P. C. Cooper, T. W. Cooper, I. E. Cutbill, J. Dalton,
The Rt. Hon. The Earl of Denbigh, C.
V. O. (Commanding H. A. C.), The Countess of Denbigh, C. Draycott, D. Duncan,
S. R. Dyas, W. Ecketein, O. Engster, H.
E. Evens.

V. O. (Commanding H. A. C.), The Counters of Denbigh, C. Draycott, D. Duncan, S. R. Dyas, W. Ecketein, O. Engster, H. E. Evans.

Maj. F. Farrington, H. L. Farmer, C. W. Faulkner, S. S. Faulkner, E. A. Fisher, A Forester, S. Fortescue, A. G. Fraser, A Forester, S. Fortescue, A. G. Fraser, R. Frest-Smith, H. E. L. Fuller.

A. S. Game, Surg.-Capt. E: H. Myddleton Gavay, R. Giling, A. T. Gordon-Smith, T. L. Green, J. F. Greenwood, H. S. Greenwood, T. F. Griggs, S. Grossmith.

W. A. Hail, W. A. Hail, G. E. Halsey, W. A. Hamlyn, Lieut. G. Harland, A. G. Harness, T. Hartnoll, C. C. Haycraft, S. D. Haydon.

E. G. Head, F. F. Henry, Lieut. A. F. Herbert, Capt. C. C. Hodges, W. T. Holoway, C. G. Hooper, B. W. Horne, C. L. Hornby, E. S. Howard, W. C. Huibert, H. S. Ilsley, G. W. Ilsley, A. Inskipp,

T. H. James, Sergt.-Major W. Culver James, H. Jarrett, C. J. Johnson, A. W. Johnson, H. E. Jones, J. F. Jones, J. C. Kendall, A. King, Lieut. A. L. Laden-Jourg, Maj. P. W. Leggatt, D. M. Lewis, Durg, Maj. P. W. Leggatt, D. M. Lewis, D. J. Lines, Jr., Capt. A. C. Love, D. S. O., J. Lines, Jr., Capt. A. C. Love, D. S. O., J. Lines, Jr., R. Mallis, P. L. Morgan, T. F. Medina, B. T. Mills, P. L. Morgan, T. F. Medina, B. T. Mil

Lough City (Ja!,)
Cot. 5. 1903.

MILITARY CHURCH SERVICES.

Ancient and Honorable Artillerymen

Go to Church in Boston.

Boston, Oct. 4.—The quietness of the Sabbath was stirred today by the sound of martial music at the Honorable Artillery company, of London, and their hosts, the traject and Honorable Artillery company. company, of London, and their hosts, the company, of London, and their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, of this city, marched through some of the Buck Hay streets to Trinity church. The Buck Hay streets to Trinity church. The buck that the hard here a narranged by the British residents of this city, and by the British residents of this city, and the parade included, besides the two mittee parade included, besides the two mittee parade included, besides the two mitters bodies, those army and navy veterans itary bodies, those army and navy veterans its city. The line of march was well lined this city, The line of march was well lined this city, The line of march was well lined.

his city. The file of hards with spectafors, was under the leadership. The procession was under the leadership of Lieut Col C. S. Conrienay, whose start of Lieut Col C. S. Conrienay, whose start of the day included many British officers, for the day included many British officers, the day included many bendent military organizations of New England and several officers of the United and several officers of the United and aid several officers of the ounted and aid several officers of the ounted and marched to the American house, where the several organizations were externally at lumeboen.

Were externally of the visiting corps, including the carl of Dending, did not attended in the training the carl of Dending, did not attended to the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, with Mayor Collins, in the morning.

The two organizations will leave on their the of the middle states and Canada next

Hall River Thebeds, Oct. 6, 1903.

It will be some time before a rooster dares to crow at Steep Brook again, for last night marked one of the most terrible massacres known in the poultry world. About 8:30 last evening John W. Fox received a telephone call from the steward of the Quequechan club that 250 pounds of broilers would be required for the dinner today in honor of the visiting Britishers, and before 6 o'clock this morning the birds had been caught, killed, plucked and delivered.

Two Popular Ladies.

Lady Denbigh, and Mrs. Hedges, wife of Col. Hedges of the Boston Ancients will accompany the Ancients here, and will be taken on an automobile drive through the city.

At the Banquet.

Among those present at the magnificent banquet tendered to the Honourable Artillery company of London, in Boston, last night, were Capt. George R. H. Buffinton and Lieut.-Col. Charles B. Woodman of this city.

At the Club.

The Quequechan club, which will be the headquarters for the officers of the visiting companies during their brief visit to the city this afternoon, has been most elaborately trimmed with flags and bunting and presents a most imposing appearance. Hanging from the portico two large flags, American and British, form an entrance through which visitors to the club will pass. The interior of the club has been put in perfect order and all arrangements have been made for serving the lunch. Tables have been spread upon the piazzas as well as the dining room, and the reading room will be used this afternoon as a buffet. The floors have been protected with canvas coverings and it is expected the club will extend its hospitality to the largest number of guests it has ever entertained.

Common Victuals Tonight

The Ancients will embark on the Fall River line steamer Puritan tonight, and will get the usual steamer fare.

Providence (B. J.) Oct. 6, 1903.

From the most trustworthy sources. we learn many important things about the dinner given by the Ancients in Symphony Hall last evening. Here are a few of the simple details:

"Four hundred and fifty miles of wire

"Four hundred and fifty miles of wire used in lighting the tables."

"Ten thousand roses, six thousand yards of laurel, five thousand chrysanthemum blooms and a thousand cases of Bouthern smilax from Cuba."

"The cost of these decorations is smoothed thousand for the lights and three thousand for the flowers."

"The dinner will consist of eight courses, and the cost of serving it, for courses, and the cost of serving it, for courses, and the cost of serving it, for each individual, will be seventy-five doleach individual, will be seventy-five dorse of them waiters, with seventy-five to pour wine alone, will be required to serve it. Of the wines, eight hundred serve it. Of the wines, eight hundred serve it of the bosts and their guests. capacity of the hosts and their guests.
The cigars, in their silver cases, cost $2500, the cigars alone being valued at

It will never again be possible to claim that Boston is not the centre of Emersonian "plain living and high thinking." This gastronomic sym-Phony ought to dazzle the Britishers. The Cecil and the Carlton could not attempt it, and the swell Piccadilly restaurants look like night-lunch carts compared to Symphony Hall and Horticultural Hall bound together amid acres of roses and rivuit, of thempagne, Stantia vd., oct. 6, 1903. ANCIENTS AT BARNSTABLE.

Reminiscences of the County Fair Ball Marred by Over Convivality.

(New York Sun.)

The Greatest Event in the history of international compotation is now in happy progress. The Wet Durbar has begun. As the Boston Globe says, "it is here in Boston that the eyes of the country are centred." The Honourable Artillery company of London is bilicted at Fort Young and Fortress Parker. It has received "its first impression of American hospitality" in the shape of the "charge cocktail," invented for and dedicated to the Wet Durbar. The British cruiser Remorse is anchored off Water street. The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, like its souvenir plate, is "beautifully fired and richly colored." Everything smiles upon the Great Event that "will serve to bring the mother and daughter into closer bonds of unity, that both may live in peace" and thirst forever. All peacemakers past do stand excused in this; and "The Hague tribunal will soon become a thing of the past, so far as the United States and Great Britain are concerned." As Mr. Kipling sings: "Ah, there, Hancienti with "is helbows is here in Boston that the eyes of the concerned. As all, Expling sings:

"Ah, there, Hancient! with 'is helbows on the bar,
Or a-chargin' on Boozefontein in 'is bloomin' buffet car;
'E's always primed an' loaded, I'd like to join 'is mess, I've seen a lot o' Thirsties that could drink a dam' sight less."

when every patriotic eye and throat was wet and every patriot voice and glass lifted to do honor to peace and combibition, one Beaton newspaper, instigated by bile with a dared to bring this false and is accusation against the heroes of a thousand field against the heroes of a thousand field days:

"The oldest residents of Barnstable recall the occasion of the county fair ball in the year 1865, which was made notable by the presence of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company and of many distinguished military guests, notably Major General Sickles and staff, Adjutant General Schouler, Colonel Wetherell of Governor Andrew's staff, Major Morissey, sergeant-at-arms, and many others equally notable. Governor Andrew and staff were present, and Mrs. Julia Ward Howe attended as a guest of Mr. Eben Bacon of Barnstable. What promised to be a most brilliant occasion was marred by the over-conviviality of some of the Ancients, and the ball came to an untimely end at midnight through the refusal of the woung belies to dance with the hilaric resolution. Interceivant their refusal, the colonel of the company commanded the Germania band, which was furnishing the music, to cease playing at 12 o'clock, and as they were under military orders they were obliged to obey, although in deference to the guvernor they played a few national airs as a finale. The affair created a considerable stir and Mrs. Howe expressed her opinion of it in a few pithy verses, beginning thus:

"He saith among the trumpets ahab!" ginning thus;

ginning thus;
"He saith among the trumpets ahah!
ahah!
March away with your old artillery;
Don't come back 'til we give you a call.
Put your Colonel in the philory
He broke up the Barnstable tall!"

He broke up the Barnstable radio.

Liars should have long memories, the Ancients have a commander, not a colonel. Neither in 1865 nor in any other year have they married in y occasion by "over-conviviality." They are scasoned vessels and there never was run enough in Barnstable to lose them have and Plumful, mark. We use all disbeyond Plumful mark. We see if distinctly that Barnstable ball. With the excusable lack of common forest ht, ro-effort had been made by the Barnstabueffort had been made by the Barnstabu-kery force to collect a mag size of satphes. The Arcients brought only their fatigue ration. The comp my was founded in 1638, as all the world transhers gratefully. The daily lation ration is obtained by dayling 178 by 30. Consequently, the daily fatigue ration, is 54 3-5 balls, or, in the company code. "54 balls and a small slue." Importable, the Ancients, who had been too polite to telegraph for a supply train, foraged the whole county and seized several cases of pocket pistois. Thus, but not without suffering, the pha. x managed to live until it got back to Boston.

A date is enough to knock in the heat the preposterous yarn about 'the refusal of the young belles' to late with the visitors. In 1865 roller skaes in A not been invented. No Archart dances on his own war footing. The Pyrthic dance is performed by the Avients with much spirits and on roles skales. We are positive that in 1867 the Ancients had not introduced the habit of being pushed over the ball room floor in bath chairs.

The story is a lie, the work of Barnstable civilians or mere militiamen, who resented the Ancients' virtual monopoly of wet goods. The lines as ribed to Mrs. Howe are an evident imitation of the malignant verse made by a Barnstable poet. Captain Zenas Howes Sears:
"He saith in the dumps, ahah; ahah! March off with your old distillery."

In the name of the overflowing hospitality of Boston and of the inflowing hospitality of Commander Hodges's troop of Scotch Highballers, we protest against a mean and filse after k upon their military record and capacity.

ineriden, (let.,) Foundal, Oct. 6, 1903 ANCIENTS' BANQUET

HONOURABIES OF LONDON WERE MAGNIF/CENTLY ENTERTAINED.

Boston, Tas... Oct. 6.-The great red Boston, has Oct. 6.—The great red banquet at on by the Ancient and Henorable Artillery company of Bor on in honor of the Herourable Artilary con pany of London took partial symphony half list might. Northing here it ever occurred in New England, and it is doubtful if a more costly feast was ever set in the country. No expense was spired by the Ancients to make it the most sumptions affair ever accounted by a military or affair ever assumed by a military or ganization, and a conser ative examinate of the cost of during 1. 50 men 3, $50,600, of which fully one-to-rid wa paid out for wines. It was champague right through to the last course and the result of so he adve can wall be imagined by these fact if it with the capacity of the Anciers.

Horizontural hal, was speedally dee anted with flars and bunding, the plonefully need in conjunction with many shiels coals of trms and other devices to two a festive look to the lecture half and the main exhibition half of the building. In Semphonial the deport for used 1 to 1 to 2. fact the date of latted 5.0% yellow chryshythenum blossims and 100 cases of louthern studay fr a Cala, arranged on wells, bile must store and tobles.

The diener consisted of right courses, but the right strained in the conting it for each individual was about 8 or 1 z. hundred per one too of them wasters with seventy-die to part v is well required to serve it of the wines. ended to serve the constraints of a gall my light my model to the action of the horse and their gue to The engines in and a silver out to select the constraint of the serve to the the constraint of the serve the serve to the the constraint of the serve the pletes were distributed as the state dispersion, were executed the state of the despiral and the despiral an

TIVERTON.

As an exchaplain or the Am. " Honorable Artillery Company : Bostore e gerbeld

AND WASHINGTON

Ancients and Their London Guests Start at 2 P. M. Today from the South Terminal.

TO SEE NIAGARA AND WEST POINT.

Will Pay Respects to the President Saturday-On Monday They Will Cross the Border.

riay the much heralded trip of the At lent and Honorable Artiliery, having an its guests the Honourable Artillery of London, has its beginning. This excursion is one of the most extransdinary, perhaps, ever undertaken In this country, and so complete are the rangements believed to be that not a single variation from the itinerary is ipated by the London committee ors on a form in it. and d by experience over which the two companies will them.

"Sunday, Oct. 11, at Niagara Falls, an invitation from the Natural Food Company to visit its industrial plant can be accepted by members who desire.

"Monday, Oct. 12, in Montreal, courtesies will be extended by the city and the militia. They will probably include a trip over the Lacaine Rapids, a drive to Mont Royal, and a smoker at the Hotel."

Rt. Daniel B. H.

o H. Robertson.

paymaster. Lieut. George E. Hall, commissary. Sergit. Howard H.

E. M. Henstis. Dr. F. Dwight Hill,

Warren.
Frank S. Waterman.
F. W. Wellington,
John Walte.
Carrell C. Whittemore.
E. Wilcock,
Howard C. Woodbury,
F. A. Wyman.

FALL RIVER PREPARING.

Many Buildings Decorated in Honor of Ancients and Guests---Parade to

[Special Dispatch to the Boston Herald.] FALL RIVER, Oct. 5, 1903. The Ancient and Honorables of Boston and the Honourable Artillery Company of London are expected to arrive shortly after 3 o'clock tomorrow, on their way to New York and Washington, and preparations in their honor have been made by local military and by a committee of civilians. The hotels, newspaper offices and many mercantile establishments have already put out decorations, and many others with follow suit

ments have already put the tions, and many others will follow suit tomorrow. The escort will consist of three companies each of the volunteer militia and the naval brigade. Military companies will also be present from Taunton, Boston, Brockton, Lynn and Springfield.

The Grand Army vets will meet the procession at the library and continue with it in the review by the mayor and city government at City Hall. Following a short stop at the Quequechin Club, the procession will reform and at 5 P. M. march through the centre of the P. M. march through the centre of the will be closed at 3 P. M. in order to allow the pupils to view the procession, Automobiles will be supplied during the short stop at the club to such of the visitors as desire to view points of interest in the city.

Brooklejn (1.3.,) Ciligen. Oct. 5, 1903.

ENTERTAINING THE ANCIENTS.

At Banquet to Cost $50,000 Wine Will Be Poured by Selected

BOSTON, Oct. 5.-This is the 266th fall field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, and a programme for the day's celebration and the entertainment has been prepared, that, commencing early this forenoon, will endwell, any time before sunrise to-morrow

After a street parade this morning the company and its guests went on a harbor oxcursion, which lasted well into the afterexcursion, which lasted well into the after-noon. This evening the big banquet will be given at Symphony Hall, to which function 1,000 members and guests have function 1,000 members and guests have been invited. Previous to the banquet a reception will be held in Horticultural Hall, preliminary to the Honorable Artil-

Hall, prendinary to the branch Artifiery Company.

When the Ancients with their guests file into Symphony Hall to-night a brilling into picture will dazzle the eyes of those iant picture will dazzle the present. fortunate enough to be present. Rarely hefore has such a splendor of artistic effect in electric lights been produced, and lavish displays of flowers and greenery. The dinner has been prepared with the most exacting fastidiousness, and will cost $50,000. Three hundred waiters will be in attendance, and the wines will be poured by seventy-five specially selected At the close of the banquet each men. At the close of the bandace card guest will carry away a heautiful souvenir plate and another memento, a cartridge box of Ancients in 1638, filled with clgars Boston Record!

SPLENDID BANQUET OF ANCIENTS UNEQUALLED IN MAGNIFICENCE

London Honourables Dazed by Gorgeousness of the Affair-Lord Denbigh's Address a Notable Feature Eloquent Greetings From Sen. Hoar and Other Dignitaries

SEN. HOAR'S GREETING
'TO LONDON MILITIAMEN.

"We have made some improvement on this continent since we came over. But, after all, the first speech re-corded in history as made on this continent is still one of the best. It was made by the Indian sachem Samoset, to the Pilgrim fathers, at Plymouth, on the 16th of March, 1621, It sums up in two words everything needed to be said on this occasion;-Welcome; Englishment'

RIGHT HON. LORD DENBIGH.

in 80,000,000 and 80,000,000 in one." Collec-

His Britannic Majesty King Edward VII.

Response by the band playing "God Save the King." "The manly chief of a manly people, the apostle of fellowship among the nations of the earth."

Welcome from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts—"From western hills to eastern strand, the Bay State greets you heart and hand." Gov Bates.

Welcome from the City of Boston—"As God was with our fathers so may he be with us and with those gathered within our gates." Mayor Collins.

The Honourable Artillery Co. of London—"May we never meet them but in peace; never engage them but in hospitality, never part from them but in love." Lord Denbigh. His Britannic Majesty King Edward VII.

Denbigh.
Old Mother England—"The stalwart son honors the sturdy parent." Sen. Hoar.
Our Honorary Members—"Two in number: Edward, king and emperor, and J. D. Long, the best fellow of all princes, the prince of all good fellows." Ex-Gov. Long. Our Canadian Neighbors—"Not cold, but fell and story is our fell lady. Long, the best fellow of all princes, the prince of all good fellows." Ex-Gov. Long. Our Canadian Neighbors—"Not cold, but full of warmth and glow, is our fair lady of the snow." Col. B. W. Hibbard, Mont.

michrast.
The Volunteer Militia—"The best type of citizen is he who will fight to make citizenship worth having." Gen. W. A. Ban-

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co, of Massachusetts—"Proud of its history; true to its traditions; loyal to the Commonwealth whose name it bears." Chaplain W. H. Rider.

BANQUET A FITTING CLIMAX.

The magnificent banquet given in Symphony hall last night, by the Ancients, to the Honourable Artillery Co. THE TOASTS.

Col. Darling officiated as toastmaster.
The President of the United States—"One peror, which have marked the visit of this British military body to Boston.

Columns have already heep given to the columns have already here.

Columns have already been given to descriptions, in advance, of the sumptuous affair of last night.

But only the brush of a master artist, and the genius of a poet-laurente, could do justice to the spiendid spectacle itself. Even the unlimited expenditure of the most epicurean of old-world monarchs could have unfolded such a scene, for they had not the magic wand of modern When Lord Denbigh said he had never nefore looked upon such a sight, and doubted if many of those present had, there was no dissenting opinion.

The marvels of electricity, together with the florist's art, transformed the already beautiful hall into an enchanted

COL, SIDNEY HEDGES.

To epitomize: it was the dinner of the of the snow." Col. 5, W. Hibbard, Labre. ceded the major event. Gov. Bates, real.

Harvard Universal in her colors, Lord Denbigh, Gen. Chaffee, Gov. Back-her history and her truth." Prof. de Su-elder of New Hampshire, and Gov. Long.

stood in the receiving line, what toll Hedges and Col. Darling presented the guests. A distinguished group, stord behind or near the line, among whom were ex-Gov. Boutwell, Rev. Dr. Hale, Adm. Johnson, Capt. Hodges of the Chi-cago. Judge Lowell of the Ti & capt.

'st Strands Hopmood (permanent secreger of the British board of trade), Sir Ray of the British board of trade), Sir
Ray of the W. E. Hy, and Lynden
St. el besdale, Sir John Dickinson-Foynder,

DR. PET

"We could not hold our intelligent where the class of petrons & day," said one of Bostons of petrons & day, said one of Bostons of petrons alondo. We do recuping the contain dengerous alondo. We do recupe contain dengerous alondo. We do recupe the contain dengerous alondo. We do recupe of maneral kidney-work Tablets, because of the Tablets are free from alondo. and alondo.

Aug. 26, 1903. Mis. Redeces T. Saulta woods: "Nor a long time I had server s brick dust deposit in the urine. Vears ag using Dr. Pettingill's Kidusy-Wort Indo! noing Dr. Pettingill's Kidusy-Wort Jabl in perfect beatife. We one need suffer fron

MRS. RESECCA T. St AFTER YEARS OF

sorpomon Koupin pinbit

W. H. Sayward, secretary of the State me is to bring suits against them. in an unlawful discrimination of conway to punish the men who are engaged ot the individual workman and individ-ual employer must be protected against combinations of the employees. The No matter what else happens, the right sutisfy them that the boycott was an Col. Sanuel Davenport was aguin bestore the commission. He thought the dates given by the commission would tions between employer and employee, mission which is considering the relanonse this morning by the special com-Another hearing was given at the state "(:01' Davenport,

FEGYF MEYBON BOYCOTT AN IL-

one can get about in no tline, while Lonted the reporter.
"Thut's not so at all. Of course, Bost on is much snuller than London, but your rapid transit system far outdoes your rapid transit system. Take it with the British capital. Take it with the aubway, alovated and surface cars one and surface are set about in no time, while Low-world's metropolis, How is that?" quer-"Some have made the remark, Mr. Some have made the remark of the Harm hard, that Hoston motives of the a country village to you natives of the world's requonlist. How is that?" oner-

in the future that can touch last night's in the "floral and electrical paradise." "I am sure," he continued, "that your off of oliday off wolfs of before sans faut bas liast unothings about Mr. Humphrey, one of the Honour-bles, told The Record men it was a pity nithair cohpace everything in their ex-

Oct. 6, 1903.

BOSTON EVACUATED

British Soldiers Depart in Triumph

Honourables and Ancients Start on Journey

Which Is to Include Prominent Cities

Fal Rea Is the First Stop, New York

f twelve cars containing 165
th of the Honourable Artilcompany of London and 141
th of the Ancient and Honorable ompany of Massachusetts pulled South Station on its way to Fall or go n the trip, but who to art to these who del go, art wand the visitors from

ter for all River was made after out formed River was made after out formed through the nusiness acc-f the alty, during which the men were applicated and cheered by the imprice or other who went on the od in the line by his friends, scalled and he was wished a The sold-off coal not require had the troops try for the defence of Natural world ough all fund to me and the ewio this morning, getting everything in preparation for the trip. Their baggage, as well as that of the Ancients, was early sent to the train, and after the preliminary arrangements had been attended to, little rangements had been attended to, little groups of the visiting Englishmen took walks around the city, looking at the points of interest, which, up to today, they had not had an opportunity to see. Others spent their time writing letters to their homes. The one topic of discussion with all of the Honourables was the banquet, and all admitted that in point of splendor it surpassed anything they had ever seen. As many of the Englishmen have travelled In various parts of the world, this unant-mous sentiment gives immense satisfac-tion to the committees of the Ancients who had the affair in charge.

Just after twelve o'clock this afternoon the members of the Ancients assembled at their armory in Fancuil Hall, and shortly before one, line was formed on South Market street for the parade to the South Sta-tion. Meantime the Honourables had assembled in Court square, and were quickly in line, under the direction of Adjutant C. E. D. Budworth. They were put through some drilling tactics and while this was going on the Earl of Denbigh and Desmond ompanied by Lady Denbigh and Mrs. Sidney M. Hedges arrived in a closed carriage. It was driven up to the main en-trance of Young's Hotel, directly in front of the troops and as the earl and countess alighted they were given a salute by the troops and applause by the large crowd that lined the square.

LADY DENBIGH CARRIED VIOLETS
Lady Denbigh was attired in a gray travelling suit and wore a handsome silk wrap and a pale blue hat. The applause which she received seemed to please her greatly and she smiled and bowed to the onlookers. She remained in the doorway beside Mrs. Hedges, while Lord Denbigh took charge of the troops and put them through some more manœuvres and then the ceremony of presenting the colors took place. This ceremony over, Lord Denbigh gave the order to march and the one hundred and sixty-five Englishmen proceeded Old of Court square, up Court street and hat Tramont street, where their execut was was ins to receive them.

The Ancients quickly formed their line as tin and the procession to the train was started, the Ancients in the lead with the Salem Cadet Band and the Honoural with Lity Denbigh and Mrs. Hedges in a Trige, bringing up in the rear, a platoon of mounted policemen serving as a rear

DIG CROWD AT STATION

When the Ancients left South Market str et they marched through Dock square, Countil and Tremont streets, where the Hone id . de Artillery Company was taken tort Thence the line moved through tourt street, Scollay square, Tremont. Win-The police arrangements, as they nave her throughout the visit of the Honorial of were of the best and reflected much redit in Captains Gaskin and Cain. The South Station was roped off in the Same many and Cain. same manner as it was on Saturday, and the treops marched to the last track, on which was their special train of seven a pers, three perior cars, an ordinary smoking car, a baggage car and two engines. The transportant and two station was "tranco and inside of the station was land with enthusiastic spectators, who gave the visitors and Ancients a royal welcome.
On the platform adjoining the tracks from dir handkerchiefs at the spectators, the latter gave them a rousing sendoff.

PARADE IN FALL RIVER

The two companies arrived in Fall River at 8.30 s'clock and they then started on a parade in that city. The escort consistof three companies each of the volun-t mains and the naval brigade. Mil-tery companies from Taunton, Boston, Brockton, Lynn and Springfield were also in

The Grand Army vetering met the pro-e of a at the Illurity and continued with it is no over by the mach and city poly-time a at this till bellowing a ghort

o such of the visitors as desire to view points of interest in the city.

points of interest in the city.

The city is very prettily decorated and the visitors were given a reception as enthusiastic as they received in Providence on Saturday. The steamer will leave the wharf at 7.40 o'clock this evening. Arriving in New York at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning the soldiers will be transferred to a river steamer and taken up the Visitor. a river steamer and taken up the Hudson to West Point. The cadets will parade for their benefit, and Honourables and Ancients will be back in New York at 4 P. M. There they will be the guests of the Old Guard, and New York will see the Londoners in the parade from the steamer pier to the Waldorf-Astoria. In the evening they will attend a dinner at Sherry's, given by the Old Guarg. Thursday is to be spent in rid-ing about New York.

On Friday two trains of parlor cars will take the party to Washington. Saturday they make a pligrimage to the tomb of Washington, and upon their return they will be received at the White House by President Roosevelt at 2 P. M. On Saturday night they will start for Niagara Falls. night they will start for Niagara Falls. The headquarters' train is to be made up of a baggage car, two dining cars, six handsome sleeping cars just refitted, and the private car Columbia, the latter being for Lord and Lady Denbigh. The Columbia has been used by President Roosevelt on his tours. The second section will consist of a baggage car, two dining cars and seven sleepers of the latest pattern.

The train is due to reach Buffalo Sunday at 0.55 A. M., but will stop there only five minutes. From 10.20 A. M. until 6 P. M. the warriors will enjoy the attractions at Niagara, including a ride through the gorge. They will leave the suspension bridge at Ningara, including the suspension bridge at 0.10, arrive at Toronto at 8.25 P. M., leave 6.10, arrive at Toronto at 8.25 F. M., leave that city at 10.45 P. M. and reach Montreal at 7.45 A. M., Monday. Monday they will parade and be entertained in Montreal. Tuesday morning the special trains leave Montreal for Boston by way of the White Montreal for Boston by way of the White Mountains, North Conway and Portsmouth. The train is scheduled to leave Intervale Junction at 3.25 P. M., Portsmouth at 6.30, and the control in Boston at 8.15 P. M. and to arrive in Boston at 8.15 P. M., Tues-

Cheered by Stock Brokers

A Half-Dozen Members of the London Artillery Company Visited the Exchange

Artiflery Company visited the Exchange
There were several rounds of cheers given this morning by the traders on the floor of the Boston Stock Exchange, but they were not prompted by any flood of buy orders from long-looked-for customers. Soon after opening, the market drifted into its usual state of inactivity and brokers busied themselves in reading the newspaper accounts of the claborate banquet held last evening in Symphony Hall. Inspired by the patriotism of last evening's addresses, the brokers began to discuss the magnificence of the event, when the door from the outer hallway of the 'change was pushed back and a half-dozen stalwart members of the London company entered. The second the red coats of the viritors caught the eyes of the brokers, up went h lusty cheer from all over the floor of the exchange. Even the messenger hoys joined in.

During the five-minutes' stay of the Englishmen cheer after here was given in their honor, which the visitors acknowledged with a bow. After leaving the first floor of the exchange a ccuple of the soldiers entered the bricony up one flight, and there another round of cheers was given by the brokers, assisted again by the messengen boys and other employtes. The noise attracted many tennts of the Exchange and other floor pressing in and one boys and other employees. The noise fixed tracted many tenants of the Exchange at Building, and rereons ressing in and out, who ran towards the change to see if prices of securities had tumbled,

Lady Denbigh at Two Receptions

Mrs. Charles F. Sprague and Mrs. John L. Gardner Both Entertain in Her Honor

Honor

It was a busy day for Lady Denbigh Monday and there was not enough time during the waking hours for all the enter-tainment that her hostesses could have provided for her. She was the guest of honor at two informal receptions held in Brockline, one at Falukner farm, the home of Mrs. Charles F. Sprague, and the other at Mrs John L. Geriner's villa. Green Hill. She left the Tourains shortly after noon for the engagements, being accompanied by Mrs. John L. Bates, Mrs. Cartis Guild, Jr., and Mrs. Sidney M. Hedges. The way to Brookline was through the park system, the party first going to the home of Mrs. Sprague and afterwards continuing to Mrs. Gardner's residence. The return was made late in the afternoon, arriving at the Tou-

The Servia Club, finding that Lady Denbigh's time was so occupied that any entertainment that it might provide would be superfluous, contented itself with sending greetings yesterday, a large bunch of lilies of the valley accompanying the sentiment.

Children's Hospital Profited

Receives Check for Almost $200 as Its Share of the Collection Made by the Company on the Mayflower

There has just been received by J. M. Sears, treasurer of the Children's Hospital, a check from A. Britten, manager of the Dominion Line, representing the amount allotted the hospital from the fund collected by the Honourable Artillery Company during the voyage on the Mayflower. The check is for $194.17, representing £40 4s, at $4.83 exchange.

New Bedford. Oct. 6, 1900 HONOURABLES AT FALL RIVER.

Centre of City Generally Decorated in Their Honor.

Visitors Parade Under Escort of Massachusetts Militia.

Schools Close to Allow the Children to See the Procession.

Fall River, Oct. 6,-The Ancients and Honorables of Boston and the Honourable Artillery company of London arrived here this afternoon on their way to New York and Washington, Preparations in their honor were made by local military and by a committee of civilians. Buildings in the centre of the city were quite generally decorated.

The escort consisted of four batteries of the first heavy artillery, M. V. M., and six companies of the naval brigade, including companies from Taunton, Roston, Brockton, Lynn and Spring-field

Roston, Brockton, Lynn and the field.

The Grand Army veterans met the procession at the library and continued brocession at the library and continued with them in the review by the mayor with them in the review by the mayor with them in the review by the mayor with the procession will re-form and at club to the schools were closed at 3 p. m. in The schools were closed at 3 p. m. in order to allow the pupilis to view the procession. Automobiles were supplied procession. Automobiles were supplied to view such of the visitors as desired to view points of interest in the city.

TOUR OF THE COUNTRY BEGINS.

All the Officers and Men of London Company on the Trip,

Boston, Oct. 6.—The much heralded tour throughout this country and Canada of the Ancient & Honorable Artillery company of Massachusetts, having as its guests the Honourable Artillery company of London, began today after company of London, began today after four days of entertainment and sight four days of entertainment and sight seeing in this section. All the officers seeing in this section, all the officers about 165 in number, started on the about 165 in number, started on the trip. The escorting column of the Antrip. The escorting column of the Antrip. The escorting column of the Antrip. The secorting column of the Antrip. The secorting column of the Antrip. The escorting column of the Antrip. Trisagfield Republican,

BANQUET TO LONDON COMPANY Feature of the Englishmen's Visit to Eight score members of the Honorable artillery company of London were banquetted at Boston last night by their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable artiflery company of Boston. Sumptuous in every detail, and with gearly a dozen of Massachusetts representative men as after-dinner speakers, the entire affair proved a magnificent ending to the stay of the Londoners in Boston. Over the main floor of Symphony hall, which was carpeted in red, were more than 50 round tables, at which the larger portion of the two comnands were scated. The stage, however, was the feature of the scene. Above the long tables, one of which stretched the entire width of the stage while others ranged back of it, there streamed to the high proscenium arch long wreaths of alternate English laurel and electric globes, enming to an apex where blazed a golden crown, huge in size but perfect in proportion, the gem of the entire decorations. magnificent ending to the stay of the coming to an apex where onzed a gooden crown, huge in size but perfect in proportion, the gem of the entire decorations.

At the rear of the stuge was the shield of the honorable company of London and facing it on the balcony on the opposite side of the hall was that of the Boston company, both surrounded by electric jewcis, while on either side of the crown above hung in bright figures "1537"—"1638," the dates of the charters of the two organizations. The tables were strewn with smilax, roses and orchids, and in addition, each had in its center a massive laurel wreath in which glittered small electric globes of pink and yellow. The balconies, which after the feasting were crowded with women, were also festooned with laurel wreaths, streamers of electric lights and crossed silver cannon.

Into the hall marched the two companies.

Into the hall marched the two companies. each ancient escorting an honorable. The rank and file soon found their seats at the numerous tables scattered over the floor, while the stage was througed with the gold lace of the officers and the more somber garb of the Invited guests. It was but a few minutes after To'clock when Col Hedges motioned for silence, and grace was said by Rev Dr Edward Everett Hale. Two hours were consumed in the discussion of the following:—

Clear green turtle. Prince Albert sherry.
Alguillettes of halibut cardinal.
Cucumbers. Potatoes hollandaise.
Tournedos of filet of beef a la Predillot.
String beans. Fommery. See et Brut Epigrammes of sweetbreads Sevigne.
Green peas.
Sorbet a la militaire.
Squab chickens, rossted.
Bombe glasce International.
Cheese. Codec. Cigars.
The speeches which followed all had as a motive the firmer welding of the bond of a motive the firmer welding of the bond of friendship between the two countries. That of Senator Hoar was the most scholarly and that of ex-Gov John D. Long the most entertaining. Col Hedge's introductory remarks were well chosen, and when he called for a toast to the president of the United States the band played "The Stat Spangled Banner," and Collector of the Port George H. Lyman responded in his official capacity. The next toast was that to King Edward, but the recent death of Embassadur Herbert made the response of "God Save the King," which was played by the band, seem more like a direction a hymn of praise. There was no other response to this toast. Gov Bates spoke for the state and Mayor Collins for the city. The earl of Denbigh was then introduced and was hailed with cheers. His remarks, which were full of gratifude for the warm welcome with which the corps had been received, were loudly appianded, espenally by his own men, who followed it with their novel cheer.

United States Senator George F. Hoar friendship between the two countries. That United States Senator George F. Hoar then responded for "Old Mother England." Intense quiet prevailed when he referred to the great loss, as he said, "to both countries in the death a few days ago of Sir Michael Herhert." "It was the antition of his life," said Senator Hoar, "that he might produce cordial relations between the two countries. No man was ever first fitted for that office. England could be have chosen a man fitter to send with his passage of the send with his statel Herbert had won even non's good wall in Washington during his brief serv

The response of ex-Gov John D. Long to the toast, "Our honorary members," was in his usual vein, bright with anecdote and vastly entertaining. Gen William A. Bancroft responded for the Massachusetts volunteer militia. Prof F. C. Sumichrast of Harvard spoke for "Harvard university," and Rev William Rider of Gloucester for "The Ancient and Honorable attillery company of Boston," Before each guest left the hall he was presented with a souvenir plate of elaborate design, on which were engineed the arms of England and America Lordon and Boston. were engineed the arms of Emeland and America, London and Boston, and the two

Grand Rafied Main. IT COST A FORTUNE

Feast Tendered the Honorable Artillery in Boston.

Time of Preparation for the Dinner Was One Year-No Expense Was Spared.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 6 .- The Hourston Artille y company of London has land emortained at a banquet in Synda by hell by the Ancient at I Honorable Artil-

The function was the mest endocate ever given in the Units Late, Thousands of electric lates were used a miles upon index of the X tada vine were voven in and our areas the right.

of Rete of the test of thop of grant cost properly St., ost of Reds, estimate the test of Reds, estimate the test of the test middle parties of the course of flowers on the troublet in the hard surface. The lowers and the way has a flower to the course of the course o Beyork interve ? I was all as constitution to British one from

The bill of the was the contact to t

· Buch is it

Sitted, (ot,) ines! Oct. 6, 1703.

SPREAD TO LONDON COMPANY.

Notable Event in Boston-Addresses by Senator Hoar, Gov. Bates and Others.

In Symphony hall, bowered in green, illumined by myriads of electric lights and with a golden crown shining over all, were banqueted, Monday night, eight score members of the Honourable eight score members of the Honourable Artillery company of London, by their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston. Sumptuous in every detail, and with nearly a dozen of Massachusetts representative men as after-dilner speakers, the entire affair proved a magnificent ending to the stay of the Londoners in Boston. The floor of the hall was carpeted in "d and the two commands sat at more hin fifty round tables. The stage was he feature of the scene. Above the ing tables, one of which stretched the tire width of the stage, while others chage back of it, there streamed to the high proscenium arch long wreaths of alternate English laurel and electric globes, coming to an apex where blazed a golden crown, huge in size, but perfect in proportion, the gem of the entire decorations. At the rear of the Honourable company of London, and facing it on the balcony on "opposite side of the hall was that "the Boston company, both surroundiby electric jewels, while on either of the crown above hung in bright tree "1537"—"1628," the dates of the by electric jewels, while on either of the crown above hung in bright ires "1823"—"1823," rhe dates of the charters of the two organizations. The less were strewn with smilax, roses and orchids, and in addition each had in its center a massive laurel wreath in which glittered small electric globes of pink and yellow. The balconies, which after the feasting were crowded, with women, were also festconed with laurel wreaths, streamers of electric globes of the consent of the hall marched the two competitions. The stream of the feast of the hall marched the two competitions of the hall marched the two competitions. The description of the following:

Clear Green Turtle, Prince Albert Sherry, Aguiliettes of Haibbut Cardinal, Tucumbers.
Potatoes Hollandaise.
Fliet of Breef a la Pradiliot.
Panmery Sec et Brut. of Sweetbreads Sevigne,
Green Peas.
Und Chickens, Roasted.
Romaine and Tometo Salad.
Bombe Gasce International.
Clears.
The Speeches which followed all

The speeches which followed all had as a motive the firmer welding of the bond of friendship between the two countries. That of Senator Hoar was the most scholarly, and that of ex-Governor John D. Long the most entertaining. Colonel Hedges's introductory remarks were well chosen, and alter he called for a toast to the president of the United States the band played "The Star Spangled Banner" and Collector of the Port George H. Lyman responded in his official canality. The next toast was that to King Edward, but the recent death of Ambassacior Herbert made the response countries. No man was ever better fitted for that office. England could not have chosen a man fitter to send with her message of peace and good will. Sir Michael Herbert had won will. Sir Michael Herbert had won every man's good will in Washington during his brief service."

The response of ex-Governor John D. Long to the toast, "Our Honorary Members," was in his usual vein, bright with anecdote and vastly entertaining. General William A. Bancroft responded for the Massachusetts croft responded for the Massachusetts volunteer militia. Professor F. C. Sumichrast of Harvard spoke for "Harvard university," and the Rev. William Rider of Gloucester for "The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Restor."

Before each guest left the hall he was presented with a souvenir plate of elaborate design, on which were engraved the arms of England and America, London and Boston, and the two companies.

Postore Journell,

LADY DENBIGH GETS TOKEN FROM SERVIAS

Floral Tribute From Companions of the Ancients.

MRS. HEDGES GIVES DINNER

Reception to Those Who Accompanied Society's Guest to the

H. A. C. Banquet.

Full of the color and fragrance of beautiful flowers sent by thoughtful friends, Lady Denbigh's apartments at the Touraine are a bower. Before & bud or blossom has a chance to wilt there are dozens more to fill its place, and it is a case of "violets at dawn and roses at eve," with an ell-day long

One of the most charming tributes that Lity bendach has received went to her yet at from the Servia Clab. The crue, where nombers forty-even nomeral line with the color women who actions in the line which has a their famous little. The solidates on their famous little to have been a mammoth violets to Lady Denbigh, with a prettly the with the American colors. The committee he American colors. The committee in charge of the gift was of the club, Mrs. James Ellis, president it. H. Hamilton, Mrs. Birner C. Foster, and Mrs. Alexander P. Graham. At the dinner given at the Algonouin nice with the colors of the club Sunday night by Col. Pfort were the colors. They can be colded to which it is not been a likely of colors.

Mrs. Hedges Gives Thinger. thich Loty Destigh has received went

Mrs. Hedges Gives Dinner.

After the roturn from Mrs. "Jack" Gardner's tea Festerday afternoon, an affair which followed Mrs. Sprague's luncheon, Mrs. Sidney M. Hedges gave Rochester, A. 3,) Democrat Chebricle Oct. 6: 1903

GOVERNOR GARVIN'S BAD BREAK.

The Honourable Artillery Company, of London, is visiting the Ancient and Honorable Artillery, of Boston, and seems to be having a glorious good time. The Ancients and Honorables are "good providers," and Boston is about the most genuinely hospitable city in the United States, when it gets fairly waked up.

But there are indications that this visit is not free from certain embarrassments for the hosts. There is a very considerable difference between the Honourable Artillery Company, of London, and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston. The first is a representative English military body; the second isn't a military body at all. During the recent visit of the Ancients and Honorables to London, there seems to have been a general impression among Englishmen, which the Ancients and Honorables took no special pains to correct, that the Boston organization was a real military force, like the London volunteer regiment of similar designation. Members of the Honourable Artillery Company, of London, have probably been somewhat surprised at discovering, since their arrival in Boston, how entirely erroneous this impression was. The Honourable Artillery Company, of London, is the oldest and most distinguished of British volunteer regiments. Originally a city guild, chartered by Henry VIII. in 1537, it is now and long has been a thoroughgoing military force, comprising infantry, cavalry and artillery, regularly drilled and kept in condition of readiness for active service, to which it is as likely to be called as any other British volunteer organization. The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston, is a purely social organization, whose members once in a while put on uniforms and parade in them. It is not a part of the regular military establishment of the United States or of the state of Massachusetts, It performs no military duty whatever and cannot be called into active service by any authority whatever. The difference between the Honourable Artillery Company, of London, and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston, is very much the same as that which exists between the Eighth Separate Company, of Rochester, and the Old Guard, of New York. Briefly, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston, isn't a military body at all, oughtn't to pose as a military body, and, especially, should not have allowed itself to be treated as a representative American military body by British military organizations and British army officers while it was in London. Moreover, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston, is uneasily aware that it has managed to get itself into a false position. That is the reason why the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston, justly regards as exceedingly tactless the expression by Governor Garvin, of Rhode Island, at a dinner given in honor of the Bostonia's and their guests, of his wish that a time would come when there should he no war and when "all" military companies would be "ornamental only." No wonder this awful break was received with profound silence. It must have made both the Boston hosts, whom it was meant to compliment, and the London guests, whom It certainly wasn't meant to annoy or embarrass, equally uncomfortable.

. Albany, St. 3, I fournal, Oct. 6, 1903.

Honorables Meet Honourables.

In the Honourable Artillery Company of London, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston has found its match at least, and there is a growing suspicion that it has found a little more.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston is a highly ornamental organization with a magnificently developed capacity for the absorption of the good things of life, solid and liquid. It may have had thoughts of offering its services to the United States when the unpleasantness with Spain broke out, but if it had, it lingered over them for a longer time than it took to end the war. Its forte is feasting, not fighting. It would rather drink an enemy under the table than shoot him full of disagreeable, unbeautiful-heles; and then gloat over his headache on the morning after. It is a peace-loving body. Recognition of the fact was expressed by Lord Deabigh, when, after the Rhode Island clambake which, was the feature of Saturday's program of entertainment for the Honourable visitors, he stood up straight and unfalteringly made a speech in which he said:

I am sure the account of these meetings will give no greater pleasure to anyone than to his Majesty King Edward, our captain-general and colonel. I know you appreciate all his Majesty has done to promote a desire for universal peace. If this visit of my humble corps does in any small way help or tend to attract attention to that feeling, I shall always look back with pleasure and pride to the delegation that visited the United States in 1903.

But let us revert to the statement of

But let us revert to the statement of fact at the beginning of this article. When it became certain that the Hon-Ourable Artillery Company of London would return the visit made by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston some years ago, the latter organization proceeded to accumulate a large store of good things, many of which were contained in barrels and casks and demijohns and bottles. The hurried accumulation of ammunition by the United States government in the early spring of 1898 wasn't a circumstance compared with the execution of the rush orders for food and beverages given by the Ancients of Boston, For be it known that the Ancients would as lief prove their superior capacity for the absorption of food and drink to a friend as to an enemy, and leave him hors de banquet among the nether extremities of the chairs. Only they wouldn't gloat over a friend's katzenjammer, but would treat him to bromide and Turkish baths, and thus prepare him for another contest at the festive board.

But the Honourables of London thus far have taken everything offered to them with ease, dignity and grace. They haven't even broken step under the burden of the Boston Ancients' hospitality. They have had no need of bromide or Turkish baths. With firm step they marched to a clambake with all imaginable trimmings, and with step just as firm they marched away again, leaving naught but debris of the feast. They have expressed their appreciation and their thanks, but they have given no sign that they regard their gastronomic and bibulous experience an unything extraordinary. They have taken all the wining and dining as it came. and walked away with it sturdily,

If there is a feeling of disappointment

rankling in the breasts of the Honorables of Boston, it is quite overwhelmed by the greater feeling of admiration which the prowess of the Londoners has inspired in the Bostonians. Next to the joy which the Ancients derive from the spectacle of friends completely overcome by their hospitality is that which they experience when they meet men whose outward appearance of sobrlety is, like their own, absolutely proof against all efforts to disturb it.

Buelington, it , he kend,

ANCIENTS AND HONOURABLES.

Boston, Oct. 5.-This was the 266th fall field day of the Ancient and Honour-able Artillery company and with their guests, the Honourable Artillery company of London, the Boston company spent the day in a steamboat excursion along the North shore. The programme also includes a reception and banquet in Symphon , hall shis evening, and Tricloan Rice, (Mis.,) Wascondin! oct. 6, 1903.

SIXTY THOUSAND DOLLARS SPENT FOR BIG BANQUET.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 6.—The Honourable Artillery company of London was entertained at a banquet in Symphony hall last night by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston, according to plans first conceived five years ago.

The function was the most elaborate ever given in the United States, and no trouble or expense was spared to make the event a notable one.

Thousands of electric lights were used, and miles upon miles of smilax and vines were woven in and out among the globes and the flowers which constituted the decorations. Boston, Mass., Oct. 6.-The Honourable and alternating therewith four maltese decorations.

The banquet cost about $60,000, of

The banquet cost about $60,000, of which $60000 went for lighting and half as much for flowers.

Two score of the Honourable were guests, and they marched into the half accompanied by the Ancients, each Ancient escorting an Honourable.

The speeches which followed the dinner had as their text the firmer welding of the boud of friendship between the two countries. That of Senator Hoar was the most scholarly, and that of ex-Gov. John D. Long the most entertain. Gov. John D. Long the most entertain-

Gov. John D. Long the most enterthing ling.

After toosts to the President and the King Gov. Bates spoke for the commonwealth and Mayor Collins for the city.

United States Senator George E. Hoar responded for "Old Mother England."
He referred feelingly to the death of Sir Michael Herbert. Continuing. Senator Hoar said: "When you go back to old mother England tell her her boys are contented and happy and growing. Give her our best love."

Ench guest when he rose from the table carried with him a silver plate fittingly engraved with the story of the banquet and the occasion for it. In addition to the sonvenir silver plate each guest had tucked away in his pocket a silver eigar case filled with rare cigars and eigarettes, according to the personal tastes of the possessor. This souvenir it fashioned after the style of the carticles pattern.

The flowers and lights were so cleverly interwoven it was almost impossible to distinguish one from the other. The bill of fare was the best the best chefs in Boston could devise, and distinguish one from the other. The bill of fare was the best the best chefs in Boston could devise, and other such delivatives were merely interwoven it was almost impossible to distinguish one from the other. The bill of fare was the best the best chefs in Boston could devise, and other such delivatives were merely interwoven it was almost impossible to distinguish one from the other. The bill of fare was the best the best chefs in Boston could devise, and distinguish one from the other. The bill of fare was the best the best chefs in Boston could devise, and distinguish one from the other. The bill of fare was the best the best chefs in Boston could devise, and the creating the him a silver plate and other such devises were merely interwoven it was almost impossible to distinguish one from the other. The flowers and lights were so cleverly interwoven it was almost impossible to distinguish one from the other.

The flowers and lights were so cleverly interwoven it was almost impossible to disti

The decorations of the banquet hall were one of the most pleasing features of the ensemble.

ten feet high and eight feet wide, con posed of 3500 lights, vari-colored, re-resenting the jewel effects of the figur-At the base was a band of gold, stucrosses.

From these crosses sprang four imperial arches of blazing gold, terminating under a mound surmounted by a maltese cross. The inner cap of crimson velvet, bordered with ermine, all done in lights, completed the resplendent

ζ	Cost	153"	har	141115-	ŧ.								,	P 1		ï		,	S	Co	1
۶	Cost	437	Her	hre	`.		i.						ï		,	,		ı,		1	4	٤.
	('ost	of	11 1	SOTE	ı.			,		. ,				٠.			٠,				ı	,
	("ORT																					-
	Cost	uf	rig	1148							٠.	٠	٠		٠	÷					•
	Num																				*
	Sum																					41
	33,712	- 50	935	rs.			٠.	٠														-
	Palle	21/6	or	WH	C.			>										٠
	Numi	atch.	OF	- elg	11°	٠.,			1													16
	Miles	(1]	1,12	ett:	-	12.1	10	*
	Coure	144	25.00			1 .					•	•	*				1	0					1
	Time	ab	bilt	gee chur	01	, 71	1	2							*		. 1	71 4		1		1
			-					t

Jackstoreville (Alal.)

The Honorable Artillery of London has arrived in Basion, where its members are being entertained by the Ancient and Honorable Artillory in a manner that shows what a distance some men will travel to cultivate a giltedged lag.

Jackson de via.

There is no truth whatever in the report that the only ammunition used by the Reston Ancient and Honorable Ar-Alliery Company is the highwall of commerce.

BEAUTIFUL WOMEN IN SYMPHONY HALL

It is a control of the states from the end and the seeks from the stale, set Lady Dender gown was a simple one of black fer given was a simple one of black with black velvet corsuge bows, of which the with black velvet corsuge, diamonds, and ocarried a magnificent shower bouquet red and white roses fixed with red, and blue ribbon, which for the case hard of the overlage rested upon a baleony rail.

On her right side sat Mrs. Charles H. On her right side with the beart of the company rail.

On he right side sat Mrs. Charles H. On her right side sat Mrs. Charles H. On her right side sat Mrs. B. F. Gleazon, gray and white foundation of the core of the servic Club. Mrs. Emery Grover of the Servia Club, Mrs. D. T. Pettes of Newton, black Mrs. B. F. Gleazon, gray and white foundation of the core of the company of white or repet dependence.

Mrs. J. C. Macdonald, plnk slik chiffon, Mrs. Banche P. Lebock, invite dotted muslin, applique size front.

Mrs. J. C. Macdonald, plnk slik chiffon, Mrs. Banche P. Lebock, white dotted muslin, applique size front.

Mrs. J. C. Macdonald, plnk slik chiffon, Mrs. Banche P. Lebock, invite dotted muslin, applique size front.

Mrs. J. C. Macdonald, plnk slik chiffon, with red, is the five with red, ince yoke and stomacher, diamonds, marry devenue, white fibery six plance, diamonds.

Mrs. J. C. Macdonald, plnk slik chiffon, with red, is the fibery six planted. Chun with the berry six planted. Chun with with planted for the course.

Caranterella ("ind.)

LONDON "ANCIENTS" SEEING BOSTON SIGHTS.

BORTIN, Oct. 5. This was the th addition field day of the Ancient Honorable Artillery company, and a their guests, the Honorable Artill company of London, the Boston p av spent the day in a steamboat a den along the meth shore, the

The salex of leavity so often refer to in the speeches at Symphony to evening flied the balcoales to the sales sisters and other relatives thearts, sisters and other relatives to much to hear the privileged card, of the in their faultiessly gloved hands arrived at Hortloultural Hall thortly before 3 o'clock.

They were all elaborately gowned, and bare arms and shoulders gleamed like livery against the soft justrous siks of their delicate costumes.

Over the red velvet carpet that hid the filter of the stage, in the first trailed siks and velvets, one after another, as they filed in and, passing through lines of soldlers and policemen, found their way to the balconies, where to liver a seat allotted to her.

At the extreme left of the stage, in the first manny, six seats from the end and three seats from the aisle, sat Lady Denligh which is a seat allotted to her.

At the extreme left of the stage, in the first manny, six seats from the end and three seats from the aisle, sat Lady Denligh which is the first manny, six seats from the end and three seats from the aisle, sat Lady Denligh which is the first manny, six seats from the end and three seats from the aisle, sat Lady Denligh which is the first manny six seats from the end and three seats from the aisle, sat Lady Denligh which is the first manny six seats from the end and three seats from the aisle, sat Lady Denligh which is the same of the stage, in the first manny, six seats from the end and three seats from the aisle, sat Lady Denligh which is the same of the later.

Are gown was a simple one of black lace with black velvet corsage bows, classifications.

The stage of loaders and other relatives white chiffon of the stage, in the lair.

Are a seat allotted to her.

Are the extreme left of the stage, in the first manny six seats from the end and three seats from the aisle, sat Lady Denligh and the seat allotted to her.

Are the seat allotted to her.

Are the seat allotted to her.

Are the seat from the sike of the stage, in the lair.

Mrs. A. Neff of Phil

Ottowa, (Cand.,) Journal!

THE ANCIENT ARTILLERY. Boston, Oct. 5.-This was the 266th fall field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, and with their guests the Honourable Artillery Company of London, the Boston company spent the day in a steamboat excursion along the North Shore. The day's programme also includes a reception and banquet in Symphony Hall this evening.

Boston Herald, Oct. 6, 1903.

A HARBOR TRIP FOR LONDONERS

Bad Weather Prevents a Cruise Along the North Shore, but a Jolly Good Time Is Had.

TUGS AND LINERS JOIN IN SALUTES.

The Occasion Enlivened by Band Music and Patriotic and Popular Airs of Both Nations.

A patriotic demonstratioon and a characteristic expression of good-fellowship marked the beginning of yesterday afternoon's harbor trip of the Honourable Artillery Company and their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, on the steamer Nantasket. Shortly after 11 o'clock the two military Shortly after 11 o'clock the two linitary companies marched to the wharf to the music of two bands, and a few moments later, amid the shricking of whistles and sirens, they were off.

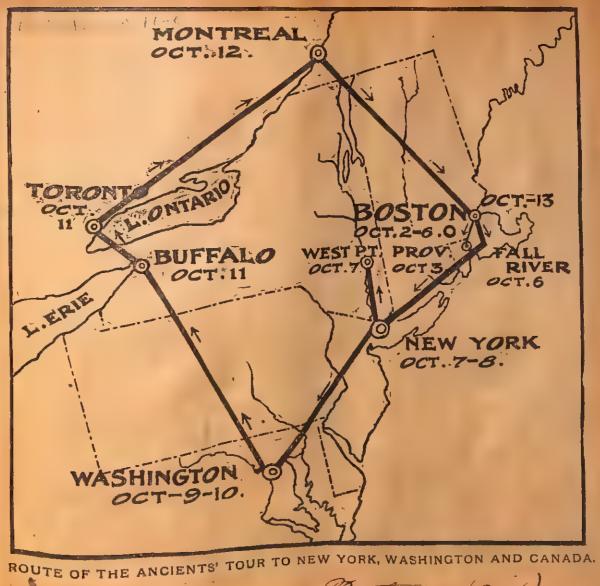

As the steamer headed down the harden the treated the French cruiser bor she passed the French cruiser bor she passed the French cruiser La Troude. The band played the "Marseiliaise," and all on board stood with heads uncovered, while the Frenchman dipped her flag and the Frenchman dipped her flag and the sailors returned the salute with the sailors returned the Honourables and the Ancients remained uncovered as they passed, and the British flag was gracefully dipped.

When the Nantasket neared the U. S. Chleago, the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" floated over the harbon, and the jackies and marines cheered bor, and the jackies and marines cheered wildly. Tugboats, ocean liners and exwildly. Tugboats, ocean liners and extension boats joined in saluting with cursion boats joined in saluting with their whisties, and even a number of their whisties, and even a number of the din. The Honourables responded by waving their hats and handker-by waving their hats and handker-she weither was not ideal for a harby waving their hats and introcerchiefs.

The weather was not ideal for a harbor excursion, the sky being overcast, a strong wind blowing and the sea besing decidedly choppy. So the trip was ing decidedly choppy. So the trip was shortened and, instead of going along the North Shore, the steamer remained inside the harbor, parsing the various islands, and then proceeded along Pemberton, Nantasket Beach and other points so the guests could get a gond idea of Massachusetts' famous suitamer resorts. Favorable comment was frequently hourd.

: Bostose Sterlald! Oct. 6, 1903.

Lagues Sterre, Oct. 6, 1903.

The grand banquet of the Ancients and the H. A. Co., in Symphony Hall, Boston, Monday night, was a function of rare magnificence, if we accept the Slowing accounts of the affair in the morning papers. The electric effects, the flowers and the menu, were all that had been anticipated, but the speaking Was of uncommon excellence. The outside world can share with the guests the pleasure of the eloquent words spoken by those who replied to the toasts, and derive a pleasure of an enduring kind. Senator Hoar was very happy in his words of welcome, Governor Bates at his best, and Governor Long, as he always is, quite charming, The chief Englishman in the party met all the conditions of an after dinner speech. In fact, all the speeches were excellent, and a spirit of traternity existed that cannot be quickly dispelled. Occasions like this one are somotimes given too much weight, and the words spoken taken to mean more than those who utter them will lat r encorse, or that will receive general acceptance, but the bringing together of two such bodies of representative citizens of nations with a common beginning and the same language, cannot will to aid in binding them more clar is together, and screngthening the bonds that make for Portland, (Ore!,) Oregoniani.
Oct. 5, 1903. REDCOATS GO TO CHURCH

Ancient Artillery of Boston Escorts London Visitors.

BOSTON, Oct. 4.-The quietness of Sun-BOSTON, Oct. 4.—The quietness of Sunday was stirred today by the sound of martial music as the Honorable Artillery Company of London and their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of this city, marched through some of the Back Bay streets to Trinity Church. The services in that edifice had been arranged by the British residents of this city, and the marde included, besides the two retired. the parade included, besides the two mili-tary bodies, those army and navy veterans of the British service whose homes are in this city. The line of march was well lined with speciators.

The procession was under the leadership of Lieutenant-Colonel C. S. Courtney, whose staff for the day, included many British officers, members of a large num-ber of independent military organizations the United States Army. At the conclusion of the service the parade reformed and marched to the American House, where the several organizations were en-tertained at luncheon.

Some members of the visiting corps, including the Earl of Denbigh, did not attend the services at Trinity Church, but went to the Cathedral of the Holy Cress with Mayor Collins in the morning. two organizations will leave on their triff to the Middle States, and Canada now

Boston Achled Oct. 6, 1903, A VERITABLE GARDEN.

Elaborate Decorations the Result of Months of Thought and Work of Florist Galvin.

The floral decorations, which were on a scale unsurpassed at any public celebration in the city of Boston, if not in the country, were under the per-Galvin. It was not the work of a few days, nor a few weeks, but had been in

Omaka; (Tel:) World - Neva Cd Oct. 5. 100,5

BRITISH ARTILLERY COMPANY March in a Body to Church Serve

ices at Boston. Boston Mass, Otto The quint set the Spot, if we address to today by so interferential new case the Hono.

Buston Ferent, Oct. 6, 1903.

SEN. HOAR'S GREAT SPEECH TO LONDON HONOURABLES

Oct. 6, 1903.

LONDONERS ON EXCURSION. Honourable Artillery Company to

Spoud the Day with the Ancients

Along the North Shere.

Boston, Oct. 6 .- This is the 266th fall field day of the Ancient and Honorable Arrillery Company, and with their puests, the Honourable Artitlery Com. pany of Landon, the Boaton men are puny of London, the Boston men are sponding the day in a steamboat excurcion along the North shore. The programme included a reception and banquet in Symphony Hall this evening. At 10 o'clock the members of the home company assembled at their armory, in Fancuil Hall, and soon afterward formed in line on South Market extent to receive their English friends. abort march took the column to

To London Honourables

To London Honourables

The first speech ever made on this content is still use of the best, It was made by the Indian sachem Samoset to the Pitgrim fathers at Piymouth, on Mar, 15, 120. It sums up in two words everything the said on this occasion: The Digital Markers at Piymouth, on Mar, 15, 120. It sums up in two words everything the said on this occasion: The beginning of many faces, it is said that, leaving out the same proportions, the face, it is bout the same proportions, the face, it is bout the same proportions, the face, it is bout the same proportions, the face is an intended to be said on this open the said of the beginning of the beginning the mode of it the through the modern of the beginning the modern of the beginning. It is not the same shadow of the face of the beginning. It is not the same shadow of the beginning. It is not the beginning the father of the beginning the father of the beginning. It is not the beginning. It is not the beginning the father of the begin

Knopville (and.) Forereal Tribune! Oct. 5, 1903

SABBATH QUIETNESS BROKEN

By Marching of the Honorable Artillery Company and Hosts.

Boston, Oct. 4. -The quietness of the subbath was stirred today by the sound of martial music as the Honourable Artillery company of London and their tillery company of London and their hosts, the Aucient and Honorable artillery company of this city, marched through the streets to Trinity church. The services in the edifice had been arranged by the British residents of this city and the parade included, besides the two military hodies, those army and navy reterates of the British service whose homes are in this city. The line of march was well hard with spectators.

At the conclusion of the service, the parade reformed and marched to the American house, where the several organizations were entertained at inacheon.

Gordond St. A.,) Oct. 6, 1963. NEW YORK.

London Honourables Leave Boston for an Extensive Sight Seeing Trip.

NIAGARA AND WASHINGTON.

Escorted by Their Hosts, the Ancients of Boston-Last Night's Big Banquet.

Boston, Oct. 6 .- The much heralded tour throughout this country and Canada of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Massachusetts, having as its guests the Ancient and Honourable artillery company of London, began today, after four days of entertainment and sightseeing in this sec-tion. All officers and members of the London company, about 165 in number, started on the trip. The escorting column of the Ancients and Honorables is 150 strong. After yesterday's strenuous day the members of both companies were allowed to take a rest during the

The members of the home company began to assemble at the armory in Faneuil hall at noon. An hour later they appeared on the street and marched to Court Square, where they took their guests under escort and con-ducted them to the South Terminal sta-

By special train a star was made for New York via Fall River, where the two companies were to be entertained until the departure of the stoamer by the First Heavy Artillery. M. V. M., and the Massachusetts naval brigade.

Tylacuses M. J.) HONOURABLES AT CHURCH.

To-day Boston's British Guests Take Excursion and Nourishment.

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—Service at Trinity church in the afternoon was the chief event of Sunday for the Honourable Artillery company of London, now the guests of the Ancients and Honorables

The services were arranged by the Pritish residents of Boston and were preceded by a parade, participated in by the English and American Honorables and by the army and navy vetarins of the British service now in this erans of the British service now in this

The program for to-day calls for a harbor excursion and a banquet in the evening. The visitors and their hosts will leave for their frip through the Middle States and Canada to-morrow. Brooklaged 4 1:31.,1 Citizene, 903. A PATRIOTIC CANOPY.

"Old Glory" Will Be Conspicuous When "The King's Own" Enters Madison Square Garden.

When "The King's Own," the Honourable Artillery Company of London, follows the tap of British drums into the Old Guard Fair Thursday evening, the English gunners will gave up at a wonderful canopy of patriotic red, white and blue, which underlies the entire roof of the amphithenter of Madison Square Garden. The fair's manager, Alfred Chasseaud, told C. H. Koster, the Old Gnard's official decorator and illuminator, that he wanted a chief feature in the decorations, which would have no precedent. The feature furnished in response comprise the four largest American flags ever made, each 100 by 200 feet. Each star is six feet high, and each stripe seven and one-half feet wide. The flags are gracefully draped, and for the center for the harmonious and elaborate scheme of color and decoration for the Old Guard's thoroughly military fair.

Over the center of the amphitheater hangs high a British flag, measuring 20 by 30 feet, flanked by two American flags, each of the same dimensions as those of their English neighbor. British banners float proudly from the volumes supporting the canopy. All this regard for the colors of the British Empire is in compliment and deference to the oldest existing military organization in the world, the Honourable Artillery Company of London, which will march into the Garden Thursday

The balconies and boxes are decorated with American colors in great profusion.
At the center and at the intersection of the main company streets which have been laid out upon the main floor, kneels a mammeth state. moth statue of Psyche, high in the air. upon a snow-clad mountain. On all sides of these company streets are white tents for booths, surmounted by golden eagles. shields, battle axes and silk flags.

The ground plan of the military encamp ment in the Garden embraces an oval promenade twenty feet wide, terminating in a parade ground on the southern side; this plaza will afford room for the trooping of the colors by the British, the continental tracking of the colors by the British, the continental tracking of the colors by the British and the colors by the British the continental tracking of the colors by the British tracking of the colors by the colors by the colors by the British tracking of the colors by the colors tal tactics of the Minute Men, under Colo nel M. A. Winter, from Washington, and the other quaint and ancient visiting military organizations and Knights Templar commanderies, and the dress parade of the

Oswego, A.J. Palladium, Oct. 5, 1903. A $50,000 DINNER.

Boston Giving the English Visitors a Grand Good Time.

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—This is the 265th Fallfield day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, and a program for the day's celebration and the entertainment was prepared that, commencing early this forenoon, will end well, any time before sunrise to-morrow morning. After a street parade this morning the company and its guests went on a harbor excursion, which lasted well into the afternoon,

This evening the big banquet will be given at Symphony Hail, to which function 1,000 members and guests have been invited. The dinner has been prepared with the most exacting fastidiousness and will cost $50,000. Three hundred waiters will be in attendance and the wines will be poured by seventy-five specially selected men.

Colmira 1, 51:3., 1 Cazette Oct: 5, 1903. THEDINNER WILLCOST $50,000

Boston Artillery Company's Feast in Honor of British Visitors Tonight.

Boston, Oct. 5 .- This is the 266th fall field day of the Ancient and Honourable Artillery Company, and a program for the day's celebration and the entertainment has been prepared that, commencing early this morning, will endwell, any time before sunrise tomorrow

After a street parade this morning the company and its guests went on a barbor excursion which lasted well into the afternoon. This evening the big banquet will be given in Symphony Hall, to which function 1,000 members and guests have been invited.

The dinner has been prepared with the most exacting fastidiousness and will cost $50,000. Three hundred waiters will be in attendance and the wines will be poured by seventy-five specially se-

- Tew York St. J., 1 Oct. 6, 1903.

THE HONOURABLES BANQUETED

Received by Boston Ancients Beneath Golden Crown in Symphony Hali.

BOSTON, Oct. 5.-The members of the Honourable Artillery Company of London were banqueted this evening by their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston. Symphony Hall, in which pany of Boston. Symphony Hall, in which the banquet was served, was artistically decorated, the main feature of the decorations being an electrically lighted golden crown which hung high above the ban-

It was but a few minutes after 7 o'clock when Col. Hedges motioned for silence, and grace was said by the Rev. Edward Everett Hale. Two hours were consumed in the discussion of the substantial part of the evening programme, which follows:

Clear green turtle.

Clear green turtle.

Prince Aliert Sherry.

Aiguillettes of hallbut Cardinal.

Cucumbers. Potatoes Hollandaise.

Hatt sauternes.

Tournedos of filet of beef a la Prepillot.

String beans.

Pommery See et Brut.

Epigrammes of sweet breads sedizae.

Green pass

Sorbet à la militure

Sorbet à la militure

Sorbet and tomato 'eslad

Petit fours.

Cheese.

Cigars.

Cigars.

ANCIENTS AND HONORABLES AT A $60,000 BANQUET Sumptuous Climax to the Visit of the Public & Hedger, Oct. 6, 1909.

London Redcoats to Boston

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—Eight score members of the Honorable Artillery Company of London were the guests to-night at the 256th anniversary banquet of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, Sumptuous in every detail, and with many of Massachusetts' representative men as after dinner speakers, the entire affair proved a splendid climax to the stay of the Londoners in this city. It is said the entire affair cost $60,000. A small army of waiters was employed to serve the dinner, and it is said that 400 gailons of wine were provided for the occasion.

Above the Jong tables, one of which stretched the entire width of the stage in Symphony Hall, streamed festions of alternate English laurel and electric globes, coming to an apex where blazed a golden crown. At the rear of the stage was the shield of the Honorable Company of London, and facing it on the balcony, on the opposite side of the hall, was that of the Ancient Company of Boston, both surrounded with electric lights, while on either side of the crown, above, hung, in bright figures, "1537-1633," the dates of the charters of the two organizations. The tables were strewn with smillax, roses and orchids, and, in addition, each thad in its centre a massive laurel wreath, in which glittered small electric globes of pink and yellow.

Into the banqueting hall marched the glittered small electric globes of pink and yellow.

Into the banqueting hall marched the two companies side by side, each Ancient escorting an Honorable.

The speeches which followed the dinner all had as their text the firmer weigling of the bond of friendship between the two countries. That of Senator Hoar was the most scholarly, and that of ex-Governot John D. Long the most entertaining After tosses to the President and the King, Governor Bates spoke for the Commonwealth and Mayor Collins for the ctwy Senator Hoar responded for "Old Mother England." He referred feelingly to the death of Sir Michael Herbert.

"It was the ambittion of his life," and Senator Hoar, "that he might produce condition between the two countries. No man was ever better fitted for that office. Ingland could be the office, Ingland could be the office, Ingland could be the speakers we see and will in Washington during his brief service."

Among the other speakers we seed at

Among the beautiful and the half they were presented with souvenir plates, on which were engraved the arms of England and America, London and Boston and the two

Oct. 5, 1903

OF BOSTON'S SABBATH

HONORABLES STIR QUIET

Ancient Companies March t

Church Service With Brit-

BOSTON, October 4.-The quietness of

ROSTON, October 4.—The quietness the Sabbath was attreed to-day be seeind of marifol music as the Hono Artillery Company, of London, and hosts, the Ancient and Honorable lery Ce, pany, of this city, to through linek Bay streets to city, and the parade included army an navy veterans of the British service wh

After the services the organizations were entertained at luncheon at the America

Phinderphia, Co · Indie · · · rou ser a ce

Jet 7, .403 GALLANT ANCIENT'S PARTING KISS WAS Soslores Frances !!

Risks Being Left by Special Train in Order to Bid Wife Loving Farewell. Other Incidents of Visitors' Departure.

Am any the scores of Ancients who tacking the trip inland with the A C there is one who, it is safe at his matter how be may conhibe eff while on the trip, or what t to the politic no matter how to reported to have combucted will never be compelled to it is made good with his train by this time was nearly train by this time was nearly last may out of the station, but he tore after it at a speed that would have put many an athiete to blush. The vast crowd searcely broathed. Then from many throats went up shouts of encouragement. The platform of the car was filled with men ready to give their artene comrade a helping hand, but for at heat a quarter of a minute it seemed as those in would be left benind, its perfect that a quarter of a minute it seemed as those in would be left benind. Its perfect the case of the many shouts of the mean in uniform he was pulled abound.

Crowd Breathless.

Fire and a Fool.

While the imgo crowd was walting In the station for the Ancients and the Honourables to take the train, come-mischic your chap dropped some pipe ashes into ont of those noif harrels used for rubbish. In account order a thin

Majolh, (Val.) Disputch Oct. 5, 1903. OH. ANCIENTS!

We cannot but admire the overflowing hospitality with which Boston has greeted the Honorable Articlery Company of London. Led by its own Ancients, whose belted brawn has been the theme of martial inspiration for feveral geenrations, the home of culture and the sacred coddsh has done itself proud. Before the viciting warriors had acquired their land legs they were the centre of a stupendous parade, and the climax of the celebration—is it needful to specify that it is a banquet?-is already in prepara-

Recognition of valor is a beautiful thing, and the sight of our old-time foes quaffing the cup of friendship with out historic defenders is calculated to touch the patrictic heart. Yet we are disturbed a little by one announcement. "The first of the entertainments accorded to the visitors," we read, "was a moker in Fancuil Hall."

Shades of Hancock and Winthrop! The walls which echoed the deathless tones of patriotic demunciation to ook down upon a vaudeville show! The rooms where the incense of liberty first arose to be obscured by the exhalations of tobacco from a jovial crowd of merrymakers!

Philadelphians will need no urging to shrink from the picture. If it were seriously suggested to hold a cakewalk in Independence Hall the shock could not be greater.

It was well for Boston to surrender to the friendly invaders. But she should have made terms that would have preserved her shrine from desecration.—Philadelphia North American.

Auburn St. T.) Buccetion. Oct. 6, 1903.

BEING ROYALLY ENTERTAINED.

BOSTON, Oct. 5,-This was the 286th Fall field day of the Ancient and Honourable Artillery company and with their guests, the Honourable Artillery company of London, the Boston company spent the day in a steamer excursion along the North shore. The day's programme also included a reception and banquet in Symphony hall this evening.

At 10 o'clock the members of the home company assembled at their arm-ory and soon afterwards formed in line on South Market street to receive the English comrades. A short march brought them to Rowe's wharf, where a steamer was boarded for the day's > Tolacho, (9.1) Oct. 5, 1900. ARTHLERY FIELD DAY.

Feorea (Ell.) Hersed Transcript, Oct. 6, 1903.

HONCORALLE ARTIFLERY BANQUETEE AT BOSTON

Are the Guests of the Ancient and Honourable Artillery Company.

AFF. IR WAS A SUMPTUOUS ONE

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—Eight score of the Honograble Artillery company of London were banqueted tonight by the Ancient and Honograble Artillery company of Boston.

Sumptuous in every detail and with many of Massachusett's representative men, after dinner speakers, the entire affair proved a splendid climax to the stay of the Londoners in this city.
The speeches which followed the dinner had as their text the tirmer welding of the bond of friendship between the two countries.

After toasts to the president and the king, Governor Bates spoke for the commonwealth and Mayor Collins for the city. United States Senator George F. Hoar responded for "Old Mother England." He referred f-elingly to the death of Sir Michael Herbert. Continuing Senator Hoar and.

chiel Herbert. Continuing Schatch Transaid:

"We hope you will feel at home while you are here. When you go back to old mother England tell her her boys are contented and happy and growing. Give her our best love. Tell her we think of her with nothing but friendliness and good will."

In conclusion he said: "We mourn with good will."

In conclusion he said: "We mourn with you for the loss of your sagacious queen, allke the type of gentlest womanhood and the most illustrious sovereign in history. "We look to you with confident anticipation and desire for a long and happy reign for her successor."

Among the other speakers were former Governor John D. Long and Gen. William A. Bancroft.

A. Bancroft.

Before the guests left the hall each was presented with a souvenir plate on which were engraved the arms of England and America, London and Boston, and the two companies.

Bostore Rewood. Oct. 5, 1903.

This criticism for the display of the British colors from the top of Bunker Hill monument is another case of misfirected patriotism. There was no pretifer way of paying a delicate compliment to the London Honourable Artillery Co. on their visit here, and it has not wounded one bit our pride in the heroism of the American troops whose valor the monument commemorates. It heroism of the American troops whose valor the monument commemorates. It has been 50 years since the "English peril" ceased to be seriously considered in this country, and it exists today only in the prejudices of narrow minds. England did her part in wiping out old antagonisms when she refused to join the European coalition against us at the European coalition against us at the Philadelphia (Ta!,) Trees.

Oct. 5, 1903.

Welcome to London Soldiers.

Welcome to London Soldiers.

The Old Guard Fair will open to-morrow night at Madison Square Garden, Workinen were busy to-day, putting finishing touches to the general scheme for the opening. In recognition of the Honorable Artillery Company, of London, and its bost, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetis, who will be guests of honor at the fair, the British ensure is much in evidence. The feel don Honorables will errive on Wednesday afternoon. On Thursday there will be a complimentary reception to the Angles of Massachusetts and their hardest ruces.

Bostone Gournal! Oct. 7, 1903.

BRITISH EVACUATE BOSTON ONCE

London Artillery Company With Their Hosts, the Boston Ancients, Start on Inland Trip Amid Enthusiasm.

For the second time in its history Boston was evacuated by the British yesterday afternoon. After an invasion of four days, marked by unbounded peace, good will and fellowship, pageants, sur-prises and a rollicking round of entertainment, King Edward's sturdy soldier boys, led by their gallant chieftain, Lord Denbigh, and accompanied by their big-hearted hosts, the Ancients, departed for an eight days' trip through the

The Englishmen will be missed during their absence, for brief as their stay has been, they managed to find a warm sp in the public heart. Boston will be glad. to welcome them again when they return from Canadian soil on Oct. 13, but mean-while will settle back into its normal

The large and merry band of tourists was sent away from the South Station at 2 P. M., with the plaudits of assemwas sent away from the plaudits of assembled thousands ringing in their ears. It was a tumultuous ovation, a flattering "bon voyage," to all of which the little cannon on the rear platform of the last car saucily replied as the long special, consisting of fourteen coaches, glided away.

Conspicuous among the cheering host, were the several hundred Ancients who did not go on the junket. These gave their guests and associates a rousing send-off, interspersed with wishes for a pleasant journey and a safe return. And the same fervor was manifested along the entire line of march, every thoroughfare being walled with enthusiastic sightseers, as has been the case every time the visitors have marched.

Up Bright and Early.

Notwithstanding that all hands did not get to bed until the "small hours" after the dazzling feast at Symphony Hall, they were up bright and early Hall, they were up bright and early yesterday morning, preparing for the junket. Col. Hedges and his staff were busy attending to details, and were valiently assisted as they have been throughout by Secretary Arthur T. Lovell of the Ancients.

Until the return of the party official headquarters of the Ancient and Honourable Company at Young's Hotel will be closed as well as the headquarters of the Ten-of-Us Club at the Revere House.

House.

The packing of kits was early attended to by both companies. At Parker's and Young's the British spent in lively hour packing, as every garment must be folded in compliance with Enthusiasm Intense.

A big detail of police was stationed at the terminal, which was roped off inside. A broad pathway was cleared from the Dewey square entrance to thunderous.

Crowds lined the adjoining platforms, the associates and relatives of the Ancients being conspicuous. The uniformed men poked their arms and heads out of the windows and waved from the car platforms. Lord and Lady Denbigh were roundly cheered it is had been a regiment bound for war there would not have been more hustle and picturesque flash of color and clink of steel.

Baggage Well Handled.

In order that all the Ancients who In order that all the Ancients who make the trip with their guests may be able to meditate fancy free and have the entire time to themselves, the transportation of baggage has been placed in veit's baggage on his "round the circle" trip.

To each Ancient and each member of the English company was given early yesterday morning a colored slip, or the train on which the luggage was to be stored. The yellow, red and green tickets were for the first section of the train, the blue for the second. The yellow is the thing, for every place of baggage thus taked will travel in the special car Columbia.

At the Ancients' armory in Faneuil Hall, at Parker's and at Young's yesterday morning the baggage masters were stationed, and as each soldier put in an appearance his grip or portmanteau was taken in charge. As often as a wagon load was accumulated it was sent down to the station. There it was at once placed in the train without having to pass through the baggage room. In this way the enormous task was accommissed with the least possible trouble.

Gommissary Complete.

The commissary department was han-died as easily. The goods, wet and dry, were sent directly to the train and were sent directly to the train and there stored in one end of a buggage car. Later, when the great special train was taken, a buffet was erected in the forward end of each section, where those things that cheer and keep, the tired from fainting, can be found.

Bostone Gornale

CHEERING THRONG FILLS PIER AT NEWPORT

Newport, R. L. Oct. 6.—When the Fall River line steamer Puritan reached here tonight, having on board the Ancient

The Aucient and Honorable Artillerymen of London and Boston now fraternizing in the latter town won't bother their heads about the Hub's milk famine. Milk, as Mulvaney would say, . . . their "divarsion."

Oreca go ("im. burt Oct 6, 1703

HONORABLES LEAVE BOSTON.

London Artillery Company and Escort

By The Associated Press. Boston, Mass., Oct. 6.—The much-heralded ed tour throughout this country and Canada of the Ancient and . .. Honorable Artillery company of Massa able Artillery company of London gan to-day after four ment and sightseeing in this section.

All officers and

LARL DENBIGH. By special tra.

entertained until the departure of the steamer by the 1st heavy artiflery, M. V. M., and the Hassachusetts naval brigade A $60,000 hanquet was spread in Symphony hall last night for the Honorable Art.llery company of London. It was the most elaborate banquet given in the United States. The clottic lights worked into all kinds of devices around the dinning hall and about the tables cost $6,010 and the flowers cost $300. The Ancient and Honorable Artiflery company of Boston paul the bill. Scan'er Honr and ex-Gov. Long were among the speakers.

Postare "- unicisti oct. 7, 1903.

GREAT PREPARATIONS FOR DAY IN NEW YORK

New York, Go C Tomorr w will be a galt Giv in New York for the Australiand Honors I Action to Company (

. Miladelphia, Gal, Press,

TO WELCOME BRITISH SOLDIERY

tall bearskin shakes and beety at the Old Guard of Pennsylvadiest foot soldiery, the Infantry at the Old Guard of Pennsylvadiest foot soldiery, the Infantry at the Old Guard of Pennsylvadiest foot soldiery, the Infantry at the State Fencibles will return to Phildian Itemsonable Artillery of Lonstate in the Old Guard weldid the Itemsonal at 8; this morning and upon their are now York today. The members of the defense of the country in the then rapidly approaching war with Great Britain, the Infantry Corps State Fencibles has been away for the national or State Governments in every conflict sit 2s that date.

Among the members of the Old Guard who will participate in the parade today are: Major William A. Withthe Minute Men, from Washingthe Old Sungard Artillery Comthe Old Guard of the Old Guard of State Governmour thies to the Waldorf-Astoria, the composed of the Old Guard of State Governmour thies to the Waldorf-Astoria,
the composed of the Old Guard of State Governmour thies to the Waldorf-Astoria,
the composed of the Old Guard of State Governmour thies to the Waldorf-Astoria,
the Composed of the Old Guard of State Governmour thies to the Waldorf-Astoria,
the composed of the Old Guard of State Governmour thies to the Waldorf-Astoria,
the Composed of the Old Guard of State Governmour thies to the Waldorf-Astoria, the Composed of the Old Guard of Thompson. Captain Releast J.
The State Fencibles will return to Phildephia at midnight.
Organized in response to a call, issued in June, 1812, for the defense of the country in the then rapidly approachming war with Great Britain, the Infantry Corps State Fencibles will return to Phildephia at midnight.
Organized in response to a call, issued in June, 1812, for the defense of the country in the then rapidly approachming war with Great Britain,
the State Fencibles will return to Phildephia at midnight.
Organized in response to a call, issued in June, 1812, for the defense of the organized in response to a call, is · increments (Gall.) Agamboat Excursion Along the North Shore

1800sal City (200.,) June 1903.

HOAR'S EULOGY OF SIR HERBERT. The Banquet to London's Honorable Ar-tillery Company in Boston.

Boston, Oct. 5 .- One hundred and sixty members of the Honorable artillery com pany of London were banqueted to-night by the Ancient and Honorable artillery company of Boston at Symphony hall The affair was sumptuous in every detail and many of Massachusetts's representative men made after dinner speeches. The decorations of the banquet hall were elaborate.

The speeches had as their text the firmer welding of the bond of friendship between the two countries. United States Senator George F. Hoar responded for "Old Mother England." He referred feelingly to the death of Sir Michael Herbert. "It was the ambition of his life," said Senator Hoar, "that he might produce cordial relations between the two countries. No man was ever better fitted for that office. England could not have chosen a man fitter to send with her meshosen a man fitter to send with her meshous mesho

Continuing. Senator Hoar said: "We hope you will feel at home while you are here. When you go back to Old Mother England tell her her boys are contented and happy and growing. Give her our best love. Tell her we think of her with perhing but friendliness and good will nothing but friendliness and good will. We mourn with you for the loss of your gracious queen, alike the type of gentlest womanhood and the most illustrious sovereign in history. We look to you with confident anticipation and desire for a long and happy reign for her successor."

Among the other speakers were exGovernor John D. Long and General William A. Bancroft. Before the guests with the hall there was presented to each left the hall there was presented to each one a souvenir plate on which were engraved the arms of England and America, London and Boston, and the two com-

Boston Journal.

Today's Program

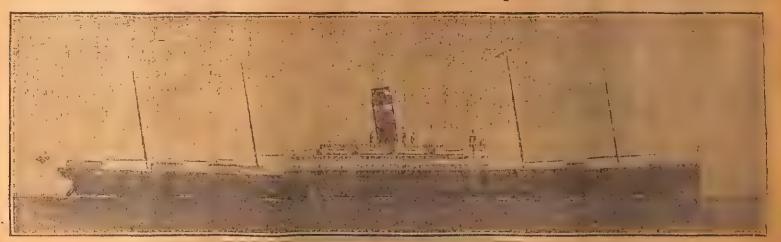

Today the Ancients and the guests will go to West Point, where there will be a review of the Cadet Battalion.

Upon arriving in New York late in the afternoon, the two companies will be escorted to their hotel by the Old Guard and by companies representing the Minute Men of Washington, D. C., the Newport Artillery, the Bristol Train of Artillery, the Governor's Foot Guards of Hartford, Conn., the First Light Infantry of Providence, the Richmond Blues, and the Cleveland Grays. The Old Guard will tender them a banquet at Sherry's in the evening.

Oct. 5, 1900

Boston Herald,

New 15,000-Ton Steamship Columbus of Dominion Line On Way to Boston for Return Trip with the Honourables

Boston Journal! Oct. 7, 1903

THE LAST OF THE H. A. C.'S BOARDING THE SPECIAL WHICH TOOK THE ANCIENTS AWAY

Daytori, (0,) - 1000

HAD FIELD DAY.

BOSTON, Oct. 5-This was the 266th Henorable Artillery company, and with their guests, the Honorable Artillery comPhiladelphia (Tai,) Boston Feeld, Oct. 7, 1903.

HONOURABLES START OFF ON THEIR WEEK'S TOUR

THE COUNTESS OF DENEIGH.

From the first and only sitting made in America, by Elmir Chickering & Co., specially for The Boston Herald.

Conditions, St. J.)

Bonton's Quiet Disturbed.

Columbus (0.,) Disportis

BRITISH GUESTS GO ON EXCURSION.

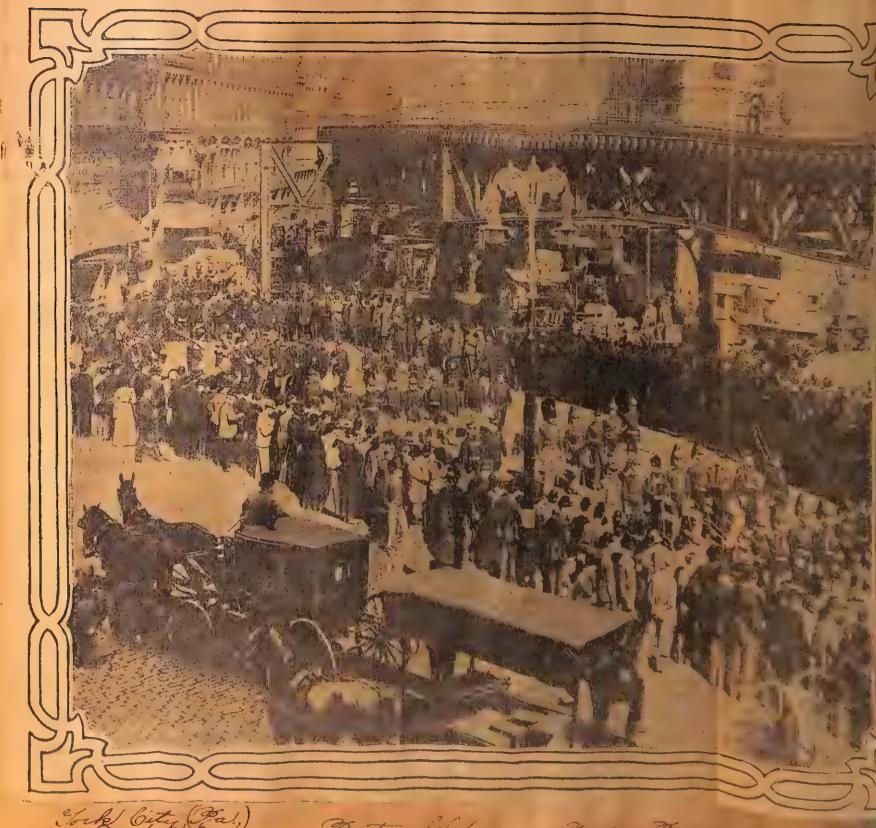

Boston, Oct. 5.-This was the 266th

Sand Diego, (bal!,) Union. Oct. 5, 1903. LONG HOURS OF PLEASURE

Boston, Oct. 3—The English soldier visitors did not complete the first day's programme of entertainment prepared for them, until after 2 ct-lock this their American holds had provided for their almerican holds had provided for their ideasms. The programme ar-lenged by the host, the Ancient and Honorable Artille vicinities of Hoston, was a trip to Providence as guests of the Providence as guests of

Boston Ferald, Oct. 7, 1903

The Ancients Turning Into Dewey Square Yesterday Afternoon, On Their Way, with the Honourables, to Take Fall River T

Oct 5, 1900

Postore Feched With Their Escort of Ancients They Go from Here to Fall River and Thence on to New York.

. I Depotet to the Beston Hernld 1

... RIVER, Oct. 6, 1903. The d the Artifery Company of Lon-E ton reached Fall River e afternoon, on their way to at the automobiles owned .. tizens, and some 40,000 pairs of Lie, of attraction were Lord and Lie, brough! It was the first 11 Ten y mirraed many thousands of dants to see a real live earl t ... , p. Mal. Budworth of

Pattery M. 11 to M. 12 M

Patrory I, lat togic, ent, of Brockton, Capt. The P ist a result of New Bedford, Contract H, and a green springfield Libert Contract Favor Fall River, Lieut,

The first state of the state of Company F masa's big de Lynn, Lieut. Turns of the light o

Those having the comfort of the visitors in charge expressed appreciation of the hospitality displayed. Upon the departure of the New York boat this evening colored fires were lighted and deafening cheers accorded the departure Ancients. The enthusiasm was generally in excess of all expectation.

GIVEN A GALLANT SEND-OFF.

Immense Crowds Line the Sidewalks as the Honourables and Their Escort March to South Station.

The Honourable Artillery Company of London bade au revoir to Boston and started away yesterday afternoon on the flying trip about the country, from which it will return Oct. 13.

Lord and Lady Denbigh made use of Lord and Lady Denbigh made use of the morning hours yesterday to visit a photographer and ait for 43 negatives, of which 23 were made of Lord Denbigh in uniform.

At Faneuit Hall, where the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company has its armory, there was all the excitement and bustle attendant upon the departure of a regiment. The baggage train of the Ancients as well as of the London visitors presented an imposing array of heavily laden vans as it moved away 'oward the South terminal. When the Ancients had fully reported there were four companies, two of artillery and two of infantry, which, with the Lori of 30 pieces, numbered 141 men, Col. Oakes, as first lieutenant of the company, was in command when it left the armory, and the finakers were tapts, Philemen Warren, and John G. Warner. Col. Charles K. Darling, the adjutant, formed his line with romarkable promptness, the Ancients leaving the armory at 1:00 o'clock. As formed, the command moved in this order:

Band guide, Msj. George H. Quinby. Salem Cadet band, 3. Missed director.

the command moved in this order;

Band guide, Maj. George H. Quinby.

Salem Cadet band, J. Missud director.

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company.

Col. Oakes commander.

Baff-Col. A. M. Ferris, chief of staff, Maj.

B. D. Hill, suigeon, Leut, F. W. Anbott s.

Bistant surgeon; Lient, E. A. Davidson, assisting the surgeon; Lient, E. A. Davidson, assisting to the surgeon; Lient, E. A. Holler, the surgeon of the surgeon; Lient, E. A. Folson, Lient, George Allen, Seight, T. A. A. Folson, Lient, George Allen, Seight, Sales, E. Minn, and E. M. Sales, S. Minn, and S. Minn, and S. M. Sales, S. Minn, and S

A. A. Folsom, Licut. George Allen, bergt. Fred Unen ort Capt. Frank F. Olney and Lieut. W. J. Courtner. Is a Rhude Island light infantry; Coi. Theyer, Licut. Col. C. G. Loighton, Maine rational guard; Capt. Frost of Cambridge: Licut. Doyle Carmody, Licutenant-Commander Edgar, Massachusettia naval brigade; Lieut. Doyle Carmody, United States naval reserve. Sergt. Daniel Powers, Sergt. Daniel Downers, Sergt. Daniel Company of Infantry, Sergt. Richard Whitman. State Date of Artillery, Sergt. Oharles Poster, Strong battery of artillery, Sergt. Oharles Poster, Company proceeded through Dock

The company proceeded through Dock spare and Cornhill to Tremont street, Whi re it halted with the right resting to School street. Here Col. Hedges took command.

Summer street, whose sidewalks were jammed with onlookers.

At the South station the Ancients and their guests for the long trip were given a most enthusiastic send-off. Dewey square was crowded to overflowing with humanity.

The reception of the Honourables as they entered the station was tumultuous. They were applauded and cheered to the echo. So perfect was the arrangement of all plans for the embarkation of the company of 225 who will make the trip that there was no delay in boarding the two magnificent special trains, which left at 2 o'clock sharp.

Lady Denbigh and party will remain in New York for several days, and Lady Denbigh will return to Boston for a few days to await the return of Lord Derbigh, when they will make a tour of Canada and the West. Lord and Lady Denbigh will be in this country about a couple of months.

DENBIGH OF MANY TITLES.

House Founded by Geoffrey, Count of Hapsburgh, Who Fled from Germany -Novelist Fielding a Connection.

Away back in the time of King Henry III., of England, one Geoffrey, Count of Hapsburgh, having been reduced to great poverty by the oppression of Rudolph, Emperor of Germany, fled to England and settled there. His son, Sir Geoffrey garred under King Henry III.

dolph, Emperor of Germany, fied to England and settled there. His son, Sir Geoffrey, served under King Henry III. In his wars in England and assumed the surname of Felding or Feliding. In 1620, William Feliding, son of Basil Feliding, Sheriff of Warwickshire, was created Baron of Newnham Paddockes. Warwick, and Viscount Feliding, and in 1622 Earl of Denbigh.

Then, a matter of 250 years having passed, during which the descendants of the oppressed nobleman who had fied from Germany fought valiantly for their King, their Lady and their God, married, got children and died, there was born May 26, 1859, Rudolph Robert Basil Aloysius Augustine Feliding, the Earl of Denbigh. Viscount Feliding, the Earl of Denbigh. Viscount Feliding, the Earl of Denbigh. Viscount Feliding, the Haron Feliding of Newham Paddox and Lord St. Liz in England; Earl of Desmond. Viscount Callan and Baron Feliding in Ireland; J. P., C. C. and D. L. for Warwickshire, late Capt. R. H. A., and licutenant-colonel commanding the Honourable Artillery Company, and the same who has been cheered so heartly in Boston these last few days.

His wife, Lady Denbigh, whom he married Sept. 23, 1881, is the daughter of the eighth Lord Clifford of Chudeleigh. They have six children. The Clifford lineage dates back to the time of Henry II, when Walter, son of Richard Fitz Ponz, married Marsaret, daughter and helr of Ralph de Toeni, by whom he acquired Clifford Castle, in Herefordshire. His daughter was the celebrated Fair Rosamond.

daughter was the celebrated Fair Rosamond.

In both families there were both men and women who helped to make the history of England. And not only were there valiant soldlers, but men of letters, there valiant soldlers, but men of letters. Henry Fielding, author of "Tom Jones," Henry Fielding, author of most distinguished novelists of England, was the guished novelists of England, was the son of Edmond, the son of George, first of Sallsvbury, the son of George, first Earl of Denbigh, while the son of the Earl of Denbigh are The arms of the Earl of Denbigh are Arg, on fesse, az., three lozenges, or, Arg, on fesse, az., three with hazel branch, fructed, all proper, attired and unguled, or. The motto is "Virtuits unguled, or. The motto is "Virtuits lated, is "Honor is the Reward of Virtue."

NEWPORT MEN GO ALONG.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 6, 1903. When the Fall River line steamer reached here tonight with the Ancients and the Honourables on board, she picked up the Newport Artillery Company of 100 men, and the United States Artillery band. The company has been assigned to escort duty during the stay of the Honourables in New York.

Superior (His.) Telegrand, Oct. 5, 1903. ARTILLERYMEN SPENT DAY ON A STEAMBOAT

BOSTON, Oct, 5-This was the 266th BOSTON, Oct, 5—This was the 266th autumn field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, and with their suests, the Honorable Artillery campany of London, the Boston company spent the day in a steamboat excursion along the north shore, the day's program also included a reception and a banquet in Brandony hall this evenGoston Fost, 1903

HONOURABLES START ON TOUR

Boston Streets and Railway Station Crowded With Cheering Thousands to Speed Departing Honourables

Amid a wild flutter of handkerchiefs in New York several days, and Liady Den- | where it halted, with the right resting

Amid a wild flutter of handlerchiers and an enthustastic shout of farewell from 200 spectators who gathered at the fact of the following process of the coaches were opened, the bearing of farewell extended to them, the Londons and their hosts, to the miner of arewell extended to them, the Londons and their hosts, to the miner of arewell extended to them, the Londons and their hosts, to the miner of arewell extended to them, the Londons and their hosts, to the miner of arewell extended to them, the Londons and their hosts, to the miner of a very window. Many came outside to the spillus, and there they remained bidding are and leave greated to make things more uncomfortable. At once the windows of the train. Here they remained bidding are and leave ground, and slowly the long train pulled out. Many of the Londoners that in guide the rain. Here they remained bidding are and leave ground and some were opened, the bears of every window. Many came outside to their friends who lined both sides of the coaches were opened, the bears of every window. Many came outside to the fairn. Here they remained bidding are and leaving words of remove the rain. Here they remained bidding are and leaving words of remove the rain. Here they remained bidding are and leaving words of laboration and waved adialous and now set off in a reform which were shouted, and slowly the long train pulled out. Many of the Londoners that in the law concluded the sheet will be a seen the laboration of the concluse were opened, the bearing the laboration of the concluse were opened, the bearing the laboration of the laboration of every window. Many came outside to their friends who lined both sides of the coaches were opened, the bearing the laboration of every window. Many came outside to their friends who lined bear the laboration of the coaches were opened, the bearing the laboration of the coaches were opened, the bearing the laboration of th

Johnstown (1. %,) Republicand,
Oct. 5, 1903.
$50,000 DINNER.

Boston Honorables Will Feast London Honourables Right Royally.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 5 .- This is the 266th fall field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company and a program for the day's celebration and the entertainment has been prepared, which, commencing early this forenoon, will end-well, any time before sunrise to-morrow morning.

After a street parade this morning the company and its guests went on a harhor excursion which lasted well into the afternoon. This evening the big banquet will be given at Symphony hall, to which function 1,000 members and guests have been invited.

The dinner has been prepared with the most exacting fastidiousness and will cost $50,000. Three hundred waiters will be in attendance and the wines will be poured by 75 specially selected Rome! St. J.,) Sentince. Oct. 5, 1903.

Visitors and Their Hosts Leave For Trip West Tomorrow.

Boston, Oct. 5 .- Services at Trinity church in the afternoon was the chief event of the day for the Honorable Ar. tillery company of London, now the guests of the Ancient and Honorables of this city.

The services were arranged by the British residents of Boston and were preceded by a parade, participated in by the English and American Honor, ables and by the army and navy vet erans of the British service now in this city.

Rev. E. Winchester Donald, D.D., Trinity's rector, conducted the ser vices there.

Some of the visitors attended the cathedral of the Holy Cross.

The program for today calls for a hurbor excursion, and a hanquet in . evening. The visitors and will leave for their trip Middle states and Can

Toliladelphia : ail Public L'edges Oct. 6. 1003

ARTILLERYMEN AT WORSHIP

13 ostore Elobe.

Fostore Globe. Oct. 7, 1903

FOSED FOR THEN PHOTOGRAPHS.

Earl and Countess of Denbig and Desmond Spent Nearly An Hour Before the Camera, LADY DENBIGH. (From the Only Photograph of Her Made in America.)

commercial, oct. 5, 1903.

NGIO-SAXON SULIDARITY.

LORD DENBIGH.

Daelas! (Tef.) Towl.

Oct. 5, 1903

GREAT ARTILLERY COMPANIES. Honorables of London Entertained by Ancients of Boston.

Toursestown (0.1) Oct. 5, 1903

ELABORATE BANQUET

Will Be Given the London Artillerymen This Evening.

Boston, Ort. 5.—This was the 266th autumn field day for the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company and, with their guests, the Honourable Artillery company of London, the Boston company spent the day in a steamboat excursion along the north shore, the day's program also including a reception and banquet in Symphony hall this evenRochester, (fit.) Chrise Advertexce Snapshots Taken on Harbor Trip of the Honourabels.

1-Sergt, Tilling, the Tallest Man, and miver Pizey, the Shortest Man, in the K. A. C. Delegation.

2-Lord Denbigh and Adjt. Budworth. 3-Lord Denbigh Reads a Letter.

4-Lord Denbigh, Col. Hedges. Col. earling and Col. Ferris.

5-The Scene Forward on the Main

NEW YORK. Oct. 7.—The famous mourable Artillery Company of Lon-in descended upon Knickerbocker town day, arriving from Boston/early this rning on the Fall river boat.

The English visitors were escorted from ston by the Ancient and Honourable tillery Company of Boston and the arriving rompany of Boston and the arriving rompany of Boston and the arriving stone by the Ancient and Honourable tillery Company of Boston and the arriving rompany of Newport. The visitors

Oct. 5, 1903.

tion of the escort that marched with he Honourable Ardiery Comp.

The Honorable Artillery company England will so, home from Boston with a better tale to tell than sid their encestors, who once upon a time visited that New England harbor.

Bostone Globel, Oct. 7, 1903.

IN FALL RIVER

Honourables Then Sail.

Nighton Sound the columns of onloo militia drawn up at The except column the head at the line, of the 1st heavies lead for Them.

Two Hours in the Mill City.

Quequechan Club House Thrown Open.

Expect to Reach New a York at 7 AM.

one of the king's palaces on wheels:
The appointments of the Furitan amazed them, as they could not understand so much elegance for merely a one-night trip.
They are due in New York at 7 a m tomorrow and to leave the Fall River pler there for West Point at 8 a m.

FAREWELL FOR A WEEK.

Ancients and Their Guests Depart for Their Tour of the Country Amid Boston Plaudits.

Boston bade farewell to the Honourable artillery company and to its hosts, the Ancient and Honorable artillery company, yesterday afternoon, and by the enthusiastic send-off it gave the visitors it convinced them most safes

CHEERED AT NEWPORT.

Ancients and Guests There Joined by Another Artillery Company Bound for New York.

NEWPORT, R I, Oct 6—When the Fall River line steamer Puritan reached here conight, having on board the Ancient and Honorable artillery company of loston and their guests, the Honourable Boston Globel oct. 7, 1903 LANDED IN FOG.

Ancients Reach New York All Well.

Immediately Took Another Boat for West Point.

Earl Denbigh Said of the Sound Steamboat Trip, "It Was Simply Bewildering."

Hilmendatore Dell, parent that the business of the butcher the baker, and the wet goods, men is Boshow Selobel, oct 7, 1903.

EARL DENBIGH

"Would be a Success as British Ambassador."

Prominent Official Welcomes Globe's Suggestion.

"No Better Appointment Could Be Made," He Declared—Has Oualifications.

VAMINOTON, Oct 7-The Globe's should about an other than the fart bendigh ambassador at the date

Wienderston in succession to the Anic el in Mehael H. Herkert, meets with try favorable response in Washing-It

Asturally enough, neither in the state of the state of the state ment be made, as it is not delicate at any direct state ment be made, as it is not delicate a matter for a government of try to influence, even in the silght. It is appointment of an ambassador as the government making the appointment in supposed to exercise its free stolice, and all that the government can do to whom the ambassador is according to the state of the s

Put, although no one in any official "I Put, although no one in any official "I builton will permit the use of his name a su uso effects forbids it, it is ap-be a name."

parent that, should the king appoint Lord Denbigh, he would be given a cordial welcome. "No better appointment could be made," said a prominent official his morning.

"The British ambassador at this capital, to be a success, must possess certain qualities. In the first place he must be a gentleman, he must be a man to get along with mon, and he n honest and straightforward.

qualities. T. British ambassador doce het necessats lave to be a great e diplomatist, because we transact our tousiness with the British government as two honest men transact business. Was don't try to obtain an advantage over teach other, we simply try to do what shall be for the benefit even to do what al "I am sure Lord Denbigh would be not a success here, and I hope we shall soon po be able to welcome him as his majesty's L. Maurice Low his three 7 1903.

Attille Commences Janket.

Juste Frogetance

MORE THAN THREE CEN-TURIES OF THE PICNIC

This Is the 266th Annual Field Day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company

Boston, Oct. 5.—This was the 266th annual field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, and with their guests, the Honorable Artillery company of London, the Roston company spent the day in a delightful hoat excursion

icluded a reception and banquer in Sym

Oct. 6. 1903.

REV. DR. RIDER PRAYED.

Banquet to London Honourables a Grand Event.

The banquet tendered the London Honourables by the Boston Ancients at Symphony Hall, Boston, last evening, was the most magnificent dinner that has ever been held in Boston. It was a brilliant assemblage, including a long list of noted speakers.

Before the dinner was served, Rev. William H. Rider, D. D., of this city, lifted his hand and prayed, and all the Englishmen and all the Americans bowed their heads. The preceder said:

"Father Almighty—we thank thee for every gift; and for this we ask for every blessing. Best of all, the glad certainty that thou art with us, and increase and bless our joy, in Christ Jesus."

With one or two exceptions, all the Gloncester members of the Ancients were present, and they will long remember the event.

The Boston and London organizations depart for a week's trip to New York, Washington, Montreal, and other places this afternoon, and several of the Gloucester members will go on the tour.

Rev. Dr. Rider was seated with the guests at the head of the table and Col. William A. Pew, Jr., was at the second table. The Glongester members were seated at various tables, those who were present being Sergeant John J. Flaherty, Charles Babson, Charles H. Boynton, E. Archer Bradley, William G. Brown, Henry A. Burnham, John A. Coffin, E. Haring Dickinson, Robert R. Fears, Frank H. Greeley, Francis W. Homans, William A. Homans, Nelson M. Johnson, Gardner Pool, Homans, Nelson M. Johnson, Gardner Pool, E. S. Padelford, A. S. Maddocks, William B. Lantz, Charles W. Luce, Joseph C. Shepherd, William Parsons, John Remby, Charles A. Russell and Isaac A. S. Steele.

Naverd (bt.,) Register,
Och. 5. 1903
MARCH TO THE CHURCH.

London Honourables Escorted to Trinity in Boston.

Boston, Oct. 5.—The quietness of Sunday was stirred yesterday by the sound at was stirred yesterday by the sound are stillery company of London and their tillery company of London and their the Ancient and Honorable Artilhosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artilhosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artilhosts, company of this city, marched lery company of this city, marched lery company of the Back Bay streets to through some of the Back Bay streets to through by the British resultents, and the ranged by the British resultents, and the line british service whose homes are in the British service whose homes and the line on Sunday proved attractive, and the line on Sunday proved attractive, the armory of march was througed with the armory of march was througed by the after taking shortly after 2 o'clock, and, after taking shortly after 2 o'clock, and, after taking shortly after 2 o'clock, and, after taking shortly after 3 o'clock, or the church the British veterans had already formed, the British veterans had already formed. The procession started for the church The procession started for the church The procession started for the church Schill and First and The procession started and procession started and procession started and many Fritish staff for the day included many Fritish staff for the England, as well as several officers of the Inited States army. The services at the church were conducted by the Rev E. Winchester Donald, the rection who preached an interesting sermond at the conclusion the parade reformed and marched to the American house and marched to reganizations were enwhere at luncheon.

A number of members of the visiting A number of members of Denbish, dicorps, including the Earl of Denbish, dicorps, including the Earl of Trinify church not attend the services in Trinify church but instead went in the morning to the United Trinify Cathedral of the Holy Cross with, Mayor Cathedral of the Holy Cross with, Mayor

Collins two organizations will leave on The two organizations will leave on their trip to the Middle States and Canada their tripsder. Bostone Elister, Oct. 7, 1903

HONOURABLES DEPART FROM

STORES, OFFICES, ETC

WORKSHOPS TO LET.

2D AND 2D FLOORS of ment building near Boylston et and Massaci westes and downs ha

C. W. WHITTIER & BRO.
TO State St. SWSt s12
THE FACTORY EXCHANGE CORPORATION, 113 Decorpting at Explasive see all.

HOUSES TO LET AND WANTED

HOUSE TO LET

. 16 ROOMS and 2 baths, repairs throughouthave just been completed; low rent. Apply to C. W. Whittler & Bro., 70 htate St.

AT 15 TRULL ST, of Hancocct at Louse of rooms, I alt and impression 1823 at a Crylams corner, Nort, hoises of Ures as, I alt and Intels, $23° also apartment 4 of 5 rooms and bath for $15 also tenements 2 to 5 rooms 50 to $12 keys at 4 kat by $t apply thore of cest. SAMLA B. PERCE, I Al Prograf at.

HOUSE of P or to roome, in Bortish or D obser, rem not to exceed $30. H 235. Gas of the HOUSE to let on Wishington at, no. To all MASON, 198 Weshingt not. The HAD SE to let on Wishington at, no. To all MASON, 198 Weshingt not.

HOUSE of U cor , Waltaam et, all provements, July McNAMARA, 28

100 TSES and fine to be at Signal land colors, a tracts MANON 92. Value of MALEROSE Governor for Louises to Fet pl. 422 Mahrs, Mehrose 10, 70 mms, 10, 227 50, Mayben, observe seite, by the Signal impts, SAN, 15 Enchance et, rish 46. TO LLT or for signar consonate it for the change of the constant of the Change of the Chang

Appar to I II GOLDSMITH, II Vish at, cor Dover, B steen Mass Wiss. "TO LET to I revert 1 was at 5 peter and its elected lies. I'm garlen, liels of 1 per elected sign and 1 a control of 1 per elected to R. M. C. Catter, and a strong are recorded to R. M. C. Catter, and a strong are recorded to R. M. C. Catter, and a strong are recorded to R. M. C. Catter, and a strong are recorded to R. M. C. Catter, and a strong are recorded to R. M. C. Catter, and a strong are recorded to R. M. C. Catter, and a strong are recorded to the recorded to th

TO LET-At IV Be directed by the course and bath, it in it in times we meet the state of the course and bath, it in it is not considered by at 27 to 12 to 12

WANTED 2 can have he letter to the improvement of a continuous war do a continuous and the continuous and the continuous and the continuous areas when the continuous for a familiary, O 257, 6,

TO ROLL IN THE SERVICE SHOPE IN THE SERVICE SHOPE IN THE SERVICE SHOPE IN THE SERVICE SHOPE SHOP

APARTMENTS & TENEMENTS

NEWCASTLE COURT

the state of the s

Journal Long

Now that King Edward has cabled to thurrd will report at the armory nex wednesday at 10 a. m. preparatory to starting for New York city, where they will act as escort, in confunction with the Old Guard of New York for the Ancient and Honourables of London an Boston in the great parade. The local Perception of the

The of editors and reportern see that the "Honourable" of the Of the Ancient London Artillery puny is spelled with a "u" (Bostone Ellober, Oct. 7, 1903.

HONOURABLES DEPART FROM BOSTON FOR A WEEK

Boston Glober

EARL DENBIGH.

Weveland (O.) 1ct 5, 1903.

THE ANCIENTS IN CHURCH.

A Milliary Parade Was a Sabbath Centure Engaged by Residents of Hoston.

Holy on the Charles was of the rate to some the control of the cont reported to the first hear Rome! : 125,) Scentinal, Oct. 7, 1900.

HONORABLES AT WEST POINT.

London Artillerymen Visit Our Mills tary Academy.

New York, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Hosorable Artillery Company of Boston, and the Newport Artillery Co. escorting the Henorable Artillery Company of London, arrived here today on a steamer from Fall River. Waiting for them with steam up was a second steamer ready to take the Boston artiljery and its English guest to West

Without loss of time the two compa-nies, in hill uniform, descended the gang-wayof the Fall River boat and marched in column of twos across the pier and up the gingway of the excursion boat. Five a inuter later the steamer swang out into the stream and, with the united bands of both companies playing, proceeded up

The Newport Artillery Company, which had had up on the pier while the Roston and London organizations were enbarking, then proceeded to a hotel to spend the day intending to meet the Lambon and E. ton Honorables on their return from West Point late this after-

Botton Savetier

The Honourables are nopular, cer-

Recorder, A.J.,)
Recorder, Oct. 7, 1903.

AT THE BIG CITY

Arrival of Boston and London Ancients.:

THEY VISIT WEST POINT

New York, Oct. 7 .- The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company, escorting the Honourable Artillery company of London, arrived here today on a steamer from Fall River. Waiting for them, with steam up, was a second steamer ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, escorting the Honourable Artillery company of London, to West Point. Without loss of time, the two companies, in full uniform, descended the garagest of the Fall descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in column of twos across the pier and up the gangtwos across the pier and up the gang-way of the excursion boat. Five min-tes later, the stcamer swung out into the stream, and with the united bands of both companies playing, proceeded up the river. The Newport Artillery company, which was lined up on the pier while the Boston and London organizations were embarking, then proceeded to a hotel to spend the day, intending to meet the London and Boston companies on their return from West Point, late this afternoon.

Amsterdam, A.J., Recorder, Oct. 7, 19 as.

The West Point Visit.

A West Point, dispatch says: The Honourable Artillery company of Londen and Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston, arrived here today. A salute was fired and the battalion of cadets was paraded in front of the barracks. The guests were es-corted to Superintendent Hill's quart-ers where 2 reception was held. The officers of the post were presented. The reception was followed by a review of the cadets, after which the visitors retured to the boat and sailed down the river for New York.

Oct. 5. 1900. SOLDIERS WENT TO CHURCH.

The Visiting Britishers Paraded in Boston With Their American Hosts

and other Veterans.

Boston, Oct. 4.—The quietness of the Sabbath was stirred to-day by martial music, as the Honorable Artillery company of London and their hosts, the Angany of Indeed and Honorable Artillery company of this city, marched to Trinity church. The services in that odifice had been arranged by the British residents of this city, and the marede included, besides the two miland Other Veterans.

TWO FAMOUS ARTILLERY COMPA-NIES AT GRAND BANQUET.

ALL RECENT RECORDS BROKEN

LONDONERS AT MOST ELABORATE BANQUET OF MODERN TIMES.

Cost, Was $75 Per Plate-There Were 300 Waiters and Seventy-five Wine Servers-Month Spent in Decorating for the Function.

- Feat	tures	10	the	Banquet.
Cost of banqu	et				.$60.0
Cost of lights					6.0
Cost of flowers					. 3,0
Cost per plate
Cost of cigars					٤
Number of ser	vants				٠. ٤
Number of wa	iters				3 8
Wine servers .
Gallons of wind	e				. 4
Number of cig-	nrs				. 2,5
Miles of electri	c wires				. 4
Courses
Times of prepa	gration				ne ye
Time spent de	coratin.	E		One	near :
			_

BOSTON, MASS., Oct. 6—The Honorable Artillery Company, of London, was entertained at a banquet in Symphony hall by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston, according to plans first concedered five years ago.

The function was the most elaborate ever given in the United States, and no trouble or expense was spared to make the event a notable one.

Thousands of electric lights were used, and miles upon miles of smilax and vines were woven in and out among the globes and the flowers which constituted the dec-

and the flowers which constituted the dec-

The banquet cost about $00,000, of which $6,000 went for lighting and haif as much

Two score of the Honorable were guests, and they marched into the hell accompanied by the Ancients, each Ancient escorting an Honorable.

The speeches which followed the dinner had as their text the irmer welding of the Lond of friendship between the two countries. That of Senator Hoar was the most scholarly, and that of ex-Governor John D. Long the most entertaining.

After toasts to the president and the king, Governor Bates spoke for the commonwealth and Mayor Collins for the cuty. United States Senator George F. He or responsed for "Gold Mocher England." He referred feelingly to the death of Sir Michael Fierbert.

Continuing, Senator Hoar said: "When you go back to old mother England test her boys are contented and happy and growing. Give her our best five Lach guest when he rose from the table scatted with him a saver plate intingly a provent with the story of the bunchet and the occasion for it. In addition to in section in our plate to him to a live in the part of the bunchet and the story of t

By special triin a start was made for New York via Fall River.

London Amiliery Will Be Entertaine ! at Fall River Until Boat Leaves To-Night.

Boston Tuesday -The much heralded tour throughout this pointer and Canada of the Ancient and I'm roble Artillery Company of Massacl seers having as it. guest the Honourable Artifere Company of Lordon, bogon to divieft r iour days of entertainment and aghiering in the

All offi ers and members of the London ompany, about les in number, strited on the trip. "ne escorting column of the Anlient and Honoratt a was 15) strong.

The members of the home company began to assemble at the armory, in Ferent. Hall, of men. An leve hir, escapting their greets, the 'to', nis marched in the South Termir to St. tuen Re sources! train

Hiver, where in the minimes were in the left of the store in the left in of the store in the limit in of the store in the Marie I November 1 Marie Bostonians are said to have bent duly shocked when to bline to British flag flying from Bunker Hill monument, on the occasion of the visit of the Honorable Artillery Company of London. We doubt if any one, outside the newspaper offices, gave the matter & second t'. u. i.

Oct. 5, 1903.

AT THE AMERICAN HOUSE

dilitary Reception and a Refection After the Church Parade

A refection at the American House and t brillant military reception awaited the ondon Honourables and the Ancients at the close of the church parade.

The hosts were the Committee of One Hundred Residents of British Birth and the British Naval and Military Veterans

the British search Association.

All who participated in the church portude were invited. The special guess were Governor John L. Bot 1.

John McGaw.

The large banqueting hall on the first floor was elaborately decorated with English and American flags. Everybody

Commerce a Cost of The Roston Oct of This was the 2000

alle Armory company and water were a may in View Haven Palladium

ENGLAND IS STILL THE MOTHER COUNTRY

SENATOR GEORGE F. HOAR, at Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company Banquet

set to the Pilgrim fathers at Plymouth, and Honourable Artillery company. I and Honourable Artillery company. I think you will find that your American who severely criticised their own county. up in two words everything needed to kinsmen have tried to copy you as well try for the same faults. be said on this occasion: "Welcome, as they could. They believe that, aftof the hand, than for her. of the hand, than 101 hat a military or- II's time, or about the time our com-It is quite natural that the chosen envoy pany was founded, your marshal used peace, which you may as well make ever excelled him.

We may not always be ready to ad-races and nations. The instinct of race We may not alway that touched strong in the bosom of all of us—Celt mit it, but there is noticen, certainly ound swede and Frenchman and Saxon. the heart of an American or a Boston man, yet, as I said, England is still the n Massachusetts main or kindness frommother country. Your laureate said England. It gave us an infinite pleas when the Princess. Alexandra came

We when you put the bust of Lowellover:

We when you put the bust of Lowellover: the when you put the bust of Lowellnver;

Cambridge poet, in Westminster Abbay Saxon and Norman and Dane are we.

Cambridge poet, in Westminster Abbay But all of us Danes in our welcome of
There is another there, placed, as the thee."

to the memory of Lord Howe, an hon-swede and Frenchman and Celt and ored Englishman who was beloved here and Scotsman are we, but we are all Washington in the latter part of last was his guest shortly part of last washington in the latter part of last as at home. On that monument there Englishmen tonight.

is an allegorical figure, which I think We owe great debta to each of the that our very cordial acquaintance cannot be found anywhere else in other great nations of Witten of the could ripen into a pleasant and lastis an allegorical newly shore else prother great nations of Europe. But would ripen into a pleasant and lastcountry be found any of the Provinci surely there can be no greater debt, no ing friendship. Massachusetts bay. The sculpture Steater benefit conferred on one people Among the things in which Englishof Massachusetts pay.

Among the things in the first excellence by another than law, liberty, language, men and Americans feel a common I suppose, is not of the first to be literature.

All therety, language, men and Americans feel a common and americans feel and a common and a c I suppose, is not of the fart to be literature. All these we owe to Eng. pride is the battle of Bunker hill. I do found in London. But, after all, as gland, found in London. But, and one that We have had our differences and, unout that memory. It is one of the best near kineman of mine said more than We have had our differences and, unout that memory. It is one of the best near kineman of mine said more than happily, our wars. We have been examples of Yankee fighting, and one lifty years not, it is pleasant to think happily, our wars. We have been examples of Yankee fighting, and one that the Genius of Massachusetts has restless under each other's criticism, of the best examples of English fighthan an honest fight, and finds a fitting But we have sought, if we could, to find ing to be found in history. We might, the an honest figure Abbey among the the justification of our wars in English if we had thought of it, have put up a place in Westminster Abbey among the the justification of our wars in English if we had thought of both sides, place in Westmann the English race principles, and on English authority. monument to the valor of both sides, hereis spirits which the English race principles, and on English authority.

Boston was settled by Englishmen ir face beginning. Its institutions were Boiled up, and proved nor truly of he calm on the other. It was an instance on both sides of clear English bull-dog rices. It is said that, leaving out the themselves, when not actually in battle same races, in about the same propor- Ancients and Honorables were not ac-

James, when the Pligrims came over there is no more delightful martial muand our fathers settled Boston. ic than the ringing of cut glass, and Revolution Massachusetts had the best Yet England is still the mother count no flag of truce light a napkin. try. Whatever may have happened, or There is another thing in which you whatever may happen, we have no hind your Boston cousins behind you. I looked the other day into heartier welcome, no warmer pressure Anthony. Highways heartier welcome, no warmer pressure Anthony Highmore's history of your venerable body. I found that in Charles s nization should be the pany was founded, your marshal used taxation, promote good fellowship between to bear a silver badge. The emblem arms. promote good fellows. Our great soldiers in it was an archer. He is represented, and your great soldiers, have, in gen says the author, as drawing a long bow coal, been men of peace. Our great in a proper manner." Now if you soldiers Washington, and Scott, and will commit yourselves to the guidance Soldiers Washington, and Sherman, and of any of your Boston fellow-soldiers, Taylor, and Grant, and peace. I sup from the worthy commander down, and true of you. When love and the ind military glories of Boston, you will our Boston poet; and Longfellow, out Saxon and Norman and Dane are we.

We are a people made up of many

Combalded noct, in Westminster Abbay But all of us Danes in our Waldons of The love of friends, without a single "The love of friends, withou Inscription tells us, by the Province of thee."

inscription tells us, by the America. It is Saxon and Norman and Celt and

The first speech ever made on this adorn the old state house. It was incontinent is still one of the best. It evitable that as London had an Analysis of London for the same faults. The severest critics of America in was made by the Indian Sachem Samo- clent and Honourable Artillery com-

The leaders of our Revolutionary er all, the best soldier is the citizen war, so far as the debate was concern-We are a people made up of many these years and generations to devote

They had tried during all burke and Fox and our fathers placed.

Burke and Fox and our fathers placed. the justification for it upon the fundahegro, we are made up of about the -and there have been times when our tution. It was for a pure, simple Engtions, that the English were made of in tually in battle—to cultivating the tions, that the English were flated things that belonged to peace. They the time of Queen Elizabeth and King have found, as I believe you have, that the English were flated things that belonged to peace. They any considerable practical grievance any considerable practical grievance what the English were flated the practical grievance any considerable practical grievance any considerable practical grievance any considerable practical grievance and the practical grievance and whatever. I suppose that before our and mildest government on the face of the English constitution which triumphed in the American Revolution." It was a theory, and not a practice of taxation, against which we took up

I cannot let this occasion go by without expressing my sense of the great loss to both countries in the death, ten days ago, of Sir Michael Herbert, his majesty's ambassador at Washington, liles, have been ment of the worthy commander down, and the same thing. In general, to be set him to take you about, together or true of you. When Lord Castlereagh me by one, and explain to you the civic lity was the ambition of his life that he it was the ambition of his life that he the two countries. No man was ever Duke of Wellington over here to take and him an adept in the art of drawing better fitted for that office. England to the command of your armies, the duke rette low how "In a present of drawing better fitted for that office. Duke of Wellington over the duke retained him an adept in the art of drawing could not have chosen a man recommand of your armies, the duke retailed him a proper manner," a could not have chosen a man recommand of your armies, the duke retailed him an adept in the art of drawing could not have chosen a man recommand of your armies, the duke retailed him an adept in the art of drawing could not have chosen a man recommand of your armies, the duke retailed him an adept in the art of drawing could not have chosen a man recommand of your armies, the duke retailed him an adept in the art of drawing could not have chosen a man recommand of your armies, the duke retailed him an adept in the art of drawing could not have chosen a man recommand of your armies, the duke retailed him an adept in the art of drawing could not have chosen a man recommand of your armies, the duke retailed him an adept in the art of drawing could not have chosen a man recommand of your armies, the duke retailed him an adept in the art of drawing could not have chosen a man recommand of your armies, the duke retailed him an adept in the art of drawing could not have chosen a man recommand of your armies, the duke retailed him an adept in the art of drawing could not have chosen a man recommand of your armies, the duke retailed him an adept in the art of drawing could not have chosen a man recommand of your armies, the duke retailed him an adept in the art of drawing could not have chosen a man recommand of your armies, the duke retailed him an adept in the art of drawing could not have chosen a man recommand of your armies and the art of drawing could not have chosen a man recommand of your armies and the art of drawing could not have chosen a man recommand of your armies and the art of drawing could not have chosen a man recommand of your armies and the armies are drawing to the armies and the armies are drawing to could not have chosen a man fitter to good will. The illustrious house which has given English history so many famous statesmen and soldiers, and which has given to literature that sweetest of Christian poets, George Herbert, never had a mantier, or a gentler, or a brighter son, Sir Michael in Washington during his brief service

Unequalled lot below.";

I was his guest shortly before I left

not think either you or we like to wipe "Her father's blood before her father's like that at Quebec, which bears the names of Wolfe on one side and Mont-

grit. Both parties were so ready and' eager to fight that they seem to have lost their heads. I suppose the American general and the British general, if the thing had happened lately, would have been lucky if he got off with nothing worse than a severe reprimand. Our commander sent his forces imperfectly provided with ammunition, and with rations not enough for twenty-four hours, across a narrow neck of land, to take possession of Bunker hill. All Sir William Howe had to do on your side was to move his ships up Charles river and up Mystic river, where they commanded the isthmus, and the Yankees would have been completely at his mercy. He need not, I suppose, have lost a man. He had only to draw the strings, and we were bagged. There was never an example of blundering egneralship worse than that; although I believe it is claimed that the officer who led our detachment took possession of the wrong hill. On the other hand, instead of pursuing his advantage and easily bagging his game, the English commander stormed our earthworks. His men charged with a magnificent and desperate courage up the steepest and most difficult part of the hill. They were repulsed twice. They stormed our redoubts with a magnificent English pluck, and we held on, also, with magnificent English pluck, till our ammunition was gone, and then sullenly made good our retreat.

A delightful Englishman, a dear friend of mine, told me this story, which shows that if you have not built a monument to British valor over here at Charlestown, you fight over the battle of Bunker hill occasionally, even now at home.

My friend told me that an intimatfriend of his was Lieut. Col. Holland, retired officer of the Royal Marines. dare say he is living now Colon. Holland told him that the Royal Marines never could be stationed anywhere near the Eighty-eight Connaught Rangers. They perpetually stir up quarrels with the men of the Eighty-eighth, so that some years ago the Rangers had to be removed from Portsmouth, the headquarters of the Royal Marines, to another district. The reason is that they always get into a fight when they meet. If one of the marines finds a ranger in a public house or meets him in the street, he calls out, "Lie down, Eighty-eighth, and let the marines pass to the front.". Then follows a fight.

Neither of the men has the slightest idea where that comes from. Colonel Holland says it came from the battle of Bunker hill in America. The Americans were entrenched in a very strong position. Most of them were backwoodsmen, and about the best marksmen in the world. To reach the American lines the British had to march up the open slopes, fully exposed to the sweeping fire of American sharpshooters, who, sheltered by their entrenchments, were bound to sweep away theh exposed assailants. The old Eightyeighth, or Connaught Rangers, were in the first line of attack, with a battallor of Royal Marines behind them in the second line, as their support. The Rangers suffered terribly. Half the regiment were killed, and their ammunition ran out. It was time to relieve them, and the general rode up and ordered them to lie down, in the usual manner of relieving under fire. The exhausted men would form four deep and lie down, leaving a space, and the relieving line would form four deep at and advance and pass between the blank files. So the word was passed along the shattered line: "Lie down Eighty-eighth, and let the marines pasto the front." This was done. The marines, suffered fearfully, but accomplished the relief and captured the redoubt. For this service they were awarded a laurel-leaf to be worn on their buttons and caps. Col. Holland added: 'I wore it myself for twenty-six years."

So, my friends, while we have been celebrating it over here, you have been fighting Bunker hill over again, some of you, over there. I do not wonder that you wanted to come over and see the Our English friends may be sure of their welcome. They are in the house of their friends, in the dwelling place of their brethren. We cannot show you wonders like those you have left behind. We have few glories of architecture and of art. We have little antiquity. We have no palaces or castles or cathedrals or galleries like those to which you are accustomed at home. Yet possibly we also may have something to exhibit, in a modest way, of the fruitage of the tree of English liberty. We must yield the palm cheerfully to other nations in art and architecture and music. We have tried to emulate them, if not to excel them, in the things which constitute the strength and happiness of a free people. We have gone without the architectural glories of palaces and castles and cathedrals. We have tried to perfect the architecture of the people's dwellings, and you will find the English Bible and the English Shakespeare upon their shelves. The canvas does not live or breathe for us under the touch of Guido or Raphael. We have no Lawrence or Reynolds to preserve the features of high-born beauty. But at least health paints here with her roses the cheek of the factory girl: The music of Beethoven or Handel may not here rise and swell till it fills the dome which Angelo or Wren builded. But we have the music of children's voices in the well-paid workmen's home.

We hope you may feel at home while you are here. When you go back to old Mother England, tell her her boys are contented and happy and growing. Give her our best love. Tell her we think of her with nothing but friendilness and good will. We have not sore feeling left, even for the spankings she used to give us. If she did not spare the rod, she did not spoil the child.

We mourned with you for the loss of your gracious queen, alike the type of gentlest womanbood and the most itlustrious sovereign in history. We look with you with confident anticipation and desire for a long and happy reign

Denneel, Col. Both Oct. 7, 1903

BRITISH ARTILLERY MEN VISITING WEST POINT

New York, Oct. 7,-The Ancient and i.onorable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company, escorting the Honourable A tillery or many pler and up the gan to boat, and the minus builted bands of beat

The el. (1903) WOMEN CHEER OLD GUARD.

Get Enthusiastic Reception When Palma Trophy Is Presented.

Old Glory ran riot in Madison Square Garden last night when the Old Guard fair was opened and the gallant veterans of a hundred hard won ballrooms, headed by Major S. Eilis Briggs, marched into the big hall behind a leathern-lunged brass band. Thousands of women smiled on the war-for p. rticularly Colonel Leslie C. Brace and his khaki-clad riftemen who had recaptured the Palma trophy from the transatlantic sharpshooters. The guards formed

Troy L F. J. 1903

ANCIENT AND HONORABLE

The Famous London Company at New York and West Point.

New York, Oct. 7 .- The famous Honourable Artillery company of London descended upon Knickerbocker town today, arriving from Boston early this morning on the Fall River boat. The English visitors were escorted from Boston by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston, and the Artillery company of Newport. The visitors will be the guests of the Old Guard of New York while here. To-day they will Journey up the Hudson to West Point, where the cadet corps will be turned out for an exhibition drill. At about three o'clock they will embark on the return trip to New York. During their Stay here the Londoners will visit the Old Guard's military bazaar at Madison morning on the Fall River boat. The Juard's military bazuar at Madison Leaving here on Friday morning the party will proceed to Washington, whe Saturday will be passed in a visit to the tomb of Washington, and later in the day they will be received by President Roosevolt at the White House. On Suturday night the party will depurt for Niagara Falis.

Waterlowel, Copa, : tameda : this 000:00,1900

Entertaining British Soldiers.

Boston, Oct. 5.-This was the Confall field day of the Ancient and to comble Artiflety company and we their guests, the tree and A and a end . Tive techeld 70t. 7. 1903

JOYFUL THOUSANDS

Cheered the Ancient and Monourable Artillery Yesterday.

UNAPARALLELED ENTHUSIASM

Fall River Nover Before Witnessed Such a Celebration.

In A | t and H . rable A. iffeng n, company their microsche antide year agong of Lab-W . T Type (. t . t t have a folder with The row of the which is a second o the truin was due to arsands of people left the centre · ty and wended their way to the station. Taking Saturday a standard of compari-

will put in The New

no the with people especial watching A thousand watches were pulled out

A thousand watches were pulled out and consulted every few minutes. Those who had no watches were informed of the progress of time by their neighbors. It was a very democratic assembly. Laborers rubbed elbows with merchants and ministers, and criminals smiled at each other in the crowd. High and low greeted each other as brothers, all anxout to extend a hearty welcome. It was one of the best natured crowds ever seen in this city. An adequate force of police under command of various captains and lieutenants kept the crowds under conlieutenants kept the crowds under control at all times, and gave the military companies room for the various evolutions, which were watched with great interest. At 3:10 o'clock a faint sound of distant music was heard to the south, mingled with cheering. The cheering swept through the crowd in a wave, and at the same instant hats were waved in the air and a grand salute was given to the air and a grand salute was given to the Naval Brigade band, which came down French's hill and turned in at the station grounds.

(Photo by Chickering.) MAJOR C. E. D. BUDWORTH, R. F. A. Adjutant, H. A. C.

Adjutant, Fl. A. C.

Many carriages were lined up at the seat entrance of the station and several automobiles. All were tastefully decorated with British and American flags. Above the cheering of the multitude was heard the distant whistle of a locomotive. Everybody heard and each with the distant whistle of a locomotive. Everybody heard and each with the other and locked at his continuous and locked at his continuous and heard to realize the other. In they so there for the tent of the continuous and the seat of the continuous and the continuous and the continuous and the real three continuous and the real three continuous and the c police. Soon a close of the annual to the first of the annual to the first of the annual to the first of the annual to the annua with those warnings it was al-nossible to keep the crowd back c of the press of those in the rem

As the first man of the brilliant company alighted from the train and put his foot on the ground he was greeted with a cheer that reminded one of the roar of the supt on a rocky shore. He was soon followed by an eager crowd of his fellows all dressed in brilliant uniforms many of them glistening with decorations Contrary to a common impression those decorations were not made for the occasion but were won for brave and valiant deeds in the service of the late Queen Victoria, and King Edward the Seventh.

Queen Victoria, and King Edward the Seventh.

Seventh of the company were the simple ribbon and medal of the Victoria Cross, better known as the Victoria Cross, better known as the victoria Cross, better known as the possession of a soldier or sailor of England's forces, representing as they do some daring deed performed under exceptionally dangerous circumstances. In no other nation on earth is such a decoration given and it is no wonder that they are prized.

they are prized.

Many of the grizzled warriors who were here yesterday could tell of tales of danger and daring that would make of danger and daring that would make the blood run cold but one instance will suffice to show the calibre of the men who were the guests of the city yester day. This story is simply used as an illustration and not to elevate one man above his fellows for all were equally brake and the very company which came here under such auspicious creumstances furnished the King with a company of braye men as ever wore a fittish uniform in war. Major C. E. D. Budworth, M. V. O., who was one of the visitors here yesterday wears the Victoria Cross and it was earned under particularly dangerous conditions. He was with a company of soldiers in the Boer war. The company was in one of the severest battles of the war and acquitted itself with great credit. In one hattle the commanding officer was killed. Such an event in a battle is apt to turn the tide of the struggle backward and the men became demoralized by the loss of the leader. Under these circumstances Budworth sprang forward and assumed the command. With a hearty British cheer the men swept forward carrying everything before them with the furrof the British arms.

Such are the men of that ancient company which has been in existence for pany which has been in existence for the command that have within the the blood run cold but one instance will for the British arms.

Such are the men of that ancient company which has been in existence for several hundred years and not always everal hundred years and not always with the honors which have within the with the honors which have within the past few days been accorded them. They past few days here and the Boston conflicting gallant hosts. The Boston conflicting allam they are and many a grizzled old veterally war and many a grizzled old veterally war and treasures with almost an wore and treasures with almost an emblem guns of the G. A. R. Such an emblem guns of the G. A. Farris in marked contrast to the many other brilliant decorations. This faot was noticed by the G.

A. R. men present and it was noticed that several interesting reminiscences

A. R. men present and it was noticed that several interesting reminiscences were indulged in quiet corners.

Many an old veteran clasped hands with a comrade of the Civil war and the greetings were in every case hearty ones, greetings will the various military companies of the various military companies of the various military companies of the throng, and sevintact by reason of the translative people abalous to get a thusiastic people abalous to get a flimps of the proceedings, and not forglimps of the sun street. At this juncture the sun passed under a cloud which cast a shadow over the asambly and all instinctively looked into the sky fearing rain. Their fears were the sun appeared again and shone directly on the brilliant company as it formed the stabiliant the companies were on their way to North Main street where they were they were in the train the companies who stood at "present arms" until the visitors had; the parade passed up French's hill in the parade passed up French's hill in the parade passed up French's hill in

B. Leary, Ludden, Desmond, J. Murphy

B. Leary, Ludden, Desmond, J. Murphy and Kenney.

Capt. G. R. H. Buffinton and staff; Adfutant G. C. Hathaway, Surgeon, Lieut.-Com. S. Virgil Merritt, Lieut. D. D. G. Eldredge, (J. G.) Daniel F. Sughrue, Lieut. (J. G.) C. R. Blair, Ordnance Officer, Lieut. (J. G.) Barker; Paymaster, Lieut. James Marshall; Assistant Paymaster, Lieut. Thomas S. Prouty; Engineer, Lieut. Thomas R. Armstong; Lieut. H. C. Talbot, equipment officer; Lieut.-Com. William B. Edgar, Lieut. James H. Dillaway, Jr., adjutant; Ensign N. B. Lewis.

Naval Brigade Band, 40 pieces.

Signal Corps, M. V. M.

Battery G. H. A., M. V. M., of Taunton.

Captain Danforth commanding.

Battery M. H. A., M. V. M., Fall River, Captain Fuller commanding.

Battery I. H. A., M. V. M., Brockton,

Captain Horton commanding.

Battery E. H. A., M. V. M., Springfield, Lieut. Delter commanding.

Co. H. Naval Brigade, M. V. M., Springfield, Lieut. Delter commanding.

Co. F. Naval Brigade, Fall River, Lieut. W. H. Beattle commanding.

Co. I. Naval Brigade, M. V. M., Fall River, Lieut. Baudoin commanding.

Co. I. Naval Brigade, M. V. M., Fall River, Lieut. Baudoin commanding.

Co. I. Naval Brigade, M. V. M., Boston, Lieut. Felten commanding.

Co. C., Naval Brigade, M. V. M., Boston, Lieut. Felten commanding.

Co. E. Naval Brigade, M. V. M., Boston, Lieut. Felten commanding.

Co. E. Naval Brigade, M. V. M., Boston, Lieut. Felten commanding.

Co. E. Naval Brigade, M. V. M., Boston, Lieut. Goodrich commanding.

Co. E. Naval Brigade, M. V. M., Boston, Lieut. Goodrich commanding.

Co. E. Naval Brigade, M. V. M., Boston, Lieut. Felten commanding.

Co. E. Naval Brigade, M. V. M., Boston, Lieut. Felten commanding.

Co. E. Naval Brigade, M. V. M., Boston, Lieut. Felten commanding.

Co. B, Naval Brigade, M. V. M., Boston,
Lieut. Goodrich commanding.
Co. E, Naval Brigade, M. V. M., Lynn,
Lieut. Trumbull commanding.
Co. M. Naval Brigade, M. V. M., Boston,
Lieut. Trumbull commanding.
Salem Cadet Band, 40 pieces, Jean Mussind, leader.
Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, Colonel Sidney H.
Hodges and staff, First Lieut. Col. William H. Oakes, Second Lieut. John D.
Nichols Adjutant Col. Charles K. Darling, Col. N. A. Ferris, chief of staff, Lieut. .. Edward Hill, Major Frank
M. Johnson, Lieut. Emery Crowler,
Capt. G. E. Hall and Lieut. George H.
Allen.
The Honourable Artillery Company of

Allen.
The Honourable Artillery Company of London, the Right Honourable the Earl of Denbigh, C.V.O., commanding;
Adjutant General Dalton, representing Gov. Bates; Staff; Lieut. Col. F.
J. Stowhaser, Major C. E. D. Budworth, M. V. O., adjutant; Major H.
Munday, Major O. W. Lergett, Major
F. Farrington, Sergt, Major W. C. Ner
James, Sergt. Major T. E. F. M. G. e. h.
Capt. C. C. Hodges, Capt. H. J. Pretram, Capt. E. Tiefry, Capt. A. C.
Lowe, D. S. O., Capt. D. J. Cardand, Surgeon Capt. E. H. Myddleton Garvey, Lieut. C. F. Nesham, Lieut. A. L.
Lydenburg, Lleut, P. C. Cooper, Lieut.
A. F. Herbert, Lieut. G. H. ring, Wirrant Officer T. L. Greent, E. T. Mills, secretary. The Honourable Artillery Company of rant Officer T. L. Greent, R. T. Mins, secretary.

Carriages containing the Counters of Denbigh, and Mrs. Charles Buylor, the daughter of Col. Hodes.
In this order the parade moved through North Main street and up Franch's hill, surrounded a little too clock for comfort by the crowds. For the first time within the memory of the "old st inhabitant" Fall River's streets responded to the tramping of the feet of British soldiery, and many an old Englishman wis forced to turn away to hide his terrs of joy as they again viewed men in the minform of the army of their beloved country. The men presented an excilent appearance and this was not lost on the crowd.

appearance and this was not lost on the crowd.

Many flattering comments of both the Boston and London companies were heard, and not a little praise was given the American nated and military companies. The companies presented a most picture since sight that a transporter for the sight that a transporter for the mere sorable color. I The bain't uniforms stood out a trailist contrast to the mere sorable color. I waiten of the American softney. The sitting of the American softney. The sitting of the picture was a library and the coupers were strongly in the obtained shed guests were really in the obtained shed guests were really in the city their operations when we bound a pad a terrife tolume of applaines at a "The parade was one of continual overtion. You some would encoupen by issuit the out following would appear and ag to the valid an husbase of the city with a solid and a contrast.

with a literary to a. the signs of good-feeling an e stern faces of the members of

there were engled higherton.

Acception. The digree performed to the Question which is the force to the digree his constitute.

It was the duty may sayble to run gars, carriaged for the use of the performance of the property of the benefit of the assessment of the performance. the benefit of the assument tention of Narrow lanes were kept by the tention of unity by the viscorous use of the state of the crowd that seembled in front of the crowd that seembled in front of the club. North and south as for a could be seen from the steps of the crum stretched a sea of faces and the crowd extended from the iron faces of the club grounds clear across the street and upon the grounds of the U term notes in the grounds of the U term notes in the down in the down in the down in the following of the U term notes in the control of the critical in a short material in the control of the critical in a short material in the critical in a short material in the critical in the crit in the critical in the critical in the critical in the critical in from of the lab building about the set a short progration of pot did r in building about progration of pot did r in building the NAC of Building building about the read a way what his vectors of with rows of hours all of set and it with rows of hours all of set and it with rows of hours all of set and it with rows of hours all of set and it will be served also gave a center.

Inside the cub all forms bity word away with also in the contact actions of an entire a building on the contact of the following results on who had been invitable as a formation and been invitable as a server of the entire with had been invitable as a server of the entire who had been invitable as a server of the serve who had been invited to perform their duty by R. C. Reer, charm of the reception constitues; Dr. debt, Gilbert J., seph T. B. ishaw, cohn Modas, Jessid Timer, Joseph B. Chitch, Mittlew Thompson, James E. Witson, Majih Puckworth, Samuel Walansey, Their S. Harrick, S. C. their, Herricks, G. C. their, the first term of C. their, the first term of the first term of the first term of the current of the current first performance of the there were fitted the gus. The forestime of the Gust and the model of the gus. The forestime of the Gust and the model of the fit is the forestime of the Gust and the forestime of the fitted of the mills, and is a way to the of the mills, and is a way to the fitted of the king of the fitted of the king of the fitted of $-\epsilon \delta_{i} = \epsilon^{i}$ grould arso. The building for no and restal berning of the to gen or is

Find learning of these to the one of the transfer H.

The note of the control of the specific of the note of the transfer H.

The note of the transfer the specific of the note of the specific of the specific of the specific of the transfer of the transfer of the transfer of the transfer of the number of the numbe reacted of an wether attached to the control of an wether attached to the control of an action of the control of an action of the control of

Man to the row the rect of the force of pure contract of the contract The state of the same that the British So Germat Boston Church

Brotish So Germat Boston Church

Brotish Mass. Oct 1. "

of the State of th

Face River Febaled, Oct. 7, 1903.

TORD DENEIGH IN HIS CARRIAGE.

Elminal, St. 3/1) Gazelle,

THE HONOURABLES CARTURED NEW YORK

Od Guard---Washington Next Point on Their Itinerary, Then Niagara Falls.

New York, Oct. 7.—The famous Honourable Artillery Company, of London, ried upon Knickerhocker town today, arriving from Boston early this corning on the Fall River boat. The English visitors were escorted from Poston by the Amelent and Honourable Artillery Company of Boston and the the state of the state of the of the Verk white here.

Cy they will journey up the Mudson to Vice Font, where the cadet corps be turned out for an explicit drift. Commandant Mile, of the Military

Ouring their stay here the Londoners will visit the Old Burnd's ratherry Ouring their stay here the Londoners will visit the Old Burnd's ratherry or Cordon, Leaving here on Frie commune the party will proceed a stay to the stay of the proceeding of the proceeding

Frovidence (98.5.) Veurs Oct. 5. 1903.

ALONG THE NORTH SHORE

Boston Ancients and Honorables Continue the Entertainment of the London Honourables.

Boston, Oct. 5.—This was the 288th fall field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, and with their guests the Honourable Artillery company of London, the Boston company spent the day in a steamboat excursion along the north shore.

The day's program also included a reception and banquet in Symphony hall

At 10 o'clock the members of the home company assembled at their armory at Fineull hall and soon afterwards formed in line on Fouth Market street to receive their East's committee A march through the or of the pethopal afters was made at the war to knowle where where a Face River Thebld, oct. 7, 1903.

DRILL OF THE LONDON HONOGRAPTON BEFORE THE KING

Face Rose Feebld, Oct. 7, 1903.

Description 1 1 2 2 250

Face River News, Oct. 7, 1903.

Cheering Thousands Greet the Honourables and the Ancients.

VISIT A SUCCESS IN EVERY WAY.

PARADE OF THE VISITING ARTILLERYMEN, WITH A REGIMENT OF MILITIA COMPANIES AS ESCORT, ONE OF THE FINEST EVER SEEN HERE-GRAND ARMY VETERANS TAKE PART-REVIEW AT CITY HALL-LAVISH HOSPITALITY DISPENSED AT QUEQUE-CHAN CLUB-LORD AND LADY DENBIGH ATTRACT GREAT AT-TENTION EVERYWHERE-SHOWN THROUGH THE KING PHILIP MILLS-OTHER GUESTS ENTERTAINED WITH AUTOMOBILE RIDES-SUPPER ON BOARD STAMER PURITAN - DAVID P. KEEFE NOT FORGOTTEN.

to vite figs and cheering ARRIVAL AND FIRST PARADE. the Reneurable Artillery Let 1, compared by Visitors Greeted by Cheering Thou-. I'b and to Artillery of sands on Way to Club House.

Since the probability of the station, and vas awared a prize.

Also were the west of the station, and the station at the st

f (dio 18 1) they. B. Le try, Lapointe, J.

Presizio, Mauphy and Kenny, skir
1 tetr.

Marshal Fleet, Captain

Donerly.

Machines to H. Baffilmon of the

Machines to H. Baffilmon of the Machines to H. Baffilmon of the Little on the try to the try

Late Commander S. Microtine on the try

Late H. C. Talbar, Chup
Late H. Leon H. C. Talbar, Chup
C. Late H. Leon H. C. Talbar, Chup
C. Late H. Late H. Leon H. C. Talbar,

Little on, are distinct. Raymond D.

Little on, are distinct. Leon D. G.

Little on, are distinct. Since the try

Lor D. C. Land, Shore T. Lore, J.

Little D. D. Land, Shore T. Lore, J.

Little D. Land, Shore T. Lore, J.

Little D. Land, Shore T. Lore, J.

Munroe. Naval Brigade Band, H. L. Clarke,

Munroe.
Naval Brigade Band, H. L. Clarke, leader, 40 pieces.
Signal Corps, Naval Brigade, Lee
Atwood, commanding, 12 men.
Cape Battalion, First Heavy Artillery,
Lieut. Col. C. B. Woodman commanding.
Battery F. Taunton, Captain N. O.
Danforth, First Lieut. A. K. Crowell;
Second Lieut. F. O. Dean; 41 men.
Battery M. Fall River, Capt. David
Fuller, First Lieut. F. W. Harrison,
Second Lieut. W. J. Meek, 45 men.
Battery I, Brockton, Capt. George E.
Horton, First Lieut. S. B. Sampson,
Second Lieut. C. H. Edson, 40 men.
Battery E, New Bedford, Capt. G. L.
Gibbs, First Lieut. J. C. De Wolf,
Gibbs, First Lieut. J. C. De Wolf,
Second Lieut. E. L. Snell, 42 men.
First Battalion, Naval Brigade, Lieut.
Com. W. B. Edgar, commanding.
Co. H, Springfield, Lieut. J. K. Dexter,
Ensign James M. Ropes, 40 men.
Co. F, Fall River, with the colors;
Lieut. Wm. H. Beattie, Lieut. (J. G.)
Milton I. Deane, Ensign J. T. Nelson, 48 men.

Milton I. Deane, Ensign J. T. Nelson, 48 men.
Co. G, New Bedford, Lieut. E. E. Baudoin, Lieut. (J. G.) H. S. Bowie, Ensign R. A. Soule, Jr., 45 men.
Co. I, Fall River, Lieut. Richard P. Borden, Lieut. (J. G.) Wm. M. Olding, Ensign Minor W. Wilcox, 48 mén.
Second Battalion, Naval Brigade, Lieut.
Com. J. F. Dillaway, commanding.
Co. C, Boston, Lieut. (J. G.) Lewis C.
Felton, Ensign W. A. Lewis, 56 men.

Co. B. Boston, Lieut. David H. Good-ridge, Lieut. (J. G.) D. M. Pray, 45

men.
Co. E, Lynn, Lieut. Fred H. Turnbull,
Ensign C. Peale, 40 men.
Ensign C. Peale, 40 men.
Co. A, Boston, Lieut. D. F. Sughrue;
Lieut. (J. G.) B. H. Pierce; 40

Co. A, Boston, Lieut. H. Pierce; 40
Lieut. (J. G.) B. H. Pierce; 40
men.
Salem Cadet Band, Jean M. Missud, leader, 30 men.
Ancient and Honorable Co.
Col. Sidney M. Hedges, commanding.
Col. Charles K. Darling, adjutant.
Ist Lieut. Col. W. H. Oakes; 2nd Lieut.
Asst. Surgeon F. N. Johnson,
Hill, Asst. Surgeon F. N. Johnson,
Asst. Surgeon F. N. Johnson,
Asst. Surgeon F. A. Davidson, Asst. Surgeon W. D. Shurtleff, Acting Judge
geon W. D. Shurtleff, Acting Judge
geon W. D. Shurtleff, Acting Judge
Advocate Lieut. J. A. Gleason, ChapAdvocate Lieut. J. Cushing, Lieut.
Capt. J. Stearng
Coushing, Lieut.
Emery Grover, Paymaster Col. J.
Emery Grover, Capt. Henry L.
Payson Bradlee. P. Cram, Hospital
Kincaide, Capt. E. P. Cram, Hospital
Steward J. W. Coper.
Steward J. W. Coper.
Ist Co. of Artillery, Commanding.
Powers, commanding.
Porter, Capt. J. J. Flaherty,
2d Co. of Artillery, Capt. J. J. Flaherty,
Col. the Rt. Hon., the Earl of Denbigh,
Col. the Rt. Hon., the Earl of Denbigh,
Col. the Rt. Hon., the Larl of Denbigh,
Lieut. Col. F. J. Stohwasser, Maj. C.
Lieut. Col. F. J. Stohwasser, Maj. C.

Col. the Rt. 1804. H. A. (command C. V. O., late R. H. A. (command C. V. O., R. F. A. E. D. Rudworth, M. V. O., R. F. A. E. D. Rudworth, M. J. F. Farrington, P. W. Legsatt, M.aj. F. Farrington, P. W. Legsatt, M.aj. F. Farrington, P. W. Legsatt, M.aj. F. Farrington, P. W. Culver-James, Surg-Surg-Maj. W. Culver-James, Surg-Surg-Maj. W. Culver-James, Surg-Surg-Maj. W. Culver-James, Surg-Surg-Maj. H. J. Bertram, Capt. H. Myddelton-O., Surg-Capt. A. C. Lowe, D. S. E. Trefiry, Capt. H. Myddelton-O., Surg-Capt. E. H. Myddelton-O., Surg-Capt. E. Cartland. Lieut. Gavey, Lieut. T. J. Cartland. Lieut. Gavey, Lieut. P. C. Cooper, Lleut. A. burg. Lleut. P. C. Cooper, Lleut. A. burg. Lleut. P. C. Cooper, Lieut. A. G. Hering. Green.

G. Hering, Wallery, 82 men.

Horse Artillery, 82 men.

Infantry, 78 men.

Infantry, 78 men.

Carrage containing Lady Denbigh,

Mrs. Courteliay Baylor, Charles H.

Eastwick. Joseph J. Tillinghast,

Eastwick. Joseph Secretary B. T.

Carrage containing Secretary B. T.

Mills, Stantey Faulkner, H. D. Lum
Mills, Stantey Faulkner, H. D. Lum
by, H. A. C., and David P. Keefe.

The charging began almost as soon

Mills Stanley Fauthouse by H. A. C., and David P. Keefe. by H. A. C., and the order to march was given, and strong the club, every available point of vantage was occupied by spectrators. The milwars occupied by spectrators. The milwars occupied by spectrators. The milwars occupied to which the quick faunty ing stride, to which the quick faunty decided contrast. A single drummer decided contrast. A single drummer decided contrast. The milwars beautiful that of the military bands a terms to the contract of the military bands a terms to the contract of the military bands a terms to the contract of the military bands a terms to the contract of the military bands a terms to the contract of the military bands a term to the contract of the military bands a terms to the contract of the military bands a term to the contract of the military bands a term to the contract of the military bands a term to the contract of the military bands a term to the contract of the military bands a term to the contract of the contrac high begind considerable quicks

h populace expected the spectacu pr. and they were not disappointed the Auglenta, with the vari-colorer enforms were a corgoous and imposing spectacle. This was especially true of the color uard, whose generous pro-portions wer clad in the blue and buff uniform of he soldier of the Revoluuniform of he soldier of the Revolution.

Behind then marched the Honourables with Lord Denbigh and Major Budworth, oth gorgeously uniformed at their head. The first division, the horse artilley, wore blue, the uniform being almost identical with that of the British Royal Horse Artillery. A short blue jacket with yellow strappings, tight trousers, strapped over regulation boots, and with a broad red stripe, c' beplumed busby, and a broad sabre, combined together to make a striking combined together to make a striking combination, and as worn by the clean cut, natty young Englishmen, produced in excellent impression.

But this uniform was quiet and unobtrusive when compared with that of the artillery company. Their jackets obtrusive when compared with that of the artillery company. Their jackets were of flaring red, well adorned with strappings and gold lace, trousers of blue, with narrow red stripe, and the whole was topped off with a gigantic hat which added a foot at least to the apparent hight of the wearers. They were armed with the regulation musket of the British army, and carried knife bayonets in their pipe clayed sheathes.

HOSPITABLE ENTERTAINMENT.

Lord and Lady Denbigh Shown Through King Philip Mills-Automobile Rides.

The reception at the Quequechan Club proved to be extremely pleasant from its very informality, The visitors had understood that they were to stop at a club house ,but they supposed it was merely for opthey supposed it was merely for opportunity to rest. They were made to understand from the moment of their arrival that the club house was theirs to use as they pleased. It was a very welcome break from the more or less formal routine under which they had been all the time when out of bed since they landed. The Quequechan Club house is not large enough to have allowed an elaborate entertainment of so many guests, but a simple entertainment could be and was well done. There was an air of easy well done. ment of so many guide ment of so many ple entertainment could be and was well done. There was an air of easy hospitality about the whole thing that seemed to suit the visitors down to the ground. They had the opportunity to rest, which they had anticlipated, and a little something more. Arrived in North Main street, just north of the club house, the military escort halted while the visitors marched past and into the club house. The Boston Ancients marched through the driveway to the rear lawn, giving the London visitors the first place in entering.

the London visitors the lift place in entering.

President William F. Hooper, of the Quequechan Club, and many of the numbers were on the piazza to welcome the guests, who were received with bare heads and hand-clapping, as they marched in to a quick step.played by the Salem Cadet Band. It is doubtful if the Unitarian church yard, across the street, ever had so many people in it at one time before. It was filled from the fence to the church. These people and the thousands of others gathered along the street, joined in the gathered along the street, joined in the gathered along the street, joined in the applause.

Lady Denbigh and Mrs. Baylor, with their escorts, drove up to the club house as soon as the London Honourables had gone inside. It was a coincidence that Tucsday was ladles a coincidence that Tucsday was ladles on such an open-house occasion. The ladies and their escorts were shown into the club house, where every possible courtesy was extended to them. Though it was ladies' day, no ladies were expected, and Lady Denbigh and Mrs. Baylor found only men to welcome them, an experience, however, such as must be quite familial to the former, at least.

The members of the club house committee, Mr. P. A. Mathewson, Mr. E. B. Reminston and Mr. J. F. Stafford, were on hand to see that everything possible was done for the comfort of the gaests. They were assisted by the members of the citizens' reception committee and by members of the character and by members of the them.

While the visitors were being enter-tained inside the club house, the Sa-lem Cadet Banl, Jean M. Missud, leader, gave a concert on the front-lawn, and the Naval Brigade Band, Herbert Clarke, leader, played on the rear lawn.

Herbert Clarke, leader, played on the rear lawn.

Lord and Lady Denbigh and Mrs. Baylor, who is a daughter of Colonel Hedges, did not remain long at the club house. After about 15 minutes, the ladies came out and re-entered their carriage. Lord Denbigh was on the way to join them, but was constantly checked to exchange greetings. When he finally entered the carriage. stantly checked to exchange greetings. When he finally entered the carriage Mr. Mathewson followed and they were driven off to the King Philip mills, of which Mr. Mathewson is superintendent, for an inspection. The operatives in the mills had expressed so general a desire to see the parade that the mills were shut down at a o'clock.

Many other mills of the city were Many other mills of the city were stopped early to allow the operatives opportunity to see the parade. The desire among the operatives, particularly those of English birth or parentage, to see the visitors, was so strong that the mills would have had to run short handed if they had not stopped.

Though the machinery at the King Though the machinery at the King Philip mills was not in operation, Mr. Mathewson was able to give his guests a very good idea of the working, products and capacity of the fine plant. Lord Denbigh expressed astonishment at the size of the buildings, and at-tention paid to the comfort of the op-eratives, the high studded, light and cratives, the high studded, light and airy rooms.

Lady Denbigh was enthusiastic about everything she saw. Casually, she asked Mr. Mathewson how far they were from the sag, and when she was informed that Newport was only 20 miles away, she at once proposed that they drive there. Mr. Mathewson was ready to help along any plan proposed. He agreed that it was possible to get through to Newport. "That's a fine plan," declared the lady. "I have some friends there, and we can call on them and give them a surprise. Then we can join the steamer there."

Lord Denbigh had listened very qul-etly, smiling. "Now," he said, "have you completed all your plans, my you completed all your plans, may dear?"

"Yes, I think so," she answered.

"Then I may overrule them all," he said. "We are on military, not social duty, and cannot do as we please this trip. We must follow the procession, so we will not drive to Newport."

The party drove back to the club house, where Lord Denbigh joined his command. The two gentiemen who had escorted the ladies from the station, re-joined them, and as seen as the procession had gone away, they were driven to the boat. Lady Denbigh and Mis. Baylor, who is to accompany her during the tour, occupied the briddl suite on the Puritan.

The ride about the dity in autoun, biles came very near to being shut out for lack of time, the special train boing late in arriving, but fertunately it was not, for it proved to be a very pleasant and successful feature. The officers and men of the London H. A. Co's were informed that as many of them as could be a memmodated would if they wished be taken for a short run through the city. The word special strain though the city. The word special strain in the plan proved to be very popular, there he may man, y may of the visit is unique to go out than could be taken. A man, ber of the automebile's made two trips, their guestes taking charces at beans, and late for roll call.

The trip made to a cut Rock streat

The tile in the plas out Rock street entropy of the High station about his in hour hearth avoided the following home of this contribution assisted in the contribution of the remaining the own of the contribution of the remaining the own in the contribution of the remaining the own in the contribution of the remaining the contribution of the remaining the remaining of the contribution of the remaining of the rem Mr. C. S. Grabam, Dr. H. G. Wilbur.

thear.

The cluzens' reception committee was on duty at the club house. It was made up as follows: Mr. R. C. Kerr, chairmen; Mr. James Harrer verses, secretary, Mr. Joseph Turner, treasurer; Dr. John G. Bert, Moyor George Grime, Congressman Williams, S. Greene, Dr. Robert T. Davis, Mr. Mark Hobson, Mr. Joseph T. Braishaw, Mr. John W. Meedes, Mr. Rolert, Mr. Samuel Himpson, Mr. James E. Watson, Jr. Mr. Matthew Thompson, Mr. Samuel Watson, Mr. James E. McCree, J. Mr. James Sinclair, Mr. John Crowther, Mr. Thomas Lingard.

MARCH TO THE BOAT.

Parade Given Grand Reception When Passing in Review at City Hall.

Passing in Review at City Hall.

At 5:15, the bugler of the Ancients sounded a call, and both the Boston and the London companies fell in lin. on Main street, the staffs of Col. Disbigh and Col. Hedges forming on the sidewalk in front of the club.

The line then moved forward towards the reviewing stand at the City Hall. At the corner of Pine and Main streets. Post 48, G. A. R., were drawn up under the command of Commander Gilbert, and marched ahead of the procession, to the City Hall. They were loudly cheered as they swung into the place resevred for them in front of the City Hall, and from which they reviewed the nariale. On the City Hall and from which they reviewed the nariale. On the City Hall balcony were Mayor Grime, a number of members of the board of aldermothy Messenger Crosson, and members of the reception committee all flowers with the growing twilight the batteries of the line was obtained.

In the growing twilight the batteries of the Cape Battalion had a silch advantage over the naval companies. Stheir red lined overcoats which were slung across the shoullers made the of the naval men. Battery M we served an evation as it saluted the reduced which must have been pleasing to the "Stars and Stripes Toward" as the "Stars and Stripes Toward" as the Stars and Stripes Toward.

swinging alorg proudly to the must of the "Stars and Stripes Powers" of the "Stats and Steipes Former, and more than sust of 1 the reput. In a second of the state of received with a burst of application who testified to their popularity with a citizens at large.

But the Henourables and the Ancients and Henourables were with the poor to waited to see, and the

Supper Served to the Vitar C pan as -Surmer Hand as the

On the steamer Puritan special

American flags drooping side by in graceful folds. The balcony decorated in a like manner.

The middle section on the starboard of the main deck was especially rived for the members of the Artiller Companies and the Newport Artiller Companies and the Newport Artiller Companies. lery Company. This section of the ck presented a gala appearance. Two amen guarded each entrance and no seamen guarded each entrance and no one but the military men were allowate in that section. There decorations were very gay and decorations were very gay and indome. Red, white and blue bunting drooned in innumerable graceful folds from the top and sides. At each brance were huge American ensigns, with several English flags, which very effectively covered the sides of the best and made a very cosy and inviting functor. A score of small tables and its were distributed about this section and there coffee and cigars were gloved after the supper was over.

"and there comes and cigats were joyed after the supper was over. The appointments of the steamer amazed the English visitors as they could not understand so much elegance could not understand so much elegance for a one-night trip.

The supper call was sounded at 6:15 of clock and the dining hall was given over to the exclusive use of the Honourables and Andents. A special in the had been prepared for the occasion. The menu form itself was very tweefully gotten up. On the outside the seal of Massachusetts, with the insignia of the Ancient and Honourable Artillery Co., of Massachusetts, ound the edge, centered with the seal of the state and the figures 1638. Below was the inscription: "The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts and the Honourable Artillery Company of London." In the lower right hand corner was the inscription: "En Route, Boston to New York, Fall River Line, Steamer Puritan, October 6th, 1903." Below is the menu:

Consomme.

Consomme.
Radishes.
Baked Riue Fish with fine herbs.
Pommery Sec et. Brut.
Rosst Prime Ribs of Beef.
Sweet Potatoes. Lima Beans.
Lettuce. French dressing.

Tonsted Crackers.
Dar-le-duc and Cream Cheese.
Cream.
Lady Fingers. thite Rock.
Black Coffee, White Rock.

Just previous to and following sup-Lord Denbigh and several of the Cers of both artillery and partial, I an informal reception in the saloon the main deck and were personally troduced to several of the officers of the lord traditional and the lord traditions are personally troduced to several of the officers of the lord traditions are personally. Introduced to several of the officers of the local military companies. Here, as clrewhere, David P. Keefe was very much in evidence, and passed out cigars with a happy smite and genial handshake. At the conclusion of the super the members of the artillery companies smoked cigars, the compliments of Mr. Keefe.

The work of decorating the steamer trans wholly done by the crew under the present supervision of the chief uppolarer of the division at Newport, rer of the division at Newport, diam Sullivan.

The steamer left the wharf at 7:10 sek with every condition conducive sek with every condition was warm fine night. The weather was warm clear and the moon was bright cordial and everything contributed cordial and everything contributed. to convey to the Engine Euc. S a sat-tefying Impression of Mt. Hope bay and Long Island Sound,

NOTES OF THE DAY,

Odds and Ends of the Celebration Vast Crowds a Feature.

The extent to which the recep by the Ancients and their guests was looked upon as a holiday by the people here was amply proved by the number of time did the crowd get beyond the control of the officers. At every point of interest, a squad under command of a commissioned officer was stationed, and the thoroughness of the police arrangements did much towards making the day an enjoyable one.

The visit of the Honourables gave several Fall River citizens a chance to renew old acquaintances, and made some of the Londoners remember that this is a small world after all. Major Cecil Wray, of Battery A, Horse Artillery, discovered an old time acquaintance in Robert Robinson, who served with him in J hattery at Woolwich many years ago. Many similar instances might be quoted since the arrival of the company on American soil.

County Commissioner Bryant was along the line of march renewing old acquaintances, and making many new ones.

"The call of the News met with a hearty response in many of the sub-urbs," writes a correspondent. The vi-cinity of Globe street gave evidence of good will and welcome by a display of the stars and stripes. The residences of Mr. Chas. Borden and Mr. Chas. Gale were prettily decorated with American and English flags in honor of the Honourables' visit to this city."

Some slight feeling was eaused just after the start of the sta after the start by the running of cars through and by the companies, that were drawn up. One Providence car ran through the line, and a Main Line car made the attempt only to be turned back by the police.

David P. Keefe had as his guests during the parade and at his house, Stanley Faulkner and H. D. Lumby, two members of the Honourables, who are temporarily disabled. Mr. Lumby is suffering with rheumatism, and Mr. Faulkner injured his knee while boarding the train at Boston, and it will be several days before he can resume his several days before he can resume his several days before he can resume his place in the ranks.

The Honorable Charles S. Ashley, king of New Bedford, was in uniform, and marched with the Ancients. He looked neither to the right nor the left, but attended strictly to business. No cheers, no huzzas, no acclaim marked his progress through the streets. For once in his life, the magnetic and scintillant mayor was not recognized.

recognized.

The number of out-of-town visitors fairly exceeded those of even the most prosperous circus day.

After the parade, Tuesday afternoon, the privates and non-commissioned officers of the visiting and local military companies were treated to a supper in the basement of the armory. The visiting militla companies left this city by special train at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. Quite a number of members of the New Bedford companies remained over until 11 o'clock.

Mayor Grime and City Clerk Brayton accepted an invitation tendered them by Col. Hedges and went with the Honourables and the Ancients to New York aboard the Puritan. Neither could say just how far on the trip they would accompany the visitors.

trip they would accompany the visitors.

The reception and parade was a success in every way, and the city enjoyed a treat. Now that it is over credit should be paid where credit is due. The local and visiting militia on escort made a fine showing and were thoroughly appreciated. The citizens' committee did its part excellently well. The police officers in charge of Assistant Marshal Fleet, had a hard day's work and did it well. The superintendent of streets and his men had their share. The Quequechan club contributed a good share to the entertainment, and so did the local automobilists. There is one man among all those who took part in the preparations and entertainment who must not be forgotten. The people of the city owe their treat of yesterday to Mr. David P. Keefe. Republican the for the contribution of the city of t the for parameters the lift to the holden had a complete the the holden had. A. C. a to make a complete the from Boston to No... York to had to promise the property of the holden had been a complete the started the whole thing the started the whole things and entertain must became too extensive to suit the moston military authorities, who were directing the tour of the way.

The people of the city generally recog-nized Mry; Keefe's part in the success of the day, and everywhere that he ap-peared yesterday he received pleasant greating.

House Founded by Geoffrey, Count of Hapsburgh, Who Fled From Germany.

Away back in the time of King Henry III., of England, one Geoffrey, count of Hapsburgh, having been recount of Hapsburgh, having been reduced to great poverty by the oppression of Rudolph, Emperor of Germany, fled to England and settled there. His son, Sir Geoffrey, served under King Henry HI. in his wars in England and assumed the surname of Felding or Feilding. In 1620, William Feilding, son of Basil Feilding, sheriff of Worwickshire, was created baron of Newnham Paddockes, Warwick, and Viscount Feilding, and in 1622 Earl of Dencount Feilding, and in 1622 Earl of Denbigh.

Then, as a matter of 250 years having passed, during which the descendants of the oppressed nobleman who had fied from Germany fought valiantly for their king, their lady and their God, married, got children and died, there was born May 26, 1859, Rudolph, Robert Rasil Aloysius Augusting Rudolph, there was born May 26, 1859, Rudolph, Robert Basil Aloysius Augustine Feilding, the Earl of Denbigh, Viscount Fellding, Baron Feilding of Newnham Paddox and Lord St. Liz in England; Earl of Desmond, Viscount Carlin and Baron Fellding in Ireland; J. P., C. C. and D. L. for Warwickshire, late Capt, R. H. A., and lieutenant-colonel commanding the Honourable Artillery Company, and the same who was cheered so heartily in this city Tuesday.

cheered so heartily in this city Tuesday.

His wife, Lady Denbigh, whom he married Sept. 23, 1884, is the daughter of the eighth Lord Clifford of Chudleigh. They have six children. The Clifford lineage dates back to the time of Henry II., when Walter, sone of Richard Fitz Ponz, married Margaret, daughter and helr of Ralph de Tonel, by whom he acquired Clifford Castle, in Herefordshire. His daughter was the celebrated Fair Rosamond.

In both families there were both men and women who helped to make the history of England. And not only were there valiant soldiers, but men of letters. Henry Fielding, author of "Tom Jones," who ranked as one of the most distinguished novelists of England, was the son of Edmond, the son of George, canon of Salisbury, the son of George, canon of William, the first Earl of Densond.

son of Windam, the bigh.

The arms of the Earl of Denbigh are
The arms of the Earl of Denbigh are
Arg. on fesse, az., three lozenges, or,
The crest, a nuthatch. with hazel branch, fructed, all proper, attired and unguled, or, The motto is "Virtutis
unguled, or, The motto is "Virtutis Praemium Honor," which, being translated, is, "Honor is the Reward of Virtue."

Fall River News Oct. 7, 1903.
BIG CROWD AT NEWPORT.

Artillery Co. of That City Accompanies Party to New York.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 7.—When the Fall River line steamer Puritan reached here last night having on board the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and their guests, the Honourable Artillery Company of London, the pier was crowded with people, who cheered wildly during the brief stop.

The Puritan was boarded here by the The Puritan was boarded here by the Newport Artillery Company of 100 men, commanded by Colonel John D. Richardson, and accompanied by the United States Artillery Band. The company has been assigned to escort duty during the stay of the Honourables in New York, and was given an enthusiastic send off during the march from the representation.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of London lifted the cup all

Fall River News Oct. 7, 1903. DENBIGH OF MANY TITLES.

Journal

oct. 7, 1963

THE EARL OF DENBIGH.

Lord Denbigh is the Comander of the Honourable Artiflery Company of London, who become the guests of the Old Guard of New York to-day.

Eli Paso, (Tef.,) Oct. 7, 1903. Gotham Ready for the Ancients.

New York, Oct. 6.-Plans have been completed by the Old Guard of this city for its reception of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and the Honorable Artillery company of London with the other organizations expected as guests tomorrow. Besides the Boston and London companies the invited guests include the Minute Men of Washington, D. C., Newport Artillery company, Governor's Foot Guards of Hartford, Providence Light infantry and the Richmond Blues of Richmond. Va.

The visitors will be met by the Old Guard in full uniform and escorted to the Waldorf Astoria, where they will be quartered during their stay in the metransis. metropolis. The program of enter-tainment provides for a banquet at Sherry's tomorrow evening and an auShydrecate (F. ".) Herbeld Oct . 7, 1903.

During the last half century the corps has undergone several alterations in its constitution. Up till 1840 it command a body of archers. Until very recounty the company consisted of a light cavalry aquadron, a field battery and and infantry battallon. In 1830 the light cavalry were converted into horse artillery, and so, too, was the field battery. The batteries, which are the only volunteer horse artillery in the country, were recently armed with a new 15-pounder breechinder. In July last the corps was reviewed by the king, who holds the post of captain-general and colone; of the regiment. In two biles year of 1847 the company celebrated its 850th anniversary by a grand review.

The contingent are now salling at the invitation of the Ancient and Henourable Artillery Company of Massachusetts. It appears that among the carly settlers in Massachusetts were a number of members of the London H. A. C. They founded an oxpanization similar to the one they had belonged to at home. This body was the first organized military force in America. It is only right to add, however, that during a markany was with Great Britan the

BOSTON ARTILLERY LEADS WAY TO WEST POINT WITH ENGLISH GUESTS.

With uniforms of familing rid and go led equalities. 201 members of the flore rid dead go led the fall River line steamer Portian to the after a night of jolification, followed every the Earl of Denbigh and Desmond, C. V. O., who is in command of the Honourable Artillery of London, led in three rousing cheers, which were taken up and listly repeated by the Newport Guards and the escorting party of Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Boston, all of whom were crowded about the forward part of the vessel.

Then the band began to play and as the gangplank was thrown out the entire delegation marched on to the pler to ragisting music. Major C. E. D. Budworth, the ficularly happy mood, insisting that every member of the Boston Artillery Company than the vester.

To See Rooseveik.

To See Rooseveik.

member of the Boston Artillery Company than to the end of the pler, where lay the steamboat Sirius, which was to convey the party to West Point.

The London Artillerymen were respin deat in blue coats with yellow braid while the infantry detachment wore red cars and the infantry detachment were red coars and great hearskin hats. As Earl Denbill 1 at the Puttler he was Joined by Colonel Section of the Ancient and Hone with Artiflery of Massachusetts.

As the control of the Reput legal had a function. Colonel William Cake, ide first fleuring a point of the Denbile had seen and epart, and John D Michole, his see end epart, and John D. Nichols, his second it is the common many party proceeding discretic to be supported to the Support The Massachustite command consisted of 132 men, the supported to the red religion of an and blue trousers agrees. It worm by the artificials when they make their parodes in Boston.

Denbigh Is Happy.

To an Treas g dornal coportor Lord

Post . T. 1903

ARRIVAL IN NEW YORK.

Artillerymen at Once Board a Steame for West Point.

New York, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artiflery Company of Boston and the Newport Artiflery Company of London, arrive Steamer Puri day. Wattir 2 with a standard and the Newport Artiflery Company of London, arrive steamer Puri London, to West Point.

London, to West Point.

Without loss of time the two com-

Oct. 7, 1903.

WHOLE TOWN TURNED OUT

To Honor the Military Visitors from London and Boston.

Splendid Showing Made in Parade from Club to Boat.

They came, they saw, they conquered, visitors and they found in this cosmonate is in brief the result of the peacewere to join with them in offering the factors and the cate yeaterday by Honographis the best the town could be Honographis the best the town could be Honographis the best the town could be also as the case of London with the special bearing and Honographic actions as their escort. Their call was call, the factor of the fall River fails that the Fall River state of the fall River fails that the fall River fails that the fall River fails that the possibility of the fall River fails that the fall related the fail River fails that the fail related the fail River fails that the population by the fail was that the population by the fail was that the population by the fail was carried through to wan the fail was carried through the fail was carried through to wan the fail was carried through to wan the fail was carried through th panies had formed in the armory and headed by the Brigade band started for the station. In the line were Companies F and I and Battery M, of this city and the New Bedford organizations. Caltain Doherty and a squad of ten menhad been assigned to the duty of escoring the marchers over the entire route from the armory to the station, back to the club and over the route to the wharf. His men were Officers Morgan, Tierney, Lomax, B. Leary, Desmond, Lapointe, Murphy, Kenney, Flynn and McDermott. Outside the armory Officers McMullen and Blinn were on duty. Captain Doherty's men were arranged as skirmishers and on the route to the depot, though they had many slow drivers to contend with, they cleared the street of all vehicles, so that there was absolutely no interference with the line.

ers to contend with, they charted as street of all vehicles, so that there was absolutely no interference with the line. It was 3 o'clock when the companies reached the depot and there they joined the organizations from Boston, Brockton, Taunton, Springfield and Lynn. The latter were drawn up on the macadamized stretch from the station to the street. Men had hurried that work along, so that there was a good piece of road there to walk upon. When the companies from the armory had swung into places with them and when the line was complete it extended from the north approach to the station to the foot of French's hill. There were then several French's hill. There were then several thousand persons gathered as close to the station as they could get and the number was steadily increasing, as thoe who had taken places at the centre of the city learned that the first part of the line of manch brought the parede only to the city learned that the first part of the line of march brought the parade only to the Quequechan club. There was a large detachment of police on hand and they were directed by Assistant Marshal Fleet assisted by his captains and lieu-

Fleet assisted by his captains and lieutenants.

With everything in readiness there was nothing to do but wait in eager expectancy. It was learned that the special train was five minutes late in passing through Quincy and would arrive about 3:20. It was just about that time that "here she comes" was heard and the heavy train swung from the main line to the temporary tracks below the grade of the depot. There were eleven cars, one of them for the baggage. There were several sleeping and dining cars and Pullman parlors. It had been intended to send the train in two sections but this plan was changed and it came as one train hauled by two engines. The head engine was the famous $56, the "World's Fair" machine (hat received an award for passenger locomotices at the Chicago exposition. As the train pulled in and the visitors began to leave the cars the crowd grew restless and attempted to press forward to get all that was coming in the way of a view but the police kept the lines straight.

The Salem Cadet band was the first to form. It took a place at the head of the macadamized stretch and then moved towards the street as the visitors formed. The crówd was a little uncertormed. The crowd was renewed when prolonged and it was renewed when take their places in line. Lord Denbigh take their places in line. tenants. With everything in readiness there a carriage in which they were untown.

The visitors formed with the Boston Ancients behind the band and the Britishers at the left of this detachment. They passed in front of the militia drawn up at present and marched clear of the line to a noint about half way up the hill. There they drew up company front and allowed the escort headed by the Brigads band to go to the right of the line. When all swung into position and started for the club house they made up the largest and by far the best military parade ever seen in Fall liver. The street was cleared of cars and wagons and the crowd was held back to the curb, so that there was an opportunity for company formations. The militin was warmly applauded but the cheering was loudest when the Honourable approached, the artillery-men in dark uniforms and yellow braid leading, followed by the infantrymen with red coats and bear skin hats.

with red coats and bear skin hats. At the club the escort drew up and allowed the Ancients and their guests from the other side to pass in review. Before entering the club house the Englishmen gave their first exhibition of military tactics. The first difference between their tactics and the militia was noted when they marked time. Instead of a swinging motion with the left foot they had a pronounced stamp, that started or stopped as if a wire controlled all the legs. In handling swords and rifles the two companies displayed clock like precison. At the order march the band struck up the "British Grenadiers" and with a lively tread that taused spectators to step time and cheer, the Britishers entered the club house. The infantrymen stacked arms in the rear. The carriage in which Lady Denbigh and Mrs. Baylor rode then drew up and the former was escorted to the club by Colonel B. D. Davol, while P. A. Mathewson, chairman of the house committee, performed a similar service for Mrs. Baylor. The ladies remained in the club house about 15 minutes and then re-entered the carriage with Lord Denbigh and Mr. Mathewson.

It was at this point in the programme that the wisdom of the committee in making its plans was shown. There was no endeavor to have any formal exercises, so that the visitors enjoyed the liberty of the club house free from all restraint. There were light refreshments in plenty and a corps of waiters to serve them. The visitors spent a short time in the dining hall and then it was announced that there were automobiles for those who wished to make a quick tour of the city. The response of owners to the request that they offer the use of their machines was a generous one and about 30 machines were on hand. All of the request that they offer the use of their machines was a generous one and about 30 machines were on hand. All of the machines were decorated with American and English flags.

The tour covered the business centre the district in which many mills could At the club the escort drew up and allowed the Ancients and their guests dated and were whirled away for a trip of 40 minutes. All of the machines were decorated with American and English flags.

The tour covered the business centre the district in which many mills could be seen and Highland avenue, from which a good view of the city and the beautiful river and bay could be obtained. While some were enjoying the ride, others, including the majority of the Boston men remained at the club house, smoking, lounging about in the beautiful river and the Salem Cadet in listen to the bands, the Salem Cadet in listen to the bands, the Salem Cadet in front and the Naval Brigade upon the rear lawn. Both rendered up-to-date rear lawn. Both which all sills and impression upon the Londoners. Some enjoyed themselves in the billiard halls, where they played English biliards upon American tables. Was really a period of relaxation that was appreciated. It was one of the was appreciated. It was a pleasure to them that there was a tleast one inlace that could receive and entertain them in a most hospitable manner withfrom the two-minute clip that will prevail upon most of the trip.

Those who went in the autos rested while riding and were very favorably impressed by what they saw. They impressed to ton manufacturing city in largest cotton manufacturing city i to the way Mr. Mithewson happened to meriton the proximity of Newport, which at once aroused the interest of lady Denbigh.

"Why cannot me drive down to New-dear?"

"Why, yes," she repiled.

"Then I may overule them all," said he. "This is a military expedition, and we cannot do as we please on this trip. We must follow the procession, so we will not go to Newport."

Mr. Mathewson took them all over the King Philip mill and explained the machinery. No one was at work and Lord Denbigh was surprised when Mr. Mathewson, who is superintendent of the mill, said that he had been obliged to shut down as the employes insisted upon assisting in the welcome of the Honourables.

There were many informal chats at Honourables.

There were many informal chats at the club house during the absence of the tourists. The members vied with one another in making everything as pleasant as possible for the visitors and it was with regret that they heard the bugle announcing formation. The autos and the carriages had returned at 5 o'clock and a few minutes later the men were taking their places for the parade. The militia had been at the armory for refreshments while the visitors were at the club house and they returned in time to join in forming the line. At 5:10 everything was in readiness. There had been a general handshaking and wishes of bon voyage at the club and the order to march was given: The line moved in the following order:

Naval Brigade Band.
Richard Borden post 46, G. A. R., John Gilbert, commander: Frank S. Chan-

Richard Borden post 46, G. A. K., John Gilbert, commander; Frank S. Channell, adjutant.
Captain Buffinton of the Massachusetts Naval brigade—staff: Lieutenant Commander E. V. Merritt, surgeon; Lieutenant G. C. Hathaway, adjutant; Lieutenant H. C. Talbot, equipment officer; James Marshall, paymaster; Lieutenant James P. Parker, ordnance officer: Lieutenant Raymond D. Borden, signal officer; Lieutenant D. G. Eldridge, Lieutenant D. S. Sughrue, Lieutenant O. R. Blair, Lieutenant Thomas B. Purdy, Lieutenant Thomas B. Purdy, Lieutenant Thomas B. Armstrong, chiefengineer; Lieutenant Charles F. Borden, Lieutenant Palmer, Lieutenant Spencer Borden, Lieutenant Nathan Durfee, Lieutenant J. Bion Richards, Lieutenant J. Thaver Lincoln, Lieutenant Commander John D. Munroe, Battallon First Heavy Artiliery M. V. M., Lieutenant Colonel Charles D. Woodward, commanding, Battery M of Fall River, Captain David Fuller.

Battery M of Fall River. Captain David Fuller.

Battery E of New Bedford, Captain Gibbs.

Battery F of Taunton, Captain Danforth.

Battery I of Brockton. Captain Horton.
Massachusetts Navai Brigade.
First battalion. Lieutenant Commander
W. B. Edgar. commanding; Lieutenant Parker, adjutant.

Co. H of Springfield. Lieutenant Dexter.
Co. I of Fail River. Lieutenant Beattie.
Co. G of New Bedford, Lieutenant Bowdoin.

Second battalion. Lieutenant Commander James H. Dillaway, commander James H. Dillaway, commanding; Ensign Lewis, adjutant.
Co. C of Boston. Lieutenant C. H.
Parker.

Co. A of Boston. Lieutenant Goodrich,
Co. E of Lynn. Lieutenant Goodrich, Co. E of Lynn. Lieutenant Turnbuil.

Salem Cadet Band.
Ancient and Honorable Co.

Salem Cadet Band.

Ancient and Honorable Co.

Colonel Sidney M. Hedres, commanding Colonel Charles K. Purling a him of, First heutet ant. Coloner W. H. Cakes, Second Lieutenant John D. Nicross, Staff Colonel A. M. Fer is Surgeon, F. D. Hill, Assistant Surgeon, F. N. Johnson, Assistant Surgeon, F. N. Johnson, Assistant Surgeon W. D. Shurtleff, Acting Judge Advorate Lieutenant J. A. Gleason, Chaplain W. H. Rider, Captain A. A. Folsom, Captain J. Steams Cushing, Lieutenant Emery Grover, Paymaster Colonel port and meet the company on the steamer there?" she asked.

Mr. Mathewson said she could.
"That is a fine plan," continued the Englishwoman. "We have some friends at Newport and we can all go and call on them and give them a surprise, Then we can join the steamer there."

Lord Denbigh sat smiling until the countess had finished. Then he asked: "Have you completed your plans, my dear?"
"Why, yes" she replied

J. Payson Bradlee, Captain Henry L. Kincaide, Captain E. P. Cram, Hospital Steward J. W. Cooper First Co. of artillery, Sergeant Charles H. Porter, commanding.

Second Co. of artillery, Captain J. J. Flaherty, commanding.

Honourable Artillery Co. of London, Earl of Denbigh and Desmond, commanding, Major C. E. D. Budworth, adjutant; Adjutant General S. A. Dalton of Massachusetts. ton of Masaschusetts.

adjutant: Adjutant General S. A. Dalton of Masaschusetts.

The order to march was followed by a sight that was new to Fall River. It overshadowed the firemne's parade of a few years ago, not in number of men in line, but in the size of the crowd that witnessed it and the enthusiasm displayed. The crowd at 3:30 had been a big one. It had blocked the sidewalks and the road on North Main street for its entire width when the parade went into the clubhouse, but the gathering at 5:30 eclipsed all previous records. No one imagined that there would be such an outpouring. All of the police who could be put into the centre were there, and they had their hands full. They worked like majors, however, and reduced interference to a minimum. There was a great jam about City Hall square. When the head of the procession was at Bank street the square was one struggling mass of humanity. It looked as if there would be no getting through it. Police charges were repelled several times, but level-headed citizens took a hand with them, and gradually the crowd fell back. Assistant Marshal Fleet rode in C. S. Graham's automobile, which proved of excellent service in forcing back the crowd. Another machine manipulated in the same manner would have been of great assistance to the officers. When the parade entered the square, when the same manner reached that point they had only to put on the finishing touches.

As far north and as far south as one has far north and as far south as one when they had only to put on the finishing touches.

As far north and as far south as one could see from the balcony at city hall the street on both sides was black with people. Every window in every building in sight made an opening for many pairs of eager eyes. It was rapidly approaching semi-darkness, but there was still light enough for the color upon the buildings to show and the bright uniforms of the visitors to produce a good effect. Post 46, G. A. R., fell out of line at city hall, swinging company front to allow the parade to pass in review. The men were accorded a cheer, showing that the "boys" of '61 held their place in the hearts of the held their place in the hearts of the people.

Upon the balcony at city hall were Mayor Grime, Secretary Crowther, Messenger Crosson, several officials and President Lawson and Aldermen Bannister, Bagshaw Kelly, Ling, Manley, Lannigan, Riley and Sinclair. The Cheering was general from the time the cheering was general from the time the cheard of the parade entered the square to the strains of the "Stars and Stripes to the strains of the affair, and two distances of the affair, and two distances of the affair, and two distances that marked some of the uniforms that marked some of the uniforms that marked some of the shown in Proston or the shown Honomables have weaken at second arrival in this country. The uniforms of the artillerymen of the Honourables were dark and the only things to be a least the only things to be a least them was in some of the arrival and the only things to be a least them.

there were some on uniforms of other styles. Samens them the continental. This was due to the fact that when a man joine the Ancients he is to wear the uniform of the command with which he was identified by the same and the the Hu.

orables.
An attractive feature of the Hostor Ancienta was their color guard a admiration from the Honourables, who autrhed the line of so deers and sailors very carefully as they passed. The batles of artillery wore their coats led over their shoulders, the red linthe giving brightness to the uniform. Went through the square company t and the marching evoked great i plause. This was especially true of inpany I of this city, to which the oners for marching belong.

The view from the city hall balcony was one that will not be forgotten very soon. As the line went up South Main street it seemed as if the milita formed an a dark mass and when the second it is a passed up it appeared to have come one great body in which the caret coats of the Lalem Cadet band and of the Honourables stood out can't a dark back ground. The line dustetmurch lat Columbia street and seme down Main to Pocasset. The recipitor, as, along the le was such that when the marches reached the boat it, where not slow in saying that for a unit town Fall River was certainly a let ier. All agreed that the reception was a good second to what had occurred in the streets of Boston.

There was an immense crowd at the de k but it soon dispersed, as there was a no of poince to keep away all but it is not in the dock the local escort all well the visitors to pass in review. The companies then came up town and the streets of the local escort all the companies then came up town and the local escort and the companies then came up town and the local escort and the companies then came up town and the local escort and the companies then came up town and the local escort and the companies then came up town and the local escort all the visitors to pass in review. a dark mass and when the second

The companies then came up town and Fall River's part of America's welcome tas at an end. At the dock the Honbrathes repeated the manoeuvres of lecting forming company front and their marriang at a lively clip to the strains of the "British Grenadiers." Abour the least the An ents and the Londoners must the company there are not and the Londovers sought their coms at once, wound fatigue dress and then repaired to the drang half for dinner.

The boat had been dressed for the order on the lining room was draped to the against outling to English flag to purpose forth here and there. At the beed of the mean the saloen the relery deck were American and the high and there were similar and it at the after end of the galthe tall or i freight deck was set in the tall or i freight deck was set in the column as would recognize in it a chi capar recut The only bare In The part were the only bare in the case of the easing in the case of the easing in the case and bunting, and a decrease of the case and about the less. The electrical effects were fine, of this was done by the company's in under the direction of William Survivous of the supervisor's office at Newof the supervisor's office at New-

After dinner the visities spent considerable time in inspecting the Puritan and evrything about the great sideheeler from her boiser room to her pihouse was a revelation to the Engtree. The richness and splender of fittings and de orations astounded for let original sise caused them tid to the picture of the received the state of the state of s ruens of Colonel theref Grime and City

it neat Commander t along alro, ag Boston Ancients ,n all of the tune.

gether arrived in New York about 7 o'clock this morning. Waiting for them with steam up, was a second steamer ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillers company of Boston and its guests, the Honourable Artillery company of London; to West Point. Without loss of time the two companies in full uniform descended the gangway of the Fall River line boat and marched in a column of twos across the pier and up the gangway of the 'excursion boat. up the gangway of the excursion boat. Five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and with the united out into the stream and with the united bands of both companies playing, proceeded up the Tiver. The Newport Artillery company, which had lined up in company front on the pier while the Boston and London organizations were embarking, proceeded to a hotel to spend the day, intending to meet the London and Boston Honorables on their return from West Point late this after-

ALONG THE LINE.

The privilege of meeting and escorting Lady Denbigh was considered by many of those interested in the management of the reception as well worth agement of the reception as well worth the seeking and as a result there was her arrival at the Fall River station, her rrival at the Fall River station.
David P. Keefe was there with an open carriage and a detter from Colonel Hedges to him showed that David P.
Kefee was regarded by the visitors as the accredited representative of the Citizens' committee. There was, however, another carriage on hand. It was se-cured by other members of the committee from a friend and it was looked upon as the smartest thing in town in that line. When Colonel Hedges stepped off he was met by David P., to whom he imparted the information that the ladies were in the rear car. David started that way only to find that Messrs. Fuller and Durfee, who were in ed him. They had the right of way for sure and David withdrew quite gracefully and Lady Denbigh and Mrs. Baylor were escorted to somehing more stylish than a public conveyance.

The citizens' committee at reception at the Quequechan club was as follows: Congressman Greene, Robert C. Kerr, Dr. Gilbert, Joseph T. Bradshaw, Thos. Lingard, Ralph Hampson, John Meados, Joseph Turner, Joseph B. Clinton, James E. Watson, Samuel Watson, Elijah Duckworth, James Hargraves, Mark Hobson and John Crowther.

Mark Hobson and John Crowther.

David P. Keefe, who was instrumental in starting afrangements for the reception, had as guests in his carriage Stanley Faulkner and Harry D. Lumby of the Honourables. The former had suffered an attack of rheumatism since his arrival in this country and the latter wrenched his knee in alighting from the train. Every member of the Honourable. the train. Every member of the Hon-ourables received an R. F. H. cigar in an envelope announcing the compli-ments of Mr. Keefe. David did not forget the militia men. He engaged a hall at the corner of Durfee and Cen-tral streets and there served refresh-ments that could not be supplied at the armory. The service was greatly appreciated by the men.

With the Honourables was Major C. E. D. Budworth, M. T. O. R. F. A. (Adjutant) of the regular British army. Jutant) of the regular British army. His commission was the reward of merit for conspicuous bravery on the battle field. He went to the late war in South Africa as a non-com in one of the companies of infantry. He was in that disastrous charge at Spion Kop and was badly woulded. His bravery upon that occupion attracted general attention and atter he had been invalled home and had recovered he was attention and atter he had been invalided home and laddrecovered he was given his choice of a medal and pension or a commission in the regular army. Being a young man and fully recovered from the effects of the wounds he chose the commission. He was made major and he is adjutant in the Honourables. The special train was made up of some of the finest cars ever seen in this city. There were four Pullman parlor cars, two sleepers and a sleeping and dining car, and three of the best of the New Haven day coaches. It was the best train the fionourables had ever revelled in, for the coaches in England and one of the visitors remarked as he settled back into an casy chair enjoying a smoke and e view of the land-scape that it seemed as if they were in a palace on wheels.

Mochester, Sky,) Post- Jaleyland Oct. 7, 1903: ANCIENTS AT WEST POINT

British Artillerymen Visit the Great Military Aundemy.

New York, Oct. 7 .- The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston, and the Newport Artillery company, escorting the Honourable Artillery company, of London, arrived here to-day on a steamer from Fall River.

Waiting for them with steam up was a second steamer ready to take hosts and guests to West Point. Without loss of time the two companies, in full uniform, descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in column of twos across the pier and up the gang-way of the excursion boat. Five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and with the united lards of both companies playing, proceded up the river.

West Point, Oct. 7.-The Honourable Artillery company of London and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston arrived here to-day.
A salute was fired and the battalion of cadets was paraded in front of the bar-

The guests were escorted to Captain Sill's quarters where a reception was

The reception was followed by a review of the cadets after which the visitors returned to the boat and sailed down

Troy, N. J.,) Record! Oct. 7, 1903.

The London Honourables. New York, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company, escorting the Honourable Artillery company of London, arrived here to-day on a steamer from Fall River. Waiting for them with steam up was a second steamer ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and its guest, the Honourable Artillery company of London, to West Point, Without loss of time, the two companies, in full uniform descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in column of twos across the pier and up the gangway of the excursion boat. Five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and with the united hands of both companies playing, proceeded up the river. The Newport Artillery company, which had lined up on the pier, while the Boston and London organizations were embarking, then proceeded to a hotel to spend the day, intending to meet the London and Boston Honorables on their return from West Point late this

Guests Given Steamboat Excursion

Boston, Oct. 5-This was the 266th fall field day of the Aucient and Honorable Artillery company, and with their guests, the Honourable Artillery com-guests, the Honourable Artillery company of London, the Boston company apent the day in a steamboat excursion along the north shore. The day's program also included a reception and banquet in Symphony hall this evening.

At 10 o'clock the members of the home company assembled at their armory in Fanul hall and soon afterwards formed a line on South Market at cet to receive their English comrades. A short march took the column to howe's wharf, where a steamer was hoarded for the day's true.

Oct. 7, 1903.

HOME IS MY GREAT FAD, SAYS LADY DENBIGH.

LADY DENBIGH, THE HOME LOVER.

There will be few more interesting visi- and have found them charming," she said There will be few more interesting visitors to New York during the coming season of the control of the contro and particularly country life.

"I believe motherhood to be the highest "I believe motherhoof to be the highest mission of woman," she deciated in an instance of woman, or could be far happier much into business or public life. Theirs with little wealth without them. My with works of hobby. I helieve implicitly home. Do not get the impression that I family is my hobby. I helieve implicitly home. Do not get the impression that I family is my and in making others im making unfavorable comparisons when happy."

is Fond of America.

Lady Denbigh is fond of America and Site of English women."

Americans, and says she finds little dir. Americans between the two countries and the fact that the home life is characters with the fact that the home life is characters. The fact that the home life is characters.

say that. I simply wish, to emphasize he fact that the home life is character-

Journal oct. 7, 1963,

ENGLISH ARTICLERMEN WILL VISIT WEST POINT, MT. VERNON. WASHINGTON AND FALLS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 .- The Honour-" able Artillery company of London descended upon Knekerbocker town today, arriving from Boston early this morning on the Fall River boat. The English visitors were escorted from Boston by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston, and the stillery company of Newport. The visitors will be the guests of the Oli-Guard of New York, while here. Todur they will journey up the Huds in a Wast Point, where the Cadet corps will be rurned out for an exhibition

Commandant Mills of the Military academy will also intertain the visit-ors informally and at about 3 o'clock they will embark on the return trip to New York.

During their stay have the Lor loners will visit the Old Guard's military will visit the old Guard's military bazaar at Madison Square landen.

Leaving here on Friday morning, the party will proceed to Washington, where a recently, has one in a and for them. Saluriny will be , issel to a visit to the tone of Warnington, and latter in the day they till be received by Prostlent Row tol, at the White House.

On Satuday night the party will depart for Ningara Falls. The train throusaout the trip will travel in two sections, the first being made up of a home to the travel to the trav ing cara and the I true are Chinone, which will be used by the Earl of Denbigh, commander of the London company, and Lady Denbigh.

Oct. 1900 READY FOR THE ANCIENTS.

The Famous English Company Is Going to New York.

New York, Oct. 6.-Plans have been completed by the Old Guard of this ony for its reception to the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Honorable Artillery Company of Loudon with the Compa ganizations expected as creek too. row. Been at least at I ... Newport Artillery of Artiford Provi dence Light Infant ; 111 mond Blues of Richmond, Va.

The visitors will be met by the Old Guard in full uniform and escorted to the Waldord-Astoria, where they will be quartered de t . T st in the motropolis. The pro - ... entertuinment provides for . an .. at Sherry's tomat we down in the in Boston Post, Oct. 7, 1903.

REPORT SAYS DENBIGH WILL BE AMBASSADOR

Said to Be Slated to Succeed Herbert at Washington

LADY DUNBIGH, W.fo of the commander of London Honogrables, and who, rumor says, may bethe commander of the leading women in Washington social life.

igoslove - 10 st.

LORD DENBIGH'S VIEWS ON BUNKER HILL

Wat do you think if Britain's union lack floating from Bunker Hill?"

I ness if a pointer of Land Technich

I ness if a pointer glad I was to see that we are smoking the pipe

the West of the glad I was to see that we are smoking the pipe which we distract you know," and, turning on his heels with a folly swing.

The Rod-natured words. "Why shouldn't we be happy?" range through Marcher speel a king

Fort James (1.3.)

Honorables at Fall River. FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 7.—The Tonorable Artillery Company of London, with 141 members of the Boston Ancients, have arrived from the Hub nd will inaugurate their tour in this

Boston Post, Oct. 7, 1903.

Honourable Artillery Company of London, will be the successor of the late Sir Michael Herbert as English ambassador at Washington was the statement made to a Post reporter by a member of the Honourables shortly before the company left Boston for its tour of the country

Several other members made statements to the same effect, and the news, which had spread throughout the command, created no end of enthusiasm over the good fortune in store for the popular commander.

the good fortune in store for the popular commander.

Lord Denbigh, although the fact is not well known on this side of the water, has already an enviable reputation as a diplomat. King Edward VII., at whose court he is a lord in waiting, has for some time been desirous of bestowing upon Lord Denbigh a diplomatic post of honor and responsibility. This action, however, was deferred as the time for the visit of the Honourables to America drew near. King Edward wished Lord Denbigh to come here as his personal representative and then intended to give him, upon his return to England, some vacant diplomatic post or to make changes in the service so that an important place would be ready for him. Now that the English ambassadorship at Washington has become unexpectedly vacant through the death of Sir Michael Herbert, King Edward, members of the Honourables are informed from private sources at home, has determined to name Lord Denbigh for the place.

King Edward vas greatly ploased upon the receipt of Lord Denbigh's cablegram describing the enthusiastic welcome accorded the Honourables when cables mentioning the ovation which the commentioning the ovation which the commentioning the ovation which the commentioning the ovation which the pany is receiving have increased his satisfaction.

reached America, and subsequent mentioning the ovation which the commentioning the ovation which the commentioning the ovation which the commendation of the pany is receiving have increased his satisfaction. The popularity of Lord Denbigh, of which the King was already brought to his attention.

Lord Denbigh had a reputation in Lord Denbigh had a reputation in England as a splendid speaker. His speech Monday night at the banquet in Symphony Hall, coplous extracts from Symphony Hall, coplous extracts from which were cabled to England, is expected not only to strengthen his repupation as a graceful, witty speaker, but also, in view of the impression it created, also, in view of the impression it created, to further strengthen his chances for the ambassadorship.

also, in view of the impression it district to further strengthen his chances for the ambassadorship.

Lord Denbigh's tour of the country. during which it is confidently expected he will receive a welcome almost equalling that given him in Boston, will further increase his popularity thruther increase his popularity. Americans. His meeting with President Rooseveit in Washington will doubtless be significant. Lord Denbigh, as a trueblue sportsman and cordial, gracious sentleman, would no doubt become as firm a friend of the President as was the late English amabassador.

Lord Denbigh's experience in matters diplomatic and, political has well fitted him for an ambassadorship. Lords and reputation in the House of his famous the staunch devotion of statesmanship command are evidence of statesmanship and executive ability. In the house of the Irish office, answering right bills. In the House of Lords Lord Denbigh has been an active debater and at times he did a considerable amount of stumping for his party. His political efforts also extended to the London of the Countil. In 1896 he stood as one of the four representatives for the city of London and defeated Lord Wolverton by 400 votes,

Cohoed M. J.)

Colored Silicand.

Boston's Quiet Disturbed.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—The quietness of the Subbath was broken by the sound of partial. of martial music as the Honorable Ar--tillery Company of London and their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Arhosts, the Ancient and Monorable Artillery Company of this city, marched to Trinity church. The services were arranged by the British residents of this city, and the parade included besides the two military bodies those arrange and many veterins of the British service who among one in this city. Boston Advertiser, oct. 7, 1903.

TEMPORARY LEAVE OF BOSTON TAKEN BY THE HONOURABLES

Escorted by the Ancients, London Visitors Start on Week's Tour About the Country

LORD DENBIGH'S TRIBUTE

ception in this city. No one has a correct idea of the sentiment among our company members. Everyone is ables were full dress, with swords and amazed at the hearty, cordial, sym- gloves, but without capes. The infanpathetic greeting tendered us in Boston, and we cannot imagine anything so whole-souled in store for us even

Around the Parker House yesterday in the Canadian cities we shall visit before again returning to Boston on

The Honourables departed at 2 p.m. with 140 of the Ancients, for New York,

(Photo by Chickering.) LADY DENBIGH.

vla Fall River, West Point, Washington, Niagara Falls, and Montreal, and this city is quieting down, although the elaborate decorations still preserve the holi-

The train was made up of seven sleepers, three parlor cars, a smoker, and a baggage car. The greater part of the baggage of the Honourables remains here, the amount taken being limited by

The departure of the international commands was witnessed by another tremendous and enthusiastic assemblage. It was hard work for the police to clear a way into the train platform.

All along the line of march the cheering

ing was as spontaneous as the day the

The beautiful weather drew out a great throng, and on Tremont st. the crush Be very marked.

Parker's and Young's were crowded all the morning with the Honourables and their friends saying farewell.

At 105 p.m. the Honourables mustered in court sq.; the roll was called; and, after a little drill in evolution, the cerements of presentation to the colors was 1000 through with for the last time.

le dy farbian, carrying a beautiful le n eact of violite, in a carriage with Mrs. Hodgs and Lord Denbigh, arrived

TO BOSTON HOSPITALITY. at Young's just before the roll was called, and the two ladies drove to the station in the rear of the infantry company, followed by the mounted police.

The artillery company of the Honour-all the Honourables could talk about was the Symphony Hall hanquet.

It was the chief topic of conversation at breakfast among the Londoners, many of whom have travelled all over the world, but confessed that Monday night's affair eclipsed everything in their

Mr. Humphrey, one of the Honourables, told an Advertiser man it was a pity arrangements could not have been perfected to allow the public to file through Symphony Hall and just gaze on the "floral and electrical paradise."

on the "floral and electrical params"
"I am sure," he continued, "that your historic town will never get up anything in the future that can touch last night's feast. I never saw its equal in London, and the future that can be used in London, the same will remain the same will remain. at all events, and the scene will remain with me forever."
"Some have made the remark, Mr.

Humphrey, that Boston would seem like a country village to you natives of the world's metropolis. How is that?" queried the reporter.

ied the reporter.

"That's not so at all. Of course, Boston is much smaller than London, but your rapid transit system far outdoes that of the British capital. Take it with the subway, elevated and surface carsone can get about in no time, while London is just beginning to learn about these electric facilities. So you see, you beat our city on a very important factor beat our city on a very important factor pf modern life."

After a week's trip they return to the Hub again for two days previous to the return home.

Faneuil Hall early yesterday had more the appearance of the outward baggage room in a modern railroad station. tion than the birthplace of American liberty. The Armstrong Transfer Co. had a special office set up in the building where the trunks of the Ancients, pre-paratory for the trip, were received, checked and sent on the way to the south station.

WARM RECEPTION AT FALL RIVER

Fall River, Oct. 6 .- Thousands of people lined along streets gay with British and American flags today accorded a hearty welcome to the Honourable Ar tillery Co. of London and their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co. of Boston when they arrived in this city en route to New York, Washington and

The stop here was a brief one, hardly more than four hours, but in that time the visitors marched through thronged the visitors marched through thronged streets, were received by a large committee of representative citizens, partook of an informal tunch at the Quequechan Club, made a tour of inspection around the city, and were the guests at a supper before the journey to New York week

From beginning to end the given the visitors was onthus! it was a most auspicted to a the true which vill endraines.

two companies drew into the still, it 3:15 h.m., four butteries of the 1st Heavy Artillery, M.V.M., and companies of the naval brigade from Boston, Lynn Springfield, Taunton, Fall River and Brockton were in waiting to escort the visitors to the Quequechan Club where a reception and lunch had been arranged. Thousands of person crowded the streets and the marchers were given a contin-

The reception was an informal affair, and at its conclusion the entire party boarded automobiles and visited points of interest around the city. Returning to the club at 5 p.m. the line was reformed and the companies and their escort started for the steamer which was to convey them to New York. While passing through Main st. the line was met by Richard Borden post 46, G.A.R. and escorted to City Hall where the marchers were reviewed by Mayor Grimes and members of the city gov-

At 5:30 p.m. a supper was served on the stmr. Puritan of the Fall River line, and at 7:40 p.m. the journey to New York was resumed. Not a pound of freight was carried on the Puritan, tonight, and the whole freight deck was given over to the use of the Honourables. Temporary tables and bars have been erected, and suitable decorations put in place.

Two cases of flowers intended for use in decorating the Puritan were shipped to Boston, this morning by mistance, and the wires were kept hat trying to locate them and get them back here in time

NEWPORT ARTILLERY JOINS THE PARTY

Newport, R. I., Oct. 6 .- When the Fall Newport, R. I., Oct. 6.—when the Fall River line str. Puritan reached here tonight having on board the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co. of Boston and their guests, the Honourable Artillery Co. of London, the pler was crowded with people who cheered wildly during the trief stop.

The Puritan was boarded here by the Newport Artillery, Co. of 160 men, commanded by Col. J. D. Richardson, and accompanied by the U. S. Artillery band. The company has been assigned to escort duty during the stay of the Honourables in New York, and was given an enthusiastic send-off during the march from the armory to the pler.

DENBIGHS POSE FOR PHOTOGRAPHS

ing Lord and Lady Denbigh did nothing but "look pretty." not a very difficult task for either of the distinguish d

They were the guests of Elmer Chick-They were the guests of Emer-ering at his West st. studio, where Lady Denbigh posed in 23 different attitudes, Lord Denbigh had 20 sittings in as many different positions, and when it was all over both appeared to be somewhat relieved.

Lord and Lady Denbigh arrived at the studio in an open barouche, shortly after 10 a.m. she attired in a simple yet be oming dress of modest color, and he in his

Five minutes later the sidewalk ad-joining the studio was threatening a in h studio Lord and Lady Denbigh very much by themselves, no one struding on them, aside from the artists and Mr. Chickering.

Laly Deab gh changed her costume in brought in a plain pasteboard box not unlike those furnished by tailors.

some of the bust pictures taken ly Derbigh wore a white silk waist, . I in others a low-necked, black jet-1 1 men waist. Her only ornament was

Lord and Lady Denbigh did not sit together, the reason being stated by the latter that as he had only his uniform with him, he "did not wish to make Lady ableh to appear as if on parade."

empleting their part of the engagement, the two visitors were taken in nand by Mr. Chickering, who suggested hat they saight wish to look at some views in which he knew Lord Denbigh

Lord Denbigh was compelled to de-cline this offer, and there was too little time between that hour and the prone for the day, so both were es-

Outside a good sized crowd was wait-ing for them, and if they felt uneasy at the staring crowd they did not show

Peculiarly West st. was at that moment crowded with wagons of all kinds, and the carriage containing the two noners" was held up for nearly a ute. They got away finally and driven off in the direction of the Schangetady St. J.,) Sagatta

BOSTON'S BANQUET

HONORABLE ARTILLERY CO. GUESTS OF MASSACHU. ETT'S ORGANIZATION.

tiertea, Oct. 5.-In Symphony Hall I recy decrated and illuminatof for the occasion eight score memers of the Honorable Artillery comdany of London, were banqueted tonight by their hosts, the Ancient and Monorable Artillery company, of Boston, as a climax to the stay of the Tendoners in this city. There were the fifty tibles in the hall and blue of the bond of friend-elwer England and the Urited To Is to the President and the Collowed by welcoming re-tall, generating the first and Major and Collowed by the Feb.

Oct. 7, 1903.

Flatford, (lot.) To legrand, oct. 7, 1903.

COL. SIDNEY M. HEDGES.

Col. Stiney M. Helges, of the Landon. Ancient and Honorables, who invades us with his companions, and promises to make the biggest record as a trencher this country has yet entertained.

Jacoma, (Hash!) Oct. 7, 1903,

MADE FINE DISPLAY.

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company Arrives in New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 .- The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company, escorting the Honorable Artillery company of London, arrived here today on a steamer from Fall River, without loss of

The Boston and London companies in full uniform, descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in colupu of two across the pier and up the rangway of an excursion boat, and five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and, with the united hards of both companies playing, pro-

The Newport Artillery company then proceeded to a hotel to spend the day, at ending to meet the London and Bos of Honotable, on hier resurn from West Point here this afternoon. Oct. 7, 1903. "THE WET DURBAR."

Wonderful Doings of Home and Foreign Warriors in Boston, eign Warriors in Boston.

The greatest event in the history of international compotation is now in happy ternational compotation. As progress. The Wet Durbar has begun. As progress. The Wet Durbar are centered," that the eyes of the country are centered," that the eyes of the country are centered," that the eyes of the country are centered," that the eyes of the company of Lon-The Honorable Artillery company. It is in the happy since the wet Durbar. The Rritish dedicated to the wet Durbar. The Rritish gives Remorse is anchored off Water cruiser Remorse is and Honorable Artillery company. It is its souvenir plate, is lery company. It is is souvenir plate, is cruiser Remorse is and Honorable Artilstreet. The Ancient and Honorable Artillery commany, like its souvenir plate, is lery commany, like its leverything smiles upon the great event the and "will serve to bring the mother and that "will serve to bonds of unity, that daughter into closer bonds of unity, that daughter in

Or a circum' in Boozefontein in 'is bloomin' hoffet cor
'is subvers primed and loaded. I'd like to Join 'is mess,' Thirsties that could drink a dam' sight less.

Bostone Globe, Oct. 7, 1903.

CLEARING OUT THE DEBRIS.

Weeks of Work Undone in a Few Hours-Splendid Work of Nixon and His Assistants

To Whom is Due the Credit for the Success of In Charge of the Walters at Symphony Hall the Symphony Hall Banquet.

Banquet.

The success of the complimentary banquet tendered the visiting London Honourables by the Boston Ancients at Symphony hall, Monday evening, was graphony hall, monday evening, was and removing the small forest of box

ALEXANDER O. NIXON.

the talk of the town yesterday.

Its echoes, indeed, had spread far beyond the confines of the city itself, for reports of it were telegraphed all over the United States and Canda, and to Great Patesta. Including the small forcet of bay noon, and a large quantity of other protects, including reports of it were telegraphed and to the United States and Canda, and to Great Eritain.

During the few minutes of breathing time allowed them yesterday between arising and departing on their journey to New York, the surprised and delibeted recipients of the honor tried hard to find language fit to express their appreciation of it all.

Must of them gave up the attempt, however, and frankly admitted that the English vocabulary, extensive and flexible as it is, was not rich enough to meet the requirements of the occasion. Some of the Londoners were almost stunned with the magnificence of the affair, particularly the artistic phase of affair, particularly the artistic phase of it. While they were talking about and it.

Oct. 6, 1903.

BRITISH REDCOATS START TO INVADE WASHINGTON

But Capitol is Well Guarded Against Attack.

Boston Journal, Oct. 7, 1903

FALL RIVER TURNS OUT IN IN NOR OF ANCIENTS GUESTS

THOUSANUS

London and Boston Companies Given Genuine Ovation.

NEWPORT ENTHUSIASTIC

South Station Crowded to Witness Departure From the City.

ng the period of less than the argument that they stopped here and the bid of the bid of Military Escort Waiting.

If who 330 o'clock when the contract

Ret street awaiting the arrival of the Stafford of the house committee, were visitors. The Boston and London comforts were fortherning.

Shortly after 5 o'clock, the accentile street of the company of

John Gilbert, Post 46, G. A. R., and past officers of the Naval Brigade. The order of parade was as follows:

Formation of Column.

Naval Brigade band, Herbert Clarke, leader, First Battalion, Lieut, Col. Charles B. Woodman, acting edlonel, First Heavy Artillery, M. V. M., com-manding

manding.
Third Eattallon, First Heavy Artillery, and Eattery F. Taunton, Capt. Danforth; Buttery M. Fall River, Capt. Fuller; Battery I. Brockton, Capt. Horton; Battery E. New Bedford, Capt.

Touth Pattallon, Ancient and Honorsole Artillery Company of Boston,
Col Sidney M. Hedres, a manualing, Siden, Cader band, Jean Missud, leader,
Itith, Estation, Honounable Artillery
Company of London, Col. Denbigh, Leut. Com. John D. Munroe, Naval
Refered, acted as special aid for Col.
No. 1 Detrich, and Lieut J. T. Lincoln,
No. 1 Delgade, as special aid for Col.
Hit liges

Lady Denbigh in Carriage.

The Boston Journal.

The Boston Journal.

F Howling immediately after the London don company and after the London. Liver Mass., Oct. 6.—The don company was a carriage containing to be Artillery Company of London don company was a carriage containing to be Artillery Company of Boton of Boton, and Charles H. Eastwick of John Artillery Company of Boton and Charles H. Eastwick of John Artillery Company of the period of less than the of the addernmembers who did not extra march.

Fall River turned out by the total River turned out the club nouse and the research River the Cubhouse, and the research River the Cubhouse out the two laddes being account out he king Philip mills, which they have the city during the 14 the River turned out the two laddes being account out he king Philip mills, which they have the city during the 14 the River turned out the two laddes being account out he king Philip mills, which they have the city during the 14 the River turned out the research out the research out the two laddes being account out he king particular the countries out the research out the two laddes being account out he was a short to the King Philip mills, which they have the city during the 14 the countries out the countries of the River turned out the research turned out the countr

the side outing by a drive through to the side outing by a drive through to be sent to the side outing by a drive through to be sent to the side outing by a drive through to be sent to the side outing by a drive through to be sent to the side outing by a drive through to be sent to the sent through the sent through the sent through the sent through the members of the sent through the members of the hoat wharf. At City Hall the parade was reviewed by Mayor Grime and the members of the city government.

Cheering Spectators.

During the first march to the clubhouse North Main street was filled with cheering spectators, but the second cheering spectators, but the second march was made through a crowd that had gained thousands. Many of the mills had been stopped early, and business was practically suspended.

There were cheers and waving of American and English flags all along the route. At the wharf the crowd and waited and waited until the big Puritan went out.

During his stay in Fall River Lord Denbigh was very democratic in his manner, and in one instance he held a short impromptu reception on his own account, going into the crowd and shaking hands with hundreds. His greetings were cordial and well timed, appropriate to the occasion and embodying some answer for everyone whom he met. This was one of the most interesting events of the visit, and as soon as it became generally known that Lord Denbigh was individually accosting one and all there was a rush to meet him.

Three Done Up.

Three members of the infantry were Three members of the infantry were put out of the going. One man was forced to give up on account of rheumatism and one by a slight illness. Faulkner of the infantry sprained his knee and was unable to walk. Many of the Englishmen rode in American steam cars for the first time, and were well pleased, although some of them expressed the opinion that the compartments of the English cars were better for long journeys.

Buffals, St. J.,)
Oct. 7, 1903.

Ancients and their Guests on a grand Round of Pleasure.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 6 (Sun Special). The British evacuated Boston again to-day, this time in triumph, but rather footsore and weary. In company with the 137 members of the Ancient and Hopership the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston who had the time and were willing to put up $125 for a ticket, the London Hopoursel put up $125 for a ticket, the London Honourables departed on a trip around the country and will not get back to the Hub again until a week from tonight.

Marching to the station this afternoon, the Londoners were given a hearty sendoff by thousands who were jummed into every available inch of space along the route. The Ancients paraded with their guests and all hands looked remarkably fresh considering the feast remarkably fresh considering the feast last night and the lively times since last last night and the lively times since last Friday. Jaunty as they appeared, the Honourables were far from "right," to tue one of the expressions. Clams, tight boots, climate characteristics and the wear boots, climatic changes and the wear and tear of the round of pleasure have had their effect in a greater or lesser degree upon all of them and a few slightly impaired the health of a few for a brief spell, although the illness in no case has been restored.

no case has been serious.
With the Ancients in the lead, the short procession marched to the south station. Lady Depbigh followed her husband's command in a carriage.
Tomorrow and Thursday will be spent in New York and on Friday the party expects to be in Washington.

Daytors, (0.,) News! AT WEST POINT

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of London Spent the Day.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company. Oscoring the Honorable Artillery company of London, acrived here today of London, acrived here today of the Minutes later the steamer swing out into the stream and with the united bands of both companies playing. West

Therald Transcript, Oct. 5, 1903.

HONOURABLE ARTILLERY ATTENDS CHURCH SERVICE

British Residents of Boston Arrange Services for the Visiting Soldiers.

WILL SOON LEAVE FOR WEST.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 4.-The quietness of the sabbath was stirred today by the sound of martial music as the Honourable Artillery company of London and their hosts the Ancient and Honourable Artillery company of this city, marched through the Back Bay streets to Trinity church. The services in that edifice had been arranged by the British residents of this city and the parade included, besides the two military bodies, those army and navy veterans of the British service whose homes are in this city. The line of march was well lined with spectators. The procession was under the leadership of Lieut, Col. C. S. Courtenay whose staff for the day included many British officers, members of a large number of the independent military organizations of New England and several ocers of the United States army. Artillery company of this city, marched

New England and several ocers of the United States army.

At the conclusion of the services the parade re-formed and marched to the parade re-formed and marched to the American house, where the several or-ganizations were entertained at luncheon, Some members of the visiting corps, including the Earl of Denbigh, did not atcluding the Earl of Penbigh, did not atcluding the services at Trinity church, but tend the services at Trinity church, but went to the cathedral of the Holy Cross, with Mayor Collins in the morning. The two organizations will leave on their trip to the middle states and Canada next Tuesday,

Toughkufsie, St. J.)
Oct. 6. 1903. ANCIENT AND HONORABLE'S GUESTS.

HONOURABLE ARTILLERY COM-PANY OF LONDON LIONIZED AT THE "HUB."

Roston, Mass., Oct. 5.—In Symphony Hall handsomely decorated and illu-minated for the occasion eight scor-members of the Honourable Artillery Company of London were banqueted to-night by their bosts, the Applica-Company of London were banqueter Company of London where banqueter to-night by their hosts, the Ancien to-night by their hosts, the Ancien and Honorable Artillery Company of and Honorable Artillery Company of the control of the stay of the Boston, as a climax to the stay of the Boston, as a climax to the stay of the Londoners in this city. There were Londoners in this city. There were the decoon the stage. The feature of the decoon the stage.

The tables were decorated with flowers and electric lights. In the balconier is and electric listened to the after host of ladies. The dinner began at 7 o'clock.

The speeches which followed had a a motive the firmer welding of the bonof friendship between England and the United States, and king were Governor Pates an Alayor Collins, and a response by the Carl of Doubigh.

Harl of Deubigh Senator George F. United States the toast, "Old Mother Hour spoke to referring to the loss sus. England "referring to the loss sus. England" referring to the loss sus. England by bith death of Sir Michael States in the Long Co.

Former Governor John D. Long, Gen. Former Governor John B. Long, Gen. Former Governor Bancroft, Professor Formal William A. Bancroft, Professor Formal William A. Grant Bancroft, and Rev. Sumichrists of Glowester, Wer. Cowestore, (Me.,)

Sets. 6, 1903.

Hie! Hooray for Cultured Boston.

Boston's red banquet at Symphony Hall, Monday night, in honor of the Ancient and Honourable Artillery of Boston is counting the cost-not a pretty thing to do-or a cultured thing.

But they have done it and here it is approximately Cigars in silver cases

Value of cigars
Value of cigars
Aumber of roses used in decora-

Number of yards of laurel used Number of chrysanthemum blooms Amount of southern smilax, imported from Cuba, cases Number of electric globes used in decorations This is positively Howellesque in Its realism. No Ancient and Honourable on either side of the Atlantic can possibly read it this morning without a swelled head. Think of seventy-five waiters doing nothing but pour wine and ask yourself why poets long for epics and orators for themes. Five years in which Boston has been doing nothing but think over this thing. Twelve months in which the ebb and flood of tides have been subservient to the details of the red banquet. Four hundred and fifty miles of wire used to light up the rum! Thirty days used in getting on edge for the red-ness! Twenty-five hundred cigars used to decorate 5,000 yards of chrysanthemum! Ten thousand roses smoked in silver cases! Hic! Hooray!! Eight hundred walters served in eight courses, Six thousand yards of rare wine in fifteen thousand electric globes! Three million waiters eating pate de fole gras-Whoop!

Fawncy!! By Gosh!!!
And the whole of the spree costs $60,-

000, all of which goes to such a beautiful

Baltinger (redl,)
Oct. 7: 1903.
ARTHLERYMEN ON TOUR

Boston And London Companies Start Out To Ser Country,

Start Out To See Country.

Boston. Out & The four the night Duslead to the Anti- of the Anti- and Hel a the Artiflery Compose of Mess.
Artiflery Country Compose of Mess.
Artiflery Country to the Anti- of the Artiflery Country of the Artiflery and Education and the Artiflery of the London company, about 165 in numbers of the London company, about 165 in numbers was ino strong.

The members of the home company be. The members of the home company be. The members of the home company he. The members of the home companies were entered in their guests, the Ancients marched to the their guests.

chuseus Naval Brigade.

Day buch (Ta ...

Ane Ancient and Honorable arotheric of t den and Boston are demonstrate to the heaviest engagements of during al. 1. the history of the two nations.

Brugoe (ine!,) Commercial, Oct. 6, 1903.

The Honourable Artillery Company Left Boston Tuesday.

Boston, Oct. 6.-The much-heralded tour throughout this country and Canada of the Ancient and Honorable Arillery company of Massachusetts, having as its guests the Honorable Artillery company of London, began Tuesday after four days of entertainment and sightseeing this section. All officers and member of the London company, about 163 in number, started on the trip. The escorting column of Ancients and Honorables is 150 strong. After Monday's strongons day the members of both corraction were allowed to take a rest due at the

to in South for many trains a start was the for New Y-via. I all River, where the training and the start of the start are by the list. He is a left, N. V. M., and the Massacha, when may all linguals.

Ocar. 1, : ..

HONOURABLES AT WEST POINT.

English Guests, With Boston Lacore,

New York, Oct 5-The Ancient and Honorabie Artillery Company of Broton and the Venport Artiflery Company, es orting the Honourable Artillery Comrany of Lou on, arrive! here to-day on a steamer from Pall River. Walting for a steamer from Fall River. Walting for them with stein up wat, social steamer ready to take the Ancient and Renorable Artiflety Country of Rose, and Renorable Artiflety Company of London, to West Point.

Without less of time the two compositions, in full a form, I seen led to allow the full River begins and satignary of the F. Il River begins and merched in a unit of two success. In the roll up to gingway of the example of two success to the roll up the gingway of the example of the steam and to the united bands of both companions playing it we find up the rises. The Newly a Artiflety Cetary my which had been and London erg in the steam with the Boston and London erg in the steam where embars as two press to a fine to specific by the along the steam of the London erg in the London of the River embars as two press to the River embars as two press

News! Oct. 6, 1903, GAVE A RED BANGUET.

Big Time For Londoners At A Fenst In Boston.

(From a Boston Dispatch.)

great red banquet given by the ent and Honorable Artillery Com-y of Basion in honor of the Honourntilery Company of London took in Symphony Hall on Monday ostly feast was ever set in this expose was spared by the An-it is make it the most sumptious a ever arringed by a military or-maton, and a conservative estimate on o It was champagne right to the last course, and the refamillar with the capacity of stive look to the lecture hall phony Hall the decorators of tout on smilex from Cuba, arof thereing it for each indi-stable two Eight hundred per-of hem waiters, with 75 to pour or raised to serve it. Of the Cheveland (0.,) Press. Oct. 7, 1903.

A. They Ompeny Seeing Sights Are me New York-Visit to West Point.

o com at Her Diver ship! H

" + 0 - 7. The Honorere ery comment, of London. " " " " tor E cortocker mun . The Eligable Victors were the form the first tree table for the first comof Benefit and capthery of Benefit and capthery of the same of the Old Guod.

or capthery of the Old Guod. the telegraph to

Oct. 6, 1903.

THE DEPARTURE OF THE ARTIL-LERY.

This evening on the arrival of the New York boat from Fall River Newport will have an opportunity to get a glimpse of the Honourable Artillery Company of London and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Boston, who will be on the boat on their way to New York. The distinguished military organizations will arrive in Fail River on a special train from Boston at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon and will make a street parade and be entertained at the Quequechan Club, leaving on the New York steamer. The Newport Artillery will leave on the same boat for its three days' trip to New York, and a large number of the friends of the company will accompany the organiation. The Artillery will make a short street parade, and it is expected that it will be escorted to the boat by large numbers, who always follow a band and soldiers and will take the chance of seeing the visiting military comanies on the boat. The Newport Artillery will be accom-

The Newport Artillery will be accompanied by the Seventh Artillery band. On their arrival in New York they will take the elevated railroad to Hotel Bartholdi, which will be the headquarters during the stay, and an arready light the stay, and an arready light the stay. opportunity will be afforded for bits sight-seeing during the morning. In the afternoon the Newport company will participate in the escort of the London and Boston Attillery compa London and Poston Attracty companies, and the remainder of the stay in New York will be devoted to seeing the sights. The company will visit the Old Guards fair at Madison Square Old (thards fair at Madison Square tarden and the members have received enough invitations to occupy then time until they leave for home next Friday evening. Newport will be reached early Saturday Froming, During the visit the band will give a concert at the Old Guards fair.

New York boat this evening, will parade through Spring, Franklin and Thames streets and Long wharf.

Chicago, (Ill.,) Oct. 7, 1903.

HONORABLES AT WEST POINT

London Artillery Company Visits the Military Academy.

[By The Associated Press.] New York, Oct. 7 .- The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company, escorting the Honorable Artillery company of London, arrived here to-day on a steamer from

Without loss of time the Boston and London companies, in full uniform, descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in column of twos across the pier and up the gangway of an excursion boat and five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and with the united bands of both companies playing proceeded up the river en route to West Point.

The Newport Artillery company then proceeded to a hotel to spend the day, intending to meet the London and Boston Honoron their return from West Point late ables on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 7.—The Honorable Artillery company of London and the Andient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston arrived here to-day on the steamer Sirius in a drizzling rain. They were met at the landing by Capt. Coc. the post adjutant, and Capt. King of the quarter-master-general's department. On arrival a salute was fired and the battalion of cadets was paraded in front of the barracks. The guests were escorted to Superintendent Mills' quarters, where a raception was given. The officers of the post were present

Chicago, (Tel.,) Chronicles Oct. 6, 1903 EN BANQUET LONDONERS

Senator Hoar and Others Speak Kindly of British Relations.

Boston, Oct. 5 .- Eight-score members of the Honorable Artillery company of London were banqueted tenight by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston.

Sumptuous in every detail and with many of Massachusetts, representative men as after-dinner speakers, the entire affair proved a splendid climax to the stay of the Londoners in this city

At the rear of the stage was the shield of the Honorable company of London, and facing it on the balcony on the opposite side of the hall was that of the Ancient company of Boston, both surrounded with electric lights, while on each side of the crown above hung in the bright figures "1537-1638," the dates of the charters of the two organiza-

The speeches which followed the dinner had as their text the firmer welding of the band of friendship between the two countries. After toasts to the president and the king Governor Bates spoke for the commonwealth and Mayor Collins for the city

Senator Hoar responded for "Old Mother England." He referred feelingly to the death of Sir Michael Herbert. "It was the ambition of his life." he said, "that he might produce cordial relations between the two countries. No man was ever better fitted for that office. England could not have chosen a man fitter to send with her mes-sage of peace and good will. Sir Michael Herbert had won every man's good will in Washington during his brief service." Continuing Senator Hoar said: "We hope Continuing, Senator Hoar said: "We hope You will feel at home while you are here.

When you go back to old Mother England tells by home tells he her boys are contented and happy and growing. Give her our best love. Tell her we think of her with nothing but friend.

Among the other speakers were former Governor John D. Long and General William A. Bancroft.

Minnetopolis, Frances oct. 7, 1903. HONORABLES TOURING

Artillery Companies at New York Will

New York, Oct. 7.—The famous Honourable artillery company of London came to New York this morning on the Fall river boat, escorted by the Boston

The visitors will be the guests of the Ancients. old guard of New York while here.

The present commander is the earl of Donbigh and he is with the com-

Rochester, (r. J.) Usion- advertiser Oct. 6, 1903.

Ancient and Honorable,

The Honorable Artillery Company of London has invaded the city of Boston. Last night it was the guest of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of that city at a banquet. The banquet was a remarkable one. We find in the reports of it no allusion to food. The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston does not believe in food, and we presume that the visiting company has a similar prejudice. But there was something to drink at that board. The banquet cost, we are told, no less than $50 a plate. It seems almost incredible that any human being, however ancient or honorable, could drink $50 worth of wine at one sitting; but we are to bear in mind that these military heroes are only half human, the other half being fish. They are the thirstiest people that ever lived. A gallon of champagne only suffices to close the season checks in the throat of an Ancient and Honorable. Two gallons quenches that mighty thirst a little, and after swallowing three gallons the Ancient and Honorable stops for a short breathing spell. It was worth while for the London artillery company to come all the way to Boston to see the Ancient and Honorables practice their great specialty. They will not see anything else. All of the sights of this wonderful country will escape them, for the Ancient and Honorables will keep them full to the limit of their capacity as long as they remain on this side of the Atlantic. We are sorry for them. They will be total wrecks when they get home.

Honourable Artillery Company Being Shown the Country.

Fall River, Mass. Oct. 6.—ThouFall River, Mass. Oct. 6.—Thouands a people lined along streets gay ands to people lined along to the ccorded a hearty company of Lonfonourable Artillery Company of Bosionorable Artillery Company of the receving hardly more than four ne, covering hardly more than four ne, covering hardly more than four ne, covering that through streets, narched through large committee of vere received by a large committee of vere received by a large committee of vere received by the Cuequechan aformal luncheon at the Quequechan aformal luncheon of inspection around lub, made a tour of inspection around lub, made a tour of inspection around lub, made a tour of superiorable beginning to vas continued.
The people of the was a most as enthusiastic and the tour which uspicious beginning for the tour which uspicious beginning was served the antional capital and part of Canne national capital was served the
At 5.80 a supper was served the

lew york Hebld Dazid Cadition

BRITISH VISITORS CHEERED IN BOSTON.

Continuous Ovation During Church Parade of Honorable and Ancient Artillery Company.

Boston, Monday.-The church parade of the Honorable Artillery Company of London on Sunday was a continuous ovation for the visitors. In the parade, in addition to the visitors to the Boston "Ancients," were the members of the Bri-"Ancients," were the memoers of the British Naval and Marine Association, the Highland Dress Association, the First Corps of Cadets, the Fusilier veterans and the State Militia.

Mr. John L. Bates, the Governor of Massachusetts, with Staff Captain Lyon, of the British warship Retribution, the officers from the United States cruiser Chicago and the French cruiser Troude rode in carriages through the aristocratic roae in carried residential district. The welcome showed no signs of diminution in Copley square, which was packed with struggling humanwhich was packed in Trinity Church was the regular Episcopal one, with a sermon by the Rev. Donald Rector. On returning, the rarade disbanded at the head-quarters of the "Honorables."

In the afternoon the visitors were the guests of a committee of a hundred British subjects at the American House,

The Earl of Denbigh marched with the "Honorables" in the parade, but left them at the church door and attended mass with Lady Denbigh, Mr. Collins (the mayor) and Mrs. Collins at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, Colonel Charles Pfaff of the Hos Club in the evening to the Earl of Denbigh and the officers of the Boston and London

This is the two hundred and sixty-This is the two hundred and sixty-cighth Fall field day of the Ancient and cighth Fall field Company. With their Honorable Artillery Company. With their guests from London, the Boston members of the company passed the day on a steam-hoat excursion along the north shore. The ception and a banquet in the evening. day's programme further included a re-

Augusta, (The,) Oct. 7, 1903. THE ANCIENTS

Shart on Their Trip to Other American and Canadian Cities.

Get 6-The much her old d tour

Oct. 5, 1903.

HONORABLES GO TO CHURCH.

Boston Sees a Military Parade on Sun-day and is Pleased.

The Sunday quiet of Boston was licked yesterday by the sound of martial music as the Honorable artillery company of London and their hosts, the Ancient and Henorable artillery company of Boston, marched through some of the Back Bay material inreadil some of the Back Boy streets to Trinity church. The services in that edines had been arranged by the British residents of Boston, and the terrade helided, besides the two minuter bodies, these army and havy veterans of the British service whose homes are in Boston. The novelty of a nailurary parameter bodies, these army and havy veterans of the British service whose homes are in Boston. The novelty of a nailurary parameter based on Sunday praced attractive, and the line of narch was well lined with spectators. of march was well lined with spectators. The Boston company act its art ory soon after 2 of look in the after act, and after taking the Honoratic company of Lanon in es out, in ached up to Treasurt stree, where the British vet rans had alternow formed. The procession started for the church soon after 7, now withe leadershy of Lieut-Col S. C. Courteaux, His staff for the day included not only many Barish officers, our members of a large number of the independent aftery officers to us New Landaul as well as several afters of the Unite. States army.

The services of the church were constraints. The services of the church were conducted by Rev Dr E. Wincaester Donald the rector, who preached an in er stage sermon. At the carchesion the period formed and mareneo to the Arrent house, waste the several organical twee cutstrained at luncheon. A array of members of the visiting of selection of the period o services at Trenty council, its services at Trenty council, Instead well to the criticity of Holy Cross with Mayor Colling the morning Last ownibe was specifically it, as fors. Tool your wittermined with merchant council with market such abore, and in the eventual will congruence in the fire of the market such as th

Bangor, (me) Commercial Oct. 7, 1903

HONOURABLES VISITED WEST POINT ACADEMY

The Englishmen Renched New York City Early Wednesday - The Day's Program.

Now You to The Amore Haland, A. last outers of Borton and the Xin. Actor: company, convents to His origin Avia comst u a con latt Rev. We have

Waring of them with state to was a second to make the mak

. Amsteridam M. 2. 1 Clecoules, Oct. 6, 1903.

AN EXCESSIVE BANQUET.

Any man with the array and lux-"r.o is dining, "regardlers of expense." and who was not present at the military dinner in Boston last night, may Object it. The Ancient and Fonorable Artillery of that city, enteraned its mests, the Ancient and Hono rable Artillery of London, England, at a feast which cost sixty thousand 'ors, a cording to the Boston Post's fautag, or $75 p plate, with the most " Mentive lighting and firing and frills has years of solicatude could think up. 'to ... nes were reckoned at the rather " Mr . hg.re of $8,600. Allowing that Ir Post's feures may be too high, it was unso the .ly .he costliest banquet for served in this country, and can lar by his Lory exceeded by any ever green since the days of Luculius.

Elga himored and four persons sat a the tables The electrical decorations to $ 000, with 450 miles of electric * tos. floral decorations $5 000; nt m-. (f waters 300, besides 70 wine tome of 103 galons of wine were for in short a parsposting $500, "The of the flow arms od the guests and a are, the girst Symphony hall 1 ... been transformed into a fair, the of beauty not to be imagined by the though not cent," save the New " teral Doern sureigl

Oct. 7, 1903.

HONOCHAILLEN AT VEST AVOICE.

The Iraden Artillery Company Visita lark (17 and Jukes a Trip Up the Rudson-Priday They Go to Washinuten-la (nil on the President.

" I'rk fet 7 .- The famous Hon-Arthory Company of London ' 'cl | Kni kerbocker town toorders from Boston early this for or the Fill River Line boat. 1' ; 18), visitors were escorted by the Ancient and Hon-thery company of Beston Tolery Company of Newport " It he the guests of the O Let N y York while here. To-I have up the Hudson to " t, v'eje the cadet corps will ed for an exhibition drill . . . Mille of the Military Acad-I the entertain the visiting " (f v. s.ll, and at about 3 o'clock h whork on the return trip to i'ck I may their stay here the il left the Old Guards' . I. Zer it Madison Square Gar-

To Visit Washington's Tomb.

" " " " le, . e), bridgy morning, the harast to the hington, where " t' on . be p a pared for them the good at set to the 10 . . . 1 . d 1 . Prograte . t On Water Har On Sar-· a. ' L. . Ly will deport for transpords to the state of the to the trooping the " It is to come a state the second of th Schenertady, It. J.,) Star, Octs. 7, 1903.

WARRIORS DESCEND UPON MANHATTAN

London Honourables the Guests of the Old Guard-To West Point.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The famous Honourable Artillery Company of London descended upon New York to-day arriving from Boston early this morning on the Fall River boat. The English visitors were escorted from Boston by the Ancient and Honourable Artillery company, and the artillery company of Newport. The visitors will be the guests of the Old Guard of New York while here.

To-day they will journey up the Hudson to West Point, where the cadets corps turned out for an exhibition drill.

Commandant Mills of the Military Academy, will also entertain the visiting hosts informally and at about 3 o'clock they will embark on the return trip to New York.

During their stay here the Londoners will visit the Old Guard's military Bazaar at Madison Square Garden.

Leaving here on Friday morning, the party will proceed to Washington, where a reception has been prepared for them. Saturday will be passed in a visit to the tomb of Washington, and later in the day they will be received by President Roosevelt at the White House

On Saturday night the party will depart for Niagara Falls. The train throughout the trip will travel in two sections, the first being made up of a baggage car, two dining cars, six sleeping cars and the private car Columbla, which will be used by the Earl of Denbigh, commander of the London company and Lady Denbight

· Tew Britain, (let.,) Oct. 7, 1903.

WELL TREATED GUESTS.

LONDON VISITORS AT WEST POINT TO-DAY.

New York, Oct. 7.-The Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Boston and the Newfort Artiflery Company escorting the Halourable Artillery Company of Longon, arrayed here on a steamer from F. Il River today. Waiting for them with steam up, was a second steamer lealy to take the Ancient and Honortide Artillers Company of Boston and II- guest, the He amable Artillery Com-

I ny of London to West Point.
Without less of time the two compeace in full uniform descended the long way of the Fan River boat and narched in Column of two arress the the and up the garg way of the ex-cusion boat. Eve minutes later the freeder swong out into the stream and the time united bands playing, pro-ticed up the fix r. The Newfort way Company which had lined up or from the pier while the Compact the proceed to the heat their roturn from Wort Point late this Utica, N. J., Press, Oct. 7, 1903.

The British in Boston. The British flag has been flying from the top of the Bunker Hill monument in Boston this week. This is a sight that the Yankees of a generation ago would have been astonished to witness. Such a thing never happened before. It was designed as a tribute to the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of London, whose members are guests of the Ancient and Honorable Artiflery Comnany of Boston. In no way could the visitors have been made more certain that they "owned the town" than by the presence of the British colors at a point where they have not waved since June 17, 1775. At a banquet in honor of the London gentlemen Senator Hoar declared that Englishmen and Americaus feel a common pride in the battle of Bunker Hill and that neither side wished to wipe out the memory of it. He declared that the battle afforded one of the best examples of Yankee fighting and English fighting to be found in history. This banquet, by the way, afforded something of an example of the resisting powers of the Yankee and the longlish. It cost $50,000. No such feast it is believed, was ever before spread in this country. Over a thousand men participated in it. Three hundred waiters were employed for the occasion, Seventy-five of them did nothing but pour champagne, of which about 800 gallons were used. The Londoners were really alarmed by the tidal wave of wine. Some of them had been sampling American mixed drinks and came to the banquet in a conservative mood. They did not wish to become sadder in order to become wiser. But it is asserted that no wine was wasted inasmuch as the Bostonians had thirsts that had been raging for five years. The hanquet was but an illustration of the overflowing hospitality that the Britishers have found in America. This hospitality is, however, only reciprocal of courtesies that were tendered the Boston company when they visited London a few years ago. The friendly relations that have developed between these two time-honored organizations is characteristic of the friendly relations that have developed between the American and British peoples. They point to the ultimate recognition of the unity of the Anglo-

Portland, (mel,) Express, Oct. 7, 1903.

HONOURABLES AT NEW YORK. Taken to West Point by Excursion

Steamer.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company cand the Newport Artillery Company corting the Honorable Artillery Company corting the Honorable Mediting for them of London, arrived here of London, arrived here on a steamer from Fall River today. Second steamer with steam up was a sand Honorable with steam up was a sand Honorable ready to take the Ancient Boston and its ready to the Honorable the gauge way of the Scandad marched in of the Fall River of the pier and up the column of twos across the pier and up the column of twos across the pier and up the gauge way of the excursion boat. Five gauge way of the excursion boat.

column of twos across cursion both five gang way of the excamer swung out minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and with the united bands into the stream and playing relievy on the two The March 1997 and 1 London and Boston return from West Brooklyn, M.J.,) Eagle, Oct. 6, 1903.

FOUR BIG "OLD GLORIES."

Largest American Flags Ever Made Used for Decorations at the Old Guard Fair.

When "The King's Own," the Honourable Artillery Company of London, follows the tap of British drums into the Old Guard Fair next Thursday evening, the English gunners will gaze up at a wonderful canopy of patriotic red, white and blue which underlies the entire roof of the amphitheater of Madison Square Garden. 'The fair's manager, Alfred Chasseaud, told C. H. Kester, the Old Guard's official decorator and illuminator, that he wanted a chief feature in the decorations which would have no precedent. The feature which would have no precedent. The feature furnished in response comprised the largest four American flags ever made, each 100 by 200 feet. Each star is six feet across and each stripe seven and one-half feet wide. The flags are gracefully draped and form the center for the harmonious and elaborate scheme of color and decoration for the Old Guard's thoroughly military fair.

Over the center of the amphitheater hangs high a British flag measuring 20 by 30 feet, flanked by two American flags, each of the same dimensions as their English nelgabor. British banners float proudly from the colorms supporting the canopy. All this regard for the colors of the British empire is in compliment and deference to the oldest existing military organization in the world, the Honourable Artillery Company of London, who will march into the Garden on Thursday evening. who will march into the Garden on Thursday who will march into the Garden on Thursday evening.

The balconies and boxes are decorated with American colors in great profusion. At the center and at the intersection of the main company streets, which have been laid out upon the main floor, kneels a mammoth statue of Psyche, high in the air, upon a snowclad mountain. On all sidos of these company streets are white tents for booths, surmounted by golden eagles, shields, battle axes and stliken flags.

The ground plan of the military encampment in the Garden embraces an oval promenade twenty feet wide, terminating in a parade ground on the southern side; this plaza will afford room for the trooping of the colors by the British, the Continental tacties of the Minute Men under Colonel M. A. Winter, from Washington, and the other quaint and ancient visiting military organizations and Knights Templar commanderies and the dress parade of the Old Guard.

SHOW HONORAY-LS GOOD TIME

Boston Artillery Company Take British Guests on a Tour.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 6 .- The much-her-Boston, Mass., Oct. 6.—The much-her-alded tour of the Ancient and Henorable Artillery company of Massachusetta, hav-ing as its guests the Honorable Artillery ing as its guests the Honorable Artillery company of London, began today after company of entertainment and sight-four days' of entertainment and sight-four days' of entertainment and sight-seeing in this section. The escorting col-secing in this section. The escorting col-secing in this section. The secorting col-secing in this section is section. i'e francisca, (F. F.)

The arrival of the Honorable Artilclery Company of London for a five days' visit to Boston, followed by a week's tour through the eastern part of the country as guests of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, gave great pleasure to the cit-

Burchlon Vinned oct 3 1903

When it comes to 2 record as entertainers the Ancients are bound that their London guests shall experience the fullest measure of American hosOct. 7, 1903, Warm Reception at Fall River.

Thousands of people lined along streets gay with British and American flags accorded a hearty welcome to the Honourable Artillery Company of London and their hosts, the Anelent and Hor able Artillery Con.pany of Boston v n they arrived in that city en route to New York, Washington

The stop there was a brief one, hardly more than four hours, but in that time the visitors marched through thronged streets, were received by a large committee of representative cliizens, partook of an informal lunch at the Quequechan Club, and were the guests at a supper before the journey to New York was continued.

and Montreal.

From beginning to end the reception given the visitors was enthusiastic. and it was a most auspicious beginning of the tour which will embrace the American metropolis, the National capital and a part of Canada.

When the special train bearing the two companies drew into the station at 3.15 p. m., four batteries of the Pirst Heavy Artillery, M. V. M., and companies of the Naval Brigade from Beston, Lynn, Springfield, Taunton, Fall River and Brockten were in waiting to escort the visitors to the Quequechan Club where a reception and lunch had been arranged. Thousands of persons crowded the streets and the marchers were given a continuous ovation,

The reception was an informal affair, and at its conclusion the entire party boarded automobiles and visited points of interest around the city. Remening to the club at 5 p. m. the line was reformed and the comparises and their escort started for the steam r which was to convey them to New York. While passing through Main street the line was met by Richard Borden Post 54 G. A. R., and es arted to City Hall, where the marchers were reviewed by Mayor Grime and members of the city government

At 530 p. in. a super was served on the steamer Puritan of the Fift River line, and at 7.40 p. in the four-ney to New York was resumed.

The wasle freight deck was given over to the use of the Honourables Tetaporary taldes were error tands suitable decorations pur in place. Two cases or il overs is said defea-use in decenting the Purices, were hy mistrice, and the wires were kill-hy mistrice, and the wires were kill-hot try again from the hand and given a buck in I'all River in t me to us the re-

15. Alone wared

That banquet at Symphony hall Boston, tonight, given by the Ancients to the Honourable Artillery company of London, will be a record-breaker in

Boston Globel Oct. 7, 1903

RECEPTION IN ROXBURY

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Osgood Entertain in Honor of the Honourables

Mr Charles E. Osgood and Mrs Os. good gave a reception in honor of the London Honourables list evening at their home, 12 Mayfalr stren, Roxbury British national erbiems entwin d who the American flag were conspicuous in the deritations. An orchestra in the hall play d during the recept in Miny of the dahes were symbolic of the vat of the H nourables.

A musical entertainment was a feature of the receiving the sources when Me, and Mrs Them a L Drew Whilem Elemented in the come stong of Willer Anterior test there. Hence W M. Commission of the company from the comp

on I hass
To so were drank in honor of the visitors. Mr. Carolife coast was a composiors Mr () go d'e court with a compe Cantain Henry Rin Se, H D C Lumbs J. D. Watte, H. C. Hol, wav. L. d. Rogelsem, J. C. K. ad R. G., F. G. acci. On a transport wire. Colon P. R. D.

Pandreda . Tra.,) . Towns!

NONDON HONOURABLES RECEIVED IN GOTHAM

Special to The News.

New York Oct. 7 -- Escort d by the A. and H. Artillery empany of Boston and the artillery company of Nep York, the London Honomrable Arril cry reached her this morning by the Fall River her. They were group t with great enth tonesm.

Sie an Alet, le los ret 1, 1000

BRITISH ARTILLERISTS SEE YANKEL METROPOLIS

tuckent Honornbies no to cotham and morney up fludging to West Point,

1 11 1 MIL 11 1 7

WEST POINT CADETS LET HONOURABLES SEE SOME DRILL

Bostoner Good

Visitors Delighted With Exhibition of Marching and Counter-Marching by Uncle Sam's Lads Given for Their Benefit.

REACH NEW YORK IN SAFETY

Landing Effected in Rain by Old and New Englanders and Force Pushes On Up Hudson, Leaving Small Contingent Behind.

British Invade New York Today

A M.-Ancients and Honourables arrive at New York on Fall River

8 A M.-Party leaves New York by special steamer from Fall River line. Il A M .- Arrive at West Point; pay visit to United States Military Action and review Cadets.

IP M Take steamer for New Yerk luction served aboard.

of it it option to Ancients and Hen rathe and H. A. C., by Old th. der New York, Minute Men a Westington Newport, R. I., Artiller Bristol Train of Artillery, ford tonn., First Light Infantry of 1 tyche , R. I., Richmond, Va., tue of I Cleveland, O., Grays. ' M Banquet at Shorry's tenderes, by Old Guard to visitors.

" al to The Boston Evening News.

"ast Point, N. Y., Oct. 7 .- A splendid ' y speciacle delighted the London i day C mpany here today, when the out Point Cadets passed before them i and went through their evo-" with a spirit and bearing which net 100 of applause from the Il is imples and Ancients were " 11' ' 1 by a number of the Old of the woo met them in New the form of the day a little, the notes in the conscious much effect. a to w , arm of the party.

LIPTON WILL ASSIST AT HONOURABLES' FESTIVITY

t to the first sense the to the first sense the first sense that the first sense the first sense that the first sense the first sense that the first sense t tele of the following the factor living and good fellowship, will be a congetial spirit for the two artillery bodies, and the Honourables and Sir Thomas both look forward with pleasure to greeting one another.

Unfortnately Sir Thomas will not be able to attend the banquet at Sherry's this evening. He is not fully recovered yet, which makes it inadvisable for him to participate in late-hour festivity.

Little Bunting; Much Enthusiasm.

New York is manifesting considerable enthusiasm, how that the Honourables and Honorables have arrived. But the city did not decorate for their event, at least, not to speak of. An occasional British flag or Honourables' decoration shows that some enthusiastic New Yorker wished to honor the visitors, but so far the city general has contented Itself with cheering heartly.

The weather is improving slightly. The rain has ceased, but a hot and unpleasant humidity reigns this noon, making it decidedly disagreeable.

The Honourables and Ancients turned out this morning at 4.30 in a heavy rain to go to West Point. Enthusiasm for the trip was lacking at first, for the men were tired in the first place, and the weather was dispiriting in the next. They came off the boat almost blinking for want of finishing out their morning's sleep, but a few minutes' walking about made everybody wideawake and anxious for whatever fun the day might bring

Ought to Be Tired.

The men will be tired by the time tonight's banquet is ended. From 4.30 this morning, the time of getting up, till 2 o'clock or later, the time the banquet is over tonight, will be practically twenty-four hours without rest. But they will have a chance to sleep tomorrow. In spite of the strain of trying to see and do so much all are happy as school-boys on a holiday.

Stayed Up Late.

Every minute of the trip from Fall River last night was enjoyed, many of the Honourables staying on deck until a late hour and getting up this morning immediately after daybreak.

The Ancients' band, and the orchestra attached to the Puritan, give rival concerts last night, to the delight of the passengers. Lord and Lady Denbigh were about the saloons most of the evening, and evidently enjoyed the trip

The great bridges and skyscrapers of New York were seen with wonder by the Londoners, as the great majority of them had never seen such buildings before. Breakfast was taken on board the Puritan, and shortly afterward both the companies, in full uniform, marched from the Puritan on to the pier, and hen on board the excursion steamer for

One hundred members of the Newport Artillery Company were taken aboard list night at Newport, and these were left behind at New York to take part In this afternoon's parade, but a number of the Old Guard officers met the noat when it arrived and went on board the steamer with the visitors to accompany them to West Point.

6 Cevelland, On) Times muit Och. 7, 1903,

LONDON ANCIENTS START ON A TOUR OF COUNTRY.

BOSTON, October 8, -The much-heraldes of the A series of the country and Canada of the A series of in a roll North re-Company, of Mackachusetts, h. Co. Words the Honourabic Artillers.

cients and Honourables &

The Full Record.

To THE EDITOR OF THE SUN-Sir: Why in thunder do you suppress part of the awe-striking record of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery? Was it due to ignorance of the solemn facts, or to that innate jealousy characteristic of New Yorkers regarding the prowess of those who do not reside in their city? It is up to you to tell which. Eighty millions of American freemen pause for a reply and expect it to-morrow morning.

Since you have knowingly or unwittingly sup-pressed part of that record, let me name a few of the innumerable places at which the Ancients and Honorables have figured.

At the siege of Gin Sling, the taking of Brandy and Soda Island, the capture of Whiskey Sour Fort, the assault on St. Julien, Médoc and Sauterne, the bombardments of Hofbräu, Würzburger and Pilsner, the storming of Chianti, Vermouth, Hochheimer, Deidesheimer, Markgraefler and Bocksbeutel; the battles of Highball Ridge, Loch Dewar, Un Ver Mountain and Clin Bloky Isle; the daring Um Var Mountain and Gin Ricky Isle; the daring night attacks on Forts Mumm, Pommery, Clicquot, Gin Fig., and Brandy Smash; and the epoch-making skirmishes at Old Ale Bend, Tom and Jerry Station, Port Burgundy, Egg Nog Harbor, Bock River, Potheen Hollow, Porter Gulch, Mint Julep Creek, Sherry Farm, Punchtown, Spreeville, Mulligan Point, Seltzer Forks, Growler Road, Katzenjammer Bay, Flask Hill and Bottle Corners.

I might go on, but the writer, and not the list, is exhausted. When you start out to record history, record it. Guesses or half told teles will not answer in these days of exact knowledge. Honor to whom honor is due.

Palmam qui meruit. E pluribus unum. No plus ultra. Sinc que non. Multum in parvo. Habeas corpus. Infra dig. Spiritus frumenti. Acus sufficit. Hoop la!

Lincolne, Mate, Star. Oct. 7, 1903.

VISITING WEST POINT.

Boston and London Artillery Companies Guests of the Military School.

Guests of the Military School.

(To the Associated Press.)

New York, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston, and the Newport Artillery company, estands the Newport Artillery company, estands the Honorable Artillery company, corting the Honorable Artillery company, estands the Honorable Artillery company, and London, arrived here without loss of stoamer from Fall River without loss of stoamer from Fall River without loss of stoamer from Fall River dependence companies, inno, the Roston and London companies, inno, the Fall River boat and macroised in of the Fall River boat and macroised in of the Fall River boat and macroised in the gangway of an excursion boat, and the gangway of the with the united out into the stream and excursion for the river of the London and day, intending to meet the London and day, intending to meet the London and Boston Honorables on their return from Boston Honorables on afternoon.

Lipole gurile

Cot. 4, 1903.

Out of their profound reverence for the Ancient and Honorabe Artillery of London which is now paying a visit of ceremony to the Ancient and Honorable ditto in Boston, the Boston and some of the New York newspapers have abandoned the salutary spelling reform introduced half a century ago by the late Noah Webster. They have restored the British "u" stricken out by Noah to produced the British "u" But the by Noch to "Honourable." But the Philadelphia and western press refuse to follow copy. Whether the Boston journalists intend to slide back 1ermanently to the state of t manently to the old orthography or will just keep it up until the "Hon-ourables" sall away for their Loudon home is a matter that keeps the BosBoston Advertiser Oct. 5, 1903.

IMPRESSIVE MASONIC CEREMONY

Oldest Masonic Body in America Receives Unique English Lodge, Com. posed Entirely of Honourables.

One of the most interesting Masonic meetings which was ever held in this country took place in Masonic Temple Saturday evening, when St. John Lodge of this city entertained Fitzroy Lodge of London, whose membership is confined exclusively to the Honourables. Each lodge exemplified the third degree on one candidate. There were over 500 Masons present at the meeting. These represented the members of both St. John and Fitzroy Lodges and also members of the craft from the Honourable Artillery Co.

St. John's Lodge is the oldest Masonic lodge in America. The fact that the degree to be worked by Fitzroy Lodge was to be under English rule caused brethren throughout New England to attend the meeting. Masons from all parts of the state went to the temple, but they were turned away. As it was, there was scarcely standing room for the members and invited guests.

Besides the members of Fitzroy Lodge, the guests of the local lodge were Right Worshipful William Ross, M. P., grand master of Masons of Nova Scotia; the grand master Masons of Nova Scotla; the grand master Mason of Vermont, grand masters of Masons of Massachusetts, Baalis Sanford, and the grand lodge officers of this state.

The ceremony of the London Masons was under the direction of Worshipful Master Henry Jarrett, master of Fitz-roy Lodge. The ceremony was most impressive, unusually so to the American brethren, and also extremely interesting, owing to the fact that few of them had ever before witnessed the English ritual. The third degree was worked by Fitzroy Lodge after St. John's Lodge had exemplified the same degree on an American candidate.

When the ceremonies were completed a banquet was given by St. John's Lodge to their visitors.

Wilmeregtore (Del!) Every Evering) Oct. 7, 1903. THE HONOURABLES ON THE HUDSON.

Associated Press Dispatch by Special Wires,

Associated Press Dispatch by Special Wires.

New York, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honourable Artillery Co. of Eoston Honourable Artillery Co., escort and the Newport Artillery Co., ot ing the Honourable Artillery Co. ot ing the Honourable Without loss stramer from Fall River. Without loss
stramer from Fall River. Without loss
stramer from Fall River. Without loss stramer from Fall River beat, and gangway of the Fall River beat, and gangway of the Fall River beat, and marched in column of twos across the
marched in column of twos across the marched in column of two across the marched in column of twos across the marched in column of twos across the pier and up the gangway of an expier and up and five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream, the steamer swung out into the stream the steamer swung out into the stream that the bands of both companies with the bands of both companies with the bands of their requirements. The Newport Artillery Co, then proceeded to a meet the London mintending to the college of the long that the long the long that the long t

Baltimore (Figl.,) Hould,

Ancient Artillery In Boston

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The famous Monorable Artillery Company, of London, descended upon Knickerbocker for today, arriving from Boston. The English visitors were escorted by the Arcent and Honorable Artillery Company of Newport. The visitors were pany of Newport. The visitors will be the guests of the Old Guard of New Face River The Sold Oct. 5, 1903.

CHURCH PARADE.

Boston Ancients adn London Honourables Attended Services.

BOSTON, Oct. 5 .- The quietness of the Sabbath was stirred yesterday by the Sabbath was stirred yesterday by the sound of martial music as the Honourable Artillery company of London and their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of this city, marched through some of the Back Bay streets to Trinity church. The services in that edifice had been arranged by the British residents of this city, and the parade included, besides the two military bodies, those army and navy veterans of the British service whose homes are in this city. The novelty of a military parade on Sunday proved very attractive and the line of march was well lined with spectators.

the line of march was well lined with spectators.

The Boston company left its armory shortly after 2 o'clock, and after taking the Honourable Artillery of London in escort, marched up on to Tremont street, where the British veterans had already formed. The procession started for the church shortly after 3 o'clock, under the leadership of Lieut. Col. G. S. Courtenay, His staff for the day included not only many British officers, but members of a large number of the independent military organizations in New England, as well as several officers of the United States army.

The services at the church were conducted by Rev. E. Winchester Donald, D. D., the rector, who preached an interesting sermon. At the conclusion the parade reformed and marched to the American house, where the several reganizations were entertained at lunch-ganizations were entertained at lunch-

A number of members of the visiting corps, including the Earl of Denbigh, did not attend the services at Trinity church, but Instead went to the Cathedral of the Holy Cross with Mayor Collins in the morning .
The evening was spent very quietly by

The evening was spent very quietly by the visitors.

Today they will be entertained with an excursion about Boston harbor, and in the evening will come the principal featre of their stay in this city, a large banquet in Symphony hall. The two organizations will leave on their trip to the Middle States and Canada on Tuesday.

A. Louis, (7tro.,)
But Disposale.
Oct. 7, 1903. ANCIENT AND HONORABLES.

Boston and London Companies Go to West Point.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Henorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Newport Artillery Company, caorting the Honorable Artiflery Company, co-corling the Honorable Artiflery Company of London, arrived here today on a stratum from Fall River. Without loss of time the Roston and London company, it for uniform, descended to know the fall Lall Rive best of Increed in column to Tempjud ceme) imilar,

ARTILLERISTS GO UP TO WEST POINT

New York, Oct 7. The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Bos-ton and the Newport Artillery Company, escorting the Honorable Artillers Comjuny, of London, strived here today on a steamer from Fall River.

Five minutes later the steamer awang out into the stream and with the united our into the stream and with the united bands of both companies playing, proceeded up the river en route to West Point. The Newport Artillery Company then proceeded to a hetel to spen, the day, intending to meet the Lanta day. Boston Harvisbles on their return to me Buttand The 1 Trest 00t. 5 1903

HONORABLES ATTENDED CHURCH

Quiet of Boston's Sunday Stirred By Martial Music.

Boston, October 4.- The quietness of the Sabbath was stirred today by the sound of murtial music as the Honourable Artillery company of London ourable Artillery company of London and their hosts, the Ancient Honorable Artillery company of this city, marched through some of the Back Bay streets to Trinity church. The services in that edifice had been arranged by the Brutsh residents of this city, and the parade included besides the two military bodies, those army and navy veterans of the British service whose homes are in this city. The novelty of a military parade on Sunday proved very attractive and the line of march was well—lined with speciators.

day proceed to the control of the co

Contast Cty (Tran.) THE ARTILLIRY IN NEW YORK A Trip to West Point for the London

New York Oct 7 -- The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston Honorable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company, escorting the Honorable Artillery company of London, arrived here to-day at a steamer from Fill River. The Boston and London companies, in full uniform and London companies, in full uniform and London companies, in full uniform descended the gangway of the Fall R vedescended the gangway of the Fall R vedescended the gangway of an extremely and up the gangway of an extremely and up the gangway of an extremely seemed to the stream and steamer swing out into the stream and with the united bands of both companies with the united bands of both companies playing, went up the river to the stream and Print and the stream an irea Perier tend noti. 6. 1903.

ARTILLERY COMPANY LANDS IN NEW YORK

Nother Massachusetts nor America . . t have found a better spokesman to express our feeling toward England at the Boston banquet to the Honoura-A. Allery Company of London than ... tor Hoar, our "old man eloquent." Thoroughly familiar with our history ent largely sympathetic with the great deline which brought our fathers to the . shores, and finally led to the pred war for political independence, and four foremost interpreters of the r. if ... ce and bearing of these great ". I'. an adept in the knowledge of French history and appreciative of . (). is noblest therein, capable in the light degree of fine and apt exfire . n. our foremost citizen in official 1. no other choice of a spokesman wold have been so good as was this. "... r gentlemen, including Governor .'. were heard, but the burden of the speech making fell to Senator If ar, who acquitted himself to the faction of all. And this is sayuch, considering the galaxy of E chusetts grators from whom it Id have been possible to draw. As le interpreter of the signi-· · · of great patriotic occasions, es-I in the realm of the struggle r. . . , freedom, no man among us . . . utl. . for and ofter or heard, to a consider the zest and in the In Section Hear and in se fact our Etgh n gu st

" Love St. J.) 11 11 1903. LONDON ARTHLERY'S VISIT TO NEW YORK

Will Journey Up the Hudson and Visit West Point Williary Augumy.

by Company of Lone wom Kalcherbecker town to-day, me from Reston early this morning

reter to the term of the control of

New York, St. J. Jees Oct. 6, 1903. A Great Occasion.

"You fellows can drink more than we can," was the tribute which a member of the Honourable Artillery Company of London paid to the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston at the banquet last night in Symphony Hall.

"Peace hath her victories no less re-nown'd than war." . The display of an English flag from the peak of Bunker

Hill Monument, will therefore be forgiven. Englishmen always seem to be second best on that consecrated ground. It is admitted that the Honour-ables declined to consume their share of the 500 gallons of wine provided, but as an Englishman's capacity for food is greater than an American's, no doubt they did full justice to the solids of that $50,000 feast. Such generous good cheer as the Ancient and Honorables are dispensing will leave an ineffaceable impression on the hearts of the visitors, but what about their livers?

Shall not the Honourables say: "All these so great kindnesses do me some small mischief"? We see only the gargantuan banquet in Symphony Hall, with its eight courses, souvenir plates, the choicest

Havanas in silver cases, and fioral decorations which exhausted the conservatories of Brookline and Roxbury, but it is the private hospitalities we do not hear of that test the capacity and stamina of the guests—each one invited to eat a year of dinners, each one pressed to sample a thousand cellars. Is it remarkable that they only sipped, and declined to drink, in Symphony Hall; and does it not speak well for its discipline that only two of the historic corps have been or-

Detroit, (mich)

Oct. 7, 1903

HONOURABLES" IN GOTHAM.

Trip Up the Rudson to West Point

Was Part of Day's Program.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.-The Ancient

and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery com-pany, escorling the Honourable Artil-

ery company of London, arrived here

oday. Without loss of time, the Bos-

m. descended the gangway of the ton and Loudon companies, in full uni-

all River boat and marched in col-mas of twos across the pier and up he gangway of an excursion boat, nd five minutes later the steamer wung out into the stream and with playing proceeded up the river en route

The Newport Artillery company then proceeded to a hotel to spend the day intending to meet the London and Poston Honorables on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

riew York over the fart that the members of the Ronourchie Artillery Company of landen are cautious drinkers and that they do more slipping than drinking. These Lordon visitors are wary fellows, and whon they are faced with a dozen tayl-

" to S. to J.

dered home for the good of the service?

Wheeling (W. Tal.) Jelling (W. Tal.) Oct. 7, 1903. THE ANCIENTS IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 .- The famous Honourable Artillery company of London, descended upon Knickerbocker town to-day, arriving from Boston early this morning on the Fall River boat. The English visitors were escorted from Boston by the Aucient and Honourable Artillery company, of Boston, and the artillery company of Newport. The visitors will be the guests of the Old Guard of New York, while here. Today they will journey up the Hudson to West Point, where the cadet corps will be turned out for an exhibition drill.

Commandant Mills, of the military academy, will also entertain the visiting hosts informally and at about 3 o'clock they will embark on the return trip to New York. During their stay here the Londoners will visit the Old Guard's military bazaar at Madison Square Garden. Leaving here on Friday morning the party will proceed to Washington, where a reception has been prepared for them. Saturday will be passed in a visit to the tomb of Washington and later in the day they will be received by President Roosevelt at the White House. On Saturday night the party will depart for Niaagra Falls. The train throughout the trip will travel in two sections, the first being made up of a baggage car, two dining cars, six sleepers and the private car Columbia, which will be used by the Earl of Denbigh

Akrond, (0.) Journal! Oct: 7, 1903. and Lady Denbigh.

ANCIENT HONORABLES HAVING A GOOD TIME.

New York, Oct. 7. The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company, escorting the Honorable Artillery commended the lery company of London, Fall River today on a steamer from Boston and Without loss of time, the Boston and London companies boarded an excursion boat and five minutes later the steamer swung out in the stream and proceeded up the river on route to Commercial 903.

Oct. 7, 1903.

ARTILLERY CUMPANIES

START ON LONG JOURNEY

Boston Organization Takes 165 London

Guests on Tour-BOSTON, Oct. 6.-The much-heralded four throughout this country and Canada of the Abelian and Honorable Artillery. Chapter, of Michaelts, having as its guest the Honorable Applicay Company of L. guest the Honorable Arnillery Company, of London, began today.

All officers and members of the Lodon company, about 165 in number, started on Tousegstown (O.,) Vinderator, Oct. 7, 1903, FAMOUS MILITARY BODY.

History of British Honorable Artillery Company to Visit Boston.

The Honorable Artillery Company of London, which is to visit Boston and, incidentally, the United States as guest of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts. is the oldest military organization in the world, says the New York Commercial Advertiser.

It was incorporated by Henry VIII in 1537 as a nursery school for training soldiers and antedates by more than a hundred years the formation of any other British military company. It has, besides its age and epicurean propensities, the distinction of having been commanded by kings and princes and officered by dukes and earls, The proudest families of the realm have been glad to enroll their sons among its members, and it has been granted and still enjoys, many privileges and immunities peculiar to itself.

From the time of its foundation until the present it has been wholly distinct from all other military bodies of Great Britain, in that it is self sustaining, receives no aid from the public funds and is the only corps outside the regular British army that bears the king's colors.

Its government is based upon royal warrants that have been confirmed by each succeeding sovereign from the time of Henry VIII. When this most notable corps of volunteers was yet in its infancy the king himself (Henry VIII.) was accustomed "to join in their exercises, particularly in that of their exercises, use of which his grace was particularly skillful." In the reign of Elizabeth, when England was threatened by the Spanish armada, the Honorable Artillery Company garrisoned Tilbury fort. During the struggle for liberty in the reign of Charles I. the Honorable Artillery joined the Dopular side and at the battle of Newbury was the only regiment that could withstand the charge of Prince Rupert's cavalry, which before that had curried all before it. In the two subsequent reigns they were considered of sufficient importance to induce the sovereigns to interfere in the election of officers in order that they might place those in command who were thoroughly devot. ed to their interests. Since that period they have frequently been instrumental in preserving the peace of the city and suppressing popular commotion, and suppressing popular commotion, and in the famous riots of 1780 they and in the famous of England from heing pillaged and burned by the mob.

The health of King Edward, who is an honorary member of the Boston or an honorary member of the Boston or ganization, will be drunk from the ten gallon punch bowl of the Ancients on the next field day of the organization, when the British artillerymen will be a Boston or gange and a British artillerymen will be a Boston or gange and a British artillerymen will be a Boston or gange and a British artillerymen will be a Boston or gange and a British artillerymen will be a Boston or gange and a British artillerymen will be a Boston or gange and a British artillerymen will be a Boston or gange and a British artillerymen will be a Boston or gange and a British artillerymen will be a Boston or gange and a British artillerymen will be a Boston or gange and a British artillerymen will be a Boston or gange and a British artillerymen will be a Boston or gange and a Bo when the British artillerymen will be

Boston, Oct. Canada of the An this country and Canada of the Antillery company cient and Honorable Artillery company of the Honorable to-day, the London com-London, began about 165; the Boston pany numbered about 165; the Boston men 150.

Cot. 7, 1903

UNDULY ALARMED.

A portion of the truly patriotic inhabitants of Boston are aroused over the

BUNKER HILL LOOKS ON.

display of the Union Jack upon the Bunker Hill monument in honor of the Arcient Artillery company of London,

Never before since the memorable battle of the Revolution has the British flag been flung to the bre-ze in this place

most symbolic of our country's devotion to liberty, and it never would have gone up then, they proudly remind us, had not the patriots' ammunition run short.

people of Boston might rather have viewed the whole proceedings with the America has grown beyond the period of petty jealousy over a mere expression of good will. Why, bless the dear

Bostonians' hearts, there's no danger of the animunition running short now.

Uncle Sam has enough in his magazines to keep the Union Jack off Bunker Rill forever, if he had real occasion for it.

And then, too, are not the Ancient and Honorable artillerymen of Boston proving that they have "ammunition" enough

plate, $75; cost of entire banquet, $60,000;

number of cigars, 2,506; gallons of wine.

400. That is quite enough, certainly,

Nothing is surer than that the Monorable Artillery company of London was unable to scale Bunker Hill after having met this heavy discharge of "ammunition" at the hands of the Ancient and Honorable company of Boston on the night of Oct. 5, 1903. Really it is too bad that the patriots could not have known of the efficacy of such a campaign away back on June 17, 1775. With such a supply of wine in the British ranks and 600 waiters to serve it, the Union Jacks might never have floated over Bunker

America has grown up now. We are out of our swaddling clothes and can afford to do things handsomely. When

England welcomes the Anglett and Honorable Artillery company of Boston, as she did in 1806, and howls herself hourse while those noble Bostonians carry the Stors and Stripes through the streets of London for the first time by a milli

tary company; when an English nobleman has his photograph taken under our country's flag up in the same octa-sien, surely we can pay them back in the same coin. We can howl ourselved hearse in Poston, run up the Union Jack at Bunker Hill, and for the matter of at Bunker tith, and the matter of that at a thousant other hills of which the London Honorables never dramed,

He conly a matter of goot will, any way and with that understanding to have plenty of room for all the aller flig-run up the Stars and Stripes, either

Pari City Freichi,

Oct: 7, 1903

GENERAL JUNKET BEGINS.

Honorable Artillerymen Start With Flying Colors on Grand Tour.

Boston, Oct. 6 .- The much heralded four throughout this country and Canada of the Ancient and Honourable Artillery company of Massachusetts, hav seeing in this see, in All on , a members of the London copyrige

165 in number, started on the escerting culumn of the Ancar and Monourables was 150 strong.

the as its guest the Harman tillers company of London began to by attest four days of onextment a 1-sql

nor will it discommode us for room

Hooray for us!

Hill at all.

and to spare? Just listen: Cost genial smile of indulgence.

But it really seems as though the good

A part of the Honourable Artillery Company of London is over here to be entertained by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston. They say that the London soldiers belong to the oldest military company known. Henry VIII. is responsible for the warrant for the creation of the society They need not be very proud of their promoter, by the company has a good record in English history I' had something to do with the Spanish arma is the Stuart troubles and the London mors. Where we get down neater home the Honourable Articles Company has managed not to smell of gunpowder very strongly.

Possibly this is why the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, which has been chiefly noted for its unflinching courage in paying the large bills of the social functions of the company, has hobnobbed with the London company so graciously. Neither of them having much to do with war or politics, they have turned to banques and the flowing bowl. The Boston company is not quite so old as the London one, but i. celebrat. its two hundred and fiftieth anniversary in 1866 At that time a few members of the London com pany came over. They no sooner met than the looked-no cooner looked than they loved. Bostor and London were no longer sundered by memories of the Boston tea party.

No, indeed. In cups that cheer, all founds that might be suggested by the sight of Banker It were drowned at that anapicious commemorathy of the two hundred and nitieth anniversary of Boston Ancients and Honorandes. They are d scendants of the embattled tarnors was fired the shot heard round the world in the Boston orden, in tion, I it they are other ammunition now to any things stirring What would you? Does no World move toward temperance and temperamen. both? The Augent's and Honorables have a great reputation for temp toment anyway, and from the top of Bunker H. shaft the eyes of several can turies look down . Th curiosity on the lively goings on between these artillery companies of London and Bes on. Why lers why should we be melachely, whose duty his to line?

wire endinence Con 1 AT WEST POINT

The Honorable Artiflery Company of London Was Entertained Today.

New York of a " of 3 to a at Honores Arthur cone are a to and the Newport Villey I species on me s m (i) in a comto to the few that in community a re the off and up the property of the property

The Honougable Mullers Coquin of Lamps Chylan, we do as 1. W. proper comments that the state of open as the last the terms of the

Perial ("Ell. | Slav,

England's Crack Artillery Company Descended Upon Knickerbocker Town this Morning.

GUESTS OF THE OLD GUARD

West Point is in the Afternoon's Itinery and After Two Days' Visit They Will Go to Washington.

WILL SEE BEST OF AMERICA

NEW YORK, Oct. / The famous Honourable Artillery Company of London descended upon knicksrbocker lown today, arriving from Boston early this morning on the Fall river out. The English visitors were escorted from Boston by the Ancient and Honourable Artitlery Company of Boston and the Ar itlery Lompany of Newport. The visitors will be the guests of the Old Guard of New York white nere. Today they will journey up the Hudeon to Wets Foint, where the cadet corps with be turned out for an exhibition drill.

Commandant Mills, on the military commandant Millsy hazar at Madison the terter, Leaving here on 1 fiand cars, six sleepers and the er it the London company, and

DAY AT WEST POINT

Enjoyed by Distinguished Artillery Company From England.

New York, Oct. 7 .- The Ancient and orable Artillery company of Boston the Newport Artillery company, es-ig the Honorable Artiflery company London, arrived here today on a timer from Fall River. Without loss of time, the Boston and Ondon companies, in full uniform, dended the gangway of the Fall River but and married in aclumn of two & Lica go, (16.) interes, Portsmouth, (1. 14.)

Oct. 7, 1903. Oct. 7, 1903.

BRITISH FLAG FLOATS ON BUNKER HILL SHAFT.

The strange sight of a British flag floating on Bunker All is one of the features of the visit of the Honourses, Art. Hery Company of London to Boston, the flag of Great · oferto, (O.,) News!

New York, Oct. 7 .- The Ancient and Honorable

HONORED GUESTS

har lag been hung out with the stars

Oct. 7, 1903

AT WEST POINT TODAY

Boston Ancients and Their Guests

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 7.-Thousands of people lined along the streets gay with British and American flags accorded a hearty welcome to the Honourable Artillery company of Lon. don and the Ancient and Tionorable Artillery company of Boston when they arrived in this city enroute to New York, Washington and Montreal. The stop here was a brief one, covering hardly more than four hours, but in that time the reception given the visitors was enthusiastle. When the special train bearing the two companies drew into the station four batteries of the First Heavy artillery, M. V. M., and companies of the naval brigade from Boston, Lynn, Springfield, Taunton, Fall River and Brockton were in waiting to escort the visitors to the Omequechan club, where a reception and lunch took place.

Artillery company of Boston and their London guests, the pier was crowded with people, who cheered wildly during the brief stop. The Puritan was boarded here by the Newport Artillery company of 100 men, accompanied by the United States Artillery hand. The company has been assigned to escore duly during the stay of the Honour-scend Upon New York—Journey to West Point.

HONOURABLES

NEW YORK, Oct. 7. The famous Honour. NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The famous Honourable Artillery company, of London, descended upon Knickerbocker town ning on the Fall from Boston early this morning on the Fall from Boston by the Moston and the corted from Boston by the Boston, and the prable Artillery company of New Hold Guard of New Bertllery company of New Old Guard of New Will be the guests of the they will journey
York, while here.
Today Point where the
the Hudeon to West out for an exlibition drill.

Went to West Point.

ON A VISITING TOUR

Are Beading For Washington

Newport, R. I., Oct., 7.-When the Fall River line steamer Puritan renched here last right, baving on board the Ancient and Honorable

Cet. 7, 1903.

Conclude Boston Visit and De-

Went to West

By Associated Press.

New York, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of BosHonorable Artillery that Artillery comton and the Newport Artillery comton and the Newport Honorable Artillpany, escorting the lery company of London, Brall River, to-day on a steamer from Brall River,
to-day on a steamer from Brall River,
to-day on a steamer and with the uniout into the stream and panies playing, ted bands of both companies playing, ted bands of both river en roufe to proceeded up the river en roufe to proceeded up the river and to a hotel company then proceeded to a hotel company then proceeding to meet the to spend the day, inten Honorables on London and Boston, point late this

Harney, (N. H.,) Oct. 7, 1903. OUR GUESTS

Down in Boston and vicinity the Older by a hundred years than the com-Honourable Artillery company of Lonpany which is acting as its host the Honordon and the Ancient and Honorable able Artillery company of London, which Artillery company of Boston are havhas been in this country for several days, is ing a high old time. They have even at once one of the most ancient and most fabeen farther than Boston and vicinity. mous military;organizations in the world. and have taken a trip to that most de-The Ancient and Honorable Artillery comlightful and un-Boston city, Provipany of Boston dates its existence from the dence, R. I., where they spent five or year 1638, while the parent organization can six hours and were regaled with a trace its history back, to the time of Henry Rhode Island clambake and other VIII and the year 1537. This is not as means of hospitality known to that some have supposed, the first visit of the watery state. They have been to Honorables to this country. They came church and the members of the British over once before in 1890, but at that time company have been entertained at dinthe Boston organization and the civil auner by their American hosts. The horities of the state and city did not awake two companies will make a trip to to a thorough realization of the possibilities Canada together, and all in all it will of the occasion, and the reception was not have been a busy and eventful time all it might have been. So that when the for the guests and their hosts. There Boston company went over to England later has appeared no evidence that the on and received a most royal welcome, it depeople of the United States are so cided that the next visit of the London ormuch exercised over this visit of the ganization would be of a different order. Ancients; but that Boston is in quite Hence the festivities of the past few days a flutter of eccitement over it is clear. in the Massachusetts capital. The Boston newspapers devote pages There is a difference in the two organito pictures and descriptions of the zations with respect to their respective retwo companies and their doings, and it lations to the state and the government. The is said that not an Ancient of either English company is liable to military duty company can appear on the streets and as a matter of fact saw more or less without being followed by a curious service in the time of the Boer war, while crowd. Boston is interested, and is the Boston company has no direct con-appreciative. And why not? The members of these companies, arrayed in their gor. geous raiment, may be said to be somewhat conspicuous. Somebody once said that "no band could possibly play all the airs the drum major puts on," but not even a large and colored drum major could exceed in glory or in striking appearance a member of one of these artillery companies. And why not? They are out for fun, and part of their fun consists in making themselves conspicuous, so the more conspicuous the better, And these visitors are not a bad lot. The suggestion that their visit precluded forever the possibility of a break in the friendly relations existing between the friendly relations and the United the friendly relation the United States Great Britain and the United States betrays an exaggerated idea of the importance of the event; but it would be portance of the event; but it would be unreasonable to deny that the bond unreasonable two nations is strength-between the two nations is strength-between the little, by this interened, if only a little not an event of course. course. The visit is not an event of great international importance, but it great international considerable significant event of the visitors are welcance, after all. The visitors are welcance, after all Boston has done her full cance, after and come, and Boston has done her full come, and bossessing that fact very giving the guests a welcome evidently share toward making that race van apparent.

Ste. Dispatch, Oct. 7, 1903,

WEST POINT VISITED. Honorable Artillery Company Given

Honorable artillery Company Given a Glimpse of Military School. New York, Oct. 2.—The Ancient and Honorable artillery company, of Sustan, Honorable Newport artiflery company, cs-and the Honorable Artiflery company, cs-corting the Honorable Artiflery company, England, arrived here today on on rolle to meet the London and Busonorables on their return from West this afternoon.

Portlind The Javalise Oct. 7, 1903

Steamship of Dominion Line Which Will Carry Honourables Home Is One of the Largest in Service.

The new steamship Columbus of the Dominion line, on which the Honourable Aztillery Company of London will sail for England, is expected in Boston Friday, Oct. 9, having left Liverpool Oct. 1. Her commander is Capt. James McAuley, late of the steumship Commonwealth, and she has abourd 79 saloon passengers, 222 second cabin and The Columbus and the Mayflower now in Boston, the two new steam-Liverpool and Boston service talk a val fly the flag of the Wast Star early this waster, when too' ion-

Oct. 7, 1903. BRITISH ARTILLERY MEN START ON THEIR TOUR

Datroit Hick.)

nection with the military service. But Boston is very proud of its most illustrious military society nevertheless. The London

Honorables have as their nominal commander in chief no less a person than King

Edward himself. The [real commander is Lord Denbigh, who has been the central figure of attraction in the Boston visit. The Honorables will visit several other cities and points of interest before they go back home and will take occasion to call on the President at the White House. They key note of the visit has appeared to be the strength.

ening of the Anglo-Saxon unity by mutual friendliness at heart that is stronger than any treaty or alliance that it is possible

THE HONORABLE ARTILLERY.

The London Honourable Artillery Company attacked a Rhode Island clambake in Providence, a day of two ago, and speedly surrendered.

Though Ot. J., 1 oct. 7, 1903

HONOURABLES INVADE US.

The English Sag has been flying in Boston for a week. It has been planted n the heights of Bunker Hill monument, and the British standard has been permutted to swing to the New England breezes without a groan from the sons of the Pilgrims. In a word, Boston has suffered a second invasion. The redcoats have come, but this time as lambs, not lions. The Honourable Artillery Company of London, led by an earl, has tera returning the military call, as it vir , made by the Ancient and Honora-La Artillery Company of Boston a few Years ago. The Boston Ancients, every the in this country knows or ought to know. They are all gentlemen of the most distinguished ability, and of an infinite capacity for taking pains in the matter of fedsting and imbibition. Long before they crossed to London, they had established a reputation for good fellowship here. All other uniforms pale before the imperial splendor of the military earb adopted by the Boston Ancients, and the absorbing powers of the members of this happy family of soldiers stand in a class absolutely alone.

It is no wonder, then, that the London Honourables have led the strenuous life ever since they touched the rock-bound coasts of merry New England. They have been on parade until their British feet are sore, and the heroes are com-Plaining that their officers showed leeble ability in purchasing new boots for them If re they legan their American camraign. Anyhow, their military feet feel the wear of the hard marching they have indured, but far less, they admit, than their heads and their internal economy. y acknowledge, indeed, that they are mere military babes and tyros in com-Parison with the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston when it s to leading the strenuous life at larder. There is nothing ancient It the Boston Honorables, their Britbrethren submit, "across the walnuts the wine." Perennial youth and thereign capacity are theirs. They have been vanquished by the Boston Ancients, and they admit a square de-In fact, they have stared and Caped over the achievements of the ton veterans, and acknowledge that " warriors are far and away their I riors in the peaceful offices of their

These two organizations are about to leave Boston, but only for a season. They are to make a peaceful invasion of New York, Washington and other Amerlean cities, and the London Honourables are glad that the Boston Ancients will afford them a little rest from the exactduries incount to a campaign such as that programmed for them by their American allies. The visit of the Lon-Quaers has offered occasion for the disalso, of epulary eloquence. It is a then battle thus far. Our soldiers, perbu, have exhibited d little more animation than the British, but the latter liffect the conversational in public eddreas. They mean quite as much, and linve responded, in their way, warmly tothe tonate of "hands agross the sea," of blood is thicker than water" and other good things of the tengue, Whatever may be said of the tour of the ailles. there visits of the Honourables of England and the United States are a fine

Honourables to understand once and for all that the Ancients of Boston more than represent the country in the matter of feasting. One must look back to classic Rome to find their equal. Mod-

Bostone Post, Oct. 5, 1903.

The Observant Citizen

There came near being a disgraceful scene at the H nourable reception in the Cadets armory Saturday evening, which was only averted by the quick action of Colonel Charles K. Darling and others in authority. The curiosity to see a real live earl at close range, and the fear that the opportunity so near at hand might slip by unimprived, caused many to forget their politeness in their enthusiasm. Instead of maintaining a line the crowd surged joward the receiving stand, and for a moment threatened to overwhelm the visitors.

But Colonel Darling rose to the occa-sion, and, aided by some stalwart Cadets, the company was gently but firmly pushed back so that there was an open space in front of the guests. It is true many never reached the distinguished visitors, but unless the measures had been taken there would have been taken promptly there would have been no presenting at all.

It is a pity that Lady Denbigh will not have an opportunity of meeting more of the ladies whose husbands are members of the Boston Ancients. Thus far she has been presented to but two or three, the others being kept in the background. I hear a few queries as to why matters are as they are.

The men whose duty it is to keep the streets of the city neat and tidy do not enjoy special celebrations, and their labors are greatly increased. At the present time is this particularly true, for since Friday there has been at least one present duty of the control of the con since Friday there has been at least one parade a day, and after it is over the streets along the route look as though they had been utilized by a picnic party. There is a city ordinance prohibiting the throwing of papers and other rubbish in the streets, but at times the law seems to be a dead letter.

Duluth (mind.,) Oct: 7, 1903. THE HONORABLES.

Visiting Artillerymen Make Trip Up the Hudson.

New York. Oct. 7 .- The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company, escorting the Honorable Artillery compeny of London, arrived here today on a steamer from Fall river. Five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and way the united bands of both companies playing, proceeded up the river out, i.e. t. We t Paint. The Newpyrt Artifiery company wint to a hotel and honorables on their return from West Point this afternoon.

William, St. Co.) Oct. 4, 1903.

It is estimated that the secrent and Henourable Artillery of Boston will apand over pou, out in entertaining their namesakes of London. The committee on artillery of Boston must have money enough to burn up a wet dog.

Fringfield! (0.,) Frest!

The Auctout and Honorable Artillery Company, of London, is having the time and the beans of its life in Poittand, (mel.) Effects) HONOPARIES OFF FOR

British Visitors Begin Tour Through This Country and Canada,

BOSTON, Oct. 6,-The much heralded tour throughout this country and Can-ada of the Ancient and Honorable Ar-tillery Company of Massachusetts, having as its guest the Honorable Ar-tillery Company of Tondon, began totillery Company of London, began today after four days of entertainment and sighteeeing in this section. All officers and members of the London company, about 165 in number started on the trip. The escorting column of the Ancients and Honorables is 150 strong. After Ward to the column of the After Monday's strenuous day the members of both companies were allowed to take a rest during the morning.

The members of the home company began to assemble at the armory in Faneuil hall at noon. An hour later they appeared on the street and marched to Court square where they marched to Court square escort and took their guests under escort and conducted them to the South Terminal station.

station.

By a special train a start was made for New York via Fall River where for New York via Fall River where the two companies were entertained unthe two companies were entertained unthe two companies were entertained unthe first Heavy Artillery, M. V. M., the First Heavy Artillery, M. V. M., and the Massachusetts Navel brigade.

Coct. 7, 1903

EXCURSION UP THE HUDSON

BRITISH GUNNERS TAKEN ON A

Artillery Men of Two Nations Went on a Military, But Extremely Social Picnic.

By the Associated Press.

New York, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company, escorting the Honoarived here lery company of London, Fall River, today on a steamer from Boston and Without loss of time full uniform, London companies, in the Fall River descended the gangway of the gangway or boat and marched in the gangway or boat and marched in the gangway er boat and marched in the gangway of an excursion boat, and five minutes the steamer swung ted bands of stream and with the united dands of the river on the way company then the Newport, artillery spend the day, proceeded to a hotely to spend the day, proceeded to a hotely to spend the day, intending to meet the London and Bosintending to meet the London and Bosintending to meet the London.

West Point late this afternoon.

afelola, (Kard.)

Doston Traveler, oct: 6, 1903

On Saturday, while the escort of the London Honourables was standing in line, preparatory to the review, one interested spectator was a middle-aged woman of English birth, who was escorting her daughter around and showing her the sights. She at different times called attention to some stalwart soldier of the militia, but when she reached the Boston Ancients she grew a little confused and thought they were the visitors. Her enthusiasm was raised to the highest pitch. "Look at the noble men," she said. "This takes me back to my childhood days." Finally she came to a stop and advancing to a large, brave-appearing man in the ranks she said: "Excuse my boldness, but can I shake your hand and as an English woman ask where you were born?" The soldier grasped her hand and replied: 'I am a Manchester boy,' 'I knew it, I knew it," said the woman "that was my old home." They were both truthful, but the Ancient was born in Manchester, N. H. It was Milton C. Paige.

I heard a good story Saturday. A party of young women were standing ut the corner of Beacon and Tremont streets, viewing the Ancients and the Londoners as they marched to the South Station on their way to Providence. The young women evidently knew but very little about the Ancients and much less of the London company. One of the young women, after sizing up the Ancients and seeing the ad-Vanced age of many of the members, made a comment upon that fact. A few minutes later, when the Honourable Artillery Company hove into sight she remarked to her friend, "Why, here" come their sons!"

Pater Love; St. g., 1 Oct. T. 1903.

HONORABLES AND HONOURABLES.

Boston and London Artillerymen Visit West Point.

New York, Oct. 7.-The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Newport Artillery Company, escorting the Honourable Artillery and the New Honourable Artillery escorting the Honourable Artillery escorting the Honourable Artillery escorting the Honourable Artillery escorting to London, arrived here to-Company of London, arrived here to-Company for them was a second steamer Walting to West Point Interpretation and Proceeded up the river. Boston companies and Artillery Company protected to a hotel to spend the day, inceeded to a hotel to spend the form on their return from West companies on their return from West companies on their return from West companies the day of the day

Manshas City (100) Hold ANCIENTS IN NEW YORK.

Go to West Point Today to See the Ca-

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The famous An-NEW YORK, Oct 7.—The famous Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of cient and Honorable Artillery company of cient and Honorable Artillery company of cient and to New York this morning London the Factor of the Company of the Street's of the day they will be the street's of the Aday they will immey up while here. Today they will immey up while here. Today they will immey up while here to West Point, where the catched Hudson to West Point, where the catched Hudson to West Point, where the catched will be turned out for drill and Commandant Friday morning the party informally. Washington to be received by the president. Montieal, (band.) Witness Oct. 5, 1903.

ANCIENT AND HONORABLE

ABOUT ONE-HALF OF THE LON-DON ARTILLERY COMPANY ARE MASONS.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 5.—A body of about one hundred Masons from Hahrax, N.S., arrived here on Saturday. They have been participating in the festivities provided for the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of London, and attended service on Sunday afternoon at Trinity Church.

Of the 165 members of the London company who are here about one-half are Masons. These, together with the Halifax Masons, were entertained on Saturday evening by St. John's Lodge, A. F. & A. M., in Masonic Temple. This lodge is the oldest in America, having been chartered in 1733 by the authority of the Grand Lodge of England.

Boston, Oct. 5.—On Saturday the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Companies of London and this city put in a most enjoyable day at Providence. R.I. The day's programme also included a reception and banquet in Symphony Hall in the evening. At ten o'clock the members of the home company assembled at their armory in Faneuil Hall and soon afterwards formed in line on South Market street to receive their English conrades. A short march toos the column to Rowe's wharf, where a steamer was hearded for the day's trip.

Fater Nove, Stig., Guardian, Oct. 7, 1903.

PROUD INVADERS FROM OLD ENGLAND

Honorables of London and Ancients of Boston Arrive in New York.

New York, Oct. 7 .- The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company, escorting the Honorable Artil. lery company of London, arrived here today on a steamer from Fall River. Waiting for them was a second steamer ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and its guests, the Honorable Artillery company of London, to West Point

Without loss of time the two companies, in full uniform, embarked on he fatter steamer and five winners later the steamer swung out into the stream and proceeded up the river. The Newport Artillery company proceeded to a hotel to spend the day intending to meet the London and Boyton companies on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

Rome (Sa!,) Tribune Oct. 7, 1903.

Autumn Field Day. Boston, Oct. &-This was the field day of the Ancient and Honours ble Artillery company and with their guests, he Honorable Artillery Sool ety of London, the Boston company. spent the day in a steamboat excursion along the north shore. The lay's program also included a reception and banquet in Symphony hall this even

OF CHANCE AT THE · Town For he St. Il America and

Wheels of Fortune, Tin Horse Races and Grab Bags Tempt Visitors — The Honorables Will Attend Thursday Night

The Old Guard Fair at Madison Square The Old Gunra fair at Madison Square Garden opened last evening. The Garden was tastefully decorated with flags and bunting, and many booths on the main floor, presided over by women, contained wheels of fortune, tin horse races, grab bugs and other parlor games of chance.

The fair, from a feminine standpoint, is to charge of Mrs. William B. Smith, Mrs. William H. Sealch, Mrs. Charles E. Johnston, and Mrs. E. S. Joyce, who have for their assistants a list of vice-presidents, including a hundred or more women well known in social and club circles of New

The Old Guard Executive Committee includes Major S. Eills Briggs, Captain Be din J. Rogers, Adjutant George H. Wyatt, Captain Robert P. Lyon, Captain William 3. Smith and many other Old Guard mem

(exholist , Friend Oct. 7, 1900

THEY VISIT WEST POINT

The Honorable Artillery Company of London Makes a Trip to Army School, lione : le Artillery company or le c. Newport Artillery company or ding the Horonble

ARTILLERYISTS IN NEW YORK

Honorable Company or London and Boston Amients One is or Old Guard.

sc 1- 15 17 3

iceridere (Cons.) Oct. 7, 1903.

HONOURABLES ARRIVE.

FAMOUR ARTILLERY COMPANY IN NEW YORK TO-DAY.

New York, Oct. 7.-The famous Honcurable Artillery company of London level led up at Katcherbocker town today, arriving from Boston early this morning on the Fall River boat. The L. lien visitors were escorted from Be ton by the Ancient and Honorable thery company of Boston, and the Att. Hery company of Newport.

The visiters will be the guests of the Old Guard of New York, while here. To-day they will journey up the Hudson to West Point, where the order corps will be turned out for an "Valoltien drill. Commandant Mills, of the military academy, will also en-Ortain the visiting hosts informally

An at about 3 o'clock they will embark on the return trip to New York. During their stay here the Londoners will visit the Old Guard's military baar at Madison Square garden, Leaving ar at Madison Square garden, Leaving here on Friday morning, the party will be cled to Washington, where a reception has been prepared for them. Saturby w. be passed in a visit to the two of Washington, and later in the lay they will be received by President Resolution at the White House.

On Saturbay night the party will definite for Nugara Falls. The train he washout the trip will travel in two '1g. Ap. car, two dining cars, six sleepon and the private car Columbia, then will be used by the Earl of Den-conmander of the London com-

Chicago (Elle) Journal!

Antient and Honorable Artillery npany of Boston and the Newport Aring the Honora-Ancients Artillery com- and Honorables Dy of London, ar-Arrive fed here today off amer from Fall River. Without loss time, the Beston and London compathe Fall River boat and marched in of twer across the pier and up way of an excursion boat, and five later the steamer swung out into m and with the united bands of to companies playing proceeded up the an route to West Point. The New-Artillery company then proceeded to tel to spend the day, intending to meet London and Bouton Honorables on their

1 chita, (Kod.,) Beness!

THEY VISIT WEST POINT

British and American Artillery Companies Having Good Time. Provide Oct. The ancient and print he offers to pay of its the heart and repelled by come y to the heart and repelled by come y alone to the heart and here to by an of love, we have to we ento mer from politic for We have them of he in the ton and London he is in full we form do conded he is another chann of two across the ples and up to the roll of the full will the condition of two across the ples and up to the roll of the the elen is to addy manage, later, the oute to Will Point, The Bowbort

Telegraph, Oct. 7, 1903.

The Honorables' Mistake.

Persons who have read the details of the banquet given by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston to their guests, the Honorable Artillery Company of London, on Monday night, will have some difficulty in regarding the affair as anything but a piece of vulgar ostentation, a showy, ill-advised display of expenditure better fitted to the ethics of a club of Coal Oil Johnnies or an association of Chicago, brewers than of a presumably exclusive body of Bostonians. It is said that for the consumption of 500 guests 800 gallons of wine were provided. It is scarcely necessary to go further than this face in order to draw a pretty definite conclusion in regard to the affair. It is not at all to be regretted that the British guests administered a delicate reproof to this assumption that they were a greedy lot of guzzlers whose capacity was only limited by the amount of drink offered free-Perhaps the members of the Ancients may have understood what was meant by the unanimous refusal of the visitors to get drunk at the banquet; if they did it must have dawned upon them that hospitality is something better after all than the assumption that your guest is seeking a chance to drink himself filthily drunk at your expense. Unrestricted drinking bouts based on a standard of aix quarts to a man, belong to the seventeenth century historical novel, not to the social life of the twentieth century. One need not be a tectotaler nor an anarchist to have his stomach curl at the contemplation of such functions as it was evidently intended to make the dinner of the Ancients and

Bridgefort (Cons.) COMPANY

Ancient and Honourables Have Arrived in New York.

New York, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honourable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company and the Newport Artillery company escorting the Honourable Artillery company of London, arrived here on a stramer from Fall River to-day. Waiting for them with steam up, was a second steamer ready to take the Ancient and Honourable Artillery company of Boston and its guest, the Honourable Artillery company of London, to West Point.

Without loss of time the two companies, in full uniform, descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in column of twos across the pier and up the gangway of the excursion boat. Five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and the united bands of both companies playing, proceeded up the river. The Newport Artillery company, which had linea up in company and Lordon or · Vew York! St. J., Tribune) Oct. 5, 1903.

MARCH TO THE CHURCH.

London Honourables Escorted to Trinity in Boston.

Boston, Oct. 4.-The quietness of Sunday was stirred to-day by the sound of martial music as the Honourable Artillery Company of London and their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of this city, marched through some of the Back Bay streets to Trinuy Church, The services had been arranged by the British residents, and the parade included, besides the two military bodies, those army and navy veterans of the British service whose homes are in this city. The novelty of a military parade on Sunday proved attractive, and the line of march was thronged with spectators. The Boston company left the armory shortly The Boston company left the armory shortly after 2 o'clock, and, after taking the Honourable Artillery of London in escort, marched to Tremont-st., where the British veterans had almont-st., where the British veterans had almont-st. Courtenay. His ship of Lieutenant Colonel C. S. Courtenay. His ship of Lieutenant Colonel C. S. Courtenay. His ship of Lieutenant Colonel C. S. British officers staff for the day included manyer of the indeand members of a large number length, New-England, pendent military organizations of the United States as well as several officers of the United States as well as several officers of the United States as well as several officers of the Winchester Donald, ducted by the Rev Dr. E. Winchester Donald, ducted by the Rev Consultations were entertained at luncheon. eral organizations e after 2 o'clock, and, after taking the Honourable

Indiangafold, (Ind.)

ENGLISH INVADERS LAND.

Honorable Artiflery Company of London Came Ashore Near Bunker Hill.

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—For the first time in many years the fias of England, guarded by British BOSTON, Oct. 2.—For the first time in BOSTON, Oct. 2.—For England, guarded many years the flag of borne through the by British muskets, was by the Honorable streets of Boston to-day by the Honorable artillery Company, of London, as special Artillery Company, of London, the Anguests of a similar organization, the Anguests of the Honorable this city.

Landing at Charlestown, almost on the this city.

Landing at Charlestown, almost on the twentieth years ago, the red coats of steamer, the years ago, the red from their to Boston and Century marched from their to Boston and Mayflower, over the bridge rendent with Mayflower, over the bridge stendent with then through the streethead and any red week's tour, fourn in this city. For five a week's tour,

St. Folia strong; 1903.

Miss Harriet Whittier returned to Bos.

Miss Harriet Whittier returned to Bos.

On Thursday of last week. On Friday ton Thursday of last week. Sidney the Hotel Somerst by Denbigh, wife Wedges, in honor of Lady Denbigh, wife Wedges, in honor of Lady Ancient and of the Commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co. of London, whom Boston has been entertaining so recally.

7 Tashingtone, (D. B.,) Octo 7, 1903. HONOURABLE ARTILLERY DESCENDS ON NEW YORK

English Visitors Journey Up Hudson to West Point.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 .- The famous Honourable Artillery Company of London descended upon New York today, arriving from Boston early this morning on the Fall River boat. The English visitors were escorted from Boston by the Ancient and Honorable Artillory Company, of Boston, and the Artillery Company of Newport. The visitors will be the guests of the Old Guard of New York while here.

the guests of the Old Guard of New York while here.

Today they will journey up the Hudson to West Point.

Leaving here Friday morning the party will proceed to Washington, where a reception has been prepared. Saturday will be passed in a visit to the tomb of Washington, and later in the day the company will be received by President Roosevelt in the White House.

On Saturday night the party will depart for Niagara Falls. The train throughout the trip will travel in two sections, the first being made up of a baggage car, two dining cars, six sleeping cars; and the private car Columbia, which will be used by the Earl of Denbigh, commander of the London company, and Lady Denbigh.

South forwalk (Coned.)

South forwalk (Coned.)

South 1, 1903.

HONOURABLES IN NEW YORK.

London, Boston and Newport Artillers

ists Visit the Metropolis.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston, and the Newport Artillery Company, escorting the Honourable Artillery Company, of London, arrived here on a steamer from Fall River to the Waiting for them, with steam up day, Waiting for them, with steam up was a second steamer ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston and its guest, the Honourable Artillery Company of London, to West Point.

Without loss of time the two companies, in full uniform, descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and gangway of the Fan Aver boat and marched in column of twos across the pier and up the gangway of the excursion hoat. "Five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and with the series bands of both with the united bands of both com-panies playing, proceeded up the river. The Newport artillery company, which had lined up in Company front on the pier while the Boston and London orcaizations were embarking, then procreded to a hotel to spend the day, in tending to meet the London and Bos-ton Honourables on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

Jacomas (tack),) octo 6- 1903.

The Boston and London artillerymen are on pleasanter terms of intercourse than they were in 1775. The visitors will be allowed to occupy Bunker Hill without protest this year.

Portamonthe (1.4.) (Fyrnicale) The London Artillerymen should have timed their visit to Boston so as to have got there either before or after the visit of the Pittsburg base

Buffalo, (4. 5, 1) Oct. 7, 1903. BRITISHERS

IN GOTHAM

GUESTS OF THE OLD GUARD-JOURNEY UP HUDSON TO WEST POINT

New York, Oct. 7.—The famous Honorable Artillery Company of London descended upon Knickerbocker town today, arriving from Boston early this morning on the Fall River boat. The English visitors were escorted from Boston by the Ancient and Honorable Art.llery Company of Boston and the Artillery Company of Newport. The visitors will be the guests of the Old Guard of New York while here. Today they will journey up the Hudson to West Point, where the cadet corps will be turned out for an exhibition drill.

Commandant Mills of the Military Academy will also entertain the visiting hosts informally and at about 3 o'clock they will embark on the return trip to New York. During their stay here the Londoners will visit the Old Guards' Military Bazaar at Madison Square Garden.

Leaving here on Friday morning, the son Square Garden.

Leaving here on Friday morning, the party will proceed to Washington, where a reception has been prepared for them. Saturday will be passed in a visit to the tomb of Washington, and later in the day they will be received by President Roosevelt at the White House.

On Saturday night the party will depart for Niagara Falls. The train throughout the trip will travel in two sections, the first being made up of a baggage car, two dining cars, six sleeping cars and the private car Columbia, which will be used by the Earl of Denbigh, commander of the London company, and Lady Denbigh.

Waterbury (bt.) American) Oct. 7, 1903. ARE AT WEST POINT.

The Honorable's and Honourables and Also the New York Artillery.

New York, Oct 7 .- The Ancient and Nonorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Newport Artillery Company escorting the Honourable Artillery Company of London, arrived here on a steamer from Fall River to-day. Waiting for them with steam up, was a second steamer ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and its guest, the Honourable Artillery Company of London urable Artillery Company of London pany of boston and the transfer of London, ourable Artillery Company of London, to West Point.

Without loss of time the two companies, in full uniform, descended the pangway of the Fall River boat and marched in column of twos across the pier and up the gangway of the excursion boat. Five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and with the united bands of both Companies playing proceeded up the river. The Newport Artiliery Company, which had lined up in company, which had lined up in company front on the pier while the Boston and London organizations were embarking then proceeded to a hotel to spend the day intending to meet the London and Boston Honourables on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

Oct. , vi The Much-Heralded 2.000-Mile Tou Bulfalo, di indicallo

HONORABLES AT WEST POINT.

Left New York This Morning; Will Return Late in the Afternoon.

New York, Oct. 7. The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Newport Artillery Company, escorting the Honorable Artillery Company of Lendon, arrived here today on a steam r from Fall River. Watting for a stemar from Fan River. Watting for then with steam up was a second steam-er ready to take the Boston and London companies to West Point. Without loss of time the two companies, in full uni-form, descended the gangway of the Fall River wat and marched in column of two acress the pier and up the gang-way of the excursion boat. Five injuries later, the steamer swung out into the stream and, with the write bunds of both companies playing, proccoded up the river. The Newport Ar-tillery Company, which had lined up on the pier while the Boston and London the pier while the Beston and London organizations were embarking, then proposeded to a hotel to spend the day, intending to meet the London and Boston Honorables on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

Review of Cadets, Etc.

West Plint, N. Y., Oct. 7, The Honourable Arullery Company of London and the Alecient and Honorable Artil-lery Company of B sten arrived here today. A south was fired and the battodiv. A silute was fired and the bat-talion of edets was piraded in front of the birricks. The guests were escop-ed to Supt. Hill's quarters, where a re-ception was held. The officers of the post were present. The reception was followed by a review of the cadets, af-ter which the visitors returned to the boot and sailed down the river.

Go ance ta der, F. S. Oct. 7 100.

The Home to Arman Carray Levelo has commission 137 a prop in the second of the are the live in the contract to n. Constitution strains Section of a data of training our it i and thanks for sa . a way r of the ful day on the a carry marker have be an A C A CONTRACTOR

To donde the hope 131

i a cohester, that he town oct. 7, 1903

CORDIALLY RECEIVED.

Biltish Soldiers and Hosts Stop at Fall River and Newport.

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 7.-Thouands of people Hned along the streets my with British and American flags accorded a hearty welcome to the Renourable Artillery company of Loudon and the Ancient and Honorable Arrillery company of Boston when they arrived in this city enroute to New York, Washington and Montreal, The Hop here was a brief one, covering hardly more than four hours, but in that time the reception given the visitors was enthusiastic. When the special train bearing the two companies draw into the station four batteries of the First Heavy artillery, M. V. M., and companies of the naval brigade from Boston, Lynn, Springfield, Taunton, Fall River and Brockton were in waiting to escort the visitors to the Omequeckan club, where a reception and lunch took place.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 7 .- When the Fall River line steamer Puritan friched here fast right, having on board the Ancient and Hoporable Arthery company of Boston and their London guests, the pier was crowded with people, who cheered wildly during the brief stop. The Puritan was boarded here by the Newport Artiflery company of 100 men, accompanied by the United States Artillery hand. The Company has been assigned to escort dut during the stay of the Honour-Phies in New York.

. The resident flat.

THE HONORABLES ABROAD.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The Ancient
New YORK, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Lon, and the Newport Artillery
Tupany, escorting the Honorable Arlery Company, of London, arrived Company, of London, arrived
Company of London, arrived c today on a steamer from Fall

Five minutes later the steamer swung tinto the stream, and with the unit-bands of both companies playing, ceeded up the river on route to West in. The Newport Artillery Com-then proceeded to a hotel to spend avoid the proceed of the London ay, intending to ment the London and Boston Honorables on their return from West Point late this afternoon. Puttered, (VE,) Thevald,

We are not quite sure how the Ancients' banquet at Symphony hall, Roston, on Monday evening, will strike the average Englishman. The statistics of the banquet will certainly give rise to sensations other than the ordinary sense of gratitude for honors offered. Think of spending $50,000, one-third of It for wines, on one dinner. It took 75 men to pour the champagne aione, and the odd part of it was that the visiting Honourable Artillery company did little more than sip their wine. There is material for a cartoon in the dinner of > 28. 11. 10, 00 p. hel, 1000,00,1909

of view did you get of the Elmidal, A.J.) Gagette, Oct. 7, 1903.

ANCIENT AND HONOURABLE.

The Ancient and Honourable tillery Company, of Boston, paid 850 prate to entertain the Ancient and Honourables from London, at the banquet board. Nothing like it ever occurred before in New England-probably never before in the United States. Champagne was served with every course; seventyfive men did nothing but pour champagne into the glasses set before the 1,-050 banquetters, and the news account says they understood more of the speeches than the Ancients did. "You fellows can drink much more than we," said one of the English visitors to a reporter, "and, as we do not care to go under at this time of the visit, we are drinking very conservatively. Two of our fellows were knocked out on Saturday and we all heard from it. This morning we were told that if such a thing occurred to any one of us again, the offender will be dropped from the company here and will have to make the best of his way home. When he gets there he wil be dismissed from the corps." Truly what a great thing it is to be an An cient and Honourable.

Chicago, (Il.,)
Control of the Honorable Artillery Company of London, ably assisted by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, made upon the catables and deinkables provided for them at the banthe to behold. The Henorables, and the Ancients fire among the most delebrated move without ilinching upon the very muz-21 of champagne bottles, and flying corks thereby spur them to an iter produces of Valor. An Ancient or ion Honorable generally weighs about 300 pounds and c atsins a lank the dimensions of which never have been fully ascertained. It is possible that in due time civilization and the amenities of life will reduce all warlike individuals to this level, in which case the Ancients and the Honorables will necessarily come in for much pruise. If anybody can make war and the troppings ridiculous they are the people

Felsmonth, (F.H.) Times, Oct. 7, 1903,

The members of the Ifonorable Artilbry company of London are having a high old time" on this side of the Atlantic at present as the guests of the Incient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston. Feasting and sightseeing are the principal diversions, but Rhode Island clams seem to be too much for many of them.

Biddlefood! (tree!,) Journal!

The mere story of the banquet given by the Boston Ancients and Honorables to the Honourable Artillery company of London was sufficient to intoxicate the sedate editor of the Lewiston Journal. What would have happened if he had had a seat at the press table on that memorable occasion can only be imagined.

Tetaca, A.T.) Journal, Oct. 7, 1903.

SEEING THE SIGHTS.

The London Honourables Pay a Visit to West Point.

New York, Oct. 7 .- The Ancient & Honorable Artillery Co. of Boston and the Newport Artillery Co., escorting the Honourable Artillery Co. of London arrived here today on a steamer from Fall river. Waiting for them with steam up was a second steamer ready to take the Bostoniaus and their guests to West

Without loss of time the two companies, in full uniform re-embarked on the excursion boat and the latter five minutes later proceeded up the river to the music of the united bands of both companies. The Newport company spent the day here, meeting the Boston and London companies on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

West Point, N. Y. Oct. 7.—The Honourable Artillery Co. of London and the Ancient & Honorable Artillery Co. of Boston arrived here today. A salute was fired and the battalion of cadets was paraded in the front of the barracks. The guests were secreted to Superintendent guests were escorted to Superintendent Hill's quarters, where a reception was held. The officers of the post were present. The reception was followed by a review of the cadets after which the visitors returned to the boat and sailed down the river.

BRITISHERS IN

NEW YORK CITY

PROGRAM OF LONDON ARTILLERY COMPANY FOR REMAINDER OF THE WEEK.

By Scripps-McRae Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7. Pany, of Lon-Honorable Artillery Company, of Lon-Honorable Artillery Fall River early this morning on the Fall River early this morning on the suests of the boat. They will be the while here, old guard of New York the Hudson Today they will journey up to Acadet corps to West Point, where the cadet corps to West Point, where the catholic of the turned out for an exhibition will be turned out for an exhibition will be turned out for an exhibition will be turned out for an exhibition will proceed to Washington, where will proceed to Washington, where will proceed to Washington, and visit to the tomb of Washington and visit to the tomb of Washington and visit to the washington and visit to the tomb of Washington and visit to the washington an

Attanta (Gal.) Journal

LONDON ARTILLERYMEN IN NEW YORK TODAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Holofidde Artillery company of Boston Holofidde Artillery company estad in Newport Artillery company of including the Honorable Artillery company of London, arrived here Eve minutes steamer from Pall Rivel out into the little to tamer swung bands of both the moute of Lattice and a the river content to West Point. The Newport artillery company then proceeded to a profillery company the provider honorables on Whica (1. %) Therald Dispatch Oct. 7, 1903.

NEW YORK GREETS LONDON ANCIENTS

They Arrive From Boston, Are Spending To-day at West Point and Will Return to Gotham This Evening.

New York, Oct. 7 .- The famous Honorable Artillery Company of London descended upon Knickerbocker town to-day, arriving from Boston early this morning on the Fall River boat. The English visitors were escorted from Boston by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, and the Artillery Company of Newport. The visitors will be the guests of the Old Guard of New York while here. To-day they journeyed up the Hudson to West Point, where the cadet corps will be turned out for an exhibition drill. Commandant Hills of the Military Academy will also entertain the visiting hosts informally and at about 3 o'clock they will embark on the return trip to New York.

During their stay here the Londoners will visit the Old Guards' military bazar at Madison Square Garden.

Leaving here on Friday morning the party will proceed to Washington, where a reception has been prepared for them. Saturday will be passed in a visit to the tomb of Washington and later in the day they will be received by President Roosevelt at the White House. early this morning on the Fall River

House.

On Saturday night the party will depart for Niagara Falls. The train throughout the trip will travel in two sections, the first being made up of a baggage car, two dining cars, six sleeping cars and the private car Columbia, which will be used by the Earl of Denbigh, commander of the London company, and Lady Denbigh.

Washington, D.b. Slaw, Oct. 7, 1903.

OFF TO VISIT WEST POINT.

London Artillerymen and Escorts Pass New York En Route.

New YORK. October 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Newport Artillery Company ton and the Honorable Artillery Company of London, arrived here today on a steamer of London, arrived here today on a steamer from Fall River. Without loss of time the Boston and London companies, in full uniform, descended the gangway of the Fall form, descended in gangway of the Fall form, boat and marched in solumn of twos River boat and marched in solumn of twos neross the pier and up the sangway of an River boat and up the sangway of an across the pier and up the sangway of an across the pier and up the sangway of an excursion boat, and five minutes later the excursion boat, and five minutes later the excursion boat, and five minutes later the steam and, steamer swung out into the stream and, with the united bands of both companies with the united bands of both companies to West Point.

The Newport Artillery Company then proceeded to a hotel to spend the day, intend-ceeded to a hotel to spend the day.

New York, Oct. 7.—Plans have been completed by the Old Guard of this city for its reception to the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, and the Honourable Artillery Company of London, with the other organizations expected as guests to-day. Besides the Boston and London companies the invited guests include the Minute Men of Washington. D. C., Newport Artillery Company, Governor's Foot Guards, of Hartford; Providence Light Infantry and the Richmond Blues, of Richmond, Va.

The visitors will be met by the Old Guard in full uniform and escorted to the Waldorf-Astoria, where they will be quartered during their stay in the metr polis. The programme of entertainment es for a banquet at Sherry's evening and an automobile tour city on Thursday.

Rocheder, It. J.,1 Domocelet - Chronicele, Oct. 7, 1903. The visit of the Honour-

Startling able Artillery Company, of Meteorological London, to Boston, has led Discovery. to the discovery of this curious and hitherto unsuspected fact in meteorology—the atmosphere of Boston is heavier and moister than that of England. It has long been remarked that while intoxication was no more prevalent in England than elsewhere, the average consumption of alcoholic drinks, "per capita," of the population, was very high. To account for this, it has been pointed out that the exceeding humidity of England's climate creates an unusual demand for alcoholic stimulant among the natives, and enables them to gratify their appetite without suffering the ordinary consequences of such indulgence. The Honourable Artillerymen are Britishers whose drinking habits were formed by the influence of the British climate. The Ancient and Honorable Artillerymen are Bostonians whose drinking habits were formed in the atmosphere of the Massachusetts seaboard. And the Britishers, it has been noted, are testotallers compared with the Bostonians. The Aucient and Honorable Artillerymen have been compelled themselves to consume most of the liquid refreshment provided for their guests, while the Honourable Artillerymen watch the performance with admiration not unmixed with awe. Which, not to repeat all the steps in the chain of reasoning, proves that the climate of Boston is heavier and more humid than the climate of England.

Coloresters Times!

CORDIALLY RECEIVED.

British Soldiers and Hosts Step at Fall River and Newport.

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 7.-Thon gands of people lined along the streets gay with British and American flag accorded a hearty welcome to the Honourable Artiflery company of Lor don are a Ancient and Honorab Artiflery company of Boston when the arrived in this city encoute to No York, Washington and Montreal, The stop here was a brief one, covering hardly more than four hours, but in that time the reception given the visitors was enthusiastic. When the special train bearing the two companies disinto the station four batteries of the First Heavy artillery, M. V. M., and companies of the naval brigade from Ball River and Brockion were in wall. ing to excert the visitors to the Opequechan club, where a reception and funch took place,

Newport, R. L. Oct, 7,--When the Pail River line steamer Puritan reached here fast right, Paving on gard the Ancient and Honorabe Artiflery company of Boston and there with people, who cheered whiley during the brief stop. The Puritan was boarded here by the Newport Artiflery my of 100 men, accompanied by The Unifed States Artillery lead. 4 blowelland Oil Oct. 7, 1903. HONOURABLES

AT GOTHAM

England's Famous Artillery Company Seeing the Sights

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.-The famous Honourable Artillery Company of Londen descended upon Knickerbocker town today, arriving from Boston early this morning on the Fall River boat The English visitors were excerted from Boston by the Ancient and Honourable Artillery Company of Boston and the artillery company of Newport The visitors will be the guests of the old guard of New York while here. Today they will journey up the Hudson to West Point, where the cade corps will be turned out for an exhi-

· Tow Hovered (6t.,) Oct. 7, 1903. VISITED WEST POINT.

Ancient and Honorables Disembark and Re-embark.

New York, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable artillery company of Boston and the Newport artillery company, exact ng the Honourable artillery com-.ny of London, arrived here on a steamer from Fall River today. Walting for them with ateam up was a second steamer ready to the the Ancient and Honorable artillery company of Boston and its guest, the Honourable artillery company of London, to West Polin.

The Earl of Denhigh (Commander of the Honourable Artil-lery Company of London.)

Without loss of time the two companies, in full uniform, descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and gangway of the Fall river boat and marched in column of twos across the pier and up the gangway of the excursion hout. Five minutes later the stemmer swung out into the stream, and with the united bunds of both which had lined up in company from on the pier while the Boston and Lou don organizations were embarking then proceeded to a hotel to spend the

Loca den! (lot:,)
Oct. 7, 1903

MONOURABLE ARTILLERY COM-PANY REACHED METROPOLIS.

Will be Guests of the Old Guard.

7: p Up the Hudson Today as Far as West Point-Cadet Drill in Their Honb. -Plans for a Short Trip.

N w York, Oct, 7 .- The famous Honof Artillery company of London nded upon Knickerbocker town torriving from Boston early this mg on the Fall River boat. The which visitors were escorted from the both by the Ancient and Honorable 14. ry company of Boston, and the living company of Newport. The star will be the guests of the Old I of New York, while here.

dry they will journey up the Hudwill be turned out for an exhion drill. Commandant Mills of the tary academy will also entertain visiting hosts informally and at it 8 o'clock they will embark on return trip to New York.

Furing their stay here, the Londoners of visit the Old Guard's military baer at Madison Square Gadren. Leaving e on Friday morning the party will her hen prepared for them. Sut-"ill be , is ed in a visit to the of W co. eighten and later in the relyed by President

Saturday night the party will of for Ningura Falls. The train the true that the trip will travel in two the first being made up of a two dining cars, six and the private car, Columbia. will be used by the Earl of D. ..-

Beder Bafide Jowa,
Oct. 7, 1903.

GOTHAM READY FOR ANCIENTS.

Detinguished Vieltors to be Lavishly Entortained.

New York, Oct. 6.-Plans have been completed by the Old Guard of this lay for the Ancien. to and the Honorable Artillery company of the Ancion' to Honorable Artillery company of ton and the Honorable Artillery company of the Honorable Artillery c

the Minute Men of Washington, D. C., the Minute Men of Washington, D. C.,

Prot Guards of Hartford, Provide Aichmond at Richmond, Va.

putomobile tour of the city on Thurs

Skeeport B. J., News, Newburnsport News, Oct. 7, 1903.

THE ARTILLERY OFF.

Great Crowds on the Streets to See the Parade and on the Wharf to See the Honourables.

The Puritan's trip down the Sound last night will be a memorable one in the minds of many people, particularly of many Newporters. The steamer carried three motable military commands, the Honourable Artillery of London, the Ancient and Honorables of Boston and the Newport Artillery, the oldesf active military organization in the United States. In addition to all these men in uniform, there was of course the regular passenger traffic. The freight deck of the steamer was thoroughly cleaned, and by the ald of a profusion of hunting turned into a sort profusion of bunting turned into a sort of reception hall for the military. It of reception hall for the military. It must have been a great night on the Sound, for the Ancient and Honourables have established records both here and abroad.

The Newport company was en route for the Oid Guards' fair in the metropolis, and thus will have the added pleasure of appearing with that notable organization. Another cause for rejoicing on the part of the local command is that it appears for the first time in the new regulation United States artillery uniform and is probably the first organization outside of ably the first organization outside of the regulars to wear it. To still fur-ther complete the display, they carried the Artillery band from Fort Adams, recruited to 30 members and all ap-recruited to 30 members and all appearing in the new regulation uniform. A large crowd gathered on the streets to see the cempany depart and a short parade was made, the route of march being well illuminated with red fire. With the company were a number of guests who did not parade to the boat but swelled the party to about 100 persons, who will enjoy a three days outing. A host of people went down the wharf to give the command a rousing parting and also to catch a glimpse of some of the visiting soldiers from England, and the scene there was a gay England, and the scene there was a gay and noisy one.

Newport was well represented at the parade in Fail River yesterday. A number of parties were made up for the trip, while individuals went to the Spindle City with an idea that they were the only ones going, but instead found familiar faces at every turn in the crowd. After the parade almost every one had an like that they would take found familiar faces at every turn in the crowd. After the parade almost every one had an idea that they would take the first train or car back, but many changed their minds when they found that after spending the afternoon in crowds they were to be crowded all the way home. To add to the discomforts of travel there was an open piece of track on the Island road at the state line, which caused transferring and consequent delays in the running time of the cars.

A New York despatch says: The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Newport Artillery Company, escorting the Honourable Artillery Company of London, arrived here by steamer this morning. Waiting for them, with steam up, was a second steamer ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of London, to West Point. Without loss of time the two companies, in full uniform, descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in column of twos across the pier and up the gangway of the excursion boat. Five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream, and with the united bands of both companies playing proceeded up the river. The Newport Artillery Company, which had lined up in company front on the pier while the Boston and London or sanizations were embarking, then proceeded to a hotel to spend the day, intending to meet the London and Boston companies on their return from West Point late this attentor.

OF INTERNATIONAL MEANING.

It is plainly evident that the members of the London Honourables are having a most delightful time on this side of the water, a better time, we have an idea, than they imagined was waiting for them when they set out for this country to accept return courtesies from the hands of the Ancients and Honorables, who are playing the host so well.

We believe there may be seen in this free and cordial exchange of courtesy a significance that may be deemed International. We realize the fact that the visits between the two famous commands has nothing in it that savors of politics, but it is inevitable that after such a wholesome exchange of courtesies there should be friendships formed and experiences encountered that will mean a great deal for the

We sincerely hope this will be the case. We have England beaten commercially. There is no doubt of that, but England still has powerful influences on the sea and throughout the civilized world, and some time the friendships that are being formed today may do our own country good. Indeed it has been demonstrated that our English cousins have taken advantage of the opportunity to protect American interests as was evidenced at the opening

Washington, (D. b.) Post, Oct. 7, 1903.

ARTILLERYMEN ON A TOUR.

Boston Company to Show British Visitors Over the Country, ors Over the Country.

Boston, Oct. 6.—The much-heralded tour throughout this country and Canada of throughout this country and Canada of throughout this country artillery Comthe Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts, having us its pany of Massachusetts, having us its pany of London, began to day after four days of London, began to day after four days of London, began to day after four days of London, began to day after for the section. All officers and sight-seeing in this of entertainment and sight-seeing in number. London company, shout 185 in number. London company, The escorting column started on the trip. Honorables was 150 of, the Ancients and home company be-strong.

The members of the home company began to assemble at the armory in Faneuii gam to assemble at the armory in Faneuii Hall at noon. An our later, escorting their guests, the Aricents marched to the south terminal station. Work via Fall start was made for Newmanies were called the certained until first Heavy Artillery is the many the Massachusetts Navai M. V. M., and the Massachusetts Navai Brigade.

Brigade. and the distribution of the Honourables.

Governor's Foot Guards Accompany Boston Artillery to N. Y.

Half a dozen of the local members of the Second company, Governor's of the Second company, Governor's foot Guards, left, this morning, for Foot Guards, left, this doing escort New Haven, to assist in doing escort duty for the Honorable Artillery, of Bospany and the Ancient Artillery, of Bospany and the Ancient Artillery, of Bospany and the New York trip.

The Foot Guards left New Haven at The Foot Guards left New Haven at moon and this evening will attend the noon and this evening sof Square Garden, with the Honorables of Boston and the Honourables of London, and the Honourables of London.

The Reliable Sample from the top of Boston Grating from the top of the Reliable Sample Sam

11. He Condens, and Concerd Bridge does not seem Lyme I tem, , oct. 7, 1903.

ALL ABOARD FOR WEST POINT

Ancients and Their London Guests Started Up the Hudson.

Newport Company Accompanied the Commands to New York.

Enthusiastic Reception Was Given by the Citizens of Fall River.

clent, and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Newport Artillery Company, escorting the Honourable Ar-

Company, escorting the Honourable Artillery Company, of London, arrived here on a Fall River steamer to-day. Waiting for them was a second steamer ready to take the Boston command and its guests to West Point.

Without loss of time the two companies in full uniform descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in column of twos across the pler and up the gangway of the excursion boat. Five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and with the united bands of both companies playing proceeded up the river.

ceeded up the river.

The Newport company, which had lined up in company front on the pier, then proceeded to spend the day at a hotel, intending to meet the London and Boston Honourables on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

FALL RIVER'S WELCOME.

Naval Brigade, Including Co. E, of Lynn, Did Escort Duty.

FALL RIVER, Oct. 7, 1908.—Thousands of people lined along streets gay with British and American flags yesterday accorded a hearty welcome to the Honourable Artillery Company, of London, and their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston, when they arrived en route to New York, Washington and Montreal.

The stop was a brief one, hardly more than four hours, but in that time the visitors marched through thronged streets, were received by a large committee of representative, citizens, partook of an informal lunch at the Que-

" " dearcholis (In di,) Oct. 5, 1903

The Honorable Artillery went to church in Boston yesterday. It must give the members a feeling of additional comfort and security to find that there are churches in this country.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7, 1902.-The An- | quechan Club, made a tour of inspection around the city, and were the guests at a supper before the journey to New York supper before the fourney to New York was continued.

When the special train bearing the two companies drew into the station at 3.15 P. M., four batteries of the 1st Heavy Artillery, M. V. M., and companies of the Naval Brigade from Boston, Lynn, Springfield, Taunton, Fail River and Brockton were in waiting to escort the visitors to the Quequechan Club, where a reception and lunch had been arranged.

The reception was an informal affair, The reception was an informal affair, and at its conclusion the entire party boarled automobiles and visited points of interest around the city Returning to the club at 6 P. M. the line was reformed and the companies and their estorred and the companies and their estorred and the companies and their estorred to convey them to New York. While passing through Main street the line was met by Richard Borden Post 46, G. A. R., and escorted to City Hall, where the marchers were reviewed by Mayor Grimes and members of the city government.

At 6.30 D.

Oct. 7, 1903.

REVIEWED THE CADETS.

The Honourables of London and the Honorables of Boston at West Point,

WEST POINT, N. Y. Oct. 7.-The Honourable Artillery Company of London and the American and Honorable Artiflery Company of Boston ar-

Sand Diego, Gall. 1 Oct. 5. 1903 BRITISH ARTILLERYMEN

Boston, Oct. 4 .- The quietness of Sunday was stirred today by the sound of martial music as the Honorable artitlery company of London and their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable artillery company of this city, marched through some of the back bay streets to included beside the two military bodies those army and navy veterans of the British service whose homes are in-this city. The line of march was lined

The procession was under the leadership of Lieut Col. C. S. Courtney, who staff for the day included many British important anlitary organizations of Great Britain, and of the United States

'he t'ng's	1 200		155 0
		1,	1 1
1 27 * 11 Tel (1) 1	, t , v 1
1. 1.1	1 11		.,
1 Comester "		` `
and had an ins			,
thenligh unishes
hat and simel
* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *
1		7191

Teir Cock (1:3.) Cierd, Oct. 7, 1903.

HONOURABLES HERE

Wet Town (Outside) Gives Londoners Greeting.

THEY GO TO WEST POINT

After Disembarking from the Fall River Boat They Board a Steamboat and tre Taken Up the River-Even the Horses Blink at the Sight of Brilliant Uniforms A Six-Poot-Seven Giant That Caught the Pier Crowd-Boston Ancients and Newport Artillery Accompany the Visitors-No One the Worse for the Trip Down the Sound, Uhough the Weather Was Somewhat Heavy on Board the Puritain

Monourable Artillery Company of 1 on, accompanied by the Ancient and hearrible Artillery Company of Boston d the Newport Artillery, reached New is on the Fall River Loat Puritan this 'ning. The London Honourables were ...'y transferred to the steamboat rius and started on their way to West Point where they are to spend the New First Ar Deep marched uptown to to be a readmose against the return · Ancien's and Honourables late this wasdark, but there was little need green, the uniforms of the dised variors and the rubicund couner (- of Boston s famo a artiflery com flashed on the scene. The coat of the f Denbigh, the commander of the Lon-o ourables, was a brilliant red, but the exion of the Boston warriors was er will. When the two companies then down the gangplank and crossed to the old Sirius, the gloomy sled bright as a hallroom, and the cabing at the doorway in the rain of Denbigh, C. V. O., Lieuleve is just outside of Rugby, in and who is the father of ten prom-Atomuren, led the British delegation of ha brilliant red coat.

To officers among the Honourables are pulshed by stars on their uniforms, traches feeed with sliver. The Earl, ord - lowery looking, made a striking the residence of Bostenians. Behind the to the London men looking very the Lordon men looking vary the They are a sturdy, fit looktered unix univ tall. The tallest, the a colden attached to the gent of the Vinter and town without the city with the attached to with the attached to be a colden attached to the city with the attached gent and town ed
gent and town ed Rent to a to a top and tree. The dark the gazed after him in open that a new half the shake disappeared to

I of the discount to the Honourof the force of the transfer the state of th . the arti and one from with red stripes, all crowned with an enormous bearskin cap-that is the appearance of the infantrymen of the Honcurables. The uniform is a counterpart of that of the Grenadier Guards. The artillerymen were clad in blue coats with yellow frogs, blue trousers and red stripes. The artillerymen of the Boston Ancients wore blue coats, chapeaus and lighter trousers with red stripes. There was also a number dressed like the Continentals of old days, but redcoat and Continental fraternized most lovingly.

The trip down from Boston was made without accident or event save for the embarking of the Newporters. According to an officer of the Ancients, who numbered 137, with Col. S. M. Hedges as commander, all hands retired early "at midnight." When esked if there was a superabundance of refreshments in the liquid line the officer blushed and declined to be quoted. One of the Puritan's crew said; "All kinds of stuff flowed, but no one was the worse for it." The capacity of the Ancients has no limit, it is sald, which accounts for the fact that all were fresh and rosy to-day. It was also announced for the Honourables that they did not flinch in the face of the popping corks, but proved that they were heroes every one. No one thought of seeking his stateroom until midnight, and the trip on the Sound was en_ livened by songs and story telling.

"At 5 o'clock," said one who was a passenger, "they broke out again and sang until they were tired."

While Col. Charles K. Darling, who is adjutant of the Ancients, was explaining the itinerary of the visitors-and many of them carried red pamphlets containing a lengthy printed programme—he hesitated a moment. He had gone back into history for a moment to explain what happened in Boston, and he successfully got to Saturday last. Here he called to one of his fellow officers:

"Hang it, captain! What happened

"Gad, sir! I don't know," was the response. "I agree with the Earl of Denbigh that it was seven weeks ago."

"Ah! I have it!" exclaimed the Colonel.
"It was a clambake"—and a smile of sweet recollection spread over his features.

The King of England, who is captaingeneral of the Honourables, was the only member of the corps absent. He is also an honorary member (of whom there are two) of the Massachusette organization. The other is John D. Long, former Secretary of the Navy. Adjutant-General for the State of Massachusetts John Dalton accompanied

the Earl of Denbigh.

The Ancients and the Honourables remained on the Puritan just long enough to be marshalled in orderly lines, when they were marched aboard the iron steamboat Sirius lying at the end of the pier. All got safely aboard her in good time, and the trip up the North River was made to the accompaniment of cheers from the friends on shore and a burst of music from the bands

The programme as announced by Col. Darling is to be one long round of joyfeasting and speech-making almost without limit.

At West Point the party was to witness a drill of the cadete and after seeing the nights of the Point was to return to the foot of West Twenty-third street late this afternoon. From there they will go to the Waldorf, where the Old Guard will be their

The Old Guard, the Newport Artillery Company, the Bristol Train of Artiller y the Governor's Foot Guard of Hartford, the First Light Infantry of Providence, the Richmond Blues and the Cleveland Grays. or representatives from these organizations will act as secont, according to Col. Darling The Astor ballroom of the hotel has been set aside as a temporary armory. There will be a banquet at Odell, the Mayor, the Earl of Denbigh and

To-morrow the visitors will enjoy a ride in automobiles through Central Park and on Riverside Drive, with a lunch at Claremont, To-morrow evening they will attend in a body the Old Guard fair at Madison Square.

On Oct. 9 the visitors go to Washington for more fun, which includes a trip to Mount Vernon on Oct. 10, with a reception at the White House as a windup. After that they go to Niagara Falls, Montreal and through the White Mountains to Boston. There will be more entertainment there, and on Thursday next the Britishers will sail for

The Honourable Artillery Company, of London, claims the distinction of being the oldest existing military organization. Its first royal warrant came from King Henry VIII, in 1537. At that time it was a nursery school for training soldiers.
The company saw active service in the time of Queen Elizabeth and of King James I.
Sir Walter Sir Walter Scott wrote of them in "The Fortunes of Nigel." In the famous riots of 1780 they saved the Bank of England from pillage. The company has been commanded by kings and princes, and to this day it is self-sustaining and receives no aid from the Government.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston is the oldest military organization in the United States. It was formed in the United of Ancient and formed in 1638, but the title of Ancient and Honorable did not appear on the records until 1700. The Honorable was assumed from the fact that its captains had belonged to the Honourable Artillery Company of London. For many years it has been the annual custom of the Governor personally to commission the Governor personal of Common.

Sion the officers on the Boston Common.

The company no longer belongs to the militia and in the company no longer belongs to the militia and in the company no longer belongs to the militia and in the company no longer belongs to the company no longer belongs to the company no longer belongs to the common the company no longer belongs to the common the common that the company no longer belongs to the common that the company no longer belongs to the common that the common that the company no longer belongs to the common that the company no longer belongs to the common that the company no longer belongs to the compa tia and is more of a social than a military organization. The members still retain their ancient ancient privilege of exemption from jury duty. The headquarters of the company are in Faracular.

The Old Guard, which is to entertain the Honourables and the Ancients while the Honourables are in this city, was organized in 1868 they are in this city, was organized in 1868 from the members of a number of the older military. military organizations of the city, the ath and 12th Regiments, and the bodies had been amalgamated to form them, such as the Giana and the bodies had the bodies had been amalgamented to form the giana and the bodies had been amalgamented to form the giana and the bodies had been amalgamented to form the giana and the bodies had been amalgamented to form the giana and the bodies had been amalgamented to form the giana and the bodies had been amalgamented to form the giana and the bodies had been amalgamented to form the giana and the bodies had been amalgamented to form the giana and the bodies had been amalgamented to form the giana and the bodies had been amalgamented to form the giana and the bodies had been amalgamented to form the giana and the bodies had been amalgamented to form the giana and the bodies had been amalgamented to form the giana and the gi the City Guards, Independence Guard, the Baxter Blues, the Black Rifles and the City Blues. Major S. Ellis Briggs is the commander.

commander.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 7.—The Ancient WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and Honorable Artillery Company of and the Honourable Artillery Company of and the Honourable Artillery Academy London paid a visit to the Military Academy London paid a visit to the Hudson on by the cadets, Coiming up the Hudson on by the cadets, Coiming up the Hudson on by the steamboat Sirius, the Revolution, and many spots historic of the Revolution, and many spots historic of out to them. Headed all these were pointed out to them. Headed all these were pointed out to the party came by the Salem Cadet Band, the party came by the hill to the academy.

up the hill to the academy.

The Ancients of Boston rode in carriages and were followed by the Britishers on foot, they have and were followed by the Britishers on foot, they having refused to ride up the steep they having refused to the cadet chapel, hill. Forming in front of the cadet chapel, they marched down of the barracks and drawn up in front of The party made a standing at present arms. The party made a standing at present arms buildings in comshort tour of the various buildings in company with Col. Mills and his staff before returning to the boat.

returning to the boat.

In behalf of his company and the Boston organization, the Earl of Denbigh thanked organization, the Earl of Denbigh thanked Col. Mills for the exhibition given by the cadets. The Earl said that they had heard of the provide of of the precision of drill and splendid dis-oipline at the Military Academy and that words could not express the pleasure they words could not express the pleasure they felt at being able to witness them. Col. Mills in response said that it was with pleasure that he represented the United States at such a regassion. States at such an occasion.

ANCIENT ARTILLERY EN TOUR.

Bouton, Det: 6.—The much-herelded tour throughout this country and Canada of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Massachuseuts, having as its guest the fit was a company of London, being a company of · Veco Tock, St. J.) News!

LONDON HONOURABLES TO INVADE NEW YORK IN FRIENDLY RIVALRY

Boston Subjugated, They Now Move On the Metropolis, Whose Hospitality They Will Find Unexcelled

Ingelacede! (V.J.)

HONOURABLES VISIT CADETS

Londoners With Their Boston Hosts

Take a Sail Up the Hudson to

West Point.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Boston and the Newport Artillery company, escorting the Honourable Artillery company of London, arrived here to-day on a steamer from Fall River. Wniting for them with steam up was a second steamer, ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and its guest, the Honorable Artillery company of London to West Point.

the Honourable Arthury Company of London, to West Point.

Without loss of time the two companies, in full uniform, descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in columns of twos across the marched in columns of the excur-pier and up the gangway of the excur-sion boat. Five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and with er swing out into the stream and with er swing out into the stream and with the united hands of both companies playing, proceeded up the river.

The Newport Artiliery company, which had lined up on the pier while the Boston and London organizations were enton and London and Hobert intervention of their return from the Honorables on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

A. and H. Field Day.

187 Publishers' Press Exclusive WIRE.]
BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 5.—This is the 206th Fall Field Day of the Ancient and 200th Fall Field Day of the Arcient and Honourable Artillery Co., and a pro-gramme for the day's celebration and the entertainment has been prepared that, commencing early this forenoon, will end

-well, anytimo before sunrise to-morrow morning. After a street parade this morning the company and its guests went on a harbor excursion which lasted well into the afternoon.

The banquet will be given at Symphony Hall, to which function 1,000 members and guests have been invited. The inner has been prepared with the most exacting fastidiousness and the wines will

Having effected the subjugation of Boston, where they saw the British flag flying from the Bunker Hill monument, the Honourable Artillery Company of London, escorted by the Ancient and Honorable Company of Boston, will arrive in this city on a Fall River steamboat this afternoon. The invaders will be met and welcomed at the pier by the members of the Old Guard, who, accompanied by a band of one hundred pieces, will escort them to their camp at the Waldorf-Astoria. The route of the procession will be through Twenty-second attreet to Fifth avenue, and thence to Thirty-fourth street.

The visitors will be allowed a few hours to brush from their clothes

Ustica; A. J.,) Press

The church-going of Honorables in Boston, Sunday, was a great success, as a show. "All Beston and parts of New England" are said to have turned out to see the parade, "and many of the multitude remained standing patiently for hours on the street, to see them come out of church." Being a Sunday function this excerpt from a description in a local paper may be worth recording: "In the memory of this generation, at least, no such throng has been seen on a Subbath, jannming our streets. All the ruilroads did an enormous business. The study old bell in Park street steeple went mad. Never before has it pealed forth such wild, glad, rapid reverberations on a Sabbath. The ovation tendered the Honorables was continuous, from the hotel to the church. They passed through solid ranks, four and five deep, of cheering and applauding people. There was great waving of handkerchiefs and a number of British flags. Their return has not marked by quite so much voelfa show. "All Beston and parts of New number of British flags. Their return has not marked by quite so much voelferous enthusiasm, especially on lower Boylston atreet and Tremont street, partly because of the darkness, which left some doubt as to which were the Englishmen. The mach to the burea to the bright sunshine was one rangent est sea of color, which before exceeded, and perhaps now, before consider.

Great, Facel (Mont.) HELU DAY OBSERVED BY HONORABLE COMPANY

Hoston, Mass., Oct. 5,-This was the 266th autumn field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company and with their guests, the Honorable Arthlery company of London, the Boston mir 5 5 1703.

:6 tica. i f. 3.) O. beervee. Oct. 7. 1903

ANCIENTS AT WEST POINT.

London and Boston Artillery Companies Con-time Tour.

New York O.t. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the New port Artillery Company. escorting the ilonourable Arcillery Corn-pany of London arrived here to-day on a steamer from Fall River. Waiting for them, with sean up, was a second steamer, ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and its guest, the Honourable Artillery Company of London, to West-Point. Without loss of time, the two

Jan Jak (1.31) Dendell

Ancients at West Point. BUST POLYT, N. L., OSt. 7 -The Hon-

Ancients to New York Firetfool it. ining

Will Attend Old Guard Dinner.

for Louis R. Chensy, Signal of Frink R Cooley and Captain . 1 4 W. Newton of the First compans Governor's Foot Guard, will at tend the banquet at Sherry's in New York of this evening, given he the control in he or of the Antonian I He crabble Artillers come in a Pester Wills, and the Henerich Artilers company of Lenden, Pag Tobacco Feal (T. 1.) Oct. 7, 1903.

INCIENTS MAKE BOSTON GAY

Artillerymen Smoke El Principes, Villar y Villars and Egyptian Deities. Elaborate Store Decorations-Quiet Leaf Market.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 5. The retailers over here were looking for a change for the better during Sepbember, but in going the rounds there "re few instances where the LEAF'S 'unappondent obtained a favorable re-.rt. There was a period during the month when business improved quite . reeptibly, but it was a false alarm to tole who thought that the long-expectfall rush had set in.

The month of October opened up com-Maratively well for both retailers and Jobbers, yet it is hardly expected to last. Just what is the cause of so little activtty at this season of the year is a quesion that no one seems able to answer. The city is full of strangers just now. The championship ball games have atfacted thousands, and the visit of the London Ancients has added to the lowd. All this excitement has helped t both small and large retailers. The "Idon Ancients are being royally enrained here, and the city is gorgeous-. terked in the national colors of both C. ions. Among the cigar dealers the rations are unusually elaborate.

The store of Estabrook & Eaton is one na.e of color. The principal banquet in henor of the visiting Britishers takes that this evening in Symphony Hall, and it was left to Estabrook & Eaton to 1 mish the cigars and cigarettes for the tasion. This house will also furnish makes for the Washington trip, 1.1 the return dinner to the Boston An-This-some 24,000 cigars in all. The are to be used tonight at the magnifi-"it banquet of the A. & H. A. Co. of on to the H/A. Co. of London were n the Villar y Villar factory, Ha-They are lew goods, made for the ion, and packed under military of colonels and captains, and they ertainly the finest specimens of the making industry that could be pro-The cigarettes furnished for occasion are the Egyptian Dei-For general entertainment the pecially packed, each cigar having "d suitably inscribed, noman Bros., on Milk street, are with elaborate decorations in honor be redcoats. This concern has fur-1 .1 practically all the cigars for the "116 talks and lesser receptions given honor of the Britishers, over 30,000 wing been put out by them for the the purpose. In their window display week Hyneman Bros. make a spe-I feature of Hoffman House Bouquets. Imaneties and La Flor de Vallens. latter a clear Havana cigan in sev-. I sizes. The display is both unique attractive, with its background of terwoven English and American wors and a good sprinkling of electric the has furnished the El Principe de

. Creme de la Creme size, selected

Octs. 7, 1903

The Honorable Artillery Company of London arrived on Friday for the five days' visit in Boston, followed by a week's tour through the eastern part of the country, as guests of the Auat and Honorable Artillery Company

Hartford, lot., 1

Oct. 7, 1903

LONDON VISITORS.

Honourable Artiflery Co. Taken Up the Hudson to West Point

New York, October 7-The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company. escorting the Honourable Artillery company of London, arrived here on a steamer from Fall River. Waiting for them with steam up was a second steamer, ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Bos-ton and its guest, the Honourable Arton and its guest, the Honourable Artillery company of London, to West Point. Without loss of time the two companies, in full uniform, descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in columns of twos across the pler and up the gangway of the excursion boat. Five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and with the united bands playing, proceeded up the river. The Newport Artillery company, which had lined up in company front on the pier while the Boston and London organizations were embarking, then proceeded to a hotel soston and London organizations were embarking, then proceeded to a hotel to spend the day, intending to meet the London and Boston honorables on their return from West Point late this afternoon. At 5 p. m. there will be a parade from the Forty-second street station to the Waldorf. The Old Guard of New York will give the visit to the Hartford, (lot.,) Oct. 7, 1903.

WEST POINT VISITED.

English Soldiers. See American Military Academy.

New York, Oct. 7.-The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Bosion and the Newport Artillery company, escorting the Honourable Artillery company of London, arrived here this morning on a steamer from Fall River. Waiting for them, with steam up, was a second steamer ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and its guest, the Honourable Artillery company of London, to West

Without loss of time the two com-Without loss of time the two companies in full uniform descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in column of twos across the pler and up the gangway of the excursion boat. Five minutes later the schooner swung out into the stream and, with the united bands playing, proceeded up the river. The Newport Artillery company, which had lined up in company front on the pier while the Boston and London organizations were embarking, then proceeded to a hotel to spend the day, intending to meet the London and Boston honorables on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

Can Thancisco, (ball,). Bulletin

BRITISH VISITORS AT WEST POINT ACADEMY

Honorable Artillerymen From London Arrive at New York on Time.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 .- The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Newport Artillery Company, esand the Newport Arthery Company, escorting the Honorable Artillery Company of London, arrived here today on a steamer from Fall River. Without loss of time, the Boston and London companies, in full uniform, descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in column of twos across the pier and up the gang-way of an excursion boat, and five min-ultes late rihe steamer swung out into the stream and with the united bands of the stream and with the united datas of both companies playing, proceeded up the river en route to West Point. The New-port Artillery Company then proceeded to spend the day, intending to meet the London and Boston Honorables on their return from West Point late this after-

Lan Francisco, (bal!,)
Oct. 7, 1903.

HONORABLE ARTILLERY
GO ON EXCURSION

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Newport Artillery ocmpany, escorting the Honorable Artillery Company of London, arrived here to-day on a steamer from Fall River. Without loss of time the Boston and London companies, in full uniform, descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in column of twos across the marched in column of twos across the pier and up the gangway of an excursion boat, and five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and with the united bands of both companies playing, proceeded up the river or route to West Point. NEW YORK, Oct. 7.-The Ancient and

The News of Artillery Company then proceeded i spend the day, intending to meet the Landon and Boston Honorables on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

Trisdletown. (lot.,)
Oct. 7, 1903.

Honorables at Fall River. FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 7.—The Ionorable Artillery Company of Lonion, with 141 members of the Boston Ancients, have arrived from the Hub and will inaugurate their tour in this country here.

New Lowdon (let.) Dog.

H. A. C. and A. H. A. C. Go to Inspect West Point

Honorable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company escoting the Honourable Artillery company escoting the Honourable Artillery company escoting the Honourable Artillery company of London, arrived here on a steamer from Fall River today. Waiting for them with steam up, was a second steamer ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and its guest, the Honourable Artilery company of Boston and its guest, the Honourable Artilery company of London, to West Point.

"I follow uniform descended the gauge of two sacross the pier and the scursion boat. Up the gaugeway of the excursion boat. Up the gaugeway of the steamer swing the place of the st

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and in column of twos across the pier and in column of twos across the pier and

Philadel phia, (Pa!,) Bulletine
Oct. 7, 1903. BRITISH VISITORS SEE WEST POINT

Soldiers in Embryo Give Exhibition Drill Before the Honorable Artillery Company of London.

TWO DAYS IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 7. The famous Honorable Artillery Company of London descended upon Knickerbecker town to-day, arriving from Boston early this morning on the Fall River boat. The English visitors were escorted from Boston by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, and the Artillery Company of Newport. The visi-tors will be the guests of the Old Guard of New York while here.

To-day they went up the Hudson to West Point, where the cadet corps were turned our for an exhibition drill at hoon. About 3 o'clock they will embark on the return trip to New York. Leaving here on Friday morning the party will proceed to Washington, where a reception has been prepared for them. Saturday will be passed in a visit to the tomb of Washington, and later in the day a reception has been prepared for them. Saturday will be passed in a visit to the tomb of Washington, and later in the day they will be received by President Roosevelt at the White House.

On Saturday night the party will depart for Niagara Falls. The train throughout the trip will travel in two sections, the first being made up of a bagsage car, two dising cars, six sleeping cars and the private car columbia, commissioner of the London Company, and Lady Denbigh. London Company, and Lady Denbigh London Company, and Lady Denbigh the Biaborate preparations have been made by the Old Guard to entertain their guests while in this city. There will be a street while in this city. There will be a street while in this city. There will be a street while in this city. There will be a street while in this city. There will be a street while in this city. There will be a street while in this city. There will be a street while in this city. There will be a street while in this city. There will be a street while in this city. There will be a street while in this city. There will be a street while in this city. There will be a street while in this city. There will be a street while in this city. There will be a street while in this city. There will be a street while in this city. The condition of the guests. Thursday will be spent by the visitors in seeing the sights of New York.

The Old Guard of New York, the most the old Guard of the metropolis, expects to outdo its own reputation for hospitality on the prepare will be strong the formation of the mand then up to the Guard from Hartfeld and New Hartfeld for the formation in the old Conti Prove desce (R. J.,) Oct. 7. 1903 Under Two Flags.

There can be no doubt as to the excentionally enthusiastic reception of the Honourable Artiflery Company of London in the three American cities which they have so far visited. The greetings they have received have been hearty and spontaneous. Curiosity may have had a large share, no doubt, in drawing the crowds, but a warmer feeling has prompted all the cheers and other demonstrations of approval. Now that the visitors and their hosts go to New York and Washington the episode takes on a national rather than a local aspect. Exceptional honors will be paid to them everywhere, and they will be made to understand that they are the guests of the whole American people. That the Englishmen are touched as well as surprised by this cordiality is obvious. They have said so frankly. They did not expect such universal cordiality.

Of fourse something must be allowed to the occasion. It is easy to swear eternal friendship under the promptings of hospitality. Public subilation over a visiting body of foreigners has more than once been followed at no long interval by bltterness toward the nation from which they came. Many things are said in the fervor of after-dinner oratory which must not be interpreted too literally. Nevertheless, the Honourables of London really are among friends. The incidents of their visit do throw some light upon the relations between Great Britain and the United States. They would have been cordially received a dozen years ago, no doubt; but the peculiar warmth of the greeting is the outcome of recent events. It is an effect as well as a cause. If it strengthens the bonds of friendship it also emphasizes the fact that these bonds are already strong. That is the real significance of the occasion. It is easy to understand why King Edward should take especial interest in the journey of these subjects of his. The growth of friendship between the United States and other nations has been illustrated more than once in a similar fashion. It is not very long since Prince Henry of Prussia commanded the applause of the American people, or since the French visitors were received with fit recognition of our debt to France. In every case the personal contact has counted for something. It is unquestionable. for instance, that Prince Henry had a share in allaying that irritation with Germany which several episodes had produced; and although the possibilities of serious conflict may not have been removed they have at least been reduced. It is with nations much as with individuals a talk face to face can do more to restore harmony than correspondence. The enthusiasm which has accompanied the visit of the Honourables will evaporate. But something substitutial may remain something which in future years may help to turn the scale if causes of hostility should arise between Great this light the affair is truly an international event of consequence.

Oct. 7, 1903.
DISAPPOINTING SOBRIETY IN BUS-

TON.

A grievous and embarrassing mistake has been made by the Ancient and Honcrable Artillery Company of Boston, it now appears, in inviting to that city the Honourable Artillery Company of London. The main object was, as universally conceded, to test the drink capacity of these British citizen-soldiers, to put them all "out" or "under the table" if that sort of thing were within the range of the possible and the attainable It now transpires, however, that these Londoners make no pretensions to being tanks. As well might the Ancients of the Hub have invited to a bout with them the most hardened tipplers in the W. C. T. U. The visitors have been beguiling themselves with lemon seltzers. herses'-necks without the "and", carhonic-fizzes and deep potations of their own 'olf-and-'alf. Only lightly and diserect'y have they toyed with the highball, the rickey, the cocktail and the insidious absinthe frappe. And when it came to wine-well, the Britons sipped it very conservatively at Monday night's "red banquet" in Symphony Hall, for they had not, like their hosts, the Ancients, been cultivating a champagne thirst for five years in anticipation of testing it at one sitting; so the seventy-five professional wine-pourers -a carefully picked lot of waiters whom the Ancients have given a two-years' course at Ganymede Hall, in the Skate Annex to Harvard University-had to pay about 00 per cent of their attention to the hosts and only about 10 per cent to the guests. A partial explanation of this s'ate of affairs so disappointing to the Arcients is given below by one of the Landoners in a published interview; These Beston feslows can drink much more than we can, and as we do not care to "go under" at this time of our visit, we are dr.nk. under at this time of our visit, we are dranking very experiatively. Two of our fillows were knocked ever on Saturday and we at, beard from it. This menting we were to'd that if such a thing o curs to any one of us that if such a thing o curs to any one of us again the offender will be drouped from the company here and will have to make the bear of his way home, when he gets there he will be dismissed from the corps

"We do not care to 'go under' at this time of our von"! Can it be that the London Honogrables are "saving their sacks" for the run-in with the Old Guard of this town whose guests they are to be tomerrow? Could Boston ever live down the disgrace were the Brutsh guests of its ann Ancients to keep de cently sober in St. Betolph's Town and get rip-rearing drunk in little Old New American, Oct. 7, 1903.

EARL OF DENBIGH.

I oler of the Honorable Artillery Com-

Level 12 all . Everedeel, ot: 7, 1903

The Honourable Artillery company of London, whose visit to Boston has been a long-looked-for event, arrived on the a long-looked-for event, arrived on the steamer Mayfower, Friday. A big parade was held during the day, which was witnessed by thousands of people. Sunday the company attended service at Trinity church, Monday it enjoyed a steamer ride about Boston harbor, concluding the day with a bacquet at Symphony hall. To-day the company is at New York, and to-morrow it leaves for Washington. From there it will go to Niagara Falls, Montreal and Ottawa. re-turning to Boston, Tuesday, October 12, and to England, October 15.

WEST POINT CADETS

Famous London Company Will Be Feted To-night By the Old

ADDRESSES BY LOW AND ODELL

Britishers and Their Escort Looked Very Tired.

Resplendent in gold lace and dazzling accoutrements, the Honourable Artillery Company of London arrived in Manhattan this morning on the Fall River teamer Puritan. They were escorted by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, the Newport Light Artillery, several members of the Putnam Phalanx and other organizations. The uniforms worn were varied, and made the scene picturesque.

This is the first time a company of British soldiers has set foot on Manhat-; tan Island since the Revolutionary War., There were exactly 402 in the party that landed from the Puritan at 7 o'clock, of which 163 were Britishers. The entire party looked tired. An hour later they boarded the steamboat Sirius and were party looked tired. An hour later they boarded the steamboat Sirius and were speeding toward West Point, where, on arrival, the cadets were reviewed. After a short stay the Sirius started back and is due here at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The Old Guard will meet the Sirius at the foot of West Twenty-second street and escort the party to Sherry's on Fifth avenue where a dinner will be given in their honor. Gov. Odell, Mayor Low and others will make speeches.

The two Honourable Artillery Companies will be whirled around New York to-morrow in automobiles and in the evening will visit the Old Guard fair in Madison Square Garden. On Friday the visitors will depart for Washington in two special trains where two days will spent. A visit to President Roosevelt on Saturday afternoon is part of the programme. Sunday the "red coafs" will so to Niagara Falls and on the day following the return to Boston will be made.

During their stay in Manhattan, the Honourable Artillerymen will be housed at the Waldorf-Astoria.

In command of the London company is the Earl of Denbigh and Desmond, commander of the Victorian Order. The adjutant is C. H. Budworth, M. V. O., and the commander of the color guard is Lieut. Coper, one of whose men is six feet, seven inches tall.

Bostone Post, Oct. 7, 1703.

NEWPORT ARTILLERY JOINS HONOURABLES AS ESCORT

NDWPORT, Oct. 8.—When the Fall River line steamer Puritant reached here tonight, having on board the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and their guests, the Honourable Artillery Company of London, the pier was crowded with people who cheered windly during the brief stop.

The Puritan was boarded here by the Newport Artillery Company of 100 men commanded by Colonel John D. Richardson, and accompanied by the U. S. Artillery band.

TO WEST POINT

Escorted by the Boston Ancients and the Newport Artillerymen, They Are Welcomed by the Old Guard.

WILL INSPECT THE MILITARY ACADEMY.

After Seeing Uncle Sam's School of Instruction the English Visitors and Escort Will Return to City This Evening.

Amid cheering and American "rag time" tunes played by their English band the famous Honourable Artillery Company, of London, escorted by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston, and the Newport Artillery Company, with a number of the Old Guard, of New York, pushed out from the Fall River pier to-day bound for Wast Point Wast Point.

West Point.

Fog and rain had not dampened the spirits of the hearty Englishmen. They spirits of the hearty Englishmen. They came down to New York from Boston. arriving on the Fall River steamboat arriving on the Fall River steamboat Siri-Pilgrim. There also take them to West us which was to take them to West us which was to take them to West us which was to take them to West Did Guard of New York, and the old Old Guard of New York, and the old English soldler and the American solder gripped hands, without the formality of an introduction to command.

Earl in Command.

ity of an introduction

Earl in Command.

Earl of Denbigh was in command of the London troops. He looks the soldier every inch. He is tall and commanding both in appearance and manner. With this was he wife, who has ner. With this London soldiers ever been with the London soldiers ever collisions of the Jiston, was Col. S. M. Hedges, of Boston, was Col. S. M. Hedges, of Boston, was Col. S. M. Hedges for Massachusetts. Col. Ourshies from Massachusetts. Col. Ourshies from Massachusetts. Col. Ourshies from Massachusetts. Col. Ourshies from Massachusetts. Col. The Hedges took delight, known to the Ros-Every time a note as the steamboat tonians was struck as the steamboat tonians was struck as the steamboat tonians was struck as the steamboat tonians was a signal for a cheer. Point it was a signal for a cheer, Point it was a signal for a cheer, the boat that several of and it was then seen that several of the English visitors were left. They were heard from aboard the Sofius, and were heard from aboard the Sofius and the largards she was brought be and the largards she was brought be and the largards

Viewing West Point.
Fork, Oct. 7. The Annie

Bostone News, Oct. 7, 1903.

LADY DENBIGH BROUGHT THE PICTURE TO THIS COUNTRY

LADY DENBIGH'S TEN CHILDREN.

The Ten Children of Earl and Lady Denbigh From Their Personal Copy.

Col. and Lady Denbigh have not only added very much to the pleasure of the delegation of the Honourable Artillery Company on its visit to us, but have been most zealous in their efforts for the widows' and orphans' and sailors' homes, exemplified by the recent distri-

Westfield Times! oct. 7, 1903.

A brilliant and notable event was the banquet, given, on Monday evening, in Symphony Hall, Boston, to the Honourable Artillery Company of London, who are the guests of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts Before leaving London the Earl of Denbigh forwarded to the King, at Balmoral the following talegram: the following telegram :-

the following telegram:—

"The Delegation of Honourable Artillery Company, started for Liverpool, en route to the United States, present their humble duty to your Majesty,—Signed, Denbigh."

Just before the departure of the Mayflower Lord Denbigh received the following reply from the King:—

"Many thanks for kind telegram. Wish you and the Honourable Artillery Company a good passage out, and safe return home. Feel convinced that you will all meet with a most gratifying reception in United States.—Edward H., Captain, General, and Colonel."

oct. 7. 1903.

Gen. Miles to Review the Honourables at Madison Square Garden.

den, where the Old Guard Fair is in progrees, where the old Guard but is in progress, was large; last evening than on the opening night. The members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Honourable Artillery Company of Loudon are to be present this evening. Sir Thomas Lipton has accepted an invitation to the cold Guard dinner.

ANGIENTS AND HONOURABLES.

Anciente in their wetcome of the Lon-

New Joeks, St. 31.) World.

SOME MEMBERS OF THE ANCIENT AND HONOURABLE ARTILLERY OF LONDON WHO INVADED NEW YORK TO-DAY AFTER THEIR CONQUEST OF BOSTON.

Brockton inied

... field in lacourder O.t. 7, 1903,

ie reception of the Ancient and il carable Artillery company of Lonnhas been enthusiastic beyond des-· nptich. The visitors themselves are as surprised as delighted with it. Boston war seautifully decorated and never before was the red cross of St. George so roly displayed here, not even during cupation by King George's troops To the first time the British dow from Banker Hill monument, to a suspicion of toadying in this time. With our adoptions of other

" 1 k .deas, there is a growing worship tank which is exceedingly un-Democ, of course, un American. Lord with a their commander, brings his wife art time some young couple, worthy r r et and bundly greeting as visitors. For its pretty comment that the fact that are slong to the mobility is a potent . . v is in mring interest and fulsome

Oct. 7, 1903.

SEEING THE SIGHTS.

Honorables Visit the Military Academy up the Hudson. NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company, escorting the Honourable Artillery company of London, arrived here from Fall River today. Waiting for them with steam up was a second steamer ready to take them to West Point.

Without loss of time the two companies descended the gangivay of the Fal River boot and mached in column of very of the execution boat. Five mir ites later the steamer swung out into the stream, and, with the united hands of hoth companies playing, proceeded up the river.

(Boxlow) Aprald

Oct 7, 1903.

Boston Ferald! Oct. 7, 1903.

Visiting Honourables literally poured into the office of Chief Inspector William B Watts at police headquarters during the past few days to study the highest type of American policemen and police work. Chief Watts was and police work. Chief Watts was very busy with his usual work, but he always found time courteously to greet and entertain the visitors. They showed great interest and gave strict attention to what Chief Watts told and demonstrated to them of the work and mithods of American crooks—the eleverest thieves in the world—the eleverest thieves in the world—the faces in the rogues' galery. Many of the visitors at their own requests were measured according to the Bertellon system and bore away the eards fillion system and bore away the eards bearing their identification marks and pictures as made in pirict accordance pictures as made in pirict accordance the tools of the greatest thieves and the weapons of the most thieves and the weapons of the most thieves and the weapons of the most thieves and the visitors. The visitors also shown to the visitors. The visitors also shown to the visitors. The visitors also shown to the visitors, the convicted and lie sentenced.

London "Ancients" at Boston.

The city of Brston has thrown its doors wide to the visiting Ancient and Honorald Artillery Company of Lon-

New York, St. J.,) oct. 7, 1903. ANCIENTS AND GUESTS START.

SET OUT FROM BOSTON, AND WILL BE HERE TO-DAY.

Britishers Footsore and Weary Already. -Tight Boots, Much Marching and Abundance of Refreshments Have Done Many of Them Up-Sleep Is Needed.

BOSTON, Oct. 6.-The British evacuated Boston again to-day, this time in triumph, but rather footsore and weary. In company with the 137 members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston who had the time and were willing to spend $125 for a ticket, the London Honorables left on a trip around the country, and will not get back here again until a week from to-night.

from to-night.

Marching to the station this afternoon, the Londoners got a hearty send off from thousands of people, who were jammed into every available inch of space along the route. The Ancients paraded with their guests, and all hands looked remarkably fresh availabiling the feast last night. fresh, considering the feast last night and the lively times since last Friday.

Jaunty as they appeared, the Honorables were far from "right," to use one of their expressions. Clams, tight boots, climatio changes and the wear and tear of "the round of pleasure, here have had their effect in a greater or less degree upon all of them, and have slightly impaired the health of the same of the health the health of a few for a brief spell, although the illness in no case has been serious. Thanks to the efficiency of Dr.

the health of a few for a brief speil, although the illness in no case has been serious. Thanks to the efficiency of Dr. Pulver James, their regimental surgeon, the indisposed were promptly rectored to the indisposed were promptly rectored to their customary health. The big clambake in Rhode Island on Saturday was bake in Rhode Island on Saturday was because none of them had ever had a shore dinner before or knew much of clams.

The fare was foreign to them and did not The fare was foreign to them and did not sired to look their birth all hands defined to look their very best, so they wore sired to look their very best, so they wore sired to look their very hest, so they wore sired to look their very hest, so they wore sired to look their best of the streets be constant marching has played havo the some. Not only were the boots tight, with some. We rest and the excitement feasting, lack of rest and the excitement feasting, lack of rest and the excitement feasting, lack of rest and the excitement feasting. I have plenty of men, who fancy they will have plenty of men, who fancy they will have plenty of the whole trip help will have plenty of the down Winter and along Summer to the down Winter and along Summer to the down Winter and along followed her 2 o'clock. Lady Denbigh followed her 2 o'clock. Lady D

Attor lunch at the complete and they made a a quick tour of the city mant mobiles. At 5 o'clock in the afternool they made a short parade to the Fall Rivelland Tier. Thousands gathered and a control of the city.

HONOURABLES IN FALL RIVER

All Express Themselves as Astounded by Boston's Banquet

FALL RIVER, Oct. 6.—"Our reception here," said Lord Denbigh to the Post reporter accompanying the Ancients and the Honourables on their tour of the country, "was just like that given to us in Boston. I was delighted by it."

Fall River's streets, from the depot to the boat, were lined with cheering citizens with the two companies accorded in the boat, were lined with cheering clitzens while the two companies paraded. The buildings along the route were profusely decorated, but British flags outnumbered tme American by three or four to one.

Members of the Honourables expressed themselves to the reporter as delighted by the banquet in Boston. It was a magnificent affair, they were unanimous in tectoring.

mired.

The stop here was a brief one, covering hardly more than four hours, but in that time the visitors marched through thronged streets, were received by a large time the visitors marched through thronged streets, were received by a large committee of representative citizens, partook of an informal luncheon at the Quequechan Club, made a tour of inspection around the city, and were the guests at a supper before the journey to New York was continued. When the special train bearing the two companies drew into the station at 3:15 this afternoon four batteries of the First Heavy Artillery, M. V. M., and companies of the Naval Brigade from Boston, Lynn, Springfield, Taunton, Fall River and Brockton were in walting to escort the visitors to the Quequechan Club, where a reception and luncheon had been arranged. The reception was an informal affair, and at its conclusion the entire party boarded automobiles and wisited points of interest around the city. Returning to the cith at 5 c'cleck, the line was reformed, and the companies and their escort started for the steamer which was to convey them to New York. While was to convey them to New York. While was though Main street the line was met by Richard Borden Post 46. G. A. R., and escorted to C.ty Hall, where the and escorted to C.ty Hall, where the and escorted to C.ty Hall, where the and escorted to the city government. At and semper was served on the steamer 5:3) a supper was served on the steamer 5:30 a supper was served on the steamer 5:30 a supper was served on the steamer the journey to New York was resumed.

Baston anderift,

Oct. 7, 1903.
ANCIENTS AT WEST POINT

They Arrive with Guests, the Honourables |

Ladies Met by Miss Mills, Daughter of Superintendent

Visitors Taken to Quarters to Reception

Followed by Review of Cad to ; Party Sa. 's for West P litt, N. Y. G. ? -Ti. If perm

THE ARRIVAL IN NEW YORK

Party Stopped Only to thange Steam.

oct. 7, 1903,

ON NEW YORK CITY.

Invasion Begun Via Fall River Boat, with Ancients as Escort.

TALL RIVER REDUCED ON WAY FROM BOSTON.

West Point Will Be Attacked To-Day, and Then Will Come Great Battle with Old Guard.

(Special to The World.)

PALL RIVER, Oct. 6 .- The Ancients M Boston and the Honourables of Loncan have joined forces and moved on New York. Even now the combined forces are proceeding against the city by way of Long is and Sound on the Pail River line. Let the Old Guard pro-pare their deadlest punch, their head-lest olgars and their richest viands. The battle will be long, shirp and tirritic. At the great banquet in Symphony Hell, Boston, last night, the Anciental completely overwhelmed their breakron or m London. The Lest and th raues. Conchermen of England were fain to aunit the superior prowess of the An len's They made their surrender

Dat' oficially picturesque by taking large quantities of mineral water.

The Ancients spent the forencon in can judge how furiously the four battle has raged from the fact my 10 Ancients were ready for heart in New York. Four nun-tions that art gients went into serile, and the Hon-tisad that they turned out both for the mynsion. One part for new linded from Magnificent, It Not WAY.

is the Uni

draped with red, white and blue lusting. The schools were all dsm.s.d early, and the mils were closed so that cubdren and operatives might join the throng curious to see the tamous Englishmen and the mighty Anciena.

At least 25,000 people I ned Main, Columbia and Pocasset streets. As the parade swung down Main street the people clapped thair hands and cherred and waved latte American and British riags, and assured the warriors that they were all right.

Battle of Quequechan Club.

The column haited at the Quequechan Club and formed in baule il.e. The large club dising-room has be n trans-Club and formed in bande it.e. The large club dising-room has be n transformed into a great builter, fur, n, long tables. There were all sorts of muniti ns of modera war, the finest cong the heavy artillery. This is known as Quequenchan tlub punch, it was dark red in color-ominous and dreadful hue—and it contains rum, much rum, much strong rum. But the Honournables and the Ancients boildly charged, and in less than an hour the field was theirs, and they had not lost a man.

After the club members bad trea ed Lord Denbigh, Col. Hedges and their solders to automobile rides along Rock street and through the finest parts of the city, the warnors formed in I ne and, preceded by their escort, marched to the Fall River line ofer. Mayor George Grimes and staff reviewed them as they passed City Hall.

Sharp at 6 o'clock the combined the steamer. The sold ers immediately fell to at a fine bonquet. They are due to arrive in New York at 8 A. M. They will imediately proceed in West Point and study the newest tactics as exemplified by Uncle Sam's cade's, who take tabasco in theirs. Then they will return to New York, arriving at 4 P. M.

Last light was Massuac night at the fair. A drill squad of Columbian Commandant, twenty-four men, drilled in four sections.

Sir Thomas Lipton will be one of the Fuests at the banquet at Scherry's tolight, at which the Old Guard will entertain the Ancients of Boston and the Honourable Artillery of London. After the banquet the military will march down fifth avenue to Madison Square Clarden, 650 strong.

Ligrand Flend, Oct. 7, 1903.

Drizzling Rain at West Point.

WEST POINT, Oct. 7, 1903.—The Honourable Artillery Company, of London, and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston, arrived here to-day in a drizzling rain.

They were met at the landing by Capitain Coe, the Post Adjutant, and Capitain King, of the Quartermaster's Department. Miss Mills, daughter of the Superintendent, met the only two women of the party, Lady Denbigh and R. S. Courtney Baylor.

women of the party, Lady Denbigh and R. S. Courtney Baylor.

The British Artillery marched up from the landing, the Boston Ancients riding. Arriving at the top of the hill a salute was fired and the battallon of cadets was paraded in front of the barracks.

The guests were escorted to Superintendent Mills' quarters, where a reception was given. The reception was followed by a review of the cadets, after which the visitors returned to the boat and salled down the river.

Boston Herbeld, Oct. 7, 1903.

Though the Honourables are gone, the week of fraternizing between the great empire and the republic is not over. The union jack and old glory were last night jointly used in decorations all over the Bijou Opera House, where the Mt Olivet lodge, A. F. and A. M., of tun widge, gave the visiting members o. Virgin and St. Andrew's lodges of Hallfux, N. S., and their ladies a

O.6 7, 1900.

HONORABLES VISIT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 .- The Honourable Ar (Hery Company of London, excerted by the parning. The London and Buston Com-I mile took an excursion bonk to West Point, Lowell Sund, Oct. 7, 1903.

THE TOUR BEGUN

Ancients and Honourables Leave Boston

FINE ENTERTAINMENT WAS PROVIDED IN FALL RIVER

All the Schools Were Closed

By Associated Press to The Sun BOSTON, Oct. 6.—The much heralded tour throughout this country and Canada of the Ancient and Honourable Artillery company and its guests, the Honourable Artillery of company of London, began today after four days of entertainment and sightseeing in this section. All officers and members of the London company, about 160 in number, started on the pany, about 160 in number, started on the trip. The escorting column of the Ancient and Honourables is 150 strong. After yesterday's strenuous day, the members of both companies were allowed to take a rest during the morning.

The members of the home company because to assemble at the armory in Fancial ladi at noon. An hour later they appeared on the street and marched to Court square, where they took their square, where they took their to the South Terminal station.

By special train, a start was made for sompanies were to be entertained until the departure of the steemer, by the Massachusetts Naval brigade.

IN FALL RIVER

BUILDINGS DECORATED FOR THE HONOURABLES.

By Associated Press to The Sun FALL RIVER, Oct. 6.—The Ancient and Honourables of Boston and the Honourable Artillery company of London, arrived here this afternoon on their way to New York and Washington. Preparations in their honor were made by the local militia and by a committee of civilians. Buildings in the centre of the city. The escort consisted of four batteries of the First Heavy Artillery, M. V. M., and six companies of the Naval brigade, including companies from Taunton, Boston, Brockton, Lynn, and Springfield.

ton, Brockton, Lynn, and Springfield.

The Grand Army veterans met the procession at the library and continued with it in the review by the mayor and city government at city hall. Following a short stop at the Quequechan club, the procession reformed and at 5 p. m. marched through the centre of the city to the New York boat. The schools were closed at 3 o'clock in order to allow the pupils to view the procession. Automobiles were supplied during the short stop at the club to such of the visitors as desired to view points of interest in the city.

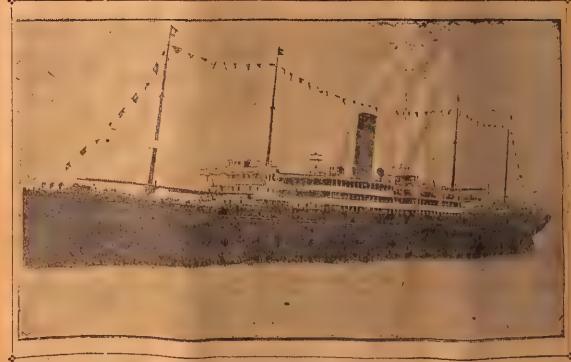

Montreal, Can. Har, Oct. 7, 1903

Artillerymen Reach New York.

New York, October 7.—The Ancient and Honourable Artillery Company of Bostou and the Newport Artillery Company, escorting the Honourable Artillery Company of London, arrived here to-day on teamer from Fall River. The Boston company and its guests embarked on a second steamer which was waiting for them with steam up and proceeded to Westpoont Bostone . Tivel!

SPEEDY OCEAN LINER WILL REACH BOSTON ON FRIDAY

STEAMSHIP COLUMBUS

One of finest liners afloat, which will reach Boston this week and return with the Honourables.

Dominion Vessel Columbus, One of Fastest Atloat, Will Take the Honourables Back to London.

The Honourable Artillery Company was built in the Queen's Island yard at those of the Commonwealth, the deck will sail for home on one of the finest liners affect, the Columbus, of the Dominion Line, which sailed from Liverpool on Oct. I, and will arrive in Boston on Friday, Oct. 9. She is commanded by Capt. James McAuley, late of the steamship Commonwealth, and has aboard 79 saloon passengers, 222 second cabin, and 258 third class.

The new Columbus is 600 feet long and thas a displacement of 15,000 tons, and class and the grand passenger arrangements are similar to service.

Was built in the Queen's Island yard at those of the Commonwealth, house containing the saloon apartments are the main dining rooms. The didney from the main dining rooms and the main dining rooms. The dining four potentiats, but the arrangement in her construction. In appearance she resembles the Mayflower, house containing the saloon apartments are displaced with the main dining rooms. The dining four potentials, but the arrangement is saloon possengers, and expect attention has been paid to the strength attention has been

Spany cel Stewn

ANCIENTS IN NEW YORK.

London Company Finely Started on Sight Seeing Trip.

New York. Cet 7 The famous Honourshie Art. Herv Company of Loudon descended upon Knokest selection town to do: arriving from Boston town to do: arriving from Boston town the member of the Fril R c. boat Tip Ins. 181 (victors from Boston by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, and the Artillery Company of Boston, and the Artillery Company of while here. To-an) they will join up the Hudson to West Point, wh the cadet corps will be turned out an exhibition drill. Commandant of the military academy will also tertain the visiting hoats inform and at about 3 o'clock they will Honourables Began Their Tour of Sightseeing Yesterday.

Beverley Timed.

The much heralded tour throughout bles was 150 strong. The members of this country and Canada of the Antitle home company are the armory in Funcil hall at moon, An hour later, escating their Kuests, of Massachusetts, having as its guest of Massachusetts, having as its guest the Ancients marched to the South torn. of Massachusetts, in a guest the Ancients marched to the So the Honorable artillery company of united station, the special London, began yesterday after four start was nade for New York days of entertainment and sightseeing. If Pall River, where the to days of entertainment and significantly of Pail River, where the two Con-All officers and members of the Lon- panies were entertained until the de-don company, about 165 in number, parture of the senger by the First started on the trip. The escorting heavy artiflery and the Man-debuselts column of the Ancients and Honora- naval brigade.

Bostone (acod, oct. 7, 1903.

LJNDONERS "DOING" WEST POINT TODAY

New York, Oct. 7 .- The Ancient and Photable Artillery Co. of Boston and Newport Artillery, escorting the Bluourable Artillery Co. of London, ar-"There this morning from Fall River. failing for them, with steam up, was 5 cond steamer ready to take the party

"Hhout loss of time, the two compan-. In full uniform, descended the gang-) of the Fall River boat and marched olumn of twos across the pier and the gangway of the excursion boat. ... min. later the steamer swung out to the strain and with the bands laying proceed up the river.

Newport Artillery Company, h lad lined up in company front on pier while the Boston and London mizations were embarking, then ded to a hotel to spend the day, .: ing to meet the party on its re-in from West Point late this after-

HONOURABLES AT WEST POINT

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 7.—The Hon-b. of Lot Jon and Ancients of Bosion arrived here today on the str. Sirius

a drizzling rain.
They were met at the landing by Capt. the post adjutant, and Capt. King quartermaster's department. Miss lis, daughter of the superintendent, the only two women with the party, y Denbigh and Miss Courtney Bay-The British artillery marched up from the landing, the Ancients riding-

Arriving at the top of the hill a salute led in front of the barracks. The were escorted to Supt. Mills quarwhere a reception was given.

The officers of the post were present. of the cadets, after which the visitors

Oct. 7, 1903.

White the mention of Sir Thos, Lipton's name as English ambassador appears to have been superfluous, it may be suggested that King Edward can find available talent in the London Honourable Artillery Co., every one of whose 164 members might make a worthy ambassador.

LADY DENBIGH. returned to the boat and sailed down the

NEW YORK BOUND

London Arlillery Company with the Boston Ancients Starts on the Trip.

THEY GO TO FALL RIVER

The Earl of Denbigh Says, "I Have Had the Time of My Llfe."

[STECIAL DESPATCH TO THE HERALD.]

Boston, Mass., Tuesday.—The Honour-able Artillery Company of London, with 141 members of the Boston Ancients, left here on a special train this afternoon for Fall River, Mass., where the two com-panies inaugurate their tour in this coun-

The start was made after a short parade through the businesss section of the city, during which the members were cheered by the throngs that crowded the side-

The special train has the private car Columbia, which was provided for Lord and Lady Denbigh. The Columbia is one of the finest cars of its kind in the country and has been used by President Rooseveit.

With Lady Denbish Tare Mrs. Columbia and has been used by President Rooseveit.

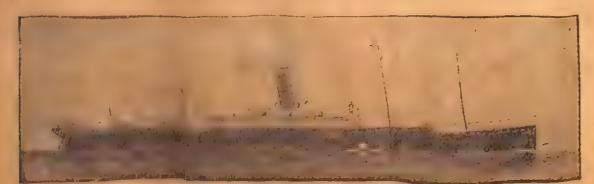

With Lady Denbigh were Mrs. Comtenay Baylor. Colonel Hodges' daughter, and his two sons-in-law, Mr. J. J. Tilling-hast and Mr. Charles H. Eastman. Lady penbigh will remain in New York for several days and will return to Boston to Lord and Lady Denbigh both expressed themselves as delighted with their trip. "I have had the time of my life," declared Lord Denbigh. When a reporter views on women's clubs she replied that vidual right to Join a club or not as she fit.

Philadelphia, (Pal.) Oct. 7, 1903.

The Old Guard of the State Fencibles will join in the welcome to the Honorable Artillery of London, at New York

Bostore Fost.

THEW DOMINION LINER COLUMBUS, ON MAIDEN TRIP TO BOSTON, TO CARRY BACK LONDON HONOURABLES

MEW DOMINION LINER COLUMBUS.

Due on maiden voyage to Boston Oct. 8, this steamer will take the London Ronourables back to England.

On the first day of October the new James McAuley. She is bringing in these steamships, with the others in the steamship Columbus left Liverpool for galoon passengers, 223 second cabin, 28 Liverpool R. sten service, will be gransfierd on her maiden trip to Boston, The Columbus is the second new steams that the winter will take over the Boston of the columbus in the columbus is the second new steams that of the White Star Law, which in the arrival is expected on Friday, 60 to the columbus the second new steams that of the Dormaion line flect.

her arrival is expected on Friday, Order two Chargers at the Markers Color.

1. Sho is under the command of Captula now to be in 10 52 the other Bit will be

Bostone Traveler, Oct. 7, 1903. ANCIENTS AT WEST POINT

They and Their British Guests See Uncle Sam's Youthful Warriors

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and | Captain King of the quartermaster's Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Newport Artillery Company, established the Superintendent, met the only two the Honourable Artillery Company and the Superintendent, met the only two the Superintendent, met the only two the Superintendents. corting the Honourable Artillery Com- women with the party, Lady Denbigh pany of London, arrived here on a and Mrs. Courtenay Baylor.

Without loss of time, the two com- barracks. panies, in full uniform, descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and Mille' quarters, where a reception was marched in columns of twos across the pier and up the gangway of the excursion boat. Five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and, with the Salem Cadet Band playing, with the river.

Mills' quarters, with quarters of the post were present. The officers of the post were present. The reception was followed by a review of the cadets, after which the visitors returned to the boat and sailed down the river. proceeded up the river.

The Newport Artillery Company, New York Plans. which had lined up in company front
The two organizations which had lined up in company front
The two organizations
Tork again at 4 P M. From this time
Tork again at 4 P M. From this time don organizations were embarking, then until their departure for Washington proceeded to a hotel to spend the day, on Friday morning the guests will be intending to meet the London and Boston Honorables on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

Reception at Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 7.-When the Fall River Line steamer Puritan reached here last night, having on board the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and their guests, the Honourable Artillery Company of G London, the pier was crowded with people, who cheered wildly during the brice

The Puritan was boarded here by the Newport Artillery Company of 100 m.n., commanded by Colonel John D. Ruhardson and accompanied by the U. S. Artillery Band. The company has been assigned to escort duty during the stay of the Honourables in New York, and was given an enthusiastic send-off during the march from the armory to the ing the march from the armory to the

Ancients at West Point.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 7.-The Honourable Artillery Company of London and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston arrived here today on the steamer Sirius in a drizzling rain.

They were met at the landing by Captain Coe, the past adjutant, and rooms ochet, Po. J.,

"The Boston Ancients turned out with full ranks," says the news dis-patch. Bet your life they were "full."—

Why, man, they can't fill.

Waiting for them, with steam up, was a second steamer ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company and its guests to West Point.

Without less of the Miles Coulets was fired and the battallon of the Coulets was fired and the ba

The two organizations are due in New in the hands of the Old Guard. And among the other diversions that will among the other diversions that will claim their attention will be a visit to the Old Guard's Military Bazzar at Madison Square Garden. This visit will probably be made on Thursday aftermoon.

The Rewport Artillery Leaves for This City.

Newfort, R. I., Tuesday.—The Newport Artillery, Colonel John D. Richardson commanding, left for New York to-night to assist in the recept a tiste of the line ourable Artillery Company of London and to attend the Old Guard ball. They paraded the streets before boarding the ball River line speamboat and received an enthusiastic sendoff.

Hundreds saw ing departire, and the colon are brillandy illuminated with the works. The company had full ranks, numbering about one in indred officers and men. The Nawagat Artillery is the older 3 voc blon, 6. tupaise.

Saw Colonel Denbigh and Enjoyed Duty at Fall River Yesterday.

Officers and enlisted men of Battery I saw the Honourable Artillery Company of London at close range in Fall River yesterday, and were greatly impressed with the appearance of the visiting English militiamen. Capt. George E. Horton, Lieut. Samuel B. Sampson and Lieut Charles H. Edson were guests at the Quequechan Club, where the company was entertained during the afternoon, and saw Colonel the Earl of Denbigh and Desmond and other officers, but owing to the crush were unable to meet the earl person-

The Cape Battalion of the First Regiment of Heavy Artillery, of which the local battery is a part, acted as escort for the English visitors and the Ancient and Honorables of Boston. The appearance of the Amer-ican militiamen was in striking contrast to that of the visitors, they say, both in dress at it the manner of marching. The Englishmen have a short, choppy step that is very showy on the street but which must prove extremely fatiguing on a long march, and which is totally different from the long, swinging stride of the militiamen here. The great learskip hats, the showy tunics, the equipment of the strength of the showy tunics, the equipment of the showy tunics, the showy tunics also ments and everything else is also vastly different.

vastly different.

"The English company is composed almost wholly of young men," said Capt. Horton. "I don't think I noticed a gray head in the entire body. Most of them are between 19 and 35 years, a few of the officers older. The earl himself is a fine looking gentleman, of erect, folderly bearing and with a grace that would attract attention anywhere" tion anywhere."

The officers were among those who gathered at the cleant clubhouse and they were most hospitably entertained, although it was something of a disappointment not to be able to clasp the haud of the distinguished English nobleman who commands the company. The battery returned last night at about 10 o'clock. From Fall River to Taunton the journey was made by train and from Taunton to this city by a special trolley car.

i'd

Washington tinute lien to Partiel. pute in Old Guard Fair.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 Sixty flormen, representing four empanies of Minute Men of the First Regiment, Dis-

Bommer cial Awetice.

HONOURABLES VISIT GOTHAM

London Artillery Company, However, Stops Only Five Minutes.

WILL RETURN LATE THIS AFTERNOON

Escorted by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Bosten, the Britishers Move Upon West Point-Arrive by Fall River Boat, March Across the Pier, and Embark on Another Steamboat.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Newport Arharry Company, escorting the Honourable Attillery Company of London, arrived at the Fall River pier, foot of Warren street, this morning shortly after 7 o'clock.

Waiting for them, with steam up, was an eteuraion boat of the Iron Steamboat Company, ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and 1's guests, the Ronourable Artillery Comlany of London, to West Point.

Without loss of time the two companies, in full uniform, descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched across the pier and up the gangway of the ex-C'r on boat. Five minutes later the exor on boat swung out into the stream had both bands playing. The Newport Artillery Company lined up in front on i pier and watched the departure.

Tr. marched out and up Warren street. When near West street the Seventh United States Artillery Band, which led the parade, started a quickstup, much to the consternation of several horses, which turned and gazed " feringly at the uniforms of the orination. The uniforms consisted of le frock coats edged and banded with braid and blue trousers with seams id with red tape.

organization was headed by Com-. : John D. Richardson and consisted " tut seventy men. The privates cartheir muskets in waterproof coverings. At Chambers street and West Pr .. iway the organization formed a com-Pany front and rested while an aide bought elevated railroad tickets. Then the company went to the Hotel Bartholdi. They will meet the Ancient and Hontratiles of Boston and their guests at the fact of West Twenty-second street their return from West Point at 5 ock this afternoon.

. POINT WEST POINT.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 7 .- The Honcurabia Artillery Company of London and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Hoston arrived here to-day on the eleamer Sirius in a drizzling ratu.

The state of the s paraded in front of the barracks. The guests were escorted to Superintendent Mills's quarters, where a reception was given. The reception was followed by a review of the cadets, after which the visitors returned to the boat and salled down Wockester Fost, oct. 7, 1903.

HONOURABLES GO TO WEST POINT

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 .- The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport artillery company, escorting the Honourable Artillery company of London, arrived here on a steamer from Fall River. Walting for them, with steam up, was a second steamer ready to take the Ancient and Honorable artillery company of Buston and its guest, the Honourable Arithery company of London, to West Point,

Without loss of time the two com-panies, in full uniform, descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in column of twos across the pier and up the gangway of the ex-cursion poat. Five minutes later, the steamer swung out into the stream and with the united bands of both companles playing proceeded up the river.
The Newport artillery company, which had lined up in company front on the pler while the Boston and London companies. ranies were embarking, then proceeded to a hotel to spend the day, intending to meet the London and Boston Honourables on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 7.—The Honourable Artillery company of London and the Ancient and Honourable Artillery of Boston, arrived here today on the steamer Sirius in a drizzling on the steamer Sirius in a drizzling rain. They were met at the landing by Captain Coe, the adjutant, and Captain King of the quartermaster's department. Miss Mills, daughter of the superintendent, met the only two women with the party, Lady Denbigh and Miss Courtney Baylor. The British artillery marched up from the landing, the Boston Ancients riding. Arriving at the top of the hill a salute was fired and the batalion of cadets was paraded in front of the barracks. The guests were escorted to Supt. Mills quarters where a reception was given. The officers of the post were present. The reception the post were present. The reception was followed by a review of the cadets, after which the visitors returned to the boat and sailed down the river.

Boston Posts, and 15 1103.3.

LADY DENBIGH INSPECTS ONE OF FALL RIVER'S MILLS

ONE OF FALL RIVER'S MILLS

FALL RIVER, Oct. 6.—Lady Denbigh, her husband and a party of half a dozen inspected one of the huge mills here, Lady Denbigh's object being to compare the surroundings of the English mill girl with those of her American slater. She was greatly interested by her tour of inspection and jotted down as memoranda several facts which would aid in the work of helping English factory girls, in which she is greatly interested. The mill girls here, Lady Denbigh thought, worked under much better conditions than girls in English mills.

Mrs. Courtenay Baylor, daughter of Colonel Sidney M. Hedges, will accompany Lady Denbigh the rounty her tour of the country.

Lagund Theres, Oct. 7, 1903.

A to the control to the H A to the starton of the s

Hall River Tews Oct. 7, 1903.

DENBIGH FOR AMBASSADOR.

Report That He May Succeed the Late Sir Michael Herbert at Washington.

The Boston Post this morning says: That Lord Denbigh, commander of the Honourable Artillery Company of London, will be the successor of the late Sir Michael Herbert as English ambassador at Washington was the statement made to a Post reporter by a member of the Honourables shortly before the company left Boston for its tour of the country yesterday.
Several other members made statements to the same effect, and the news which had spread throughout the com-mand, created no end of enthusiasm over the good fortune in store for the over the good fortune in store for the popular commander.

Lord Denbigh, although the fact is not well known on this side of the water, has already an enviable reputation as a diplomat. King Edward VII., at whose court he is a lord in waiting, has for some time been desirated that water there was a lord Denbigh. ous of bestowing upon Lord Denbigh a diplomatic post of honor and responsibility. This action, however, was deferred as the time for the visit of the Honourables to America drew near, King Edward wished Lord Denbigh to come here as his personal representa-tive and then intended to give him, upon his return to England, some vacant di-plomatic post or to make changes in the service so that an important place would be ready for him. Now that the English ambassadorship at Washington has become unexpectedly vacant through the death of Sir Michael Herbert, King Edward, members of the Honourables are informed from private sources at home, has determined to name Lord Denbigh for the plane.

for the place.

King Edward was greatly pleased upon the receipt of Lord Denbigh's cablegram describing the enthusiastic welcome accorded the Honourables when they reached America, and substantial properties of the place of the plac sequent cables mentioning the ovation which the company is receiving have increased his satisfaction. The popularity of Lord Denbigh, of which the King was already aware, is being still house the catternature of the satisfaction. more strongly brought to his attention.

Lord Denbigh had a reputation in England as a splendid speaker. His speech, Monday night, at the banquet in Symphony Hall, copious extracts from which were cabled to England, is expected not only to strengthen his reputation as a graceful, witty speaker, but also, in view of the impression it but also, in view of the impression it created, to further strengthen his chances for the ambassadorship.

Lord Denbigh's tour of the country, during which it is confidently expected he will receive a welcome almost equalling that given him in Boston, will further increase his popularity with Americans. His meeting with President Rooseveit in Washington will doubtless be significant. Lord Denbigh, as a true-blue sportsman and cordial, gracious gentleman, would no doubt become as firm a friend of the President as was the late English ambassador.

bassador.

Lord Denbigh's experience in matters diplomatic and political has well fitted him for an ambassadorship. His solid reputation in the House of Lords and the staunch devotion of his famous command are evidence of statesmanship and executive ability. In the house of peers he has for some time represented the Irish office, answering questions and running the unimportant Irish bills.

In the House of Lords Lord Denbigh

ant Irish bills.

In the House of Lords Lord Denbigh has been an active debater and at times he did a considerable amount of stumping for his party. His political efforts also extended to the London county council. In 1896 he stood as one of the four representatives for the city of London and defeated Lord Wolverton by 400 votes.

by 400 votes.
"What do you think of Britain's union jack floating from Bunker Hill?" asked a newspaper reporter of Lord asked a newspaper report of the problem.

"Why, that's great. Mighty glad I was to see that we are smoking the pipe of peace. We are all one, you know," and, turning on his heels with a jolly swing of his cap, his good-natured words, "Why shouldn't we be hardly?" rang through the studio Newport (96. 9., 1 oct. 7, 1903.

OFF FOR NEW YORK-

DEPARTURE GF NEWPORT ARTILLERY

Will Do Escort Duty For The Honorablas of London.

To the inspiring strains of the music by the Seventh Artillery band, from Fort Adams, the Newport Artillery Company, 100 strong, under the command of Colonel John Richardson. marched from their armory on Clarke street last evening to the Fall River boat, bound to New York, to take part in escorting the Honourable Artillery Company of London, who will stay in New York for a few days. By good buck, the Londoners were on the same boat last evening. They went from Boston to Fall River for a parade, which a large number of Newporters went to the Spindle City to see. With but a slight effort the Honourable Artillery Company of London could have been brought to Newport, as not a few of the members expressed a desire to see Newport, but no committee was formed and the visit did not occur.

formed and the visit did not occur.
Colonel Richardson, who was a guest at the banquet given in Boston Monday evening to the Honourables, was thoroughly at home on the steamer last evening, and introduced the officers and men to each other, so before the steamer reached New York the two companies had laid down their weapons and were soldiers in arms.

During the stay in New York of the Newport Artillery Company, which was given a hearty send-off last evewas given a hearty send on last evening, they will have headquarters in the hing, they will have headquarters in the Hotel Bartholdi, Twenty-third street and Broadway. They will attend the Old Guard Fair in Madison Square Gardens, and on behalf of the company Colonel Richardson has received a number of invitations which will keep number of invitations which will keep the members busy having a good time throughout their stay, which will ter-minate Friday afternoon, when they leave for home on the Fall River line and arrive here on Saturday morn-

The company wore the regulation army uniform and was thoroughly equipped. The people of New York equipped. The people of New York will have the opportunity of seeing the oldest active military company in the United States, as the Newport Artil-

oldest active, as the Newport Artil-United States, as the Newport Artil-lery Company appears on parade. lery Company appears on parade. The crew of the steamer Puritan was. The crew of the steamer Puritan was. The crew of the steamer Puritan was. The crew of the steamer busily engaged year of the trip to New York with the her for the trip to New York with the her for the trip to New York with the Ancients last night. No more than the usual work was done upon the ex-usual work was done upon the ex-usual work was done upon the ex-usual work was a lot done every trip, but there was a lot done every trip. Stables and ever sent ashore and temporary needed were set up. Every part of the deck was scrubbed and the part of the deer washed to remove the scars paint work washed. The deck was made by the freight. The deck was decorated but there was a delay in that decorated but the work, two large cases of fresh cut flowers being put aboard at Newport for this purpose.

Quite a number of people purposely went to the wharf last night to catch a glimpse of the Honourables.

Before the company left last evening a shortetreet parade was made, Thames street being red with colored fire. The hoys were also given a hearty send off at the wharf by their many friends and the citizens in general.

The officers and men presented a fine appearance in their regulation uniform and so did the band from the fort while "Ancient" Sunny Johnson brought up in the rear with the baggage wagon with himself in full regulation uniform. Ordnance Sergeant Lawton, as might be expected, went with the command.

Lowell bitigins, Oct. 7, 1903.

FALL RIVER EXTENDS A ROUSING WELCOME.

Fall River, Oct. 6.—Thousands of people lined along streets gay with British and American fings today, accorded a hearty welcome to the Honourable Artillery company of London and their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston when they arrived in this city en route to New York, Washington and Montred. The stop here was a brief one, covering hardly more than four hours, but in that time the visitors marched through thronged streets, were received by harde committee of representative cidens, partock of an informal lunch at the Quequechan club, made a tour of inspection around the city, and were the guests at a supper before the journey to New York was continued. From beginning to end the reception given the visitors was enthusiastic and it was a most auspicious beginning of the tour which will embrace the American metropolis, the national captul and a part of Canada. When the special train bearing the two companies drew into part of Canada. When the special train bearing the two companies drew into the station at 3.15 this afterneon four batterles of the First Heavy artillery, M. V. M., and Companies of the Nival brigade from Boston, Lynn Springfield, Taunton, Fall River and Brockton, were in waiting to essort the a reception and lunch had been erranged. The reception was an informal affair, and at its conclusion the convisited points of interest around the city. Returning to the club at 5 o'clock the line was reformed and the companies and their escort started for companies and their escort started for the steamer which was to convey them to New York. While passing through main street the line was met by Richard Borden post 46, G. A. R. and oscorted to city hall where the marchers were reviewed by Mayor Grimes and members of the city government. At 5.30 a supper was served on the steamer Puritan of the Fail River line and at 7.40 the journey to New York was resumed.

Springfield Republicand,

TOUR OF THE HONORABLES.

The much-heralded tour throughout this country and Canada of the Ancient and Honorable artillery company of Massachusters, baving as its guest the Honorable artillery company of London, began yesterday after four days of entertainment and sightseeing. All officers and members of the London company, about 165 in number, started on the trip. The ascorting column of the Ancients, and Honorables was 150 security. The members of the honorables was 150 security. The members of the honorables was 150 security for members of the honorables was 150 security for members of the honorables was 150 security. The members of the honorable to the Nouth terminal station. By special train, start was made for New York by way of Fall River, where the two companies were entertained until the departure of the steamer, by the 1st heavy artillery and the Massachusetts, naval brigade. Honorable artillery company of Massachu-

Indianapolis (Ind.)

The Arrient and Honorable A war. Company of Hoston is to spend $200,009 a tow forthe Fel, Oct: 7, 1903.

ANCIENT AND HONORABLES HERE

Visiting Warriors on an Excursion-To Attend Old Guard Fair To-night.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Newport Artiflery Company, escorting the Honourable Artillery Company of London, arrived at the Fall River pier, foot of Warren Street, this morning shortly after seven o'clock.

Waiting for them, with steam up, was an excursion boat of the Iron Steamboat. Company, ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Honourable Artillery Company of London to West Point. Five minutes later, the excursion boat swung out into the stream and the united bands of both companies burst into harmony, Witnessing the departure of the two companies was the Newport Artillery Company, which here lined up in company front on the pier while their comrades were embarking. After the excursion boat cast off. the Newport organization marched out and up Warren Street.

A block east of West Street, the Seventh United States Artillery Band, which headed the parade, started a quickstep, much to the consternation of several truck horses. who gazed wonderingly at the uniforms of the organization, which consisted of blue frock coats edged and banded with red braid, and blue trousers, the scams braided with red tape.

The company was headed by Commander John D. Richardson, and numbered seventy men. The privates carried their muskets in waterproof coverings. At Chambers Street and West Broadway the organization (ormed a company front and rested while an aide secured tickets at the uptown station of the "L." Then the company went to the Hotel Bartholdt. They will meet the Ancient and Honorables of Boston and their guests at the foot of West Twenty-second Street on their return at five o'clock from West Point. To-night all three organizations will attend the Old Guard fair in Madison Square Garden

not. 7, 1903

ANCIENTS BEGIN TOUR.

Boston Company, With English Greats, Start For New York,

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—The much heralded tour throughout this country and Canada, of the Ancient and honorable artillery company of Massachusetts, having as its guests the Honourable artillery company of London, began today, after

"If you don't kill us with kindn and we live to get home, it will have ply of more than one Ancient and

Arriving on Sound Vessel They Go to West Point, but Will Return for the Afternoon's Parade.

GOVERNOR AND NOTABLES TO ATTEND THE BANQUET

London Men, with Escorts, Will Parade to Sherry's This Afternoon After Return from Military Academy.

KANY MEMBERS VERY TIRED

fightseeing in Boston Was Laborious, but All Are Ready for Manhattan's Hospitality.

Ancient and Honourable Company don, under escort of the Ancient onorable Company of Boston, and Altended by the Newport Light Artillery, averal members of the Putnam Phalanx lutionary costume, and other comin various costumes, arrived in Tork to day in a drizzling rain on the Fall River line steamship Puritan, and an hour were speeding toward int for a days outing.

es parade to Sherry's and a dinner,

THEADI, OF DENBIGH TROM THE JEETCH

there will be automobile trips city, and in the evening the l'air. Friday the Honourables refiliation igh the mist they tooked tired. They felt tired, too There has been so much cheering and band playing and noise in march, and cobble stones and new shore have made the "red coats" sore of foot. Change of diet and American ice water are &signed as the cause for most of the complaints by Dr. Culvert-James, the Hon-ourables' surgeon.

Long before him o'clock the Puritan was alive with uniforms.

Start for West Point.

It was not much more than an hour after docking that the Honourables, their escort and attending military companies boarded the Iron steamboat Sirius and started for West Point. Major C. H. Budworth, adjutant of the Honourables, and M. V. O. forgot something just before the Sirius etarted and rushed back on the Puritan. When he reappeared the Sirius had cast of her lines and was backing off into midstream.

ream.
There was a great deal of signalling and e Major was finally put aboard.
At West Point the cadets were reviewed or the visitors and after a short stay the rius started back, due to arrive at four clock this afterness.

k this afternoon. Old Guard will meet the Sirius at The Old Guard will meet the Strius at West Twenty-second street. In the parade to Sherry's there will be the Old Guard, the Ancients of London, and the Honorables of Boston, Minute Men of Washington, Newport Light Artillery, representatives of the Governor's Foot Guard, of Providence; the Richmond (Va.) Blues, and Cleveland (Ohlo) Grays.

Headquarters at Waldorf.

During their stay in New York the two honorable corps will have their headquar-honorable corps will have their headquarters at the Waldorf-Astoria, using the ball room as their armory.

After being entertained by the Old Guard to-night the two corps will be whirled about town in automobiles to-morrow, making a final sprint up Riverside Drive and lunching at the historic Claremont, as guests of the Old Guard.

To-morrow evening the Old Guard Fair at Madison Square Garden.

Friday, in two special trains, dining cars to each section and every effort made for the comfort and convenience of the Londoners, they, will start for Washington.

Ington.

There for two days the visitors will take in the sights, Mount Vernon, Arlington Cemetery, Fort Myer and on Saturday at four o'clock in the afternoon they will meet the President at the White House.

Will Go to Magara.
Sunday will see the "red coats" again on their special trains, bound for Niagara Falls. On Monday they will take in Mon-treal and Mount Royal, and Tuesday the trains will start over the White Mountains to Boston iner Columbus.

In command of the London company is the Earl of Denbigh and Desmond, commander of the Victorian Order. The adjutant is C. H. Budworth, M. V. O., and the commander of the color guard is Lieutenant Cooper, one of whose men is six deet, seven inches tall.

New Bodford Flandast,
Oct. 7, 1903.

WILD CHEERS AT NEWPORT.

London Honourables Among Friends in the Rhode Island City.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 7,-When the Fall River line steamer Puritan reached here last night, having on board the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and their guests, the Honourable Artillery company of London, the pier was crowded with people, who cheered wildly during the brief stop.

The Puritan was boarded here by the Newport Artillery company of 100 men, commanded by Colonel John D. Richnrdson, and accompanied by the United States Artillery band. The company is a been assigned to escort duty during the stay of the Honourables in New York, and was given an enthusiable send off during the march from

New York! St. 3, Velegrand, Oct. 6; 1909.

tion t let the nonourable troops from It can be said who firt four of

Oct. 7, 1903.

BRITISH TROOPS IN BOSTON.

Honorable Artillery Company of London the Lions of the Hour.

Boston, October 2. — For the first time in many years the flag of England, guarded by British muskets, was borne througa the streets of Boston to-day by the Honourable Artillery Company of London as special guests of the Ancient and Honourable Artillery Company of Boston.

Landing at Charlestown, almost on the very spot where their ancestors started on their memorable attack on Bunker Hill, 128 years ago, the red coats of the twentieth century marched from their steamer, the Mayflower, over the bridge to Boston, and then through the streets resplendent with American and British flags, to the hotels which will be their homes during their visit. For five days they will be entertained, then, after a week's tour, to include New York, Washington, Niagara Falls and Canada, they will return to England.

The Mayflower was sighted coming into Massachusetts Bay early in the forenoon. Colonel Sidney M. Hedges, commander of will return to England.

The Mayflower was sighted coming into Massachusetts Bay early in the forenoon. Colonel Sidney M. Hedges, commander of the Ancient and Honourable Artillery, accompanied by several of his staff, boarded the Mayflower from a tug and welcomed the visitors through their commander, the Earl of Denbigh. The Mayflower was given a hearty ovation from the harbour fleet, and before the visitors landed Adjutant-General Dalton boarded the steamer and extended, in behalf of Governor Bates, the official welcome of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. As soon as the visitors landed and had formed their line, the procession started.

The parade was most spectacular, the showy uniforms of the cadets, the deep blue of the militia and the scarlet of the National Lancers contributed to the National Lancers contributed to the Dilliancy of the escorting column, no less than did the British red of the Royal Garrison Band of Halifax, and of the visiting company to the main body. After a march through the principal streats and across Boston common, the parade was dismissed.

Along the march many business houses

Along the march many business houses were decorated and crowds, which thronged the streets, cheered and applauded the visitors. The first entertainment for the visitors will be a smoker in Faneuil Hall to-night.

Oct. 7, 1903

HONOURABLES AT WEST POINT.

Londoners Arrive at Military Academy in a Drizzling Rain.

West Point, Oct. 7.-The Honourable Artillery company of London and the Ancient & Honorable Artillery company Artillery company of London Ancient & Honorable Artillery company of Boston arrived here today on the steamer Sirius in a drizzling rain. They were met at the landing by Captain Coe, the post adjutant, and Captain King, of the quartermaster's depart ment, Miss Mills, daughter' of the sumerintendent, met the only two wone.
With the party, Lady Denbigh and Miss ton Ancients riding. Arriving at the ton of the hill, a salute was fired and the battallon of cadets was paraded in front of the barracks. The guests were escorted to Superintendent Mills' quarters, where a reception was given. The officers of the post were present. The reception was followed by a review of the cadets, after which the visitors returned to the boat and sailed down th

Now orleans/(821) Oct: 5, 1903.

LONDON HONORABLES. Roston, Oct. 5. This was the autumn field day of the Ancient Boston News, Oct. 7, 1903.

The Visit of the Honourables

Our English visitors, the London Honourables. have left us for the time being. Perhaps this is as good a time as any other to pause and think over the real meaning of this most auspicious occasion, as the afterdinner orator puts it.

We know no fitter symbol for it than that which greeted the eyes of the twentieth century voyagers on the Mayflower as they steamed up Boston harbor-the tall, gray column on Bunker Hill flying the flags of the United States and Great Britain.

A good deal has been said about that feature of the welcome some of it sensible and some of it foolish; but the real point of its significance was fairly indicated by Senator Hoar.

Bunker Hill monument, he declared, might well stand as commemorating the valor of Englishmen; and as a token of the valor of Englishmen it was eminently fitting that Bunker Hill should bear the emblems of the two great English peoples.

Today, as never before, we can thank God that the Revolutionary War was fought and finished nearly a century and a quarter ago, and that the war which pilled the bad blood left over from the Revolution is well along toward its centennial of oblivion.

Unfortunate text-books on history in our public schools, the bumptiousness of the American youngster and the smarting pride of the English parent-envy, as Lord Denbigh said, which bred a meaningless misunderstanding-have promoted a sense of separation between nations which in spirit, in ideals and in institutions have never really been separated.

In cherishing this artificial sense or separation both sides forgot momentarily the perfect oneness of their mental life, which found its natural expression in art, and especially in the one literature which both rightly

It is characteristic of the times that the most notable peace expedition of the day should have been the inception and the achievement of the military-not so much as far as this country was concerned, for the chief military feature of our beloved Ancients is their martial air—but certainly on the part of England's representatives.

The London Honourables to all intents and purposes represent the English army and not the English poses represent the Honourables are not, strictly speaking, professional soldiers, yet they are amenable to ing, professional track of the discipline and liable to much of the duty of the professional soldier.

Therefore this Boston celebration has witnessed peace declared through the medium of men of war.

The voice of the times is for peace, but at present. the ideal of peace has developed no further than the anomaly of the nations of the earth taxing themselves for vast engines of war in order that the peace may be

We shall learn better some day, when men grow big enough individually to inspire trust nationally. Work, not worry, will bring that consummation, devoutly to be wished. In the meantime it is well to reflect that an armed peace is far better than no peace at all.

We have tried to give these Englishmen a goal time, and it looks rather as if we had succeeded, but far above the good time, represented by the host it, lity of entertainment, has been the spirit of good time manifested on all sides.

The Ancients have been lavish with their money, but their money could not buy the outpoaring of general good will which has been the real feature of these few days of festivity.

Brockton Entisprise,

BATTERY I CALLED OUT

To Act as Escort to Ancients and Honourables To-Day.

Battery I, under command of Capt. George E. Horton, left just before 1. o'clock this afternoon for Taunton on its way to all River, where it acted as escort to the Honourable Artillery Company of London and the Arcients and Honorables of Boston. Electrics were taken to Taunton, and there the Taunton company joined the battery, and the trip to Fall River was made by train.

The Fall River and New Bedford batteries and two comranies from the Naval Brigade of Fail River and one from New Bedford also acted as escort to the visitors. The Londoners were met at the Fall River station, upon their arrival from Boston, and, after a parade about the city, were escorted to the Fall River line dock, where the Boston and London companies took the steamer and started on their trip. It will include visits to a number of places of interest in this country and

Col. Jim Edgar of this city, one of the members of the Ancients, is a member of the committee in charge of the entertainment of the visitors to this country, and will make the trip with them. Alderman James A. Roar ty, another member from this city, will accompany them to New York

At the banquet in Boston last (vening Col. Edgar, Aldernan Rearly and Mr. Fred F. Field, the only member of the Ancients in this caty, wer ' 12 ent, and Rev. Alan Huds a attended as one of the invited guests.

OFF FOR WEST POINT.

London Honourables Umbarkon Steam-

New York, Oct 7, The Are 'm' Honorable Attillery compact of Bas ton and the Newport A.t.) party, escorting the He out do

Jow Jock F. S. 1. Oct. 7, 1903 TO-DAY GO THE

how Yorkers Will See the Crack English Artillery Company When They and Their Hosts Arrive To-day

SPECIAL PARADE OF CADETS FOR VISITORS

On Their Return Here They Will Be Guests of the Old Guard and Will Visit Latter's Bazaar at the Garden

I all the glary of their lace and gold of the and the shed ac extrements, the Art levy Company of London,

1 1s Anescat and Honorable

1 to the ery of Boston and the Company of Newport, will dis 1 to 7 or og this morning to the grees of the Old Guard of formally into the e tid thand the Honourables the set will ride up the Hadson Print, while the Caret Corps fr to the maken enters con M. to be all the greater Com-M. to a M. M. Laty Academy.

Will Visit the Garden-

et d by elseo goulzations A . A . Leading to 4 p. 15.

10 there from the formula for the starting the great for the city of the starting the great formula formu t contint with the transfer of the second section is a section of the section of t

To Just is again.

will travel in two sections, the first being made up of a baggage car, two dining cars, six handsome sleeping cars and the private car Columbia, which will be used by the light of Denbigh, commander of the London Company, and Lady Benbigh.

The second section will consist of a baggar car, two dining cars and seven sleeping car, two dining cars and seven sleeping of the most modern type and appointment. Buffalo will be reached at 9.80 a.m. Sunday, and a stop of twenty minutes will be made. Magara will occupy the attention of the visitors for the rest of the day, and a trip through the gorge is one of the diversions planned.

Sunday night the party will pass over into Canada, arriving at Toronto at 8.25 p. m. Honday will be spent in Montreal, where a urest parade will be given. On Tuesday he special trains will begin the return trip to Boston, travelling by way of the White Iountains, North Conway and Portsmouth.

Osevergo, St. X,) Oct. 7. 1903,

THE ENGLISH SOLDIERS.

Arrived in New York From Boston -Visit West Point.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The famous Honourable Artillery Company, of London, descended upon Knickerbock. er town today, arriving from Boston early this morning on the Fall River boat. The English visitors were escorted from Boston by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston, and the Artillery Company, of Newport. The visitors will be the guests of the Old Guard of New York while here. Today they will journey up the Hudson to West Point, where the cadet corps will be turned out for an exhibition drill.

Commandant Mills, of the Military Academy, will also entertain the vislung hosts informally, and at about three o'clock they will embark on the return trip to New York.

During their stay here the Londoners will visit the Old Guards' military baazar at Madison Square Garden.

Leaving here on Friday morning, the party will proceed to Washington, where a reception has been prepared for them.

Saturday will be passed in a visit to the total of Washington, and later in the day they will be received by President Roosevelt at the White House. On Saturday night the party will depart for Niagara Falls. The train throughout the trip will travel in two sections, the first being made up of a baggage car, two dining cars, six sleeping cars and the private car Columbia, which will be used by the Larl of Denbigh, commander of the London Company, and Lady Den-

The Be Stood Heer cury,

One of the souvenirs of the American op highly prized by Lady Denbigh is American hag presented her with a be tatiful basket of flowers by Miss Pauline Firth now of Lymm, Eng., just after the Ho o rables boarded the Mayflower at Liverpool. Miss Firth is the daughter of William Firth, a famous inventor, who is a member of the Boston Ancient and Honolouse, and has rainy friends in this city. With the graceful gift to the counters was a little note from Mr. Firth, conveying his best wishes for the trip It was a foretaste of the reception they were to receive on this side of the wawere to receive on this side of the water. Miss Firth is one of the best horse women in Great Brazin, and has several magnificant mounts at her father's extensive cetate at Lymm. Mr. Firth has relified from active business, and will visit Boston and Erockline this fall. AT WEST POINT

First Stop of the Tour of Boston Artillery Company and Their Guests.

New York, Oct. 7 .- The Ancient and Honorable/Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company, escorting the Honourable Artillery company of London, arrived here today on a steamer from Fall River. Waiting for them with steam up, was a second steamer ready to take the Ancient and Honorable company of Boston and its guest, the Honourable Artillery company of London, to West Point, Without loss of time the two companies, in full uniform, re-embarked on the excursion boat and five min-utes later proceeded up the river to the music of the united bands of both companies.

The Newport company will spend the day here, meeting the Boston and London companies on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 7-The Honourable Artillery company of London and Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston arrived here today. A salute was fired and the battalion of cadets was paraded in front of the barracks. The Suests were escorted to Superintendent Hill's quarters, where a reception was held. The officers of the past were present. The reception was followed by a retors returned to the boat and sailed down

Now Bedford mescury,

THE ANCIENTS' BANQUET.

Eight New Bedford Members Attended the Symphony Hall Feast.

Among the New Bedford members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company who attended the feast in Symphony hall, Boston, Monday night, Symphony hall, Boston, Monday night, Were the following: Mayor Charles Were the following: Mayor Charles R. S. Ashley, Dr. Charles R. Hunt, S. Ashley, Dr. Charles R. Black-Thomas Hersom, Herbert A. Black-Thomas Hersom, Herbert A. Arthur mer, Thomas M. Denham, Arthur Mer, Thomas M. Denham, Arthur Millam B. Wood. Of these, Mayor William B. Wood. Of these, Mayor William B. Wood. Of these, Mayor Ashley and Mr. Denham, who has been assigned to duty on the color guard, assigned to the trip around the country with the London Honourable Artillery with his transmitter the London Honourable Artillery with his transmitter the London Honourable Artillery with his transmitter the London Honourable Artillery with his transmitt Among the New Bedford members of Sand antonio, Vaf.,

Roston, Mass., Oct. 6.—This is the twenty-sixth autumn field day of the twenty-sixth autumn field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company and with their guests, the Honorable Artillery company of London and the Boston company spent the day in a steamboat excumsion along fine north shore. The day's pre-rain also included a reception and banquet in Symphony hall.

The British millerymen report that Autumn whield Day.

The British neitherymen report that they are able to got lost in Boston fust in easily as they did about 198 years

Have sone Express, Oct. 7, 1903

OLD GUARDS' GUESTS ARRIVE

HONOURABLE ARTILLERY COM-PANY HERE.

British Redcoats Land in This City, Escorted by the Ancients of Boston and the Newport Infantry, Trip to West Point-Banquet To-Night.

The Fall River line steamer' Puritan reached the Warren street pier at 6 o'clock, bringing from Fall River 163 members of the Honourable Artillery Company of London, who were escorted by 139 members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts, who in turn were escorted by seventy members of the Newport, R. I., Infantry.

The Boston detachment with their English guests immediately started for West Point in the steamboat Sirius, where this afternoon they are to review the cadets at the United States Military Academy.

The Newport guard was left behind and will rejoin the Honourables and Ancients when they return to the city this evening.

The visit to the metropolis is part of the American-Canadian campaign of sightseeing which the English regiment has before it, and is a return call to a trip to the United Kingdom which the Ancient and Honorables made in 1896,

The trip from Boston was uneventful. Capt. Jacob W. Miller, of the Fall River line, assigned each member of the three companies a stateroom as at a hotel, and the voyage was spent in recuperation preparatory to to-day's encounter with Old Guard hospitality.

Crowd on the Pler.

The Fall River line pier was crowded with the curious when the Puritan arived, at 6 o'clock, and as the majority ived, at 6 o'clock, and as the majority and never before seen a real live "red-coat," the interest in the coming of the Honourables was quite intense. The Earl of Denbigh, whose full title is the Right Honourable the Earl of Denbigh and Desmond, whose home abroad is at Rugby, and who manifested great pleas.

Rugby, and who manifested great pleasase in telling the reporters that he had ten children there, was in command of the English corps, which consisted of both artillery and infantry.

The distinguished Boston regiment was in charge of four commissioned offineharge of four commissioned offineharge. Col. Sidney M. Hedges, captain; Col. William H. Oakes, first lieutenant; Lieut. J. D. Nichols, second lieutenant, and Col. Charles K. Darling, adjutant, and Col. Charles K. Massachusetts dele-One company of the Massachusetts delegation, the Second Company of Infantry, was dressed as Continentals, and the buff uniforms were quite conspicuous and attractive.

The infantry of the Britons were costumed in scarlet coats, with blue facings and white belts. The trousers were and white belts. The trousers who blue, with a narrow red stript, and the whole was finished off by a bearskin. The officers, except the major, who wis distinguished by a crown, wore stars faced with silver, and the sergeants had released. r I sashes. The artillery had blue uniforms, with yellow frogs, the trousers having a broad red stripe, and the bushy was decorated with a white plume.

One of the colorbearers in the English regiment is Robert Gillings. He is 6 feet 7 inches tall, and 9 feet tall in his bearskin. Another colorbearer in this regiment.

ment is Lieut. Cooper, who distinguished imself in the late Boer war.

Programme for the Visitors. The programme for the entertainment of the visitors in this city includes the whole of to-morrow. This evening, upon their return from West Point, the two badies will be excepted to the Waldorf-Astoria by the Old Guard and by companies representing the Minute Men of Washington, in Continental uniforms of Revolutionary type, by the Richmond, Va. Blues, and the Cleveland Grays, of Cleveland. Preparations on a most elaborate scale have been made at the Waldorf-Astoria for the reception of the risitors. Besides having a large banquet hall for their exclusive use during all meals there, the hotel has placed its ball-room at the disposal of the visitors, to be used as a drill or armory room.

This evening the Old Guard will tender the visitors a banquet at Sherry's, after which they will march in a body to the Madison Square Garden, where the Old Guard is holding a fair. Sin Thomas Lipton will be there, too, to receive his countrymen.

To-morrow the Old Guard will take two companies of the visitors in automo-biles through Central Park and Riverside Drive, and luncheon will be served at

On Friday the party will invade Washington, being escorted in that city to the Arlington Hotel by a troop of United States cavalry and by a number of militiamen of Washington. On Saturday the visitors will leave the Arlington at 9 a. m. for Mount Vernon and burial place a. m. for Mount Vernon and burial place of Geo. Washington, and will return to Washington in time to visit the White House at 12.30., when President Roosevelt will receive them. Saturday evening all hands will leave Washington for Ningara Falls, traveling in two Pennsylvania trains, said to be the handsomest of their kind.

Sunday will be spent at Ningara Falls, and that evening the party will start for Montreal, returning to Boston Tuesday night.

Edward's Interest in the Trip.

The Earl of Denbigh spoke quite feelingly of the trip and a kled that King Edward was taking a personal interest in their perceful mission. The Earl explained that the King is an honority member of the Massachusetts regiment. the only honorary member it possesses the only hollocary member it possesses except former Societary of the Navy John D Long.

"The Kiar," said the Earl, "Plinks a lot of you, distinguished hold."

Col. Darling, who overheard clus, made haste to explain that this is the fast assumed in much seven years in wheal Paris in addingually convents and Ritish solliers carrying arms have os-ited America. The relations between the Honorables and the Honorables were doverailed, Col. Darling said, and the organization of the American hada was the result of a visit of Robert Keashe, who was the oldest child of the Bursh organization. Col. Derling, comming, said that the Ancient and Honorable of Massachusetts has been in existence o ginall, breve is the Making Corporate of Control of Massachusetts. The Honourables of London have been in harness since 1637. Next to the scarlet coats of the Honourables, with the letty know the unif rus of the Purham, he was attentional to the Purham of the Novar-the trial pic mest attention on one pro-The Americas and Horora less differ materially at a the Honoural as note for man. The Wessachusetts reap earts beigit, who would be unutually dozen bel as having plant of hear. Then in torns are loss (plang and a ky no ding. The Bip as are full god so and slip, there is and slip, there is a sister of the bip as a sister of the bip as · fre beered, it. 35,) Proceedies Oct. 7, 1903

AT WEST POINT TODAY

Were Met in New York by Newport Artillery Co.

New York, Oct. 7-The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company, es_ corning the Honourable Artillery company of London, arrived here today on a steamer from Fall River. Waiting for them with steam up was a second steamer ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Roston and its guest the Honourable Artillery company of London to West Point. Without loss of time, the two companies, in full uniform descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in column of twos across the pier and up the gangway of the excursion hoat. Five minutes later, the steamer swung out into the stream and with the united bands of both companies playing, proceeded up the river. The Newport Artillery, which had lined up on the pier while the Beston and London organizations were emberking, then proceeded to a beta t spend the day, intending to meet the London and boston Honour-ables on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

J'all River 1 1 1000 Oct. 7, 1903.

pull River's ene tilbment of the An b.t. and Ho. w. bits when most delicht'el curi is to them. The hal expect they sill fust a fra rooms to store it a sort of waiting par until it " is than for the boot to all Instead they found the city in Los attire, in vis of 18 ale o., the ;; to show a friendly interest and gre . ing, the spacious and comfort his rooms of the Queque han Club at the r service. The intermality of the read. tion by the clab, the are long tor each man to act his eas will the look hunch, the attendade riler, the bonds tiful via of the by from the could house be enters to the meaning, a deneral bratt to the season by all are 1 .5 th to 1 ; No. admitt I have the are of here fuse it ships in the city with a test of the last of the state of the brief of the br guished goods. I have deligned to the by the extra of value and tany problem of value of values and Boslose lake!

If Besten were allowed a voice in naming the new first a imeasuasies was a great from the west and a second from the first and the first part in the name he has a second of the second from the term of the name of the second of the second from the first part in the first part in the name of the second of the second from the first part in the name of the second from the first part in the name of the second from the second from the first part in the name of the second from the Ancients and Honourables Banqueted.

Automobile Rides Before Taking the Steamer.

PAUL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 7.-Demand, of people lined along . 'r, es gay with Bruish and American 1 yearen as accorded a hearty wel-1 6 to the Honourable Artillery comof lo don and their hosts, the ert at . Poneral le Artillery comof Bo. on, when they arrived in the control New York, Wash-done to New York, Wash-done to the control of the co ag hardly to then four hours, "ist tone the visitors marched tagi teron at treets, y ore received a argo count tice of representaof inspection around the city le con en te at a supper bele journey to New York was con-

in he hning to end the reception on was enthusiastic, and on the contract the Amerine, our de national capital par of Canada ein the apecial train bearing the ib tri, e. diew into the station at 1 de atternoon four batteries on one of the naval brigade of Lynn Springfield, Tain-IR to court the victors to the teran e b, where a reception then pad been arranged. The reon a a a an amal affair, and et d cone might the entire party boarded be consider and visted points of in-the training to the club at 5 e'clock the training to the club at the compa-' i'm new escort started for the tender wash was to convey them to " " " With war to convey through through the time were met by the time with the marchant t members of the city government.

At 5:30 a supper was served on the steamer Puritan of the Fall River line, and at 7:40 the journey to New York

NEWPORT, Oct. 7.—When the Fall River line steamer Puritan reached here last night, having on board the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and its guests, the Honourable Artillery company of London, the pier was crowded with people, who cheered wildly during the brief

The Puritan was boarded here by the Newport Artillery company, 100 men. commanded by Col. John D. Richardson and accompanied by the United States artillery band. The company has been assigned to escort duty during the stay of the Honourables in New York and was given an enthusiastic send-off during the march from the armory to the pier.

Fall River Herald Oct. 7,1903.

ANCIENTS IN NEW YORK.

Trip to West Point the Principal Feature for Today.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.-The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company, escorting the Honourable Artillery company of London arrived here on a steamer from Fall River today. Waiting for them, with steam up, was a second steamer ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and its guests, the Honourable Artillery company of London to West Point.

Without loss of time the two companies in full uniform descended the ganguay of the Fall River boat and marchel in a column of twos across the pler and up the gangway of the excursion boat. Five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and with the united but into the stream and with the united bards of both companies playing proceeded up river. The Newport Artillery company which had lined up in company front on the pier while the Boston and London organizations were embarking proceeded to a hotel to spend the day intending to meet the London and Boston Honorables on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

Montretel, (Can.,) oct. 7, 1903.

ANCIENT AND HONORABLES

THE TOUR OF THE ARTILLERY COMPANIES BEGAN YESTER-DAY.

Boston, Oct. 6.—The much heralded tour throughout the United States and Canada of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts, having as its guest the Honorable Artillery tompany of London, began to-day after four days of entertainment and odd, the chair of the London company, about the numbers of the London company, about the number, started on the trup. The eventure of the Ancient and lichorables was low strong. Henor bles was lov strong.

AUTUMN FIELD DAY.

Honorable Artillerymen Celebrate Twenty-Sixth Annual Event.

Boston, Oct. 6.—This was the 26th annual autumnal field day of the Honorabie artillery company and with their guests, the Honorabie artillery company of London, the Boston company spent the day in a steamboat excur-

New York! (1. 7.)

Tribune
Oct., 7, 1903,

READY FOR ENGLISHMEN.

Old Guard Meets Honourable Artillery Company To-day.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and its guest, the Honourable Artillery Company of London, and the other military organizations which are to be the guests of the Old Guard in honor of the fair which is being held this week at Madison Square Garden will arrive in this city this afternoon, and march to the Waldorf-Astoria, where the officers will stay.

The Old Guard will turn out early this afternoon and march to the East Twenty-second-st pier, where the guests will land at 3 p. m. A procession, headed by the Old Guard Band of one hundred pleces, will be formed, and will proceed through Twenty-second-st. to Fifth-ave., and up the ave-

Twenty-second-st to Fifth-ave, and up the avenue to the Waldorf.

In the evening the Old Guard gives a dinner in honor of the officers of all the visiting companies, and the officers of the Old Guard will call for them at the Waldorf, afterward escorting them to Sherry's. To-morrow at 11 a.m., the officers of the Old Guard will again escort their guests, this time in automobiles, through Central Park and Riverside Drive, to Claremont, where luncheon will be served. The party will return to the Waldorf in the afternoon. The evening will be given to a reception of guests at the fair in Madison Square Garden. The varicus companies which are to be the guests of the Old Guard at the fair are the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, 150 strong. Colonel Skiney M. Hedge, commanding; the Honourable Artillery Company of Boston, 150 strong. Colonel the Right Hon. the Earl of Denbigh and Desmond. C. V. O., commanding: 100 Minute Men of Washington, in the old Continental uniform; 100 of the Old Newport Artillery Company, 100 of the Eristol Tram Artillery Company, 100 of the First Tram Artillery Company, 100 of the Hold Newport Artillery Company, 100 of the Hold Newport British Honoram Biues, 100 of the Cleveland Grays, 50 Amoskeag veterans and officers of the National Guard.

Auce River Herbert Oct. 7, 1903.

OFF ON THEIR TOUR.

Honourable Artillery Company of London Leaves Boston.

BOSTON, Oct. 6.-The much heralded tour throughout this country and Cantada of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Massachusetts, having at its guest the Honourable Artillery company of London, began today after four days of entertainment and sightsering in this section. All officers and members of the London company, about 165 in number, started on the trip. The escerting column of the Ancients and Honourables is 150 strong. After yesterday's strenuous day the members of both companies were allowed to take a rest during the morning.

The members of the home company began to assemble at the armory in Fanguing the morning that the armory in Fanguing the morning at the armory in Fanguing the morning that the south Terminal station.

By special train a start was made for New York vin Fall River, where the two companies were to be entertained until the departure of the steamer by the Massachusetts Naval brigade. tour throughout this country and Can-

Lincolne Mab.,) OEL. 5. 1903.

Steamboat Excursion for Artillerists.

Steamboat Excursion for Artillerists.

(To the Associated Press.)

Boston, Mass., Oct. 5.—This was the 266th autumn field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company and with their guests, the Honorable Artillery company of London, the Boston company spent the day in a steamboat excursion along the north shore, the day's program also included a reception and banquet in Symphony hall this evening.

Who will be 1903.

The British mig floated troop Bunker Hill in honor of the Honorable Artil-

Providendre! (8. J.,) Journale! Oct. 7, 19.3.

HEARTY WELCOME.

Big Crowds Greeted Honourables and Ancients at Fall River-

RECEPTION AND LUNCH AT QUEQUECHAN CLUB.

An Automobile Ride to All the Points of Interest.

PARADE THROUGH THE STREETS REVIEWED BY THE MAYOR.

The Visitors Were Then Escorted to the Steamer Puritan, Where Supper Was Served, and Later the Journey to New York and Other Points Was Resumed,

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 6.—Thousands of people, lined along streets gay with British and American flags, to-day ac-corded a hearty welcome to the Honour-able Artillery Company of London and able Artillery Company of London and their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, when they arrived in this city en route to New York, Washington and Montreal.

The stop here was a brief one, covering hardly more than four hours, but in that time the visitors marched through thronged streets; were received by that time the visitors marched through thronged streets; were received by a large committee of representative cifi-zens, partook of an informal luncheon at the Quequechan Club, made a tour of inspection around the city and were the guests at a supper before the journey to New York was continued.

From beginning to end the reception given the visitors was enthusiastic. it was a most auspicious beginning of the tour which will embrace the American metropolis, the national capital and a part of Canada.

When the special train bearing the When the special train bearing the two companies drew into the station at 3:15 this afternoon four batteries of the First Heavy Artillery, M. V. M. and companies of the Naval Brigade from Boston. Lynn, Springfield, Taunton, Fall River and Brockton were in waiting to escort the visitors to the Quequeehan Club, where a reception and lunch had been arranged. The reception was an informal affair, and at its conclusion the entire party boarded automobiles and visited points of interest around the city.

Returning to the club at 5 o'clock the line was reformed and the companies and their escort started for the steamer which was to convey them to New York. Whila passing through Main street the line was met by Richard Borden Post. 46, G. A. R., and escorted to City Hall, where the marchers were reviewed by Mayor Grime and members of the City Government.

At 5:30 a supper was served on the steamer Puritan of the Fall River Line and at 7:10 the journey to New York was resumed.

The Departure from Boston.

Was resumed.

The Departure from Boston.

Boston, Oct. 6.—The much-heralded tour throughout this country and Canada of the Ancient and Honorable Canada of the Ancient and Honorable
Canada of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts, having as its guests the Honourable Artillery Company of London, began to-day after four days of entertainment and sightseeing in this section.
All officers and members of the London company, about 165 in number, started on the tup. The escorting column of the Ancients and Honorables is 150 strong. After vestering's streamous day the members of both tompanics were allowed to take a rest turing the morning.

The members of the home company began to assemble at the armory in Fancul Hall at noon. An hour later they appeared on the street and marched to Court square, where they took their guests under escort and conducted them to the South Terminal Station.

By special train a start was

Ry special train a start was made for New York via Fall River.

Cheers at Newport.-Local Artillery Cheers at Vewport.—Local Artillery Company Went with Visitors.

Newport, R. J. Oct. C.—When the Pair River Line steamer Partan reached here to-night, having on beard the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and its guests, the Honourable Artillery Company of London, the pier was crowded with people, who cheered wildly during the brief stop.

The Puritan was boarded here by the Newport Artillery Company, 100 men, commanded by Cel. John D. Richardson and accompanied by the United States Artillery Band The company has been assigned to escort duty during the stay of the Honourables in New York and was given an enthusiastic send off during the murch from the armory to the pier.

Old Guard of New York All Ready.

the soul off during the march from the armory to the pier.

Old Guard of New York 4H Ready.

New York, Oct. 6.—(Special.)—The Old Guard rested comfortably during the night and is in the fittest sert of condition for to-morrow's and to-morrow night's joust with the Ancients of Boston and Honourables of London.

It was because of this getting ready that most of the Old Guard went home early to-night from their fair at Madison Square Garden. That is the excuse the members offered as they retired from the booths while they still had a little change left.

It was announced to-night that Sir Thomas Lipton would be one of the guests at the banquet which the Old quard is to give to-morrow night at Sherry's to the warriors from London and Boston.

Mal Ellis Briggs has invited all of the officers of the French cruiser Jurien de li firaviere to come to the fair whenever they happen to be achore. They are particularly invited for Fridiy night.

To-morrow night will be real military night, which is to be Army and Navy night

To-morrow night will be real military meht of the inditary fair, because at 9 o'clock the Old Gnard, the Honourables and the Ancients and several other organizations will paride to the Garden from Sherry's and execute a complicated march in and out among the bookhs and jewelled sword rocks and pyramels of hadges.

The Boston company and its guests from London are going up to West Point to-morrow before landing in this city. They will be met at the foot of West Twenty-second street upon their return from up the river by the Old Guard.

WILL PARTICIPATE IN PARADE. F. L. I. Officers Will Take Part in Celebration in New York.

A number of the officers of the First Light Infantry Regement wil take part in the celebration and pare to a New York to-lay incident upon the first of the Honorable Archert Company and the detailment from the Ances as and Honorables of Boston. The units of these who are no honorables are to be present the company of the detailment from the Ances as and Honorables of Boston. The units of these who are no honorables. Honor, mes of control. The difference who are to be present are as follows. Col. Harold J. Gross. App. 5.
Tudor Gross. Mag. James H. Davidsort, Lieut. Halsey Do Wolf Camplion.
Fladers by W. ittemory. Lieuts. Creek. Finders for W. Humory, Liests Cres-grick Hayes, Bennamin Fe scale i Hay and D. Wilson Thomas F. Royal Cal-Sistert Surgeon J. C. Per in Cul Fr. nk D. Clary and Lieut White a Company.

Onstock.
Col. Gross and Maj. Davenput werge of Gross and Maj. Davenput werge of the banquet in Boston Mul. dev ever ins. Indiches went to November of the Larry with the Larry with the Larry went to November of the Larry with the Larry went to the Janualose a keleled a knot, Oct. 5; 1903.

Battery I' is at the leating orders to participate in the re-option to the Honourable A.J.Bry Cmpany at I'd River, Tuesday, though et time o writing they had not been probable There had been a persus our runton that the whole third lattellon was to bo assigned to recort duty in luding the companies from this city, Pall River, Bre and and New Bed Sand

The Holor of Atthew company or Louis now as a series will be the series of the series Montage of the new areas as a series we will

Philadelphia! Tal., HONORABLE

Arrives from Boston and Will Visit West Point.

New York, Oct. 7.—The famous Hon-ourable Artillery Company of London descended upon Knickerbocker town to-day, arriving from Boston early this morning on the Fall River boat. The English visitors were escorted from Boston by the Ancient and Honor-able Artliery Company of Boston, and

Gobokend i O beserve Oct. 7, 1903

HONOURABLE ARTILLERY OF LONDON VISITING WEST POINT

The Arment and Horogade Ar . The Course Be not the Nosper

Americal Burt

der . 'E.

LONDON ARTILLERYMEN AND HOSI'S ON TOUR Boston Frankrift, Oct. 7, 1903

Ter has been something too much—a

1 'I have much indeed, about the cost to that got the Symplony Hall banto the London Honourables, and not the enough about the good taste everything. Praise be to the rulpowers that passed upon questhe classes, there certainly was tog garlen or flamboyant or tawtaste, there certainly was tag carlsn or flamboyant or tawin the decorations; the only place to bunting was piled on in the ful style was in the speeches;
the agle did soar with the British to cither fixed the other with uneye, in rather uncomfortable potand somewhat mixed metaphors. The decay of the dinner per plate, so d cost of the dinner per plate, so published in the newspapers, cerwas not to be found in the quantity of the food upon the table. If the figures were really reached they are the gone into the setting up of a vast dh its appointments in the baseit 'symphony Hall, and the tearing it carting away of it again on the industry of the manufacture of the furniture and napery for the occain provision of waiters in yest it, and the general scale of expense in yestimate the supernous fete.

limity it was this organization of delimity it was the organization of delimity it was the organization of delimity it was the profession of the plans limit the perfection of the plans limity it was the point, without carolinate organization of the point, without hasto, limit the may from the magnificent limit the may from the magnificent limit the magnificent limit the pavements and car limit dependent private enlimit dependent private enlimit dependent private enlimit de spendent private enlimit de spendent private enlimit de ded with clearly limit de ded with the mass of limit ded with the mass of
limit ded with the mass of limit ded with the real roselimit ded with the real r

a sort of long absent and returned relations. No doubt, as things have gone recently with England, at the same time that America has been waxing so wontime that America has been waxing so won-derfully in material success, we are uncon-sciously coming to patronize her with sym-pathy. One does not wonder at the ner-vousness of the English, or doubt that if the political crists now complicating mat-ters for old Britannia mistress of the conthe position that the seas, were suddenly made acute by some fresh discomfiture, this nervousness might mount rapidly to hysteria. One can sense even a certain disinclination to accept spoken sympathy, under all the circumstances, as sympathy, inder an the themstances, as suggesting much worse conditions for Eng-land than really exist. At any rate, one felt this undertone, as of an honorable pride's recoil, amid all the effusion of this memora-ble international banquet.

Dear Listener-It may not be remem-Dear Listener—It may not be remembered that the Earl of Denbigh and Desmond, whom we have the pleasure of entertaining as commander of the Honourable Artillery Company of Londan, has the additional claim on us of being of that family of Fieldings which included "the manly, the English Harry Fielding" (author of "Tom Jones") and the Lady Mary Wortley Montage These two last were second coursing tagu. These two last were second cousins "their respective grandfathers being sons of George Fleiding, Earl of Desmond, son of William, Earl of Denbigh." R. S. CHASE Jersey City A. J.,) gowald (...) Oct. 7, 1903.

HONOURABLES WILL PAINT NEW YORK RED TO-NIGHT

NEW YORK RED TO-NIGHT

Accompanied by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Newport Artillery, the Honourable Artillery Company of London reached New York on the Fall River boat Puritan this mornig. The London Honourables were quickly transferred to the steamboat Sirius and started on their way to West Point, where they are to spend the day.

The Boston Ancients went with them. The Newport Artillery marched uptown to the inspiring strains of "Old Black Joe" to get things in readincss against the returnof the Ancients and Honourables late this afternoon.

The trip down from Boston was made without accident or event save for the embarking of the Newporters. According to an officer of the Ancients, Hedges as commander, all hands resif there was a superabundance of 1e-blushed and declined to be quoted. One of the Puritan's crew said: "All kinds worse for it." The capacity of the Ancients has no limit, it is said, which fresh and rosy to-day.

Capacitan (Cal.,)

Scranton (Pal,) Republished, Oct. 7, 1903.

The Honourable Artillery company of London, which is making a visit to this country as the guests of the Boston Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, having run the gamut of entertainment at the Hub, left yesterday for New York to be entertained by the Old Guard.

This Cadelphia (Pal,)

Oct. 7, 1403

Although the Writish fleg has waved once more on Bunker Hill, the Massa chusetts hosts of the Ancient and Hontorable Artiflery Company of London at any rate were not so wanting in fact as to invite their mests to a rea party in Rocton Harbor.

Oct. 6, 1903

Webesbarre, (Ja!,) Leader, Od.,) Oct. 7, 1903. VISITING ARTILLERISTS ARE AT WEST POINT

London Ancient and Honorable Band Being Entertained Where Real Soldiers Are Made.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 .- The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Newport Artillery Company, escorting the Honorable Artillery Company of London, arrived here to-day on a steamer from Fall River.

Without loss of time the Boston and London companies, in full uniform, descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in columns of two across the pier and up the gangway of an excursion boat, and five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream, and with the united bands of both companies playing proceeded up the river en route to West

The Newport Artillery Company then proceeded to a hotel to spend the day, intending to meet the London and Boston Honorables on their return from West Point late this afternoon, Tolada, (0.1) Oct. 7, 1903.

BRITONS AT WEST POINT

Ancient and Honorable Artillery on Their Tour.

New York, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company, escorting the Honorable Artillery company, escorting the Honorable Artillery company, of London, arrived here today on a steamer from Fall River. Without loss of time, the Boston and London companies, in full uniform, descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in column of twos across the mire and up the gangway of an excursion plear and five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and with the united bands of both companies playing, proceeded up the river en route to West Point. The Newport Artillery company then proceeded to a hotel to spend the day, intending to meet the London and Boston honorables on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

Sand Diago.

THE HONORABLE ARTILLERY

Boston, Oct. 2-For the first time in many years, the flag of England, guarded by British muskets, was borne through the streets of Boston today, by the Honorable Artillery company, of London, as special guests of a smaller organization, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery able Artillery company of this city. The first of the entertainments to be accorded the visitors, will be a smoker in Farmul i all tonight.

At the bangaer of the Honorable Artifers (Company of London, at Beston Monday, of late British and the British Ambassador, Hoar seyth and the Artifers of the Life to the Late British Ambassador, Hoar seyth

New York, St.J.,) Oct. 7, 1903.

ANCIENTS LEFT TRAIL OF FLASKS

Didn't Falter in Their Attack on Refreshments as They Escorted the Honourables Here to Meet Old Guard.

UNIFORM OF THE HONORABLES.

Scarlet coats with blue facings and gold braid, slashed at the sides to allow midway expansion. White belts with twenty-five holes to regulate girth.

Blue trousers with elastic waist band, trimmee with red braid down the outer seam of leg. Bearskin cap of two-gallon measure.

A kean-eyed sentry / patrolling the bulkhead at Fort Schuyler to-day noticed an unusual commotion in midchannel where the Sound rushes into the East River. Levelling his glass, he was surprised to see a school of porpoises acting in a strange manner.

These usually sober fish were leaping about madly, every now and then emit-ting a hilarious "whee!" and snorting with joyous "whoops," As the focus of his glass edjusted, the sentry declares, he saw one of the foremost "sleepy rollers" balancing a champagne bottle on the end of his nose and filtring his tail about with reckless abandon.

But what was that dark, streaky lang, enlivened every now and then by a flashing glint, that followed the channel to the north as far as the eye could reach: The sentry robbed his eyes and

"Bottles, bottles champagne bottles, brandy bottles, seltzer and vichy bottles, three-cornered bottles, which covered bottles, magnums, jugs, demijohns, flasks, not a wave jumps but it tosses itasks, not a wave jumps but it tosses bottle. I wonder"— Turning a bend in the stream was the bellying stern of the Fall River steamboat Pilgrim, and plainly visible on the after-deck was a line of stewards passing out over the stern a continuous stream of bottles. This line of stewards led down into the saloon, where great tables groaned under the weight of pyramids of flagons, reflecting the ruddy and cherful countenances of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, seated in battle array and going through their historic manual in obedience to stentonar commands: "Present bumpers!" "Pour!" "Raise!" "Clink!" "Drain!" "Heel taps!" "Table your arms!" "Pour!" Early in the voyage, when the Pilgrim had made her ousy stop at Newport, the Ancients and Honorables were joined by the Newport Artillery Company, valiant campaigners indeed, but never in at the Hub.

When the Pilgrim docked the veilant campaigners indeed, but never in at the death with the famous corps from the Hub.

When the Pilgrim docked the valiant companies of artiflery were met by a squad of the Old Guard. Then for the first time the Honourselle Artiflery Company of London emerged from its barracks of staterooms whither they had encamped upon making ship at Fall River. The Britishers had trained hard with the Ancients in Boston, but after a siege of Indigestion had made a firm over-night regreat, leaving the entire field of battle to their hosts.

To-day's campaign did not end with the trip from Boston to New York. The Old Guard had planned a siege of West Point, for their distinguished guests, and after the host of "dead soldiers" had been cleared away the Ancients, the Londoners and the Rhode Islands as par-

Sh. Johns, A. 18.) Cct: 7, 1100. BRITISH FLAGS

Floated to the Breeze Along Boston's

Main Streets.

FALL RIVER, Mass, Oct. 6 .- Thouaards of prople lined along strests gay with British and American flags teday accorded a hearty welcome to the Honorable Artillery Company of London and their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, when they arrived in this city en route to New York Washington and Mentreal. The stop here was a brief one, covering hardly more than tour hours, but in that time the visitors marched through thronged streats, were received by a large committee of representative citizens, partock of an informal lunch at the Quequechan Club, made a tour of inspection ground the city, were reviewed by Mayor Grimes, and were the guests at a surper before the journey to New York was continued. From beginning to end the reception given the visitors was enthusiastic, and it was a most auspicious beginning of the tour which will emprace the American metropolis. the national capital and part of Can-

At 8.30 a supper was served on the steamer Puritan of the Fall Liver line, and at 7.40 the journey to New York was resumed.

Sheerofrield . Becreter

the Globe has friends all through this section. "Harry" hobnobbed with the Earl of Denbigh and when I met him he was after an interview with the Countess. Mr. Hartley, I do not recall his military title, but he should be a colonel, is a very solid Englishman himself and was formerly I think a member of the Honourable artillery company in London. He is now a member of the Ancients and

I presume other military organizations.
All of Thursday night he was on the Globe tug, down the harbor, waiting for the arrival of the Mayflower. When she came in sight she was boarded and after gathering his material, there was a column or two to write before the city was reached. Then he convered the city was reached. Then he covered the entire line of march, then an alcebol bath, then dinner and then more work.

He accompanies the party throughout their entire trip in this country and Canada and at the end or that time I should think be might be a wreck. There are all sorts of ways of obtaining fun how. fun but rapid entertaining would not be fun for some of us after the first day The banquet of last evening, alone cost $60,000. How is that for high

Oct. 7, 19 mis, The brewerter around Boston has been running on double tim sires the arrival of the "Himon obla" is

Ringstori, A. J.)
Oct. 7, 1903.
LONDONERS IN

NEW YORK CITY.

THEY WILL LEAVE FOR WASH-INGTON ON FRIDAY-WILL BE RECEIVED BY PRESIDENT.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 7 .- The famous Honourable Artillery Company of London descended upon Knickerbocker town today, arriving from Boston early this morning on the Fall River boat. The English visitors were escorted from Beston by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the artillery company of Newport. The visitors will be the guests of the Old Guard of New York while here. Today Ghard of New York white here. You ay they will journey up the Hudson to West Point, where the cadet corps will be turned out for an exhibition Grill.

Commandant Mills, of the military-academy, will also entertain the visiting hosts informally.

Leaving here on Friday morning, the party will proceed to Washington where a reception has been prepared for them. Saturday will be passed in a visit to the tomb of Washington, and later in the day they will be recei President Rooscvelt at the White

Balavia, 1.80,1 Oct: 7, 1903

ENGLISHMEN AT WEST POINT.

Honourable Artillery Company Spending the Day at the Academy,

New York, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Renetable Artillery Congany or Boston and the Newyort Artillery Congany or Boston or the Art Bery Congany of Leiden, arrived here this meaning on a steamer from Fall River. Warn ing on a steamer from that larver. Wall-ing for them with steam up that a sec-eral steamer ready to take the America and Homerable Artillery Compone of Bester and its guest, the Homomrable rithly Company of Landon, to West Point Widout loss of time the two compaties, in full uniform, decembed this goal of of the Fall River load and carled in column of two necessarily arted in column of two necessarily and up the gargway of the excutes on load live minutes later, the steem of syung our arte the stream of syung our arter than the columns of burs of both confarmes plays ing proceeded up the treet.

4. Newport Artiflety Company which had been a first the process of the process o otma from West Penn late this atto

Bostone Flacord

s val of toom who of the Hone to a value of the Hone to a large with the second of the De meretal Mare

In Hotor hie Archers company of Landon, vie batters of n. B. C.

. at he are 1 1 of regressions

Providence, B.J.,) Telegram, Oct. 7, 1903.

SAW WEST POINT IN A DRIZZLE

Cadets Paraded for the Ancients and British Guests and a Reception Followed.

PROVIDENCE MEN

14. A Artillery company of London
15. A Artillery company of London
15. Artillery company of London
15. Company of Boston, arrived here
15. Company of London
15. Company of Boston, arrived here
15. Company

the visitors returned to the heart other heart there.

AT FALL RIVER

Honourables Paraded and Went Sight Seeing.

Fall River, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and in these of Boston, and the Honourin Allillery company of London arill here yesterday afternoon on it is New York and Washingthe New York and Washington to the Indian to the Ancients to this city yesterday was brief one, covering hardly more than four hours, but in that time the vinitors the militure and by a committed through throught through throught throught throught throught throught throught through throught through throught throught throught throught throught throught through throught thr

West Point and Will Reach line Metropolis Tonight.

Visitors on the Boat.

Newport, Oct. 7.—When the Fall River in steamer Puritan reached here last night, having on board the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston, and its guest, the Honourable Artillery company of Boston, and its guest, the Honourable Artillery company of Boston, and its guest, the Honourable Artillery company of Boston, and its guest, the Honourable Artillery company of Boston, and its guest, the Honourable Artillery company.

The Puritan was boarded here by the Newport Artillery company.

The Puritan was boarded here by the Newport Artillery company.

The Puritan was boarded here by the Newport Artillery company.

The Puritan was boarded here by the States Artillery band.

The Company of Boston and accompanied by the United States Artillery band.

The Company of the Monourables in New York.

Honourables Today.

They were met at the top topt. Coe, the post adjuditive many that the party continues the only action with the party. Lady Dentity at the obston Ancients riding.

It is no obston Ancients riding.

It is no obston Ancients riding.

The guests were escorted to the hill a safety of the cadets, after a raylew of the cadets, after the reception was followed by the cadets. After a raylew of the cadets, after the relations of the post to the relation of the bartillery company of Boston. Col. Gross and Mai Davenport were guests of the post to the were also accompany of Boston. Col. Gross and Mai Davenport were suest of the artillery company at the Hotel Somerset. Boston. Monday evening. They went to New York yesterday The other members of the Infantry went by

FALL RIVER'S WELCOME

Ancients Spent Four Hours In the Spindle City.

DID NOT STOP AT NEW YORK Newport Artillery Company Joined of time the two company NEWPORT ARTILLERY COMPANY JOINS LONDONERS ON BOAT.

same hoat

During the vieit of the Newport Artillery company they will attend the Old Guard fair in Madison square sarden.

Johnstown, N.J., NEW YORK INVADED.

London Honourables the Guests of the Old Guard Te-day.

New York, Oct. 7.-The famous Honourable Artillery company of London descended upon Knickerbocker town to-day, arriving from Boston early this morning on the Fall River boat. The nglish visitors were escorted from Boston by the Ancient and Honorable Arlillery Company of Boston, and the Artillery Company of Newport.

The visitors will be the guests of the Old Guard of New York, while here. To-day they will journey up the Hudson to West Point where the cadet corps will be turned out for an exhibition drill. Commandant Mills of the military academy will also entertain the visiting hosts informally and at about three o'clock they will embark on the return trip to New York.

During their stay here the Londoners will visit the Old Guard's militay bazaar at Madison Square Garden. Leaving on Friday morning, the party will proceed to Washington, where a reception has been prepared for them. Saturday will be passed in a visit to the tomb of Washington and later in the day they will be received by President Roosevelt at the White House. On Saturday night the party will depart for Niagara Falls.

The train through the trip will travel in two sections, the first being made up of a baggage car, two dining cars, six sleeping cars and the private car Columbia, which will be used by the Earl of Deubigh, commander of the London company, and Lady Denbigh.

Trumpeg (Carl,) Oct. 7, 1903.

ARTILLERY TOUR STARTS.

Boston and London Companies, 315 Strong, Leave the Hub.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 6.—The muchheralded tour throughout the United States and Canada of the Ancient and Homorable Artillery company of Massachusetts, having as its guests the Honorable Artillery company, of London, began to-day after four days b' entertainment and sightseeing in this section, All the officers and members of the London company, about 165 in number started on the trip. The excerting column of the Ancient and Ronorables was 150 strong.

Chester (Tal,) Republican.

Wet Their Whistles.

Special to The Morning Republican. Boston, Oct. 6.—At the banquet given Boston, Oct. 6.—At the banquer given last evening at Symphony Hall, in this city, by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston to the Honorable Artillery Company of London, England, Dewars White Label Scotch Whiskey was the only whiskey This emphasizes the popularty of this brand on both continents.

Boston Herbeld oct. 7, 1903

OFF FOR WEST POINT.

Britishers Impressed by Fall River's Mills.

GOTHAM SKY SCRAPERS, TOO

Hudson Trip Likely to Be a Bit Disappointing.

[Special Disputch to the Boston Herald.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 7, 1903. Following just the folliest sort of a night on the sound, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, with its guests, the Honourable Artillery Company of London, found themselves at the pier in this city just on time, 7 o'clock.

The reception of both companies in Fall River added another peg to the appreclation and admiration of the guests from London. On the boat last night the members were found to have in-scribed Fall River on their banners, They were not slow to compare that city with the mill towns of England, and were keenly alive to the many differences in construction of the great manufacturing establishments of that city. the general appearance of neatness and attention that were evident about the great establishments, and particularly the apparent prosperity evidenced by the smartness of the mill people, who greeted them so enthusiastically as they marched through the city.

Once on board the big Puritan, and having shifted from full to undress uniform, the members of both organizations were marshalled immediately for supper. To most of the men of the London company the great dining saloon of an American sound steamer was a surprise, and the service and menu came in for praise.

After supper the Honourables made themselves at home. The great engines. of the ship were of special interest, and the engine room was crowded all the evening with the Londoners, who kept the engineers busy in answering ques-tions, as to the whys and wherefores of the great machine that was forcing the big ship through the water at a 17-knot

Birighampton, N.J.,) Deader, Oct. 5, 1903. PHONORABLE ARTILLERY

Teday's Program Includes Steamboat Excursion and a Bauquet

Boston, Oct. 6,-This is the 266th fall field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, and with their guests, the Honourable Artillery company of London, the Boston company spent the day in a steamboat excurdon along the north shore. The day's program also included a reception and panquet in Symphony hall this evening. At 10 o'clock the members of the home company assemble 1 at their armory in Fancuil hall and soon after formed in line in South Market street to receive their English comrades. A short march took the column to Rowe's wharf, where a steamer was boarded for the day's trip.

· leagara (all (fil) valachet Gournest.

The Hours to Addition Company of in long as the groups of the An lent and Jonorable Artillery Company of deston, val come e Niagara Pale to et, frink and look next Sunday. The pray her con that day will underliedy to thicker than I, has been in a long line Telling about their operations mear Burker Hill, to "Cralle of Lib-"ty" and the "Hub of the Universe." Le Nea York World soys:

Com stibles and 10' these were nearly acked with a function bodies 0. for the ruture No combines und in the world can long a thetard sub-fine with inghts. The Henour die Archery Ompure of Landa and the Americal Harrison, A. N. Carlony of the Charles with a flat of these

oct. 7, 1903. HONORABLÉS CHARGE ON.

British and Boston Forces idvance on New York.

Special "Lord to p."

Fall River, Mass., the control of the fell of the control of the fell of the fel

Cumfield Resorde Oct. 7, 1903

Apparently the members of the Honourable Arullery company of London who are now visiting in this country. and having a saperb junket, could not have been suffering from the after effects of sea sickness last Friday when they were sprinted over the streets of Boston, immediately after landing. The pace was exceedingly lively and at times it seemed as though some of the men were nearly on a run.

It was reported that not a man of the company was sick coming over and this shows them to be veterins. Inlike our Amounts very many of them are young. The color hearers are especia to

There is something about these and their actions strangely unfamiliar is our eyes. Perhaps one thing one is dar eys. I the poul ons on their has gear famy little poul ons on their has gear H there is something als at their notal unhas to our eyes, they saw, and oxpressed a frankly " " more unfamily :-

(reconcell's only press member of Games. He enjoyed the . "The start yesterday and five days is " of all the average man can stand or rigid necessarila numerica numerica Mr Games veril no. 1. selt martially and boked every meh a

will

HOVORABLES GO TO WEST POLYT

New Bedfold Freederry,

HONOURABLES PAY FALL RIVER VISIT.

Visitors Marched Through Thronged Streets and Inspected the City—Entertained by Members of the Quequechan Club—Rich= ard Borden Post 46, G. A. R., Participated in Welcome Accorded Englishmen.

hearty welcome to the Hon- city. · s at a supper before the jour- sumed, · New York was continued.

m beginning to end the reception viritors was enthusiastic, and bearing the two companies of Boston and their guests, the Honourable Artillery company of London, the pier was crowded with people, who the pier was crowded with people will people was crowded with people, who the pier was crowded with people will people was list Sten Long, but Took River loat for West Point.

Hofung (Jal.) Oct. 7, 1903. THE LEHYMEN IN GOTHAM.

New York, October 7, 1903. clent and Honorable artiflery of Roston, and the Newport ar-

1. I. ver, Oct. 6.—Thousands of mal affair, and at its conclusion the led along streets gay with entire party boarded automobiles and nd American flags today, ac- visited points of interest around the

'a liery company of London,' Returning to the club at 5 o'clock the " nosts, the Ancient and Hon- line was re-formed and the companies Artillery company of Boston, and their escort started for the steamer they arrived in this city en route which was to convey them to New New York, Washington and Mon- York. While passing through Main.

1. The stop here was a brief one, street the line was met by Richard that time the visitors marched to City hall, where the marchers were do in thronged streets, were received reviewed by Mayor Grimes and mem--- 'ge committee of representative bers of the city government. At 5 30 Ps. partook of an informal lunch a supper was served on the steamer e Quequechan club, made a tour Puritan of the Fall River line, and at Dection around the city, and were 7 40 the journey to New York was re-

Big Crowd at Newport.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 6 .- When the most auspicious beginning of Fal River line steamer Puritan reached Cur which will embrace the Amer- here tonight having on board the Anetropolis, the national capital cient and Honorable Artillery company part of Canada. When the spec- of Boston and their guests, the Hon-

Vonumerkial appeal Oct. 5, 1903.

LONDON ARTILLERY

Given a Pleasing Reception at Providence.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 4. Cannon mounted a noisy solute to the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and their guests, the Honorable Artillery Company of London, on their arrival here today from Boston. Thousands of cheerlands of cheerlands of the victors by the entertaining an apany, the First Light Infantry Reginent. The streets were decorated with this and bugting and the progress of the procession was marked by almost continuous cheers.

oct. 7, 1903. THE NIME OF UNITE

Will Be at the Old Guard Fair in Madison Square Garden This Evening.

Brooklegse St. J.,) Standard Union

When "The King's Own," the Honoursble Artillery Company, of London follows the top of the British drums into the Old Guard fair this evening, the English gunners will gaze up at a wonderful canopy of patriotic red, white and blue which underlies the entire roof of the amphitheatre of Madison Square Garden. The fair's manager, Alfred Chasseaud, told C. H. Koster, the Old Guard's official decorator and illumina-tor, that he wanted a chief feature in the decorations which would have no precedent. The feature furnished in response, comprised the four largest American flags ever made, each 100 by 200 feet. Each star is six feet high and each stripe seven and one-half feet wide. The flags are gracefully draped, and form the centre for the harmonious and elaborate scheme of color and decoration for the Old Guyd's the state will be resulted in the second color and decoration for the Old Guyd's the state will be resulted.

scheme of color and decoration for the Old Guard's thoroughly military fair.

Over the centre of the amphitheatre hangs high a British fiag, measuring twenty by thirty feet, flanked by two American flags, each of the same dimensions as their English neighbor. British banners float proudly from the columns supporting the canopy. All this regard for the colors of the British Empire is in compliment and deference to the oldest existing military organization in the world, the Honourable Artillery Company, of London, who will march into the Garden to-morrow evening.

The balconies and boxes are decorated with American colors in great profusion.

The balconies and boxes are decorated with American colors in great profusion. At the centre and at the intersection of the main company streets which have been laid out upon the main floor, kneels a mammoth statue of Psyche high in the air upon a snow clad mountain. On all sides of these company streets are idealized white tents for booths, surmounted by golden eagles, shields, battle axes and silk flags.

After the banquet to-night at Sherry's, where the Old Guard will dine, wine, toast and cheer the "Ancients" of Boston and their guests, the Honourable Artillery Company of London, the triune host will mobilize, and, proceeding down Fifth avenue, triumphantly enter the fair.

Neagard Falls (N. J.)
Oct. 6, 1903,

The Honorable Artillery Company of London, as the guests of the Ancient the Ronorable Artiflery Company of Boston, will come to Niagara Falls to at, drink and look next Sunday. The pray here on that day will undoubtedy be thicker than it has been in a long line. Telling about their operations lear Bunker Hill, the "Cradie of Libirty" and the "Hub of the Universe," he New York World says:

Comestibles and potables were at-Comestibles and potables were attacked with a fury that bodes fill for the future. No commissariat in the world can long withstand such fierbe inslaughts. The Honourable Antillery Company of London and the Ancient and Honourable Artillery Company of Massachusetts, under a flag of truce, coined forces and invaded the Provicence plantations, long known for the richness of their food and the excellence of their vintages. or their vintages.

Le wistow, (Mel.) Journal!

'The British Ancients and Honourables think Boston's street plan is intricate. Then they are able to see that there is Providence (96.T.,) Journal Oct. 7, 1903. FALL RIVER.

Royal Entertainment for Royal

CITY AND VISITORS MADE A PROUD SHOWING.

Populace Greets Ancient and Honourable Artillery Company of London in a Bellitting Manner,-County Convention. - The Kirby Murder.-Innholders at Sen.

"We have dealt with these foreign "We have dealt with these foreign invaders in a befitting manner," remarked one of the most conservative leaders of thought in this city yesterday as the Ancient and Honourable Artillery Company of London iiiad into the Quequechan Club at 3:26 o'clock. This leader does not head society here or set the fashion in apparel, because he is too conservative and dwells too long on his manner of speech, just as many a 2-year-old trotter dwells too long on his stride. He can never be persuaded, to take off his toe weights. Nevertheless he volced public opinion

many a 2-year-old trotter dwells too long on his stride. He can never be persuaded to take off his toe weights. Nevertheless he voiced public opinion when he delivered himselt of the above uttorances, or utterance. There are others who would have described the pageant as accurately had they excialmed that it was all right and that there wasn't an inch of fly paper on it, but nobody would have paid any attention to them. It was a brave display and a proud showing that the Ancient and Flonourable Artillery Company of London made when it came to this centre yesterday, and thousands of bables, asked it years hence if they can remember the occasion, and replying in the negative, will disgust their parents.

Every baby turned out; every adult turned out; nobody remained at home, barring the bed-ridden. As early as 1:30 p. m. Main street was lined and packed and crowded to a point where the nailing down of the cover would have left hundreds fammed against fences and store fronts and post suits. The oldest inhabitant swore last evening that there had been nothing to approach the outpouring since the troops marched back from the Civil War, and as several families have moved in since 1851 the comparison dossn't convey the correct impression.

To return to the positive assertion quoted bearing on the befitting mannor in which the invaders were well-comed, it may be explained that no inhabitant folt that he was too small to do them reverence. When the Stars and Stripes are found stitched to the and Stripes are found stitched to the main first in the positive assertion in the outpour of the procession it from the cruit with the invaders were well-and thread shop a mile and a quarter and thread shop a mile and a quarter and the route of the procession it from the infants in the personal to the street had been swept for the Main time in 50 years. There was a first the tous of the proc

Lowell, Bitigere Oct. 7, 1903

Lord Denbigh, at the dinner in Symphony hall Monday night, remarked that his countrymen should view Bunk. er Hill monument with no ill-feeling, but rather as a reminder of how colonies ought not to be governed. As a matter of fact, England does treit her colonies differently now and one seldom hears of any such revolutionary rumors as were caused by her treatment of the Americans. The whole tone of the Ancients' dinner was one of cordial fraternity. Senatu Hour was in his happiest vein. Gov. Bates was never more eloquent, and elequence is one of his greatest charms. The respective commanders spoke in lines indicating the entire cordinaty chick has come after a century and a quarter of buried hatchets. Perhaps the best summing up of modern Anglo-Sexon ideals was given in the Governor's reroration when he said: "Mands have clusped across the seas and hearts have joined, and the ties of blood and the instipcts derived from the common Origin compel us to march all one way for the liberty of the individual the overthrow of the oppressor the uplifting of the downtrod len, and the Advancement of the Christian elvillaation throughout the world,"

Baltimore, (Med.)

Brave Men from London Arrive in New York-Visit to West Point and Old Guard Fair.

The famous Ancient and Honora le Ar-tillery Company of London descended upon Kni kere eker town today, arrivity green Khi kere eker town to dive, arrived a from Baston early this morting on the Pall River boat. The English visitors were es-erted from Roston by the Ancient and Hourable Artiflety Company of Roston, and the artiflety company of Newport. The visitors will be to anests of the Old Guard of New York while here.

To by they will journey up the Hudson to West Point, where the cadet evers will be turned out for anexhibition drill. Commandant Mills, of the Military Academy, will also entertain the visiting hosts in-formally, and about 3 o'clock they will embark on the return trip t New York. During their stay here the Londoners will visit the Old Guard's military lazaar at Madl. son Square Garden. Leaving here on Eri day meaning the porty will proceed to Washington, where a reception has been prepared. Saturday will be passed in a visit to the temb of Washington and later in the day they will be received by President Ross telt at the White House,

On Saturday night the party will de-part for Niagara Falls. The train throughout the trip will travel in two sections, t'e first being made up of a baggage car, two dining cars, any sleeping care and used by the Earl of Donlagh, commander of the London company, and Lady Den-

2 wee? Citizana Oct. 7. 1903

COMPANIES OF ANCIENTS STA TON 4 LONG TOUR

TO SEE A LITTLE OF THIS COLN. TRY AND CANADA.

All Hands Glad to Rest After Strong. our Day.

seeing the Sights.

sion bort and proceeded up the reserve

Oct. 7, 1903.

I den't know which attracted the more tites,ty and attention on Saturday last, the Arcients and Honorables, or the For Bograph machine, but I m inclined withh it was equally divided between Do two I was fortunate in having a powhere I could get a good view of this was vustly interested, I assure to be hundreds of others, I've al-entry curious as to how these this are taken. I was trying to up enough courage to ask some It's many questions I wanted answerI I was near enough to talk to the Controperator, when I spied ElectriI I, d; a cheerful, obliging young when I had frequently met in my it wind the scenes at Keith's. In I had frequently met in my it will be seen at Keith's. In
I we lectrician of the Control of the lectrician of the Control of the lectrician of the
I we lectrope the lighting
I the new Pawtucket Keith theatre, is erator of the Biograph machine a covidence Keith theatre, and had ac el'd the Blograph representative : latter went over before the re-stand to take a picture of the pa-

* Save me a bright ned, and I imme-began to everwheim him with the "Can this little machine really "The last time I saw this ma-"The last time I saw this ma-lithough at a distance, it was "K he thick or four years ago, it to large and combersome, and I ber all the fuss and commotion, rol gete ginnes at the Biorecent tax, there seemed to be

Now it seems to be a very kinntar, what, the difference?

It git, requirement Mr. Reddy,

It e gient difference which Mr.

ton Allo better than I." Then, the right of Mr. Bilizer, Mr.

made a place for me next to the low ich were assistant place. mer' made in the biograph picry made in the hiograph pietric made in the past in th

I last came to Providence to take tures, it was in the fall of 1860, it we days to take three or four pictified with me four large bother tied with me four large bother. This, and it took all of two days in bracelia, tharged and get the hear permits. This time, Manager her feeting recured the permission of the live for me to come within th on, a haif hour ago. I simply k my solitary dress-suit case, bur more modern machine. It to be shown the battleground only.

In the property of the control of the contro

10, or another like it. What out if this is a cample of the Ken completed and he joins the ranks of our foremost theatrical managers.' Too pad we don't reproduce colors, for those natty uniforms are certainly stunning, aren't

"I have taken about 320 feet of film, and you can gain some idea of how many pictures when I tell you that this mapictures when I tell you that this machine takes 18 pictures per minute. The picture, when reproduced at Keith's probably the week of Oct. 12th, will run a mething like 3½ or 4 minutes, quite a long picture. I got Clarke's band, then the local First Light Infantry, the Massachusetts' Analogies and then the Long chusetts' Ancients and then the Lon-don Honorable Artillery."

don Honorable Artillery."
"Did you get that dear little English drum major, with the funny little walk and peculiarly stylish carriage?" I queried anxiously, for he had made a big hit with me. "Yes, indeed," answered Mr. Blitzer, "he's one of the big features of the parade." By this time Mr. Blitzer was closing up his picture taking apparatus. and as I, too, was going over to the theatre to the matince performance and was anxious to combine my chat with him, I walked over with the two blostruph operators.

staph operators.

"You must have some particularly interesting experiences?" I suggested.

"Yes, indeed. Why, I haven't been home to New York in six weeks. I've just returned from a five week's cruise on hoard a ship, getting pictures of naval life. When the picture taking machine reached its present stage of perfection and simplicity it was thought that the number of representatives would be diminished, but on the contrary we have even more today than five years ago, thus making the number of films we take larger and more varied than ever before. Very few things happen in even the remotest part of the world that one of us is not there to take pictures of tr.

"There's a man in vaudeville, a mighty' clever little chap named Wilfred Clarke.

who has a bright little sketch called 'In the Biograph.' In that he called the Biograph 'an infernal machine,' but the 'ublic seems to like us more than ever wiblic seems to like us more than ever every season. At any rate, it must be admitted that they see many interesting things through us that they probably would miss if it were not for us. One of my most interesting experiences was when I made a trip to Wairyland' and took & pictures of fairles."

'Whit?' I gasped, 'what did you say."
I head at him sharply, but he smiled deseily, and as we drew near to the theatre lobby, he said: "Why haven't you near! about it" You wait a few weeks in i you'll see the results of my trip and see if you don't agree with me that it mi yould see the results of my trip and see if you don't agree with me that it must have been interesting." Then, roleing his nat confricusty, and before I cause thank him for his kindness in telling me all about his machine, he left me, while I went in to see the performance and pondered over what he could have meant about "Fairyland." I thought and thought all afternoon, but it has only just occurred to me that he must have meant those Biograph pictures called "Fairyland," which are making such a sensation in Philadelphia the past few weeks.

THE MATUNESE (LIME)

Willesbarre Mal,

Oct. 7, 1903.

Ancients on Tour.

Boston, Oct. 6.—The much heralded tour throughout this country and Canada of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts, having as its guest the Honorable Artillery Company of London, has begun after four days of entertainment and sightseeing in this section. All officers and aembers of the London company, about 105 in number, started on the trip. The escorting column of the Ancient and Honorables was 150 strong.

· Taliche Citizen. Oct: 7,1903

The sight of the Ancient and Honourable Artiflery company on parade brings back to memory the comment made on them in the Army and Navy Journal, a few years ago, "That they are honorable, no one doubts and that they are ancient is easily seen by their appearance."

Providence! (B. J.)
Bulletino THE HONOURABLE ARTILLERY PROCEEDS TO WEST POINT.

Boston Ancients Accompanied London Command on Visit to Military Academy.

New York, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Bos-ton and the Newport Artillery Company, escorting the Honourable Artillery Company of London, arrived here on a steamer from Fall River to-day.

on a steamer from Fall River to-day. Walting for them, with steam up, was a second steamer, ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and its guests, the Honourable Artillery Company of London, to West Point.

Without loss of time, the two companies, in full uniform, descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in column of twos across the pier and up the gangway of the excursion boat. Five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream, and with the united bands of both companies playing, proceeded up the river. The Newport Artillery Company, which had lined up in company front on the pier, while the Boston and London organizations were embarking, then proceeded to a hotel to spend the day, intending to meet the London and Boston commands on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

Langaster, (Fal.) oct. 7, 1903.

THE BRITISH ARTILLERY.

Accompanied By the Boston Organization it Goes to West Point.

New York, Oct. 7 .- The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston, and the Newport Artillery Company, escorting the Honourable Artillery Company, of London, arrived here today on a steamer from Fall River. Without loss of time the Boston and London companies in full uniform descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in column of twos across the pier and up the gangway. of an excursion boat, and five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and with the united bands of both companies playing proceeded up the river en route to West Point. The Newport Artillery Company then procreded to a hotel to spend the day, intending to meet the London and Boston Honourables on their return from West Point late this afternoon,

Min Fork, St. J.,)

Oct. 7, 1903.
All previous triumphs in New-England in city hospitality on a large scale to a visiting body of uniformed guests seem to have been surpassed in Boston's lavish entertainment of the Honourable Artillery Company of London. Every provision for the entertainment and delectation of the warrior pilgrims from over sea has been made with unstinted expenditure and in a spirit of the most cordial friendship, and even of affection.

Harrisbeer g (Pal.) Independent oct: 7, 1903. LONDON'S WARRIORS

REASON FOR THUR INVASION OF UNITED STATES TERRITORY.

Antiquity of the Honesable Artillery Company-Noted For Feats of Gastronomy-Prototype of Boston's Famous Military Company.

A notable event in the annals of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston is the visit of the Honorable Artillery Company of London, the world's coldest military organization, which comes to this country in response to an invitation extended by the Massachusetts company when it crossed the ocean in 1896 and was the guest of the famous London military

The Honorable Artillery Company of London was chartered by Henry VIII. in 1537, more than a century before any existing British regiment was organized, under the title of the Fraternity Guild of St. George, and at first consisted of archers. At a very early period in its existence it adopted the use of artillery and became virtually a school of instruction for the officers of the city-"trained hands"-which purpose it fulfilled for two centuries.

During the last hundred years, however, the company has been noted for its peaceful proclivities and has won more fame for its prowess with the knife, fork and bottle than on the strennous field of battle.

EARL OF DENBIOH. Jeutenant colonel commanding the Hon-trable Artillery Company of London.]

From 1041 the sovereign or the Prince of Wales has always held the nominal title of command as captain general, but the actual command of the corps devolves on the lieutenant clonel. The officers of the company, both civil and military, were elected ganually down to 1849, since which the all the military officers have been appointed by the crown for periods of five years, renewable at the pleasure of the sovereign. The present lieutenant colonel and actual commander is the Earl of Denbigh, who leads the invasion of this country by the doughty trenchermen of the Honorable Artil-

The Earl of Denbigh, who has been the company's commander since 1893.
Was a real soldier for years and served both in India and Egypt. He distinguished himself at Tel-el-Kebir and was decorated for bravery there. He was one of Queen Victoria's lords in walting and now fills that office for King Edward. There are about 750

COLONEL SIDNEY M. HEDGES [Commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston.]

members of the organization all told, but one-fourth of whom braved the perils of a trip across the Atlantic.

The Aucient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, the bost of the London fighters, is the oldest military body in the United States. It was organized in 1637 under the title of the Military Company of Massachusetts, and a charter was granted by Governor Winthrop on March 13, 1638. The original charter is still in existence.

The Boston organization has a right to its claim of lineal descent from its London prototype, for Cap' in Robert Keayne, who probably suggested its formation and was its first command er, was in the old country a member of the Honorable Artillery Company, as were several of his associates. The New England company was modeled after the old England organization, and in course of time it adopted a simflar name. Since about 1760 Fancuil hall has been the armory of the company, and in the old "cradle of liberty" the annual feast is held. The present commander of the Ancient and Honorables is Colonel Salney M Hedges, who was drst elected in 1804

The relations between the London corps and the Boston company have al ways been most cordial. In 1857 Prince Albert, the prince consort, who was then commander of the Honorable Ar tillers Company, was made an hener ary member of the Boston organication

Aboutioned, Charle

Ancients on Tom.

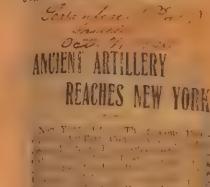

Boston, Get. 6. The much horabled tour throughout this country and Canada of the Ancient and Honoralde Artillery Company of Messa losetts baying as its cuest the Honor ble Artillery Company of London, has begun after four days of entertainment and sightseeing in this so trop All officers and members of the london compens, about 165 in number stand in the trip. The essential forms of the An-cient and Honorate was the strong

HONORABLES ARRIVE BY BOAT.

Lendon Artillery Company and Boston Honorables Depart Immediately for West Point.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Newport Artillery Company, escorting the Honourable Art. Hery Company, esdorting the Honourable Art. Hery Company of London, arrived at the Fall River pier, foot of Warren erreet, Manhattan, this morning, shortly after 7 o'clock, Wallers for them with steam up was an excursion boat of the Iron Steambout Company, ready to take the Anei n' and Honorable Art. Hery Company of Boston and its guest, the Honourable Artillery Company of London to West Point. Withou loss of London to West Point. Withou loss of time the two companies in tell uniform descended the gangway of the Fall River Loat and marched in columns of two across the election and up the gangway of the coveres. eler and up the gangway of the excursion ton and the Honourable Artill ry Company of London were embarking. After the excursion boat cast of the Newport organization marcael out and up Warren street to the Listation, where the company boarted a train and went to the Hotel Burchold. They will neet the Ancient and Honorables of Twikly-second street on their return, at 5 ocle k from West Point in to inken (Po

HOVORABLES IN NEW YORK,

Boston Gost, Cet. 7, 1993:

SWINGING ROUND THE CIRCLE WITH THE HONOURABLES

"AN REVOIR" TO BOSTON, A NIGHT ON THE SOUND AND "GOOD MORNING" TO NEW YORK.

Philadelphia (Pal., Oct. 7, 1903.

GUESTS OF THE OLD GUARD.

The Honorable Artillery Company Welcomed to New York.

New York, Oct. 7.—The famous Honorable Artillery Company of London descended upon Knickerbocker town to-day, arriving from Boston early this morning on the Fall River boat. The English visual seconded from Boston Boston with the Sall River boat. itors were escorted from Boston by the Anitors were escorted from Boston by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Beston and the Artillery Company of Newport. The visitors will be the guests of the Old Guard of New York while here.

To-day thay will journey up the Hudson to West Point, where the cadet corps will be turned out for an exhibition drill. Company Mills, of the Military Accept.

be turned out for an exhibition drill. Commandant Mills, of the Military Academy, will also entertain the visiting hosts informally, and at about 3 o'clock they will embark on the return trip to New York.
During their stay here the Londoners will visit the Old Guard's military bazaar at Madison Square Garden. Leaving here on Friday morning the party will proceed to Washington, where a reception has been prepared for them. Saturday will be passed in a visit to the tomb of Washington, and later in the day they will be received by President Roosevelt at the White

Sand Francisco (Ball.) Oct. 5, 1903.
ANCIENTS AND THEIR GUESTS ATTEND CHURCH

London Company and Boston Organization to Start on Trip To-Morrow.

BOSTON, October 4.—The quietness of Sun BOSTON, occurred to-day by the sound of martial music as the Honorable Artillery Company of music as the Honorana Arthery Company of London and its hosts, the Ancient and Honor-London and its hosts, the Ancient and Honorabic Artillery Company of this city, marched through some of the Back Bay streets to Trinturough some of the Back Bay streets to Trinturough the Ancient of the services in that edifice had the Courch. The services in that edifice had the Ancient of the British service whose the British service whose homes are in this of the British service whose homes are in this of the line of march was well lined with city. The line of march was well lined with city. The line of march was well lined with sepctators.

The procession was under the leadership of The procession was under the leadership of Licutenant-Colonel C. S. Courtney, whose staff for the day included many British officers, or the day included many British officers, nembers of a large number of independent nembers of the United States Army. At everal officers of the Service the parade rene conclusion of the service the parade rene and marched to the American House, in the several organizations were enterhered that orders will leave on their trip the Middle States and Canada next Tuesday.

Mark Charles on Tour.

Ancients on Tour.

Ancients on Tour.

Boston, Oct. 6.—The much heralded tour throughout this country and Canada of the Ancient and Honorable Arada of Company of Massachusetts. having as its guest the Honorable Artillery Company of London, has begun after four days of entertainment and sightseeing in this section. All officers and members of the London company, about 165 in number, started on the trip. The escorting column of the Anclent and Honorables was 150 strong.

Miladelphia (Ja), Oct. 7. 1903. State Fencibles at Hosts.

Greanfield Beorder OEt. 7, 1903.

ENGLISH CAPTURE BOSTON

Bunker Hill Floats British Flag-Special Correspondence to The Recorder

Boston, October 5, 1903.—It has been a great and a busy week for Boston. Such happenings, chief of which was its capture, Friday, by 169 gentlemen of England, disguised as Friors. They looked very fierce an naimost all the public buildings and maisiness houses hung out the British flag to win their good will, and with success, for they prove the most peaceable, mild mannered men that ever shouldered a gun, or drew a cutlass. The whole city is at their feet, and at their mercy, but thus far the only havor that they have been guilty of is a tremendous attack upon our eatables and drinkables, the latter seemables and dridateles, the latter seeming more important to them than the former. To-day they took in our harbor and the north shore and to-night they are camped in Symphony hall with Boston's foremost men in (alleged) military circles, and are to be appeased by a $50,000 banquet, the like of which is said never to have been known in these United States United States.

Workester Telegiand.

* Tonight the Honourables and the Ancients will eat the dinner that has been under discussion for five years. It will cost $75 a piate, will have $8000 worth of wine, and will be in all ways the highest priced example of gregarious eating that has ever occurred in Boston. Saturday! the Londoners ate clams in Rhode Island. The clam seems harmless, and is palatabie. But in its mild and unresisting way it can raise toore bother than a half-ripe watermelon. Yestordey the soldiers worked behind closed doors, and it is not known what they did. One thing is certain. Someone gave them a meal. Tonight's humble rations will be the topnotch of the festivities, but there are a few more banquets to follow. On the whole it can truthfully be said that the visitors have eaten their way to the hearts of the Bostonians.

HONOBABLES PLEASURING.

Excursion, Reception and Banquet in Today's Program.

Boston, Oct. 5 .- This was the 266th fail field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company and, with their guests, the Honorable Artillery company of London, the Boston company spent the day in a steambout excursion along the north shore.

The day's Drogram also in the local statement of the control of

along the north shore.

The day's program also included a reception and banquet in Symphony hall this evening. At 10 o'clock the members of the home company assembled at their armory in Fancuil hall and soon afterwards formed in line on South Market street to receive their English comrades. A short march took the column to Rowe's wharf, where a steamer was boarded for the day's trin

Bostons Record

Lieut, Boynton of sta. 18, who has had charge of the Back Bay police since the Ancients have been in the city, says that he recis 10 years younger now that they have left. He had charge of the detail Oct. 7, 4900

29ir bon der Artiff'rie!

Die "Alten und Chrenwerthen" von Bofton und London bier gu Befuch, Die Beit ale es nech ju ber Lieplinanbe. Idiaftigung ber Bantees gegorte, ben brief. iden Löwen in ben Schweif zu fneipen, ift langt vorüber. Augendlicklich find wir im Beiden anglo-ameritanifer Bererfibe Die "Ancient und Honorable Artifert Company of Boston" wurde bei ihrem Befuch in Conbon von ber bortigen Honorable Artillern Company mit fadelflammenber Begeisterung aufgenommer. Ratürlich liegen fich bie Bostoner Ancient und honorables nicht fpotten, als bie honorables ibnen ben Wegenbefuch machten.

Stufe famen bie Uncients und bie venorables bier an. Die Londoner machen einen Abftecher nach Beft Boint, nach ihrer Widtehr um 5 Uhr Abends wird bas große Berbrüberungsfeft auf Rem Porter Pflafte

Die Uniformen der Ancient & Honor-ablek, sowie der Honorablek sind dieselben: Rotheingesafter blauer Frad und blaue folen mit breiten rothen Streifen an ber

Die Arifferie jog ohne Ranonen aus, bagegen trugen bie Bemeinen Musteten, und awar im mafferdichten Futteral.

Bridge fort, let, 1

Fall Field Day,
Boston, Oct. 5.—This was the 266th fall field day of the Ancient and Honcrable Artillery company, and with their guests, the Honourable Artillery company of London, the Boston company spent the day in a steamboat excursion along the north shore. The day's program also included a recep-tion and banquet in Symphony ha a heir armory in Fanuel hall, and soon ag-terwards formed in line on South Market street to receive their

THE 258TH FALL FIELD DAY

of the Ancient and Honorable Artil lery-Elaborate Preparations for To-Morrow Afternoon.

Rogion, Oct. 5.—This is the 266th full ode day of the Ancient and Honorable thet. Company and the program the day's relebration and outer , ment has been prepared, then mencing with thin forenoon, will , possibly by aunrise to-morrow exacting fastidioueness and will $50 h00 Wines will be poured by

Brockleans Stor Flowsk All Elmon the discovery that the London H Louis

blee do not care to drink, and now unterstand thoroughly the cause of the de-line in England's military power.

LONDON HONOURABLES OFF FOR BOAT RIDE

Will Their Hosts They Go for Excurin Boston To-Night.

Monday.-This was the 266th fall of the Ancient and Honorable 'ompany, and with their guests, pany, and with their substate hie Artillery Company, of ston company spent the day it excursion along the North arts programme also includes to banquet in Symphony Hall

ARTILLERY COMPANY

BEING ENTERTAINED

than (A. M.) Oct. 5; 403

INTERTAINING THE ENGLISH.

Mona's Ancient and Monorable Keep Their Guesta Moving.

Hirton, Oct. 5.-This was the 266th " .a. of the Ancient and Honorables Company, and with their guests Company, and with their guesses the curame Articlery Company of con, the laston company spent the laston about excursion along the hour. The day's program also to the reception and banquet in this evening.

The this evening.

The house of the home is a company afterward formed.

I'il and soon afterward formed South Market street to receive glish comrades. A short march onn to the Rowe's whari

Ten Jock, M. 3.)
Gen park - J. Harlaled,
Oct. T. 1903.
Williamidge Bavalion.

of at and Sonorable Artiflerh y my agnie essurtirien bie vie h Lithern Company" part ron er dalt illn e eine fier an-k in tracif nie opoer bit bron anter naf och Pount 11 ? " Remporter Ar el ere Com" " where not have and much much " sa gotto die Barren Etr hin-

Bushows K. Pabel will

Wilwaukee (Wis). LONDON COMPANY AT CHURCH

Honorable Artillerymen Attend Special Service at Trinity.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE SENTINEL. BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 4 .- The quietness of the Sabbath was stirred today by the sound of martial music, as the Honorable Artillery company of London and their hosts, the Ancleut and Honorable Artillery company of this city, marched through some of the back bay streets to Trinity church, where services had been arranged by British residents of this city. The parade included army and navy veterans of the British service whose homes are in this city. At the conclusion of the services the parade reformed and marched to the American house, where the several organizations were entertained at luncheon. The two organizations will leave on their trip to the middle states and Canada next Tuesday.

Alloosea (Gal,) Oct. 5, 1903.

Ancients Attend Church.

BOSTON, Oct. 4 .- The quietness of the Sabbath was stirred today by the sound of martial music as the Honorable Artillery company, of London, and their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, of this city, marched through some of the back bay streets to Trinity church. The services in that edifice had been arranged by the British residents of this city, and the parade included, besides the two military bodies, those army and navy veterans of the British service whose homes are in this city. The line of march was well lined with spectators. The two organizations will leave on their trip to the Middle states and Canada next Commercial Sepal.) Oct. 5, 1903,

LONDON ARTILLERY

Attended Divine Services at Trinity Church, Boston.

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—The quietness of the Sabbath was eitrred today by the sound of martial music as the Honorable Artillery Company of London, and their basts, the Aucient and Honorable or points of this ity, mirched through the streets to Tunity church. The services in that editice had been arranged by the British residents of this city, and the parade, included, besides the two military bedies, those army and may veterans of the army settine, whose homes are in this city. The line of march was well lined with spectators.

At the conclusion of the service the parade reformed and marched to the American House, where the several organizations were entertained at luncheon.

Galend News, Oct. 7. 1903.

ANCIENTS OFF FOR THE WEST.

Roston, Oct. 8.—The Honourable Artillery company of London and es-corting delegation of Ancients left the South station at 2 o'dlock this on, Nicgers, Toronto and Mon.

The party will return to Boston Oct. 12, two days before the British guests are scheduled to sail for home, On ariving at Fail River this afternoon the two companies will be escorted from the train to the steambant by a column representing the boat by a column representing the Columbus (0.) oct. 5, 1903.

ELABORATE DINNER

Will Be Served the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company.

BOSTON, Oct. 5 .- This is the 266th fall field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company and a program for the day's celebration and the entertainment has been prepared that, commencing early this forenoon, will end-well, any time before sunrise tomorrow morning. After a street parade this morning the company and its guests went on a harbon excursion, which lasted well into the afternoon. The big banquet will be given at Symphoney hall, to which function 1000 members and guests have been invit-

The dinner has been prepared with the most exacting fastidiousness and will cost $50,000. Three hundred waiters will be in attendance and the wines; will be poured by 75 specially selected

Nowport 19. 9.) News 1903. Joston Ancien s Take Their Juests on la Steamboat Excursion.

BOSTON, Oct. 5 .- This was the two hundred and sixty-sixth fall field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company and with their guests, the Honourable Artillery Company of the Honourable Artillery Company of London, the Boston company spent the day in a steamboat excursion along the north shore. The day's program also included a reception and banquet in Symphony hall this evening.

At 10 o'clock the members of the home company assembled at their armory in Faneuli hall, and soon afterwards formed in line in South Market street to receive their English comrades, A march through some of the principal streets was made on the way to Rowe's wharf, where a steamer was boarded for the day's trip.

to Howe's wharf, where a steamer iboarded for the day's trip.

Observed.

Oct. 5, 1903.

The ANCIENTS' FIELD DAY.

Their London Brothers Participate in the Proceedings.

Boston, Oct. 5 .- This was the 266th fall field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co., and with their guests, the Honourable Artillery Co. of London, the Boston company spent the day in a steamboat excursion along the North Shore. The day's programme also included a reception and banquet in Symbony Hell this carrier of the steam of the clided a reception and banquet in Symphony Hall this evening.

At 10 o'clock the members of the home company assembled at the armory in l'aneuil Hall and soon afterwards formed in line on South Market street to receive their English comrades. A short march took the column to Rowe's wharf, where a steamer was boarded for the day's trip.

May york! (A. y.)
Insurance Press,
Oct. 7, 1903.
ANCIENT AND HONORABLES.

Boston is en fets on account of the visit of the Ancient and Honorables of London to the Ancient and Honorables of Massachusetts. Colonel Sydney W. Hedges, general agent of the Mutual Benefit Life, is the commander of the ioenl body, and among the ranks of the marchers might be observed a number of local insurance men, including Colonel Benton of J. C. Paige & Co., George P. Field and E. B. Cowles of Field & Cowles, Percy V. Baldwin of the Washington Life, and Colonel J. C. White of the Travelers.

Tew Loydon! (6t. 1 Oct. 5, 1903 THE ANCIENTS' FIELD DAY, Boston Company Takes Its Guests For a Steamboat Excursion.

BOSTON, Oct. 5:—This was the 266th fall field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, and with their guests, the Honourable Artillery company guests, the Honourable Artillery company of London, the Boston company spent the day in a steamboat excursion along the north shore. The day's program also included a reception and banquet in Symphony hall this evening.

At 10 o'clock the members of the home company assembled at their armory in Faneuil hall and soon afterwards formed in line on South Mostate.

wards formed in line on South Market, street to receive their English comrades. A short march took the column to Roc's wharf where a steamer was boarded for the day's trip.

> Albany, St. J., Y Oct. 5, 1903 HONOURABLES IN BOSTON.

English Warriors After a Parade Attend Service in City of Beaus.

Boston, Oct. 4. services at Trinity church this afternoon was the chief event of the day for the Honorable Artillery of London, now the guests of the American Honorables of this city. The services can Honorables of this city. The services were arranged by the British residents of Boston and were preceded by a parade, participated in by the English Honourables and American Honorables and by the army and many veterars of the British service now in this city.

Rev. E. Winchester Donald, Trinity's rector, conducted the services there. Some of the visitors attended the Catheral of the Holy Cross. The program for the Catheral of the Holy Cross.

Some of the visitors attended the Cathedral of the Holy Cross. The program for to-morrow calls for a harbor excursion and a banquet in the evening. The visitors and their hosts will leave for their trip through the Middle States and Canada. Tuesday.

Topekal (Kland) Glate Junal) Oct. 7, 1909 VISIT WEST POINT

Ancient Artillery Companies of London and Boston on Tour.

Ancient Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company essorting the Honourable Artillery company essorting the Honourable Artillery company of London, arrived here today on a steamer from Fall River and without loss of time the Boston and London companies in full uniform descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in column of twos across the pler and up the gangway of an excursion boat and five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and with the united bands of both companies playing proceeded up the river en route to West Point. The Newport Artillery company then proceeded to a hotel to spend the day, intending to meet the London and Boston Honorables on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

Lowell Incie!

The round of banquets and lunchtons which they have been compelled to endure since their arrival must have become nauseating to the Honourables by this time, but Probably La more, of than the columns of underested readas matter which the Roston journals have been dishing up about them. In there is any one fault that can be found with our New England hospital ity it is the tendency to slop over

Balaveas GALA DAY ALONG THE SHORE.

How Honourables of London Are Entertained by Boston Honorables.

Bosron, Mass., Oct. 5.—This is the 266th fall field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, and with its guests, the Honourable Artillery Company of London, the Boston company spent the day in a steamboat excursion along the north shore. The day's programme also included a reception and danger in Symphony Hall this evening.

At 10 o'clock the members of the home company assembled at their armory at Faneuil Hall and soon afterward formed in line on South Market street to receive their English comrades. A short murch took the column to Rowe's Wharf, where a steamer was bounded for the day's trip.

New York, (1. y.) Oct. 5, 1903

JRITONS STARTLE BOSTON WITH A SUNDAY PARADE

Honorable Artillery Company of London is Given a Banquet.

Boston, Oct. 4 .- The usual Sanday quietade was pleasingly disturbed to-day by martial music as the Honorable Artiflety martial music as the Honorable Artillety Company of London and its host, the Ancelent and Honorable Artillety Company of this city, marched through Back Bay streets to Trinity Church, where services, arranged by British residents of this city, were conducted by the rector, the Rev. E. W. McDonnid.

The parade included hesides the two millitary bodies those army and navy veterals of the British service whose homes are in Boston, and was viewed by many thousands of persons.

To morrow the visitors will be given an excursion in Hoston Harbor, and in the evening will be given a banquer in Symphony Hell.

The two organizations will leave Tuesday for the Middle States and Canada.

Naw Badfood Stanke col Oct. 5. 1903.

ANCIENTS' FIELD DAY.

Spent in an Exentsion Along the North

Boston, Oct. 5 .- This was the Din full field day of the Ancient and H mar bl Artillery company, and with thir guests, the Honourable Artill ry on pany of Landon, the Boson country spent the day in a steinboot excursialong the north shore. The day along the north shore. The day gram also included a respirate tuet in Syna hony half the company assemble half then a formed in line on South Mark to formed in line on South Mark to

SEING ROYALLY ENTERTAINED.

Boston, Oct. 5. - This was the 2duth Pali field day of the Ancient and Hon-Ourable Aftillery company and with their guests, the Honourable Artillery commany of I online, the Baston com oany apont the day in a steamer e corr. ed. brods n'nes edt pro a nur day's programme and in a fel a redenotion and panel 12; in S. monon, na

At 10 o'clock the members of the home company assembled at their arm-orv and soon at orwards formed or line

Hartfood (it.) Courbat Jet. 5, 1903

It is reported that there was indigna-tion in Boston at discovering the British flag Soating from the Bunker Hill monument in honor of the Honourable Artillery company on Saturday. It should be borne in mind by impatient and grateful Yankees that the Honourables were not engaged in the fight that the monument marks. What would have happened, if they had been, we can only guess. Possibly hostilities would have heen suspended to inquire when governors would be elected in North Carolina and South Carolina, and, after that, what would be their pleasure.

Hartford, (Ct.,) Jimes

Earl Denbigh, the commander of the tandan Hanourable Artillery company. being a Catholic, went with Mayor Cellins to the morning service to the cathefral in Boston on Sun ley. The m, m ers generally attended divine serstee at Transty church in the afterract. This even ng occurs the grand. est event of the Lordoners' visit, the ffty thousand dollar damer it. Symphory hell. It is in the actuals of this bunget that the Beston folks have sought to demonstrate to the Engushmen that in pure luxury the old coun py c, anot outdo the newer one 'fin symphety hall timer to-night in say. ert respects surpresses and intertainme t ever given on so large . scale in the matry, and will be for many of the traders the "time of their lives, Combinal of Tol

J.L. 5, 1703

DINNER WILL COST $50,000

Seventy-Five Experts Will Open Wine for the Honorable Military Company. 1 1 () 5 Till 11, 1

Mica, Texas Oct 6, 1900

Foclow Viraveles! Oct. 7, 1903

Oraning that can be called to the of the Boston Ancients is the . . t the Ancients to properly sa commanding officers. The . Hr. ourables always salute their in trive they address them and the such thing as "Hello, Sid," Bill," or hello anybody else.

hay not be known, but it is a fact, that at home the Honourable " 'Company members are not " Honourables." In England below the son of a peer is en-: e title of "honourable," and " rs of the crack organization 11. Is city are known in dear old " - n to the "H. A. C.'s."

· Rew Orleans, Lal. Oct. 7, 1903.

THE HONORABLE ARTILLERY COMPANY

' Associated Press.)

NORK, Oct. 7.- The Andent and 1 Artiflery Company of Boston, Newport Artillery Company, es-Honorable Artillery Company perived here to-day on a from Fall River minutes later the steamer swung the stream and with the united both companies playing, proup the river on route to West The Newport Artillery Company treded to a hotel to spend the anding to must the London and tenerables on their return from

But York St. 19.3.

Ancients, or for other reason, he not know, but Collector of the Port N. Strandan was forced to the naveled to the naveled to the naveled that a wave of moral tr trained f.

the conference my check for two and expans 70 Joy ($100.70) dollars. and supposed to be due your departis some reason this indebtedness when due, and my client, decit justice be done, takes this harging what is thought to land moral obligation. For my client desires not to be g only to have the error

onsituted the Collector's office that constituted the largest single contrithe new military night of the new military night of the months and so clock the land. One incients and Homeliand, the incients and terminate to the flander from the flander of march through the bootle and jewelled to be not be a complicated march to be not be n do ig the Loon's and global general in the configuration of badges. It is a configuration that their guests of song up a West Print to the third life Trave will configurate the the their traves of the filter that the second robus from up the river

w/com gark 1 + 3/1

O / 1903.

Crosse (Wes) Oct. 5, 1903

HONORABLES KEEP ON MOVE

Program Today Consists of Trip Along the North Shore

(By the Associated Press.)
Boston, Oct. 5.—This was the 266th autumn field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company and with its guests, the members of the Honorable Artillery company of London, the Boston company spent the day in a steamboat excursion along the north shore, the day's program also including a reception and banquet in Symphony hall this evening.

Indianapolis, Ind.) News Oct. 7, 1903.

HONOURABLES VISIT CADETS.

Ancient Artillery Company was Accompanied by Boston Hosts.

NEW YORK, October 7 .- The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston, and the Newport Artillery Company, escorting the Honourable Artillery Company, of London, arrived here to-day on a steamer from Fall river. Five minutes later the steamer swung continuous deficients and with the united continuous decided up the river to West Point. The fewport Artillery Company went to a cole to spend the day, intending to cet the London and Boston Honorables their return from West Point late is evening. into the stream and with the united

Fringfield News,

The Boston papers are making much of the entertainment being provided the Ancient and Honourable Artillery Company of London and daily we are told how much everything costs. The Boston company should be saved from its fool friends in the organization and on the press. To explain in detail how much wines and liquors have been drupk and how much each bit of entertainment costs is not only vulgar but

New York, M. J., Oct. 7, 1903.

THE WARRIORS COME TO-DAY.

OLD GUARD GIRD THEMSELVES FOR THE JOUST.

Masonia Night at the Fair-Sir Thomas Linton to Be a Guest at To-night's Banquet-French Cruiser's Officers invited to Fair-Shooting Contests.

The Old Guard rested comfortably during the night and is in the fittest sort of condition for to-day and to-night's joust with the Ancients of Boston and the Honorables of London.

It was because of this getting ready that most of the Old Guard went home early last night from their fair at Madison Source Garden. That's the excuse the members offered as they retired from the booths while they still had a little change in the Mayflower, and they will go home in the Columbus, the new steamship

Troy, A.J., Simes, Oct. 7, 1903.

Those London Honourable Artillerymen are models of military and international courtesy. On every possible occasion the American President is toasted, the American flag saluted and the American anthem played. In fact, they set an example of reverence and respect for national authority, customs and emblems that might well be imitated by our own people. Americans have no lack of real regard for their institutions, but they are sometimes a little slow in mani-

Hall River Harald, Oct. 7. 1903.

March to the Boat.

The head of the column, consisting of the military escort, drew'up on the right side of the route, beginning toward the west end of Anawan street and extending until the right of line, skipping the railroad track, reached the boat wharf. A way was cleared down the long platform and over the car tracks to the gangplank of steamer Puritan, when, forming by twos, the Honourables of London passed aboard first, followed by the Anclents of Boston, and leaving the escort to re-form and march back up to the armory when all duties were past.

Mantime the crowd about the steambest whair increased in numbers until leaving time. As the steamer's paddies turned loud cheers were given for the united companies of Boston and London but the steamer's patient the united companies of Boston and London by the hundreds ashore, lasting until the boat was well into the stream, with the usual accompaniment of waving hand-kerchiefs. From points of vantage down the water front cans of red, blue, and green fire were touched off in salute to the steamer and its distinguished freight, in answer to which the Puritan's whistle sounded.

It was announced to be a portion of the plan to take on one or two companies of regulars at Newport for an escort to New York. Several Boston newspaper men accompanied the Ancients for the entire round trip.

Grad Gra, Zesturg,

Oct., 7, 1903,

Die hauptsächlichste Befcaftigung ber "Uncient und honorable Artillerh" bon Bofton nebft ihrem Besuch aus London scheint ber du fein, fich in einen Buftanb gu berfeben, ben man "boll wie eine Ranone" bezeichnet. Nach hierher telegraphitten Berichten über ihr Bantett wurden bort die Flaschenbatterien mit einem Glan genommen, ber ber Gache würdig war, und wenn auch immer neues Material aufgefahren wurdebie alte und ehrenwerthe Artillerie genirte bas nicht. Aneipfrohe herren fürwahr - aber was werben unfere Temperengler über biefe angelfächfifche Berbrüberung fagen?

Newsburgfort News!

There has been some discussion of the fact that during the stay of the London Honourables the British flag was hung from out Bunker Hill monument. We guess that did not do anybody any harm, even if the British colors have not been waved on the hill since 1775. We have the hill and can afford to be a little magnanimous in the matter.

Governor Bates, at the Anglents' ban-quet, took water. Cheer up. Governor! You are not the first man who has had

Now York! (1.7.) Oct. 81 1903.

ANCIENTS ON TOP

Attack on Waldorf Breakfast Made with Undiminished Ardor.

THE LONDONERS LIE LOW

No Attempt Made to Compete with Boston's Famous Warriors in Their Particular Line of Fighting-Continental Uniforms Create Consternation in Waldorf

Luncheon Is Served-They Go to Madison Square Garden To-night Reveille for the Ancients and Honorables of Boston sounded at the Walderl at a late hour this morning. The fatigues of the battle fought out at Sherry's last night held the Ancients long in slumber. Once awakened, however, no time was lost . Quickly the veteran warriors fell into the familiar formation and a brisk and determined attack was made on the bar and Corridors-The Amoskeag Veterans and Their Imposing Weight-Old Guard

Escorts Guests to Claremont, Where breakfast room. The Honogrables of London were already up and about. Freshly shaven and tubbed. with their frock coats tightly buttoned and carrying swagger sticks, they were looking very fit indeed. By the use of consummate discretion and conducting a campaign on the line of the enemy's refreshments of masterly inactivity, the Honourables have come through the struggle thus far looking as though they had just stepped off shipboard.

When one of their officers was informed that in some quarters it had been suggested that the Honourables weren't holding up their end he said:

"What do you mean by that?" That they can't drink us down? Oh, we can't compete with them at that. No use tryin', you know "

The corridors and office of the Waldorf were a sight to make George Washington turn in his grave. As worn in its day, the Continental uniform was doubtless a gar-ment of considerable dignity, but cigars were not smoked then, and the spectacle of a fat middle aged man with a policeman's mustache in a swallow tail coat and cocked hat that doesn't approximate fitting him, standing in the office of a modern hotel with a huge cigar dropping ashes on the lace rul. fles that cascade down his expansive bosom such a spectacle is one which only those with courage like that of the Boston Ancients would venture to present.

Not the least extraordinary sight in the Waldorf this morning was that presented by the elderly gentleman who represented the Amoskeag Veterans of New Hampshire. The Amoskeag Veterans are an organization made up of men who live in the neighborhood of Manchester, where Gen. Stark came from. The uniform they wear is to perpetuate the memory of Gen. Stark. It is Continental. The elderly representative of the Amoskeags stood in black boots, with loose turndown white top, in which his slender calves rattled as he walked. Ruffles flowed over his bosom in the centre of which blazed a diamond pin. White whiskers flowed down into the ruffles and Within the whiskers smouldered a cigar. A cocked hat, medals and much gold further adorned this costume. Standing in the middle of the Weldorf office, this militia man told the story of the battle of Bennington when Gen. Stark remarked: "If we done win to-day, Molly Stark will sleep a widow to.

night." As history records, the battle was won by the Continentals. When asked if the Amoskeag Veterans were still subject to call in time of war, the veteran replied that they were, but that they wouldn't be called out unless everybody else was

"Why," said he, "there are half a dozen men in my company who weigh over 300 pounds apiece."

"Is weight a qualification for member-ship in the Amoskeags?" was asked.

"Well, not exactly. And yet it counts. You get men like that marching in company fours and I calc'late they make a pretty smart showing."

The programme for to-day included an automobile ride through the Park and to the Claremont, where luncheon was to be given to the Ancients and Honourables by the Old Guard of New York. To-night the Bostonians and Londoners are to be entertained at the Old Guard's fair at Madison Square Garden.

The rain prevented the automobile ride. but shortly after noon the Honourables. escorted by members of the Old Guard, got into closed carriages and started for the Claremont

The Earl of Denbigh, who commands the Honourables, sent to-day a despatch to King Edward, in which he said that all in the company were well and were having a fine time. All the Londoners seem to feel about that way. After he had sent the message the Earl got into an automobile. and with a friend rode up to Harlem to look over some property in which he is

Bostone Globe oct. 7, 1903

MARINE NIGHT AT THE PARK.

Officers and Men of HMS Retribution Will See "Vivian's Papa,"

There will be one of the largest theatre parties of the scason at the Park theatre tonight to see "Vivian's Papas." It comes in the nature of a return visit for a Sunday afternoon the leading members of the company were enter-tained on board H M S Retribution, which is here in the harbor to take part which is here in the harbor to take part in the festivities connected with the risit of the Homanalle athlets company of bondon. The plays we shown all over the ship, and lood or swere havish in their bospitant. Before the party broke up it we setted that return vieit should be man this even ling, so as to see the paternamee of athletests Prints.

Victor's Panas, Capt Lyons of the Retribution and all of officers will be present in full and them, so that the theatre will present an unusually attractive or acceptance with its display of blue unit unstant gold braid. Even the jackies will have a chance to see the joily farce, and it is quitte possible that in honor of the guests new features will be added to "Vivian's Papas."

Lowell Dources oct. 7, 1903.

They are figuring that the dinner to the Honourables cost about $75 a plate, counting in everything. This rather puts Helshazzar's feast in the shafe, but only from the standpoint of expense. For such colossal affair it was characterized by excellent taste in vlands and eloquence.

Newberg fewet Noun

Those who were privileged to partake of and view the dinner given to the London Honourables in Boston Monday evening doubtless saw one of the most famous spreads ever prepared in the United Stateh. And we are glad Boston has the honor of giving ;

Boston Transleight the Honourables, having eva ...

GUESTS FROM THE PROVINCES. guests from the Provinces and ga-

Oct. 7, 1903

We note that the state of a dis-cess some quarter to create that Amounta' for queen sometimes Here a create for the state of that come well to soit of all the tentern the first of the f the diverse of and the area of the property of the control of the pasted i cours

Boston Farher

Oct. 8, 1903 OF BRANDY-WINE

Forces in International Strife at Sherry's Corner Are Recuperating on Bromo-Seltzer Hill After Exhausting Struggle

ENGLISH CONTEST EVERY PINT OF THE FOAMY FLOOD.

Vainly Do They and the Valiant Defenders of America's Fame Make Repeated Charges Under Heavy Fire.

Verorable was the eve of the battle h' Sherr''s Corner, and memorable is the morning after, as the valiant forces, the victorious Ancient and Honorable Ar 'ler" ('omnany, of Boston; their allor the Honourable Company of Lonfirm the Putnam Phalant of Hartford, the Artillery Company of Rhode Island. ter Minute Men of Washington, and . rely, made escent the Old Guard " Now York, erowned with the vine been of success, marched to their enmer on Bromo-Seltzer Hill.

" ie britle," cave our correspondent " alvid on the aring lines protected in to he shaller of a lottering water "ar":, began as the Bronx curtow t on or the miste night. The Old And manned from scouts that the n command of Gen, Cocktall and the a renemed itself in Sherry's Couries were despatched to re Hangley les of London, who many eng gement with line of the onemy commanded and Lieut Slone th a. Walderf-Actoria Crossing. oame up rapidly in support of the Conkinias Cross-Fire. Brigge, of the Old Guard, gave Old Guard advanced in the interior of the control o the feet Cocktail's bri .. flank, but the Londoners he fire without losing a man, enemy's division back into ments behind Whiskey Hill. the Putman Phalans, the Arcillery and the Washmeeting a detached army tuen formed in welld ranks 'apasity, in command

well behind Pop Mountain, for a furlous

The enemy began a second attack by sending small detachments under Lieutenants Blue Point and Consomme, These detachments were mowed down where they stood. Then four batteries of the enemy, under Major Sherry, snoved up and endeavored to turn the flank of the Ancients, who were slaughtering unmercifully a few straggling troops of the third regiment of Chasers. But the Ancients were ready for Major Sherry's flank movement and cut in on his rear, driving him back into his earthworks before his vanguard had reached the outposts of the Old Guard. During this time sharp-shooters, under Colonel Filet of Soic, began pepper-ing the Honourables. The Londoners brought their heavy batteries into play and cut off Colonel Ffiet of Sole's troop to a man, at the same time rushing the entrenchments of Major Beef Braise's division.

Gent to Guard House.

Up to this time our enemy had not last a man, nor were their uniforms a bit untidled. There was a brief interval in the firing, during which General Capacity, who had been leading the charges, of the Ancients, caught sight of a Minute Man. who had been doing outpost duty, sneaking behind a water wagon. He was immediately captured and sent to the Guard House at Sherry

At 8.30 P. M. the main body of the enemy, under Generals White Seal and Brut, began to move up in solid ranks. Tor Oll Guard formed a square to mest the utlack, but General Capacity, think ing that they were forming too slowly, Relected two brigades of the Ancients to meet the advancing army outside our frenches. The enemy advanced in what somed overwhelming numbers, and soon the Argients were lost eight of in the smake of havy artitlery fire. A large iotachme it, under General White Seal, urned out and attempted to rake the fank of the Honourables, enfilading with unper-shot. The Old Guard stood well under a steady fire from General Brut's

When the smoke cleared away after the first shock of attack it was seen that the Ancients, under a furious charge led by Gen. Capacity, were moning down Gen. White Seal's troops simili body of Minute Men had Johned the Ancients in the charge, but, 1 :1 lost one man, who was being taken rom the field in an ambu.ance of the White Rock Comps.

Such a Mix-Up!

After completely routing Gen. White Seal's forces the Ancients sent one of fig divisions to strengthen the position of the Old Guard, who were having a in the difficulty with the cavalry of Gen. isrut's brigade. The cavalry retreated the Ancients, but the infantry of Gen. Brut made a determined stand.

Gen. Brut made a determined stand.
Soon it was seen that reinforcements for the enemy, under Brig. Gen. Pommery Sac. were coming up to support the rear of Gen. Brut's infantry. During the early part of the battle the Pittnam Phalanx was getting under arms, and advanced to support the Old Guard in what for a time seemed a neorly supported position. On the way they stopped to pick off a few sharpshooters who were firing from behind Hatheil Reige. Two members of the strict of the field on a stretcher at 9.9. M. the scene of bettle had shifted by M. the scene of bettle had shifted by M. the scene of bettle had being Gens Pommery. Chequet and Extra Dry having led out their brigades from a strong position they had taken beind Fort Mumm. These brigades advanced, firing from a battle and timburn their front driving several of the Old Guard behind their sigzag rifle pits and foreing a detachment of the Honangers to the earlphyorks of Edunt durables to the earthworks on Mount

Minute Men in Retrent.

Gen. Pommery's brigade had forced the Honourables to abandon their straight fire and bring their siphon artille, y into play from behind a masked battery of These tactics brought down the stern rebuke of Gen: Capacity, who was lead-ing the charges of the Ancients under staggering fire.

Just as it seemed that the Old Guard was going to give way and leave the entire field to be fought by the Ancients, a Minute Man, a hero of enormous girth, who time and again had brought a smile of approval to the purple features of Gen. Capacity, jumped to their head and called for a desperate charge. This heroid action not only fired the Old Guard to splendid action, but fauned into flames the lust for conquest in the breasts of the Ancients. With a mighty rush they exceed down on the mighty rush they swept down on the enemy, completely routing the brigades of Gens. Brut, White Beal, Pommery and Clicquot. After the rout the ranks of the Old Grard appeared somewhat webbly, and several had to be transported in ox carts to the masked batteries on Mount Lag.

Course . Devious.

The Ancients were a see id a bright as when they were the street as were the street as when they were the street as when they were the street as were under the min the hope of sighting other reinforcements of the enemy to encounter. Their anxiety was soon rewarded by the appearance of a column of light infantry and cavalry, under Cols. Deideshetter, Markgraeffer and Booksbeutel, supported on either side by Major Dewar's and Major Hunter's corps, Gen. Capacity ordered the Eostonians to advance across the open space and attack this new force of the enemy which was coming forward in great numbers. Chanting their famous battle cry, "Death to the quitter!" they went up the hill on the rush. A register battle cry. 'Death to the quitter!' they went up the hill on the rush. A regiment of the Old Guard had been railied, but they were so weak from the terrific struggle they had gone through that their course up the hill was more or less larged, several of them going down under a persistent shelling from Major Dewar's corrs.

under a persistent shelling 1400.

Dewar's corrs.
In the meantime the Minute Mon had been completely routed at Old Ale Bend, when completely routed at Old Ale Bend, which is an a captain Mulligan's battalions. The Putnam Phalanx had retreated to Pledge Corners before the terrific firing of the Tom and Jerry heavy artiliery and the sharpshooting of Lieutenant (Abshrihe Frappe's pickets, The Homourables were slowly giving way before Absinthe Frappe's pickets. The Honourables were slowly giving way before the mortar fire of the Wurzburger rangers and the Rhode Island Artillerymen were having it out with clubbed anuzzle-loaders in a gruelling contest with the Rum Punch culrasslers, whom they at ast drove from the field and then made their way to their abattis on Icy Point.

Blown to Pieces.

There was none left but the Old Guard and the Ancients to engage the enemy. The water wagons beside the firing-line had been blown to pieces under the steady shelling of the Ancients, who never faltered in furious attack on the enemy. Even as the Old Guard fell about them in twos and threes these wonderful veterans of the famous slege of Gin Siling never faltered or lost a man, and at last, when the enemy were annilhated, they were compelled to carry the few of the Old Guard who had life left in them from the battle-ground. The Ancients were the undoubted heroes of the day, and their names should be with high in the halls of history.

To-day after a brief refreshment on Bromo Seltzer Hill, the Bostonians will carry the war into the heart of the meany's country, even to Jersey Light, ming River.

Brookilyn (1. 5.)

Honourables Travel in Autos.

The Honourable Artillery Company, of London, were given a fair glimpse of New York City to-day in automobiles. The morning was spent at the Wallorf Astoria where, shortly after noon, the visitors escurted by the Old Guard of New York, and the Anlient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston, started for Claremont, where luncheon was served. This afternoon the vicitors will be mobiled through Central Park and the principal streats, To-night they will be the guests of the Old Guard fair at Madison Square Gardin. The London soldlers will leave at $30 o'clok to-morrow for toway fort town!

It seems to be the general offinion that the Ancients' banquet in Symbleby Hall was a symphony in color and Grook ly, J. 172/1 Handadd Unions, Oct. 8, 1903 LONDONERS. TAKE AN AUTOMOBILE TRIP

Will Attend the Old Guard Fair This Evening—The Dinner at Sherry's.

The Honourable Artillery Company of London under the guidance of their hosts, the Old Guard, toured Manhattan in automobiles this morning. The party whizzed through Central Park and clong Riverside Drive to the historic Claremont, where luncheon was served at noon. This evening the Englishmen, with other visiting military organizations, will attend the Old Guard Fair at Madison Square Garden and pass before Gens. Adna R. Chaffee and Nelson A. Miles in review.

The Honourables, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, the Washington Minute Men, the Newport and Bristol Artillery and the First Light Infantry of Providence, 600 strong, after their trip up and down the Hudson yesterday attended the dinner given by the Old Guard in their honor at Sherry's last night. The only participants not in uniform were Mayor Low and Sir Thomas Lipton. At the last minute Gov. Odell sent a message of regret.

The tables were arranged in the form of fifty British squares. At the table of honor sat Major S. Ellis Briggs, the honor sat Major S. Ellis Briggs, the toastmaster; the Right Hon. Earl of Denbigh and Desmond, Sir Thomas Lipton, Mayor Seth Low, Gen. Adna R. Stanlels, Col. J. D. Richardson. Cols. Wiedershiem, Jarvis, Frothingham, Winand S. M. Hedges.

Major Briggs followed the coffee with a duced Col. Hedges, of Boston, who made a short address.

a short address.

Lord Denbigh received an ovation. He said that his friends in London had told him that he would find that the Americans knew how to do things. "I am bound to say after five days' experience," said the speaker, "that I emphatically endorse, that opinion. To-day, as we halted on the line of march a man came up to me and said: 'Hello, Denbigh, old man, I'm right glad to see you.' Now, I didn't know the man, you know, but I believed that what he said expressed the sentiments of the whole crowd who were cheering, not us, but the country and the spirt that we represented. I think that therefore this visit of ours may do much good in promoting that harmony between two great nations."

Lord Denbigh paid a high tribute to the West Point cadets, and said that perfection of drill such as they exhibited could be seen nowhere else in the world. Mayor Low spoke a few words, extend ing the city's welcome to the visitors and Gen. Ian Hamilton and Gen. Chaffe were cheered when they arose to speak.

Sir Thomas Lipton followed with a few words, excusing himself from speaking at length on account of his health. To-morrow the Britishers leave for Washington.

A store of which will room the west, the tringe of which will reach here, but this fringe will bring overcoats out to-morrow, while away to the northeast where the storm bentre will pass the weather will be such that it will have a most cooling effect on the Honourables and Ancient and Honorables when they return to Hoston from Washington by

. Kew York H. J. 1 Shar Oct. 8, 1903

Honourables tillery Company of

The Honourable Ar-

London arrived in Arrive. Boston Friday on pany of London should have been taken their anticipated visit to the Anyesterday to inspect West Point. If cient and Honorable Artillery Comthe report in the Sun be accurate, Lord pany of Massachusetts. They had been Denbigh and his command were in here before, notably in June, 1775. some danger of regarding their Boston when they showed the whites of their entertainers and the Old Guard of this eves to the company waiting for them city as seriously representing the milion Breed's Hill. Boston's welcome tary establishment of the United States. last Friday was immense. It was thirty The sort of humor which regards symfeet long and three feet wide, and was pathetically and with a feeling of quiet operated by electricity. It was disamusement such organizations as these. played on high so the visitors could see is the sort of humor in which English. it as they came steaming up the bloommen have no share. They simply do in' 'arbor. The guns of Fort Warren not understand, any more than they had sainted them as they passed up, could understand that Coxcy's famous and assembled war ships had greeted march on Washington in 1894 was not them, and infantry and artillery waited a menace to the stability of the Reon the landing to do escort duty. But public. Consequently, as our visitors a larger welcome than that was writare serious-minded men who know ten in the heart of each citizen, and simething about military matters, it is during the ten days of their stay here just as well that after looking at the it is proposed to give the visitors the multicolored and fantastic ranks of the Ancients and the plethoric proportions greatest time they have ever had. It is estimated that the expense of the of the Old Guard and the antique Man. locks of the Minute Men of Washing. visit, including entertainment. paston, the Honourables should have a sage, transportation, etc., will cost. chance to witness at West Point in the over a quarter of a million dollars. cadets, what is probably the best drilled Friendship between States is always and the most highly trained corps that worth more than it can cost in honorable expenditure. This London company is one of the oldest and most select of the British military establishment. It has an unbroken organization since 1537. The Massachusetts (Boston) company is in a sense the child of the older company and dates from 150 years before the Revelution. Character and pedigree are required to get into either. The present

The Honourables left Tuesday for New York and Washington, Bostone panderight. RETRIBUTION HAS SAILED

English company is commanded by the Earl of Denbigh. Besides parades on the principal streets, the entertainment of the visitors has consisted of bunquets, balls, a Rhode Island clam bake, besides many private social a teruous

British Cruiser Left for Halifax This Noon -Twenty-Nine of Her Men Deserted

British cruiser Retribution, which has been anchored in the stream since last. Thursday, when she arrived here to do honor to the London Honourables, weighed anchor and stanted do so that at mon teday, bound for Hall x During for stry of a week or the city the Retish cruiser Retished, the hor last twenty-nine sollars he do that the the Regish cruses Register has been less twenty-nine subors by desiren. As Innance has the desirent registers in the last the restory they have to fear of and to but if they enter ligitly territ ry ag in they will be in danger of telus a loon but hinto the navy. The wholesa's distributed as account, it is said. In discontant which has been previous fear over since the Vige plan comparing It is also thought that many of the sallor hope to obtain more profitable work in Roston. The cruiser carried 275 men and to desertions will not only her working to many treatment of the control of the

The officers of the Retribution occurs hoxes at the Park Theatre last evenings "Vivian's Papas," and · lew out (F.y.) Com meveral. Hower Tables Oct. 8, 1903.

THE VISIT OF THE HONOURABLES. On the whole, it is a very good thing that the Honourable Artillery Comany nation possesses. The appearance of the Honouraldes resterday gave most New Yorkers a. great a shock of genuine surprise as the Honourables themselves experience l ar the evalutions of the endets. Most of us had expected to see a company of self indulgent trencher-men suggesting the banquet-room at the Guildhall rather than Aldershot or Blaley. It nas rather astonishing, therefore, to end an extremely smart body of acthe soldiery, perfectly drilled, moving toskly and with springy step, in per feet alignment and with the bearing of well-disciplined, professional troops Under the circumstances, perhaps it would be advisable not to carry a jobtoo far, but to let these Englishmen while in Washington have a chan to to and a few regiments of our regular in finity and cavalry and a few latteri of artillery. It is not a wholly an'm portant matter that they should take back to England a correct opinion of what Ameri an soldlers really tre and that they should differentiate between par howder partle in uniform and oner ill but decliedit ement establish nent of figurius men.

Now York! 19.20) Adition Commonwell in 10.0 (· law Cod od

QUESTS FROM MERRIE ENGLAND.

Honourable Artillery Company of Loudon Tours This Country.

A Magnificent Banquet the Climax in Boston.

tonnany Visits Fall River and Enjoys Clambake at Crescent Park

t. Oct. 2.—For the first time in cours, the red fing of England, t by British muskets, was borne the streets of Boston toda) the Honourable Artillery company London, as special guests of a simor organization, the Ancient and Hon-ribe Arthlery company of this city, at the two were escorted by several aments of Massachusetts militia.

rom Charlestown, almost on the spot where their ancestors started lefr memorable attack on Bunker Its years ago, the red coats of the century marched from their ner, the Mayrhover, over the bridge ston, all then through the streets calent with American and British to the hotels which will be their during their seducian in this city. during their sojourn in this city, to days they will be feted and allied, and then, after a week's which will include New York, ng'on, Niagara Falls and Canathey will be sent back to their own ors, with it is hoped, a feeling of the transfer American hospitality.

HONOURABLES AT PROVIDENCE

More Dinner Served to Thousand Gnests at Famous Resort.

I roudence, Oct. 3.-Cannon boomed the control of the co

h. In de concluded at the Dyer and smully before noon the ly, composed of more than us, emburked on specially steamers for Crescent Park, on date that been arranged that it is the large to the of the great size, had been to the great size, had been to those prominent among the series of entwined British to flore A great size, had been to those prominent among the series of entwined British to flore A great control n flugs. A great centreflowers in which were artistimaned the flags of both naled the head of the table, been assigned to home and the libert and city offi-

HONOURABLES BANQUETTED.

agnificent (limax of the Londoners Visit to Boston.

... int t-In a spreious hall

· intuous in avery detail, and with mintive men as after dinner speakto the stay of the Lour

the main floor of Symphony t than 50 round tables, at which larger cortion of the two comthe others ranked back of it, there the double of the high processing arch ig weather of alternate linguish laur-

London, and facing it on the balcony on the opposite side of the hall, was that of the Ancient company of Boston, both surrounded by electric jewels, while on either side of the crown above hung in bright figures "1537—1638", the dates of the charters of the two organizations.

As usual the tables were profusely strewn with smilax, roses and orchids, and in addition, each had in its centre, a massive laurel wreath in which glittered small electric globes of pink and yellow.

The balconies which after the feasting, were crowded with ladies, were also festooned with laured wreaths, streamers of electric lights, and crossed streamers of electric lights, and crossed with silver cannon.

Into such a scene of almost regal beauty marched the two companies. Not, however, as separate organizations, but side by side, each Ancient escorting an Honourable. The rank and file soon found their seats at the numerous tables, scattered over the floor, while the stage thronged with the gold lace of the officers, and the more sombre garb of the invited guests.

lace of the officers, and the more sombre garb of the invited guests.

It was but a few minutes after 7 o'clock, when Colonel Hedges motioned for sllence, and grace was said by Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale. Two hours were consumed in the discussion of the substantial part of the evening program, the meun of which follows:

gram, the meun of which follows:

Cape Cod Oysters.

Clear Green Turtie.

Prince Albert Sherry.

Alguillettes of Hailbut Cardinals.

Potatoes Hollandalsc.

Haut Sauterne.

Tournedos of Filet of Beef a la Prediilot.

String Beans.

Pommery sec et brut.

Epigrammes of Sweetbreads Sevigne.

Green Peas

Sorbet a la Militaire.

Cigarettes.

Equab Chicken. Roasted.

Romaine and Tomato Salad.

Bombe Glasces International.

Petit Fours.

Cheese. Coffee. Cigars.

The speeches which followed, all had as a motive the firmer welding of the bonds of friendship between the two countries. None of them was long enough to be tedious, and all were sufficiently short to be interesting. That of Senator Hoar was the most scholarly, and that of ex-Governor Long the most entertaining. and that of ex-Governor Long the most entertaining.

Colonel Hedges's introductory remarks

Colonel Hedges's introductory remarks wer well chosen, and when he called for a toast to the president of the United States, the band played "The Star Spangied Banner," and Collector of the Port George H. Lyman responded in his official capacity.

The next toast was that to King Edward, but the recent death of Ambassador Herbert made the response of "God Save the King," which was played by the band, seem more like a dirge than a hymn of praise. There was no other response to this toast.

Governor Bates, who spoke for the commonwealth, was eloquent as well as witty, as was Mayor Collins, who responded for the city.

sponded for the city.

The Earl of Denbigh was then introduced, and was halled with cheers, and his remarks, which were full of gratitude for the warm reception with which the corps had been received, were loudly applauded, especially by his own men, who followed it with their unique then, who followed it with their unique cheer.

United States Senator George F. Hoar then responded for 'Old Mother England,' and the venerable senator unanent to such a degree, his speech being full of anecdotes, that the entire audience was greatly amused throughout. Intense quiet, however, prevailed when he referred to the great loss of Sir Michael Herbert.

"I cannot let this occasion go by without expressing my sense of the great loss to both countries in the teath, 10 days ago, of Sir Michael Herbert, his majesty's ambassador at Washington," he said. "It was the lambition of his life that he might promote cordial relations between the two ambition of his the that he might promote cordial relations between the two countries. No man was ever better fitted for that office. England could not have chasen a man fitter to send with her message of peace and good will. The illustrious house which has given the could be the country to many famous states. The illustrious house which has given English history so many famous states then acd soldiers, and which has given to literature that sweetest of Christian 10sts, George Herbert, never had a mailier, or a gentler, or a perity or a brighter son. Sir Michael Herbert had won every man's good will in Washington during his brief service here.

"The love of friends, without a single for that our very cordial acquaintance would ripen into a pleasant and last-ing friendship."

ing friendship."

Continuing, he said:
"Among the things in which Englishmen and Americans feel a common pride is the battle of Bunker Hill. I do not think either you or we would like to wipe out that memory. It is one of the best examples of Yankee fighting, and one of the best examples of English fighting, to be found in history. We might, if we had thought of it, have not up a monument to the valor of put up a monument to the valor of both sides, like that at Quebec, which both sides, like that at Quebec, which bears the names of Wolfe on one side and Montcalm on the other. It was an instance on both sides of clear English bull-dog grit. Both parties were so ready and eager to fight that they seem to have lost their heads. I suppose the American general and the British general if the thing had have seem to have lost their heads. I suppose the American general and the British general, if the thing had happened lately, would have been lucky if they got off with nothing worse than a severe reprimand. Our commander sent his forces imperfectly provided with ammunition, and with rations not enough for 24 hours, across a narrow neck of land, to take possession of Bunker's hill. All Sir William Howe had to do on your side was to move his ships up Charles river and up Mystic river, where they command the isthmus, and the Yankees would have been completely at his mercy. He need not, I suppose, have lost a man. He had only to draw the strings, and we were bagged. There was never an example of blundering generalship worse than that on our side, although I believe it is claimed that the officer who led our detachment took possession of the wrong hill. On the other hand, the English commander stormed our earthworks. His men charged with a magnificent and desperate courage up. works. His men charged with a magnificent and desperate courage up the steepest and most difficult part of the hill. They were repulsed twice. They stormed our redoubls with a magnificent English pluck, and we held on, also, with magnificent English pluck, till our ammunition was gone, and then suddenly made good our retreat.

A delightful Englishman, a dearfriend of mine, told me this story, which shows that if you have not built a monument to British valor over here at Charlestown, you fight over the Battle of Bunker Hill occasionally, even now at home.

at Charlestown, you fight over the Battle of Bunker Hill occasionally, even now at home.

My friend told me that an intimate friend of his was Lieutenant Colonel Holland, a retired officer of the Royal Marines. I dare say he is living now. Colonel Holland told him that the Royal Marines never could be stationed anywhere near the 88th Connaught Rangers. They perpetually stir up quarrels with the men of the 88th, so that some years ago the Rangers had to be removed from Portsmouth, the headquarters of the Royal Marines, to another district. The reason is that they always get into a fight when they meet. If one of the Marines finds a Ranger in a public house or meets him in the street, he calls out, "Lie down. eighty-eighth, and let the Marines pass to the front." Then follows a fight.

Neither of the men has the slightest idea where that comes from. Colonel Holland says it came from the battle of Bunker Hill in America. The Americans were entrenched in a very strong position. Most of them were back woodsmen; and about the best marksmen in the world. To reach the American lines the British had to march up the open slopes, fully exposed to the sweeping fire of American sharpshooters, who, sheltered by their entrenchments, were bound to sweep away their exposed assailants. The old 88th, or Connaught Rangers, were in the first line of attack, with a battalion of Royal Marines behind them in the second line as their support. The Rangers suffer-

Connaught Rangers, were in the first line of attack, with a battalion of Royal Marines behind them in the second line as their support. The Rangers suffered terribly. Half the regiment were killed, and their ammunition ran out. It was time to relieve them, and the general rode up and ordered them to lie down, in the usual manner of relieving under fire. The exhausted men would form four deep and He down. I leaving a space; and the relieving line would form four deep also and advance and pass between the blank files. So the word was passed along the shattered line: "Lie down, 88th, and let the Marines pass to the front." This was done. The Marines suffered fearfully but accomplished the relief and captured the redoubt. For this service they were awarded a laurel leaf, to be worn on their buttons and caps. Colonel Holland added: "I wore it myself for 26 years."

years."
So, my friends, while we have been celebrating it over here, you have been fighting Bunker Hill over again, some of you, over there. I do not wonder that you wanted to come over and see that you wanted to come over and see that you wanted to come over and see the spot.

Our English friends may be sure of their welcome. They are in the house of their brethren. We cannot show you wonders like those you have left behind. We have few glories of architecture and of art. We have little antiquity. We have no palaces or castles or cathedrals or galieries like those to which you are accustomed at home. Yet, possibly, we also may have something to exhibit, in a modest way, of the fruitage of the tree of English liberty. We must yield the palm cheerfully to other nations in art and architecture and music. We have tried to emulate them, if not to excel them, in the things which constitute the strength and happiness of a free people. We have gone, without the architectural glories of palaces and castles and cathedrals. We have tried to perfect the architecture of the people's dwellings, and you will find the English Bible and the English Shakespeare upon their shelves. The canvas does not live or breathe for us under the touch of Guidoo or Raphael. We have no Lawrence or Reynolds to preserve the features of the English Shakespeare upon their shelves. The canvas does not live or breathe for us under the touch of Guido or Raphael. We have no Lawrence or Reynolds to preserve the features of high-born beauty. But at least health paints here with her roses the cheek of the factory girl. The music of Beethoven or Handel may not here rise and swell till it fills the dome which the music of children's voices in the well-paid workmen's home.

We hope you may feel at home while you are here. When you go back to old Mother England, tell her her boys are her our best love. Tell her we think and good will. We have no sore feeling left, even for the spankings she used to she did not spoil the child.

We mourned with you for the loss of your gracious queen, alike the type of gentlest womanhood, and the most look with you with confident anticipations and desire for a long and happy reign for her successor.

The response of ex-Governor John D. Long on the subject, "Our Honorary Members," was in his usual vein, full of anecdotes and vastly entertaining. General William A. Bancroft responded for the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, Professor C. Sumichrast of Harvard for Harvard university, and Rev. William H. Rider of Gloucester, for the "Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston."

Before each guest left the hall, he was presented with a souvenir plate of claborate design, on which were the arms of England and America, Longonies.

One could well imagine that such an affair conceived five years ago took a vyear of hard labor to work it consum-

AT FALL RIVER.

Visitors Parade Under Escore of Massa-

Fall River, Oct. 6.—The Ancients and Honorables of Boston and the Honourable Artillery company of London arrived here this afternoon on their way to New York and Washinston Preparations in their honor were made by local military and by a committee of civilians. Buildings in the centre of the lans. Buildings in the centre of the lans. The escort consisted of four batteries of the first heavy artillery, M. V. M., and six companies of the naval brigade, including companies from Taunton, goston, Brockton, Lynn and Spring-field.

Stown 2000, 11:2:1)

CITYHALLMYSTERY

Hale Statue Decorated with the British Flag.

THE ANCIENTS HERE, TOO

Persons Crossing the City Hall Park Astonished to See the Decerations-Matter Is Reported to Police-Torn Flag Is Removed-Inscription "Lest. We Forget - S. A. R." Is Found on It -- Police Are Trying to Find Out Who Decorated the Statue

Every one who crossed City Hall Park this morning saw what looked like an immense red blanket hanging about the base of the statue of Nathan Hale. A venturesome person scaled the fence surrounding the statue and found that it was a tattered British flag, hanging by an ordinary piece of twine. The flag had been cut into ribbons and to it was attached a cord bearing this inscription:

"LEST WE FORGET."

S. A. R.

The flag was tied to the floral decorations that had been on the base of the monument for some time, and was in such a position that it couldn't fail to attract the attention of every passer. Apparently every one did see it, except the policeman on the beat, A bootblack who has a stand about a hundred feet away said the flag was there at 8 o'clock this morning, but the policeman who goes off duty at 8 o'clock made no report of it to the City Hall station.

About 9 o'clock, after some one had called his attention to it, the policeman who went on duty at 8 o'clock reported to his sergeant "that there was something hangin' around Nathan Hale over there in the park." He didn't know what it

Capt. O'Brien had the flag removed before any members of the Honcurable Artillery Company of London and the Ancients of Boston strolled far enough downtown to

Capt. O'Brien ignored an urgent call to Police Headquarters to lead the investigation which at the end of an hour had resulted in these disclosures:

That the flag was not there at 7:30 o'clock last night and that it was there at o o'clock this morning.

It was also found out that a man slapped Herman Isaacs, a bootblack who works near the statue, on the back early this morn-

"Say, boy, you see that flag? Well, it shang-ing below Nathan Hale, right where it ought The man then had his shees polished and gave the bootblack a dollar bill. "That's clew No 1," said Capt O'Brien when he heard the boy's story. "Give me that man's description."

The boy said he didn't take much notice of his customer.

"Why didn't you tell the policeman".

"Hult, he seen it hisself, if he had eves"

An employe of the Park Department who picks up paper in City Hall Park was the

"Who put that flag there?" he was asked "Some crazy lunatic. Wished I'd som him;" and he said it with a brogue.

Jot. 8, 1903. ON HALE STATUE

"Lest We Forget" Legend Placen on Effigy of Hero in City Hall Park.

AFFRONT TO HONOURABLES NOW HERE FROM LONDON

Police Tear Down Bunting Which Enwrapped Figure of Martyr of the Revolution.

H.A the Here until Archiery Companie Landan and the Anacetts of Bos of Editor City Ital Park early to de

Brooklyse A.J.) TORN FLAG ON HALE STATUE

Police Believe It to Be Work of an Over Patriotic American on Accounef Honourables' Visit

Commenced Adouted Cet. 8. 1904

HONOURABLES SIGHTSEEING

Taken for a Drive Through the Park and to Gen. Grant's Tomb.

A MESSAGE SENT TO KING EDWARD

Lord Denbigh Tells His Majesty What a Fine Time They Are Having-Greatly Pleased With West Point - Picturesque Confusion at the Walderf-Asteria.

Fresh, as if they had been slumbering for a week instead of leading a strenuous "L"ence into the small hours of the morning during every succeeding twentyfour hours, and as if they had retired at "I'w last evening instead of attending irv.vities long past midnight, the Hon-1. able Artillery, Company from Lodon and their hosts the An-Lent and Honorable Artillery from 'a'on, were astir at a reason-I'ly carly hour this forenoon, and at if c'clock, spick and span, were able to reart in automobiles to feast their eyes the beauties of Central Park, The linglishmen were the regular artillery and er hadier uniforms,

For a couple of hours before the start "y were busy polishing up swords and " " nen at the Waldorf-Astoria, and, this they made an inspection of the ior 1 Denbigh, the commander of the ""urables, as soon as he got about, " totale despatch to King Edward, in " he told of the reception of the party 1 c. ton and the courtesies since ex-"I to them, and was lavish in its . triv. of the Americans. It also told of visit to West Point, which they had anxious to see, because of its being lning school of American officers, 1 majesty was informed of the fa-"a' ! impression created by the cadets, " " the school was fully up to its reputation. The despatch contained ty-five words in all, and when asked out it the earl was the personification el emprise. He declared he could not . how anybody could have learned of it having sent the cable despatch, 10 speak at all of its contents. He d' 1 11, however, to allow the despatch

"her the Honourables and the Ancient Hanorables had seen Central Park, " went by the Riverside Drive to Tomb. At 1.30 Claremont fell into r hands, and thereafter sounds of · long other than those of dynaet the Palisades across the Hudson 'd be heard.

The combined party will return to the dorf in time for a grand night feast in the grand ballroom. . To-morrow sining at 8.30 the start will be made for

' . FUSION AT THE WALDORF-ASTORIA. No. 1. the "Hor enables and their hosts, the latt of Halon, and on at the We need to a local termination of a sale of scene of chromatic confusion. The usual late afternoon crowd of men and women who always gather in the couridors to see and he seen concentrated its attention on the 300 uniformed visitors, and it was many minutes pefore Proprietor Boldt, with the aid of his assistants, Messrs. Hilliard and Barse, could get any kind of order out of such picturesque confusion. Mr. Boldt formed the porters and bell boys into an impromptu military organization with some of the room clerks as superior officers. The Astor Gallery was transformed into a temparary booking office and the Honourables and Ancients were sent there. With special registers and a separate set of keys the clerks set to work to send the 300-odd visitors to their sleeping quarters-

In the meartime the curious crowd below was held at bay by a line of bell boy sentries and special officers, stationed at the foot of the stairs leading to the Astor Gallery. It required more than moral sussion to hold back anxious inquirers who sought friends and relatives among

New Tock! St. 3.11 Maie & Express, Oct. 8, 1903.

OUR MILITARY GUESTS.

The Honourable Artillery Company of London is entitled to a warm and hearty welcome here, official and popular, for at least three reasons.

First, it is the original and prototype of the bodies of citizen soldiery which are our own reliance and pride -the beginning, so to speak, of the Volunteer idea upon which the defense of the American republic must ultimately rest.

Second, it comes as the representative of England, its redcoats merely serving to emphasize the fact that we are in the full enjoyment of a state of peace with that country which is as permanent as it is profound.

Third, it is represented by a fine and gentlemanly set of men, whom it would be a pleasure to entertain under any circumstances.

Its arrival under the auspices, as a host, of the venerable Boston organation, which is the parent of all American military companies, adds to the interest of the occasion.

Both visiting organizations are thorwill be honored by our citizens wherfor they appear, Beroklynd, A.J.) "Candlards. Vincoso, Oct. 8, 1903.

"So they are all, all hono(u)rable men," whichever way you spell it, and whether they come from dear old Lunnon or the Modern, Athens, and little old New York is the place that can do the proper thing by them. Pity they couldn't tarry with us a little longer, but, while we welcome the coming, we also speed the parting guest, according to the timehonored rule of conduct, when that suest thinks he's had enough. Much has been said about the oddity of the Americans welcoming the "red-coats" to our shores. but the funnient thing about it is that half our English violtors are wearing the blue. This has caused the reporters to remark upon the "carlety of uniform." which sound, the a nameradiction

New York St. J.,)

DENBIGH LAUDS CADETS.

MT OLD GUARD DINNER.

Commander of London Honourables Praises Drill at West Point.

The Honourable Artillery of London, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Boston, its hosts while in the United States, and the visiting delegations, including the Governor's Foot Guards of New-Haven, the Newport Artillery of Rhode Island and others, were the guests of the Old Guard last night at Sherry's.

On the right of Major S. Ellis Briggs sat the Earl of Denbigh and Desmond, the lieutenant colonel commanding the Honourable Artillery. numbering 170 in all. At his left was Colonel Hedges, the commander of the Ancients of Boston. Other guests of honor were General Adna R. Chaffee, General Ian Hamilton, of the British Army; Sir Thomas J. Lipton, Colonel John Jacob Astor and the chaplains of the Boston Ancients and the Foot Guards of New-Haven.

Colonel Hedges was the first speaker introduced by Major Briggs, who acted as toastmaster. Ho spoke briefly. Lord Denbigh was then introduced.

It is difficult for me to express in adequate terms our appreciation of the great hospitality and cordiality with which we have been received on every hand. Last Saturday we were entertained at Frovidence with a little luncheon along with about twelve hundred other guests (laughter) at a seaside cottage near that place. Colonel Hedges gave us a little supper at the Symphony Hall, where the amount of wire used to light the building, I am told, would have been sufficient to reach from there to San Francisco. Your commander has expressed his thanks to the Ancients for bringing us here. I can only say that the Honourable Artiliery Company can express ten times more thanks on this historic occasion, for I maintain it is an historic occasion. And, again, I think I may say without disparagement to our own soldiers that the drill of the West Point cadets did us good in every way. It was a perfection of drill that we could not have believed unless we had seen it. I am told that it is an absolute fact that it is the first time a foreign armed force was ever allowed on the sacred soll of West Point; therefore we regard it as a special compliment to pass by those cadets, and then to be drawn up and your humble servant permitted to receive the salute as they marched by with that admirable precision which I don't think could be excelled anywhere in the world.

I was told that this delegation of ours may do some good in promoting the harmony between these two great English speaking nations. I have onee, I judge that feeling has been existent of some time. In fact, it required some one to sit on the safety valve. This occasion has given you an opportunity to let some of it off. There is some of the Stars and Stripes and the Tinion feether of the Stars and Stripes and the Judion't you forget it."

Mayor Low, General Sir Ian Hamilton, General ladna R. Chaffee, Sir Thomas Lipton and the chap-

Mayor Low, General Sir Ian Hamilton, General Adna R. Chaffee, Sir Thomas Lipton and the chap-Jain of the Boston Ancients also spoke. The menu

Huitres du Cape Cod.
Consommé de Tortue Verte aux Quenelles.
Céleri. Amandes.
Céleri. Amandes.
Eass Rayée à la Crécie.
Concombres. Concombres.
Filet de Bœuf Richelieu.
Pommes Fondant.
Ris de Veau Henri IV.
Petits Poins.
Canaro Tete Rouge.
Hominy.
Glacés Fantaisle.
Fromage. Most and Chandon White Seal, Imperial Brut.
Dewar's White Label Scotch Whiskey.
White Rock.

HONOURABLES ARRIVE.

Received by Old Guard After Visit to West Point.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and the Newport Artillery Company escorting the Honourable Artillery Company of London, arrived at the Fall River pier, at Warren at., early yesterday. Waiting for them with steam up was the excursion boat Sirius, ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artiflery Company and the Honorable Artiflery Company to West Point.

Without loss of time the two companies, in full uniform, descended the gangway of the Fall River boat, and marched in column of twos across the pier and up the gangway of the excursion boat. Five minutes later the excursion boat awang out into the stream to the music of the united bands of both companies.

The Old Guard assembled outside of the Hotel Bartholdi a little before 4 p. m. It had invited the Newport Artillery to join it in welcoming the Honorables and Honourables when they arrived from West Point, and the invitation was accepted. The two organizations, headed by their bands, marched in four abreast formation to the pier at West Twenty-second-st., and came to parade rest in the shed of the pier. It was about an hour before the Sirius was heard coming down the river, with the fife and drum corps of the English organization and the Boston band making music.

By the time the steamboat was ready to discharge her passengers there were fully five hundred spectators assembled about the pier to greet them. tators assembled about the pier to greet them. The Boston organization descended the gangway first, and spread out on all sides to receive their guests, the members of the English organization. As the latter came ashore their quaint costumes, fashioned after that of the archers of ante-musket period, increased the interest that had been stirred at the sight of the Colonial blue and buff coats and knickerbockers of the Ancient and Honorables of Boston.

Forming four abreast, each organization, headed by its own band, marched to Twenty-fourth-st, in the following order:

The following order:

The Old Guard Band, follolwed by the Old Guard, under command of Major S. Ellis Briggs.

The Newport Artillery Company, led by the 7th United States Artillery Band of Rhode Island, seventy men, under command of Colonel John D. Richardson and Major Flags.

The Honourable Artillery Company of London, under command of the Earl of Denbigh.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, under command of Colonel Sidney M. Hedges.

The whole procession swung along at a lively gait, through the rain, and although it was about five blocks in length, it reached the front of the Waldorf-Astoria before 5 o'clock, after a march up Fifth-ave. In the front of the Thirty-fourth-st.

up Fifth-ave. In the front of the Thirty-fourth-st. entrance to the hotel the escort spread out on the curb and formed lines through which the London visitors passed into the hotel. Then the escort wheeled and followed.

All absembled in the large ballroom of the hotel, where a general reception was begun by the Old Guard, which lasted until the hour for the everting's dinner arrived.

The London company will quarter at the Waldorf-Astoria during its stay in the city.

ENGLISH VISITORS AT WEST POINT.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 7 .- The Honourable Artilfery Company of London and the Ancient Honorable Artillery Company of Boston arrived here today on the steamer Sirius, in a drizzling rain. They were met at the landing by Captain Coe, the post adjutant, and Captain King, of the Quartermaster's Department. Miss Mills, daughter of the superin-

Department. Miss Mills, daughter of the superintendent, met the only two women with the party, Lady Denbigh and Miss Courtney Baylor.

The British Artillery marched up from the landing, the Boston Ancients ridding. When they arrived at the top of the hill, a salute was fired, and the battalion of cadets was paraded in front of the barracks. The guests were escotted to Superintendent Milis's quarters, where a reception was given. The officers of the post were present. The reception was followed by a review of the cadets, after which the visitors returned to the boat and sailed down the river.

of which the Italian garden is a great feature.

Witnessing the departure of the two companies was the Newport Artillery Company, which had lined up in company front on the pier while their comrades of the Ancient and Honorable Company of Boston and the Honourable Artillery Company of London were embarking. After the excursion boat cast off the Newport organization marched out and up Warren-st., going to the Hotel Bar-

> The early day throngs hurrying but we have not to gotten the mande through City Hall Park and Broadway across the sea' that strung up Hale to a tree close to where his pathetic figure now rises."
>
> By this time so many people were the pedestal draped in the mutilated pressing around the speaker that the martyr. Fastened to the bunting was a made it so easy for him to read the placard bearing this inscription: meaning of the card and the ribboned "Lest We Forget." S. A. R.

bear in mind the things which have hat the pathetic figure in bronze stands gone before," said a man of intelligent for in mind, it was a sight to stick in standing that we have not forgotten; before our visiting Englishers beave us that the Sons of the American Revolution wish to protest against the trend the police of the City Hall station rethat a certain political element in this moved it. They are looking for the country would have Americans follow person or persons who placed it on the intercourse with the English.

"Etiquette is well enough in its place, conster."

New Jock Or. J. 1

Oct. 1403.

DRILL AT OLD GUARD FAIR.

Knights Templar Guests at Madison Square Garden-A Banquet To-night.

At the Old Guard Fair, in Madison Square Garden last night, the feature was a drill by the Knights Templar. The Columbia Commandery, No. 1, were the guests of honor, and their commander was Capt. Robert P. Lyon. A drill squad of four sections, twenty-four men in all, participated in the drill.

Sir Thomas Lipton will be a guest at the banquet at Sherry's to-night, when the Old Guard will entertain the Ancients of Boston, and their guests, the Honorable Artillery Company of London. After the banquet the small army will form and march down Pitth Avenue to Madison Square Garden. They are expected to enter the Garden some six hunared strong at 9 ardack.

New ? rek!, It. J., 1 World, Oct. 8, 1903.

BRITISH FLAG PLACED ON NATHAN HALE'S STATUE

Attached to Emblem Is Placard with Inscription, "Lest We Forget-S. A. P " folds of a British ensign—the flag of the police were attracted, and he moved folds of a British ensign—the flag of the away. He refused to give his name or tell how he came by the knowledge that

The ensign used was a new one, and Many wondered in the crowd which had evidently been secured for the purgathered at the spot what the decoration and the words meant until some one explained the protest attached to additit it in jagged widths of two or three inches. These ribbons fluttered "That's for the American people to and flapped in the breeze, and, with all speech and appearance.

"And why should this be done to make them remember?" asked a young man old why the flag had been put on the who listened to him.

"Why? That the Ancient and Honourable Artiller, Company of London he was overheard to say. "And there shall carry home with them an under-will be more things of that kind done

HONOURABLES TO TAKE NEW YORK

London Artillerymen, Accompanied by

Bostonians, Extend Campaign. BOSTON, Oct. 6.—The tour through the BOSTON, Oct. of the through Honorable Artillery Company of My chusetts, having as its suest the Ho able Artillery Company of Londo

THE Denbighs claim, in some way or other which I could nev anderstand, to be descended from the house of Hapsburg, the im Derial Austrian family. The father of the present man verted to the Roman Catholic faith and was a close friend of Pather Ducey for whom he procured a monsignorship from Pope Pius IX. Th for whom he procured a monthly did not live on the best of terms with Father Ducey, refused to confirm the apprintment, and the reverend gentleman of St. Leo's became apprintment, and the reverend gentleman of Chudleigh and to be a Cliff Denbigh was a Clifford, of Chudleigh, and to be a Clifford of Chud leigh means something on the other side that is not appreciate here. Her father was a baron, the lowest title in the British peer age, but an ancient barony, such as that of Clifford, carries much more weight in the counties, if not in London, than a comparatively new title, like the Dukedom of Marlborough.

· law Joch! (1.3.) - Town , ofice s!

THE Earl and Countess of Denbigh were much fêted during their ew days' stay in Boston, but not by the real smart set. I do not mean to say that the Boston Ancients and Honorables are not all their name implies, but the Somerset and other smart club men who belong take no active part in the affairs of the company. Some join only because, as militiamen, they cannot be called to do jury service. Mrs. Hedges, the wife of the commander, did much for Lady Denbigh. She gave a luncheon for her at the Touraine on Friday when among the guests were Mrs. Charlie Sprague, Mrs. Charlie Gibson, Mrs. Curtis Guild, Jr., wife of the Lieutenant-Governor ernor. That evening she gave a dinner party to her ladyship at the Somerset Somerset. On Monday, however, the Countess, who, everyone says, is charming, and whom it is impossible to believe is the mothe of ten children, was entertained at luncheon by Mrs. Sprague, the widow of the late Congressman, at "Faulkner Farm," Brooklire,

HONOURABLES INVADECITY

Artillery Company of London Guests of Old Guard.

Dinner at Sherry's-Admire West Point Cadets and Call Col. Mills

"Gen. Miles."

mirtial pomp the Honourable Armpany of London, 165 strong, and is, the Ancient and Honorable Company of Boston, reinforced emport Light Artillery, invaded k State yesterday, and after havhing their own way at the United metropolis in triumph. It was visit that the oldest military orin the world has ever made to rain was falling when the vesal River boat Puritan, reached Street pier, early in the morndown the gangplank in full the scene was changed to brill-Vithout entering the city, then wake, the soldiers boarded the mboat Sirius and started up the

Wat Point landing were Capt. Coe, Adjutant, and Capt. King of the i ter's Department, to receive the and Miss Mills, daughter of Col. le Superintendent of the Academy, to greet Lady Denbigh and Miss the Ancient and Honourable salute was fired from the top and the cadets, 400 strong. up on the sward. The visitors d a drill and dress parade with un-iriends in London had told him that he would find that the Americans knew how to do things. "I am bound to say after five days' experience," said the speaker, "that I emphatically indorse that opinion. To-day, as we halted on the line of march a man came up to me and said: 'Hello, Denbigh, old man, I'm right glad to see you.' Now I didn't know the man, you know, but I believed that what he said expressed the sentiments of the whole trowd who were cheering, not us, but the country and the spirit that we represented. I think that therefore this visit of ours may do much good in promoting that harmony between two great nations."

Lord Denbigh paid a high tribute to the West Point cadets, and said that perfection of drill such as they exhibited could be seen nowhere else in the world.

Mayor Low spoke a few words, extending the city's welcome to the visitors, and Gen. Ian Hamilton and Gen. Chaffee were cheered when they arose to speak. Sir Thomas Lipton followed with a few words, excusing himself from speaking at length on account of his health.

The menu was as follows:

Huitres du Cape Cod
Consommé de Tortue Verte aux Quenelles

Hultres du Cape Cod Consommé de Tortue Verte aux Quenelles Olives Celeri Amandes Bass Rayce a la Creole

Filet de Boeuf Richelieu

Sorbet Canard Tete Rouge Salade

Fromage
Café
Moet & Chandon White Seal
Moet & Chandon Imperial Brut
It was almost midnight when as many of the guests as felt able to accept the challenge followed the Old Guard down to Madison Square Garden for an informal visit to the fair.

To-day the invaders will tour the city in automobiles and to-night they will be formally welcomed at the Old Guard Fair.

Wires Denbigh to Edw'd

Honourables Have Auto Ride at N. Y.

New York, Oct. 8.—The Honourables of London and the Ancients of Boston today rode in automobiles in a rainstorm through Central Park and Riverside Drive to Grant's tomb, after which they had luncheon at the Claremont.

they had luncheon at the Claremont.

Lord Denbigh, the commander of the Honourables, sent a cable despatch to King Edward today in which he told of the reception of the party in Boston and the courtestes since extended to them, and was lavish in his praise of the Americans.

It also told of the visit to West'Point and of the favorable impression created by the cadets, and that the school was fully up to its great reputation.

Tonight the combined party will dine in the ball room of the Waldorf-Astoria, and tomorrow morning will start for

The Honourable Artillery Company of London will be justified in: placing the words "Beston" and "New York" on their regimental flag. It is a hard campaign, but the corps is doing its duty nobly.

- lew Jos 12 1 1/03.

Y' KNOW, WERE

Londoners Struggle from Bed Late at Waldorf and Auto Trip's Delayed.

The few members of the Honourable Artillery Company of London, and of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, who managed to straggle down stairs at the Waldorf to-day about the time for the first of their festivities—an automobile charge through the Park and on Classon on Claremont—were met by the disheart-ening news that the start of the procession had been postponed. They might have slept longer.

The reason for the postponement was the inability of most of the corps to get up in time. They had had a hard night at up in time. Sherry's. The banquet was long and ex-sherry's. The banquet was long and exacting and the toasts were many. And it all came after a long and exciting day.

The Earl of Denbigh to-day sent to King Edward a seventy-five-word cablegram telling him about the trip from Boston here and dilating especially on the wonders of West Point and the maryellous military training given there. training given there.

The cablegram read in substance

"We have arrived in New York and are being entertained royally. Left Boston yesterday and touched at Fall New York. at Fall River on the way down.
Have been to West Point and learned of the wonderful military school this country has? Am compelitely astounded at the marveilors given."

This tribute to West Point will be of the greatest interest to British readers because of the disclosures made concerning their military school and War Office recently.

cently. The few, though, that managed to get down stairs or time made a great showing in the corridors of the hotel and were the envy of all that came.

"I say," said one of the Britishers, "this is a blooming fine country, you know."

Rnow."

But his wearlsome walking and his tired rubbing of his head cast some doubt on what he meant, whether praise or sarcasm, what he meant, whether praise or sarcasm. The programme of the day was the chager on Claremont for junch, and attendance at the Old Guard Fair at Madison Squara Garden to-night.

Oct. 8, 1903.

"At the South Station, . . the throngs were most enthuslastic. Then, when the white helmets of the British pand appeared, the shouts were pro origed and the fluttering handkerchiefs if women and the applause of men nade the welkin ring." And this from he Globe of Tuesday afternoon, when he Ancients departed for Fall River. The truth of the situation is that the British band did not march to the South Station with the Honourable Artiflery mpany, as they were filling an enagement in a local playhouse at about he time the Honourables started for

New York, A.J.) Hoeld, Oct. 8, 1903

BRAVE MEN WE I FACED THE POPPING CORKS AT THE BATTLE OF SISO beautifully that the property were and issued to the property of the property of

FOOT BARABLES BERCE BATT

First Page.)

New Tock St. J.,) The Froming Talog Supple! Oct. 8, 1903.

HOW THE DOUGHTY WARRIORS

as follows:

1. Highweight Handicap, all ages; last slx and one-half furlongs Withers mile, slx and

Oct. 8, 1903.

ENTERTAINED BY OLD GUARD

In just for Artillery Companies in New York-General Ramilton and Sir Thomas Lipton Among the Guests

Fork, Oct. 8-On their return from it reservely the Honourable Arant at the pler by the Old 'alory, and escerted to the Wal-Cit Guart. Last night a banquet Eas by it old Guard at Sherry's. the Larlor Bon urables and on his left the Larlor Bon urables and on his left the Larlor Bon unables famous for te South African war. Beside " Job Astor. The scene was There were fally five hundred men
"therms. The first toast was to est and Iting Edward, represenGitan madens "united and invinctdelies of Posten was the first The of the hospitality shown and that the Visit of his com-plet he more that great friendship the between the two great Eng-temples." Short speeches were the Meyor Low, General Hamil-" Ceneral Coffee, Sir Taomas Ch. Astor and Chaplain William or 1 to Hoston Ancient and Hon-

I'l marg 's the menut; H 1 (a.e.) Cape Cod ... Amen i. 5.

Part Vecto lax Quen ilos.

Part A in Croole.

Amen i. 5.

Part A in Croole.

Amen i. 5.

Part A in Croole.

Part A in Croole. It . 1 T. t. R. ogo. Salade. Lace Pintal le o of Mayor Low, who, how-1. The evening, Major mander of the Old Guard, " I the Arments of Boston with it what you will."

Hedges, the Roston com-

the set, the city of it is The three for a control of the contr

and a transport of the trade

the deep sense of obligation for many good times which we have had with you here in New York. Loyal Bostonians as we are, we recognize that here we "come to town," and rejoice that we come under such great and delightful auspices as we do under the wing of the Old Guard. We hope that you will make the London contingent feel What they are touching elbows with London, as, indeed, they are Let them feel the pulse of this greatest of American cities and, best of all, let them feel that among its best treasures are the big-hearted, royal souls of the Old Guard. For the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, I want to thank you for this splendid reception and for all the couriesies which you have shown to us. Let us hope that at no distant day you may find it expedient to take a day of rest from your strenuous life and come and spend a day "In the country" in

There was not a speech that was not deservedly applauded, but none so much, nor so deservedly, as that of Lord Denbigh, commander of the London Honourables. Having the infrequent faculty of being able to think on his feet, his reportee to the chaff that was occasionally hurled at him was sharp though kindly, and that had the effect of silencing those who would inter-rupt him. "After five days' experience in this country," he said, "I can most emphatically indorse what we were told we would find to be true—that "in America they know how to do things." So far as I can see, the triumphs of the old Roman emprors were nothing in comparison with the triumphs of the Honourable Artillery Company. Without disparaging anything else that has been done for us, however, I may say that the perfection of the drill of the West Point cadets which we saw today, such perfection as could not be seen elsewhere in the world, did us all good. To use some of your own charming vocabulary, which I wish we had in part, at least, ry, which I wish we had in part, at least, on our side of the water, we were 'simply tickled to death' at our reception."
"I see that the Old Guard dines, but never surrepders," said Mayor Low when he arrived, about ten o'clock,

"I am told that if you want to belong to the Old Guard you have to put up $100,000, to declared General lan Hamilton, when he was called on to speak. "I don't know as to that, but I do know that the bear skins of the Old Guard stand for romance and for a great military tradition."

Sir Thomas Lipton,' who was greated with most enthusiastic applause when he en-tered the room some time after the banquet had been in progress, while the orchestra played "Sailing" and five hundred voices sang the words, asked to be excused, be-cause of his recent illness, from speaking. Colonel John Jacob Astor, who was found

Colonel John Jacob Astor, who was found with difficulty, when he was called on, and who, it was said by Major Briggs, hoped to join the Old Guard as soon as he has sived up enough money, made a graceful such, after which many of the guardsmen made the Old Guard fair gay with their vari-colored uniforms,

After the banquet many of the guests paid a visit to the Old Guard fair in Madl-son Square Garden.

son Square Garden.

Boston Records Octo: 8, 1903.

The Ret ibution arrived here last Thursday as a factor in the reception was given the London Honouralog, and since that time members of her crew have been enjoying shore leves and "hob-nobling" with Uncle his sollers as promisciously as their or inguished countrymen have with the

it is time they did not have a Sym-Mall banquet, but they lived on the h t witch Pie alley provides, and vien that was not good enough they neighted to the W. End, where everybudy sings "Strike up the band, here comes a sailor," ctc.

The reception in this quarter, it is said, ecl.psed lots of the antics which the Ancients had provided for their guests, and they were made to feel so much at home that they forgot the conditions of their shore leave.

HONOURABLES GIVEN

BANQUET AT SHERRY'S.

Old Guard of New York Escorts Visitors to Hotel from the Pier.

New York, Gct. 7 .- On their return from West Point today the Honourable Artillery company of London and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston were met at the pier by the Old Guard of New York and the Newport Artillery company and escorted to the Waldorf-Astoria, where a reception was held by the Old Guard.

Tonight a banquet was given in honor of the visiting artillery companies by the Old Guard at Sherry's. Major Ellis S. Briggs, commander of the Old Guard, was toastmaster, while on his' right was seated Lord Denbigh, commander of the London Honourables, and on his left General Ian Hamilton, a hero of the South African war. Beside the latter sat Major General Chaffee and Colonel John Jacob Astor. The scene was a brilliant one when all the guests had assembled. There were fully 500 men in gala uniforms. The fully 500 men in gala uniforms. The first toast was to the president and King Edward, representatives of two nations, "united and invincible in influencing the world."

Colonel Sidney M. Hedges of Boston was the first speaker. Lord Denbigh followed, thanking the company for the hospitality shown and voicing the hope that the visit of his command might "promote that great friendship that now exists between the two great English speaking peoples." Short speeches were also made by Mayor Low, General Hamilton, Major General Chaffee, Sir Thomas Lipton, Colonel Astor and Chaplain William H. Rider of the Boston Ancient and Honorable.

Artillery company.

After the banquet many of the guests paid a visit to the Old Guard fair in Madison Square garden.

Bostono Transcript Oct. 8, 1903.

JUDGE COWLEY WAS ESSAYIST

Paper on "Queen Victoria and Her Relations with the American People" Presented at Meeting of New England Historic Genealogical Society

"Queen Victoria and Her Relations with the American People" interested a most appreciative audience, Wednesday after-noon, at Marshall P. Wilder Hall, as pre-sented in the form of a paper which Judge Charles Cowley, LL. D., of Lowell read. The occasion was the stated monthly meet-ing of the New England. ing of the New England Historic Genea-logical Society. The speaker had much to tell about the visit of Boston's Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company to England, and the reception of its members by the late queen. The numerous interesting incidents and anecdotes given by Judge Cow-ley covered the entire period of the queen's long reign, and many of them were gleaned personally by the speaker from eminent diplomats and others who had witnessed or participated in them.

Honorables Go to West Point.

New York, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company, escorting the Honorable Artillery company of London, arrived here to-day on a steamer from Fall River. Walting for them with steam up was a second steamer ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston and its guest, the Honorable Artillery company of London, to West Point.

Modgan formal

Die Honourables in New York. Im oberen Theile bes Bilbes fiehr man Earl of Tenbigh bamit beichäftigt, während der Fahrt nach Weit Point seiner Poit 311 leien. Unten sieht man Sergeant Gilling, den dicksten, und Ariver Rizer, den fleinsten unter den Honourables.

Besuchten Beft Boint, wo Londoner ben Berg erftiegen, bie Boftoner fuhren und Rabetten parcbirten. Regenbogengug gum Walborf.

Beftern waren bie Manen ber "Sonourable Urtillern Company of Lonbon" und ihre Begleiter, bie "Uncient and honorable Artillern Company of Bofton" und bie "Nemport Artillern Company", bie Löwen bes Tages in ber Metropole und die "Dib Guard" machte Die honneurs. Die Uniformen ber Bofoner und ber Londoner "Gonorables" wetteiferten in ihrer alterthumlichen Bracht mit bem eleganten Beife unb ben hohen Barenmugen ber Rem Porfer. mahrend bie modernen Uniformen ber nemporter Schantruppe bas regenbogenfarbige Bild vollendeten. Pferde icheufen und bie Luft gitterte bom Ranonen= ponner, mahrend Die bunte Barade, von pier Rapellen begleitet, bom Gufe ber West 22. Strafe nach bem Walborf-

Bum ersten Mal, seit Washington's Beil im tolonialen Boben begraben murbe, marichirten Leute in britifchen Brenadier= und fontinentalen Uniformen nebeneinander in Manhattan. Stol3 trajen die "honourables", ftolger noch bie "Uncients" poraus, als bie beiden Truppen, bom Dampfer "Shrine" den Sudjon hinauf gebracht, die Militar-Meardemie West Point besuchten. In Meft Boint wurden Col. Hebges, ber Wührer ber Boftoner, und Der Garl of Denbigh, ber Rommandeur ber Briten pon den Kapitänen F. W. Coe und E. Ring an Empfang genommen und nach dem Paradeplat geführt, wo Col. Mills fechshundert schneicige Kabetten porführte. Gine Stunde lang zeigten nich die Radetten in tabellofen Marich jich die klacker, in moenden Marsch-ubungen, dis Denbigh schieflich erklärte, er habe viel von West Bointer Schneib gehort und vortreffliches Ererciren erwartet, aber bas, was er gefehen, habe afle Erwartungen übertroffen. Sonourables" find felbit fein gebaute manner und gut gebrillte Soldaten. Trop ihres borgeschrittenen Alters lie-Ken sie es sich nicht nehmen, den Berg von West Point hinauf zu marschiten, während die wohlbeseiden Bostoner "An cienta" in Rutichen fubren. Rach ber Mudtehr nach Rem Port fam bie Barabe nach dem Waldorf Aftoria Hotel, Beite werden die Londoner Gafte und ihre Be gleiter einen Automobilausfing burch ben Gentral Bort und Riverfide Drive veranstatten, und am Abend werden sie der Fair der "Old Gnard" im Madison Sanare beimohnen, wo fie mahricheinlich por ben Generalen Reffon M. Mies und M. R. Chaffee Revue paffiren werden.

Albanis (131)

Boston having capitulated to the Honourable Artillery Company of London the visitors have determined to march on New York. They will arrive in the metropolis this afternoon and engage the Old Guard, which is entrenched in Madison Square Garden.

Oct. 8, 1903. CITY SURRENDERS TO HONOURABLES

· lew Book! (1.81)

London Artillery Gets Hearty Reception in New York.

OLD GUARD AS HOSTS

British Redcoats and Boston Ancients Guests at Banquet in Sherry's.

With bands playing "Yankee Doodle" and, "Rule Britannia" and the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack flying side by side, the Honourable Artiflery Company of London was welcomed to the city yesterday. Thousands cheered the visitors as they marched up leftly avenue, and the gradually of Amore up Fifth avenue, and the goodwill of America and England was toasted amid enthusiasm at a banquet in the evening. A busy day was rounded out by an informal visit to the Old Guard Fair, in Madison Square Garden, at 11 p. m.

The day was one of novelty and continuous entertainment for the redcoats. They caught their first sight of New York from the deck of the Fall River steamer Pilgrim, which doelest the the steamer principal the steam which docked at the foot of Warren street at 7 a. m. With the Englishmen as hosts were the members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston. The Iron steamboat Sirius was waiting for the military men when the Pilgrim came in, and in half an hour the two companies had transferred from one steamer to the other. The Sirius then cast off from her moorings and went up the North River to West Point, A drizzling rain was falling as the Sirius steamed slowly to the landing at the Military Academy. The artillerymen heeded it. not, however, as they had all realized the significance of the sign over the bar: "Life adju-Preservers." Captain Coc, the post adjutant, and Captain King of the Quartermaster's Department met the companies at the landing. The British artillery were first to leave the Sirius, and they formed in double lines, while the Boston men came down the gangplank and mounted horses which were in waiting, SALUTE FIRED.

The Britishers marched up from the pier, and as they reached the top of the bill a galute was fired, and the battailon of cadets was paraded in from of the barracks. The cadets saluted Lord Denbigh.

racks. The cadets saluted Lord Denbigh, commanding the London company, and went through intricate mangeners to the admiration of the visitors from hoth cities. A reception was held in Superintendent the journey down the river was begin.

The Sirius do ked at the West Twenty-second street ple. Walting there were the Old Chard, the Newport Armbery and the bodies were accompanied by three bands, men began to come down the geographent. The music grew louder as the Englishmen fell with uniform precision into marching

TWO PLACE SIME BY SIDE. Rooms were waiting for all the visitors in the Waldorf, and acte: the parade the men went to them and prepared for the banquet, which was in Sherry's never was.

The grand ballroom in Sherry's never was more brilliant. Five hundred men in gold lace, medals and bright red, blue and white coats tilled the tables. They all car bettiny American and Brights lags, and the decorations carried out the talights effect. officer with with on in his brigarier deactar H. H. H. H.

The menu was as follows:

Huitres du Cap Cod.

Consomme de Toriue Verte aux Quenelles.

Celeti.

Rass Rayee a la Creole.

Concombres.

Filet de bœuf, Richelleu.

Pomines Fundantes.

Ris de Veau, Henri IV.

Sorbet.

Petits Pois.

Canard Tete Rouge.

Homlny.

Salade.

Hominy, Glaces, fantaisle.
Fromage,
Gafe,

Moet & Chandon White Seal,
Moet & Chandon Imperial Brut
Dewar's White Label Scotch.
Cognac: Meukow & Co Grandt Champagne 1824.
White Rock.
Major Briggs, who presided, made a short speech welcoming both the English and Eoston artillerymen to New York, and then introduced Lord Denbigh, who made the chief address.

MAYOR LOW'S WELCOME.

Mayor Low spoke humorously of the Old Guard, and was roundly applauded when he and the "Old Guard dines but never sur-renders." He said only a short time and England and America were practically unlied by the cable and steamship, but that now, thanks to the genius of Marconi the very winds carried messages of friendship between the two countries. He was cheered at the close as the "next Mayor."

General Ian Hamilton loused intense enthusiasm by saving four American officers attended the recent manœuvres of the English army and were let into 'very secret was the is, and that we could not do better than show them what we had learned by the outlay of much treasure and the shedding of much blood in three years of fighting in South Africa."

General Chaffee followed the fighting Englishmen, and contented himself by giving the visitors a welcome in the name of the Department of the Ilist He soud the American army had blank cartridges for such men as the visiting artillerymen, and that he could not wish them better high than to be brought prisoners very often into the guardhouse of the Old Guard. Sir Thomas Linion, who arrived he was called upon to speak, and excused himself by saying he was hoarse and still weak from his illness in Chicago.

There was much excitement in Madison Square Gaiden when the Gld Guard, the Boston, London, Newport and Hartford mean marched in. For an hour the soldiers mingled with the crowds, and it was long after midnight before the last of them went with the crowds. the very winds carried messages of friend-mingled with the crowds, and it was long after midnight before the last of them went to their hotels.

To-day will be mostly sneut in sightseeing. The Englishmen will be taken about the city by the Old Guard in automobiles, and in the evening the same organization will entertain the visitors at the fair in Bostone Of.

Washington, Oct. 7,-The suggestion that Earl Denbigh should be appointed British ambassador at appointed British ambassador at Washington in succession to the late fir Alichael Herbert, meets with very favorable response in Washington. Although no one in any official position will permit the use of his name because etiquette forbits, it, it is apportunit that should the hard is apparent that, should the king appeint Lord Denbigh, he would given a cordial welcome. "No logter appointment could be male," said a premu ent official. "The Brit-Ish ambassador at this copied, to a such s. Mast be a get tlemen, he most be a man of the world, he must understand how to get along wis men, and he must be honest straightforward. Lord Denhigh pes-

Brooklyne, top or Buch & Mas

The Columbus will carry back on her caturn, on Oct. To, the Honon a' le A.o. lery Company of London, which arrived in Boston on the Stemuship Mayflower, Terrific Engagement with the Honourables and Ancients at Sherry's.

ENEMY MOVED EARLIER UPON WEST POINT.

Inspected Historic Scenes Along the Banks of the Hudson.

Morrah for the Old Guard! They met persidan the fierce and impetuous attack of the Honourable Artillery Com-Dany of London and the cold, steady. peragent, .ll.mitable capacity of the Annan and Honorable Artillery of Bos. ton and beat them both back in a banat Sherry's, whose fame will never so long as pate de foie gras grows and champagne runs. It was not

They arrived in this city at 4.30 P. M.

and were received at the foot of West Twenty-second street by the Old Guard under command of Major S. Ellis Briggs and the Washington Minutemen, who escorted them up Twenty-fourth street to Fifth avenue and thence by slow and easy stages to their bivouac at the Waldorf-Astoria.

After an hour's rest the London and Boston and Washington invaders paraded beautifully up Fifth avenue to Sherry's, where at ?, P. M. they were met by the Old Guard in a battle to a finish.

The State dining-room was decorated with American and British flags. The friendly and fraternal foes engaged in a grand and concerted attack upon the following:

MENU.

MENU.

Huitres du Cape Cod.

Consomme de Tortue Verte aux Quenelles.
Celeri.

Bass Payee a la Creole.
Concombres.
Filet de Boeuf Richelleu.
Fommes Fondant.
Ris de Veau Henri IV.
Petits Pols.
Sorbet.
Canard Tete Rouge.
Hominy.
Giaces Fantaisle.

Rominy. Salade.

Glaces Fantaisie.
Fromage.
Cafe.

Cot & Chandon White Seal.
doet & Chandon Imperial Brut. lewar's White Label Scotch.
Lognac: Menkow & Co. Grande Champagne; 1824.
White Rock.

Those at the Banquet.

Those at the Banquet.

Major S. Ellis Briggs presided. On Pls right were Mayor Scin Low, the Rev. Dr. Phillips, Brig. Gen. Louis Fitz-Rerald, Col. Daniel Appletin and Julge H. A. Glidersleeve. On his left were Col. Sydney M. Hedges, of the Boston Ancients; the Earl of Denbigh and Desmond, commanding the Honourable Artillery Company, of London; Gen. Ian Hamilton, Major A. R. Chaffee Col. John Jacob Astor, Gen. Francis V. Greene, Gen. A. E. Barnes and Admiral Entwistle, Mayor Low, Lord Denbigh, Gen. Lun Hamilton and others responded to toasts. Col. John Jacob Astor said: "Major Bridges, Lord Denbigh, Col. Gledges and Gentlemen: We have all unjoyed this reunion with our transulantic brethren. There have been many good speakers before me, and they have covered the ground so well there is little left for me to say. I will say that no one has enjoyed this reunion more than myself."

NEw Fork (1.7.,) Journal oct. 8, 1903. HALE STATUE

Detectives Investigating Mystery of Early Morning in . City Hall Park,

4 new silk American flag, slit into rib-A new silk American lag, shi into Ho-hous, was draped around the statue of Notean fiab, in City Hall Park, when on it pedestrians began to move along Broadway this morning. The unusual sight a torted much attention and a crowd sur to-nded it for some hours until Herman, the Heror's hootblack, officially discov-

A while card was attached to the flag. On the card was written;

"LEST WE FORGET."

The latter initials evidently meant: "Sons of the American Revolution." Herman promptly notified Captain Stephen O'Brien, of the City Hall sub-staton, who ordered the flag hauted down, and assigned detectives to make an investigation.

It is supposed that the draping of the status was impired by the visit of the Homorable. Artillery of Loudon to the city.

Enthusiastic Crowds Gather Around the Waldorf-Astoria and Salute the Honourable Heroes of Brandy-Wine.

The revelle for the Honorables was sounded about noon to-day, and by the time the bugler had expanded for his last despairing puff there was a stir in the Waldorf-Astoria barracks. The Ancients, whose encampment was scattered about the neighborhood of the battlefield, seemed to have disregarded taps last night and were still engaging Col. Brandy and Soda's outposts at reveille;

Hundreds of curlous townfolk crowded about the Waldorf-Astoria encampment to cheer the heroes of last night's glorious contest. The Earl of Denbigh, who had planned a brilliant retreat for his force when he saw that their waver-ing ranks were about to be cut down, received congratulations in mighty salvos of applause from the populace.

He was so affected by this enthusiasm that he wrote a seventy-five-word cablegram to King Edward VII. of England, who is Captain-General and Monorary Colonel of the Honorables, telling him of the people's splendid appreciation of the valor of his troops.

Col. Morris's Gorgeous Uniform. A hero of last night's battle, who for some inexplicable reason escaped attention, for the reason that he had been encountering single - handed a flying squadron of the enemy at the bend of Rum Punch River, but who was very much in evidence at roll-call to-day, is Col. Morris, of the Amaskege Veterans, of New Hampshire. How a warrior in such a uniform could have obscured himself even amid the din and smoke of battle defles sober calculation.

To-day, when he joined the Honora-bles in the Waldorf-Astoria barracks, he was the centre of observation. His uniform of blue and red and green, slashed with purple, yellow and light plak, and decorated with gold and silver braid. The tail of his coat reaches his ankles, covering the backs of his shoes with a fringe of tassels. wis sword, a relic of the first invasion of Europe by the Goths, is a treasured ancestral helricom.

Col. Morris explained that his regiment, the main body of which weighed over 200 pounds each and presented 2 magnificent front, had failed to secure adequate transportation to the scene of strife for themselves and their unl-

The plan of campaign for to-day consists of an automobile attack on Mount Claremont.

The magazine of the enemy on Mount.
The magazine of the enemy on Mount.
Claremont was captured on the first eletack, and an Ancient started a fuse, which resulted in the total demolition of all the ordnance in the magazine. The following is a list of the ordnance de-

California Grape Fruit.

Lake Superior White Fish.

Fresh Mushroums. cart of Boston bettuce.

Dresced New York State Partridge.

Vermont Manile Syrup.

Aumm's Cosmpone.

Boston Record. Oct. 8. 1903.

MR. DROOLEY HAS A FEW WORDS FOR THE ANCIENTS' GUESTS

"Ar-re ye ancient or honorable, or both?" asked Mr. Finnissey.

"Ancient enough nivver to have raymimbered whin th' monymint me ancistors fit under on Bunker Hill turrned pale under the cross iv Sint Jarge," retorted Mr. Drooley. "Finnissey, phat's th' wurrid comin' to? Joe Chamberlain has borrayed our protective policy and swamped us with union jacks. F'r hivens sake vote f'r Bates an' a high tariff on Fritish flags. Give th' infant industries in Matsachoosetts wan chanst to catch up. Be gorry, if King Ed. is goin' to have a monopoly in the way of kapin' us supplied with British flags th' only gloomy climax that clips me point iv view is well manin' an' intelligent citizens iv this Commonwealth druy to makin' American flags. Th' only consolin! thing is they may come back into fashion agin."

"Did ye see Dinbigh?" Inquired Mr. Finnissey.

"Befure anny other rayporther," replied Mr. Drooley, "That eventful mornin' I stud off Highland light sweepin' th' horizon with a quart bottle, and sindin' out these wireless messages three per minute: 'Th' mornin' Briton sinds congratulations-don't land till mornin. We ar-re runnin' short in flags an' what hilps wave thim."

hilps ways thin.
"'How ar-re ye, Drooley,' said me old friend Dinbigh, pinnin' a decoraytion on

Boston Transcript. Oct. 8, 1903

! ANCIENTS SEEINGNEW YORK

Riding in Automobiles in a Rainstorm

Cable Sent the King by Commander of Honourables

He Bestows Lavish Praise on Americans

Tells of Reception in Boston and Courtesies Extended

New York, Oct. 8-The Honourable Artillery Company of London and their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Comthe Ancient and thousand Arthery Com-pany of Boston, today rode in automobiles in a rainstorm through Central Park and Riverside Drive to Grant's tomb, after which they had luncheon at the Claremont, Lord Denbigh, the command r of the Honourables, sent a cable despitch to King Edward today in which he told of the reception of the party in Boston and the courtesles since extended to them, and was lavish in his praise of the Americans. It also told of the visit to West Point and of the favorable impression created by the cadets, and that the school was fully up to its great reputation. To ight the com-bined party will dise in the ball room of the Waldorf-Astoria and tomo row meraing will start for Washington.

Now your, of in Just,

The Honeurable Artillery Company of London will be justified in placing the words "Boston" and "New York" on their regimental flag. It is a hard campaign, out the corps is doing its duty nobly.

" 'Phat's this f'r?'

"'It's because you see me firrst,' remarked Dinbigh, pinnin' decoraytions on th' other rayporthers at the same time. Thin he cried 'forrard,' an' th' band sthruck up America, while the crowd iv Americans cheered, thinkin' it was 'God save th' King,'

"Ah, but th' banquet, Finnissey. Ye don't know phat a ter'ble thing it is whin Americans and English fall in love with each other. Th' firrst named arre too saryous to joke. The last cudden't see it annyhow. They sit with raptchurous glances wonderin' how th' devvil such a state iv things cut be possible. Nayther wan cud dare to snicker, if he thought iv it. Be hivens, th' suspinse is worse than waitin' f'r another Bunker Hill. Ye can't even build breast-works. I understand that Sid Hedges was givin' strict instructions on the subject iv crackin' jokes at the banquet.

"'Don't shoot till ye see th' whites iv their eyes, me brave min, said Sid. An' thin th' ammynition wagons didn't arrive, an' th' British captured us without firin' a pun.

"There's another way I notice th' London Honourables get ahead iv us," observed Mr. Drooley.

"Phat?" asked Mr. Finnissey

"They walk faster," said Mr. Drooley.
"They walk faster," said Mr. Drooley.
"'Tis a habit th' British contraracted at Claste Bitural Uct. 8, 1963. Buntes Militärbild.

Die "Ancient and Honorable Artillern

Company" bon Boston und die Newporter Artillerie-Rompagnie, welche die Estorte ber "Honorable Artillern Company" von London bilben, trafen geftern Morgen auf bem Fall Riber Dampfer hier ein, arrangirien in aller Gile eine furge Parabe burch bie Weft Str. und bebienten fich bann bes bereitliegenben Dampfers, um nach Weft Boint gebracht gu werben unb biefes gu besichtigen. Der Regen hatte ben Leutchen fomohl bier als auch in Deft Point übel mitgespielt. Gegen Abend fehr= ten bie "Artilleristen" mit ihren Lonboner Gaften wieber hierher gurud und marschirten bann geschloffen in ihren bunten und buntichedigen Uniformen burch berfciebene Strafen und fcilieflich burch die 5. Avenue dis jum Waldorf=Aftoria, vor dem sie fich in Reih und Glied aufstell= ten, bann außeinanber trafen und bon bem Sotel Befig ergriffen. Diefes Sotel mirh bas Renbezvous ber Lonboner Gafte fein Geffern Abend fand im Madifon Square Gorben eine Art Schauegerziren ber brei militärischen Körperschaften statt und noch fpater ein Bantett in Sherrh's.

Chelsea Record, Oct. 8, 1903.

HANDSOME SOUVENIR ON EXHIBITION.

There is on exhibition in the win-! The plate rests in a white paddedevening, which was received by Supt. and is satin lined.

George Cassell of the Chelsea water The first page bears the date of banquet, Oct. 5, 1903.

"Soutone Losts

1 1903. POMMERY CHAMPAGNE

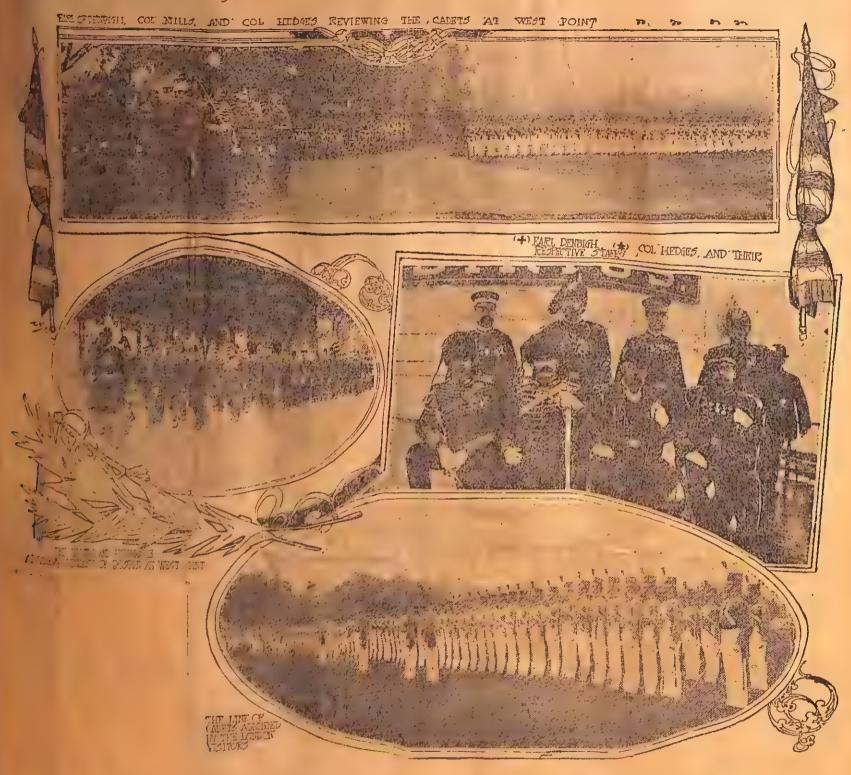

dow of Reed's millinery store a sou- leather box, satin lined, and held in venir plate from the banquet tender- place in the cover of the case is the ed the Honourable Artillery com- extremely pretty menu card. This pany in Symphony hall, Monday is also covered with white leather, the barquet, etc, and on the next is The plate is about 10 inches in the coat of arms and stand of flags diameter, and is handsomely decoration of the Ancients, together with a picted in colors. The centre is taken ture of Fanueil Hall, and the seal of up with a medallion of the flags and Boston. The picture is engraved. coats of arms of the two companies, the rest of the design being in colors, while the rim bears a design of and heavily embossed. Following crossed swords, cannon, seals and on the next page is the menu in enscrolls. At the top of the medallion graved text. The next page bears a is the inscription, "H.A.C. 1537", picture of the armory of the Honwhile below it reads, "A. & H.A.C., ourables, with their seal, and stand of 1638", followed by the date of the flags, executed in a similar manner to the other.

At the banquet given Monday night at Symphony Hall by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company to the Honourable Artillery Company of London, Pommers coampagne was used ex-

New York!, St. 2, 1 Afan 11, Oct. 8, 1905.

West Point Visited by the Honourable Artillery and Its Boston Escort

at Wallack's Theatre last night and were in orchestra seats. They had not been scated when six more Ancients, in civilians' clothes, at their uniforms of the key to the trunk the company had the key to the trunk uniforms were locked up, they said

Without regard to the rain yesterday

the London Honorables, attended by the Boston Ancients, were received in style by the New York Old Guard and the march along the way to the Waldorf-Astoria was unimpeded. The men wore their regulation uniforms, with rain coats, presumably, inside. The big dinner last evening was a success and not withstanding the great reputation of the visiting organizations, as trenchermen, there was enough and to spare. No one "got up hungry," after the rule of the theorists, but they did eat and were tilled. The visitors had been at West Point before reaching New York Oct 8, 1903.

The Honourables and the Ancients Here. The Honourable Artillery Company of Lonon came down from Boston yesterday and visited West Point. They were greeted on the shores of Manhatian Island by New York's tion entertained at dinner last night. Other come. The London soldiers were accompanied able Artillery Company of Boston. Today the biles; there will be a luncheon at Claremont. biles; there will be a luncheon at Claremont Pought they will visit the Old Guard Pair Then they will go on to Washingt · Tow York! (1.9.) Nows!

COMMANDERS OF THE HONORABLES

Howerhiel Gazette, Oct. 8, 1903.

ATTACKED EXTRAVAGANCE.

ATTACKED EXTRAVAGANCE.

Representative James F. Carey, in his Socialist rally at the corner of John and Primrose streets, last evening, had something to say in regard to the extravagance of the Ancients and Homorables of Boston in entertaining the Homorable of the Artillery company in his remarks he incidentally touched on the articles and other things used at the banquet of the entillery company in Boston, which cost $60,000, which, he claimed, were produced by the workingmen; but the latter never received their productions and are forced almost to starve. He referred to the members of the Boston company and the London company as a crowd of filters who never produced anything in their life, and whose only distinction is their monkey coats, Representative Carey also had other things to Say about the extravagance of the city when in doing so they were really taking rally was attended by about 40 persons, disturbed the meeting at various times of the evening. The speaker dwelt principally on the principles of Socialism, incidentally bringing minor local matters to attention.

Face Chow Sheld

The officers of steamer Puritan report that the trip to New York with the Ancients 'and Honorables and their London brothers was not as lively as expected. This was due to the fact that the men were all pretty well tired out and desired to turn in early, as they desired to be on deck when the steamer was making the run through Hell Gates, the East and North rivers. There was a general good time after the Newport Artillery boarded the steamer but by midnight most of the Londoners turned in, while the Boston men remained on deck a little longer to whoop 'er up with the new comers. It was acknowledged aboard the boat by various employes that London prices and nsystem of tipping do not approach the American rates of payment.

. New York! M. J.) Post

The Columbus will carry back on her return on October 15 the Honourable Artillery Company of London, which arrived in Boston on the steamship Mayflower.

3u Ehren der Aälle

Balc's Statue mit zerfenter britischer Flagge bekorirt.

"Lest we forget".

Uebereifriger Patriot wollte vermuthlich den "Chrenwerthen Londonern" imponiren.

Blinder Poligift.

Eine eigenartige Deforation bemerkten heute Morgen alle Passanten bes Sith Hall Parks an ber bem Broadwah zugewendeten Statue Nathan Sale's. Der Godel bes Dentmals war nämlich in etwas Rothes eingehüllt, bas fich bei naberer Beirachtung als in Streifen gerschnittene britifche Flagge entpuppte, welche mit Binbfaben an bie bort neulich niebergelegten Blumenstücke gebunden war. Auf einem ber Flagge angehefteten Zettel ftanben die Morte in fol-

"LEST WE FORGET."

Ein Souhputer, ber in ber Näbe ber Statue einen Stand hat, fagte, bie Flagge sei bereits um 6 Uhr Morgens bagemefen, aber erft um 9 Uhr betam bie beilige Bermandab Wind davon und Kapitan D'Brien von der City Hall Station ließ die Flagge entfernen, ehe die britischen Gäste von der "Ehrenwerthen Artiflerie Co. bon Lonbon" ihrer ansichtig wurden. Ratürlich stellte ber Boligeitapitan sofort Recherchen nach bem Uebelthater an, aber bas Ergebnis mar ein recht mangelhaftes.

Man brachte in Erfahrung, baß bas bri-tifche Emblem gestern Abend um 7½ Uhr noch nicht ba war, aber um 6 Uhr heute Morgen war es bereits am Monument an-

Ferner ergab bie Untersuchung, bag heute früh ein Mann ben Schuhpuher Berman Jaacs mit ben Worten anfprach "Junge, siehst Du bie Flagge; nun, fie hangt gerabe unter Nathan Hall, gerade ba, wo sie hingebort."

Dann lieg fich ber Mann die Schuhe puben und gab bem Schuhpuger einen Dollar. Näheres wußte Ifaacs nicht an-

Auf die Frage des Bolizeikapitäns, war-um Isaacs den dienstthuenden Polizisten nicht von der Anwesenheit der Flagge be-nachrichtigt habe, sagte der Knabe: "Menn ber Augen gehabt hatte, follte er bie rothe Fahne felbft gefeben baben."

Gin Ungeftellter bes Part-Departements wurde auch berhört, und auf die Frage, wer bie Flagge bort angebracht habe, antwor-

"Frgend ein Berrildter, ich wollte, ich hätte ihn bemerkt." Diese Worte wurden mit ftart fremblanbifchem Accent herpor-

1 dan and Boston Artillery Men Meer and Are Cheered at a Solendid Banquet.

LOTO DENBIGH DELIGHTED

Heard S - Thomas Lipton and Mayor Low Pledge International and Inter-Gity Good Will, ir places at what was one spectacular banquets ever country, in the grand ball-"'s last night, eight acore for America and for the never was heard on this . ter outside a football field in their royal blue coats. tion, and then in absolute eft, cheered their King, the President o the United States, the city and their hosts. With a three times three, the Old Guard Honorables from Boston returned or with the hearty good will which Primed With Cocktolia.

themselves with a supply knils, made famous at the ily made a part of

Cape Cod Verte aux Amenelles Amandes

hord Benhigh's Speech.

eff (t : sllencing those who would inter-

After five days' experience in this coun-

The Mayor's Remark.

The Mayor's Remark.

"I see that the Old Guard dines, but never surrenders," said Mayor Low, when he arrived about ten o'clock.

"Three cheers for the next Mayor," called a voice in the rear of the room, and they were given heartily.

"I don't think," retoried another voice, but he was silenced by hisses.

"I am told that if you want to belong to the Old Guard you have to put up $100,000," declared General "Tom" Hamilton, when he was called upon to speak. "I don't know as to that, but I do know that the bearskins of the Old Guard stand for romance and for a great military tradition."

Sir Thomas Listen who was greated.

el John Jacob Astor, who was found with difficulty when he was called upon, and who, it was said by Major Briggs, hoped to join the Old Guard as soon as he could save up enough money, made a graceful speech, after which many of the guardsmen made the Old Guard Fair gay with their varicolored uniforms.

New York! (N. J.) Commercial Advertises,

'LEST WE FORGET'-S.A.R.

Nathan Hale Statue Decorated With Torn British Flag.

The statue of the Revolutionary hero. Nathan Hale, in City Hall Park was today decorated with a British flag by an anonymous but ardent patriot with prejudices extending back over a hundred years. The flag, which was new, had been torn to shreds and was found tled about the ankles of the statue at 6 o'clock this morning. On a piece of cardboard the words "Lest we forget" had been written in ink in an undisguised handwriting. The letters S. A. R. (Sons of the American Revolution) completed the inscription.

The flag, with the square of cardboard accompanying it, remained at the feet of the Nathan Hale statue until after 9 o'clock, when both were removed by the police, who have been unable so far to find the person who placed them there.

This decoration, it was inferred, was aimed as a protest at the entertainers of the Honourable Artillery Company of London, now visiting this city.

Viantingertung

Als Chrengaft ber Dlb Guarb, beren Fair jeben Tag ber Woche Taufenbe nach bem Mabison Square Garben lodt, wirb heute Abend die "Honourable Artillern Company" von London ben Mittelpunti bes Intereffes bilben. Gine ber größten Alttrattionen ber Fair ift bas Preisschiefen um Baar= und Werthpreife im Gefammtbeitag von $1000. Es giebt Scheiben filr langfames und für Schnell-Revolverfenern ine Coupenirfcibe, eine Scheibe fur bai Damen-Souvenir-Schiegen, eine für bas Schülerschießen und eine Ringfcheibe für illaemeinen Bewerb. All Schütenmeifter ungiren vie besonders in denischen Kreisen ungeren vie Gebrüder Lettler OLD GUARD FAIR'S BIG NIGHT.

Visiting Ancient and Honourable Artillerymen to Be Their Guests.

The Honourable Artillery of London, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Boston, its hosts while in the United States, and the visiting delegations, including the Governor's Foot Guards of New Haven, the Newport Artillery of Rhode Island will be the guests of the Old Guard to-night at the Old

Last night they were the Old Guard's guests at Sherry's. On the right of Major S. Ellis Briggs, at table, sat the Earl of Denbigh and Desmond, the lieutenant-colonel commanding the Honourable Artillery, numbering 170 in all. At his left was Col. Hedges, the commander of the An-Ments of Boston. Other guests of honor vere Gen. Adna R. Chaffee, Gen. Ian Hamilon of the British army; Sir Thomas Lipon, Col. John Jacob Astor, and the chapains of the Boston Ancients and the Foot quards of New Haven. Lord Denbigh said n part:

I think I may say without disparagement of our own soldiers that the drill of the West Point cadets did us good in every way. It was a perfection of drill that we could am told that it is an absolute fact that it is the first time a foreign armed force was ever allowed on the sacred soil of West Point; therefore we regard it as a special compliment to pass by those cadets, and then to be drawn up and your humble serthey marched by with that admirable pretanywhere in the world.

Boston Advertiser, Oct. 8, 1903.

ORDERED TO HALIFAX.

British Cruiser Retribution to Weigh Anchor Today.

Today, probably on the full tide just before noon, the British cruiser Retribution will leave Boston, returning direct to her station at Halifax.

The Retribution arrived in the harbor last Thursday as England's warship representation in honor of the visit and stay of the Honourable Artillery company of

The stay of the ship in the harbor has The stay of the ship in the harbor has been very a pleasant one, all the officers and men agree. The captain and senior officers were guests at all the festivities in honor of the Honourables, the other officers were entertained fraternally by the officers of the other warships in the harbor and entertained in turn, while the men of the crew have all been granted shore leave and had a chance to see the city.

Quite a large number of visitors in spected the ship during her stay, and all expressed admiration for her arrangement, and the fine-looking men that made

Boston Person.

Lt.-Coh Stohwasser of the Honourables, just before his departure, said to some of the newspaper men: "What Lord Denbigh said about London streets failing to show such enthusiastic cordiality toward your Ancients as Boston showed toward us is true, but that was in 1896. Things have changed since, and now, since the Spanish war, London would be much more cordial. But it takes a good deal to enthuse London anyway. The only "time I saw much spontaneous cheering was when Loubet came. That was just after the king's visit to Paris, when he was given such a hearty greeting, and London thought it in duty bound to reciprocate,

But we are not much on anything of the sort. We don't know how to de rate either. Even at the coronation we had to call on Italian decorators."

New Yorks, St. 37.) your Topies.

FUSION'S RI

VERNMENT S

RTMENTS UN

DER LOW.

fusion came the house for thirteen years a c de Health Commission nent, its needs and , Dr. Lederle, a man of o work with his coat of up. First, he got rid o partment, dismissing 1 and "leftovers" from way he saved on salar One entire bureau in is abolished. Next, the bers of the advisory highest standing.

DINNER GIVEN BY THE OLD GUARD TO THE HONOURABLE ARTILLIES to consult with I

Communeal Advertises oct. 8, 1903.

A NOBLE EARL'S WAY.

Denbigh Didn't Doubt the Reporter's Word, but He Vowed He Never Knew of Benedict Arnold's Existence.

It was in the Astor gallery of the Waldorf-Astoria. Many of the Honourables were lounging around to-day when a young reporter accosted the Earl of Denbigh and Desmond, the commander.

"I am from the Evening Bugle," he said to the earl, soothingly.

His lordship turned on him, fixed his glass firmly in his eye, surveyed the young man calmly, and remarked;

"I don't doubt it, me dear fellow; I don't doubt it."

Unabashed, the reporter asked a few questions, when the earl said, somewhat impatiently:

"Now look hear, me dear fellow, they write such things of us, you know. There's that other paper which said my eyes flashed fire at West Point yesterday when the grave of Benedict Arnold was pointed out to me. I assure you, my dear fellow, that I never even knew of the existence of such a person as Benedict Arnold; never knew of him, si ...

"Oh, but you know, my lord," said an Honourable standing by, "these beastly reporters have got to earn their living somehow, you know." "Ah! true, me dear fellow, true," gaid

the earl. . Store Fork St. J. Darly Naid, geveral members of the London Honourable Artillary, company are reported to have caught severe colds from standing in the champagne spilled at that $60,000 banquet given them in Boston the other night. Lord Denbigh says is the wettest campaign he has ever gone through

Brooklyse, M. J.,)

Oct. 7, 1903.

HONOURABLES AT WEST POINT.

In a Drizzling Rain They Review the Cadets and Depart.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 7 .- The Honourable Artillery reached here by steamer today. They were met at the landing by Capt Coe and Capt. King. Lady Denbigh and Mrs. Courtney Baylor, daughter of Col. Hedge's, were the only ladies in the party and these were met by Miss Mills, daughter of the Superintendent of the Military Academy. The Honourables were provided with carriages and the others marched up the long hill to the academy grounds. The battalion of cadets were paraded in front of the barracks and stood at attention while the visitors marched by.

There was a reception at the quarters of Col. Mills. After this there was a review of the corps of cadets. The artillery than returned to the boat and started down the river. Their visit to West Point consumed only about an hour. There was a drizzling rain during the whole of the ceremony.

Newburgfort Towl

That was a very happy after-dinner speech that was made by Lord Denbigh at the banquet of the Ancients in Boston. It was full of good things. One of them was when he was saying that both countries. England and America, had features which the other might envy. Speaking of this he asked, "Why can't we, speaking the same language. and coming from the same stock, just as two negatives make a positive, why can't we turn two envies into one mutual admiration?" That was a very happy application, it strikes us.

Naw York! St. J. In welcoming the Honourable Artillery

Company of London to this city we frankly confess to certain feelings of surprise. We had supposed that venerable organization to be as nearly as possible like its Boston offshoot-rather of infinite jest than of minute accuracy in gunnery; representatives of civic dignity and of heroic gastronomy rather than devotees of the drill yard and steady occupants of the caisson. But it appears that the London Company is largely, made up of young men, that it contains tew members of imposing portliness, that it ests and drinks in moderation, is capable of a prolonged practice march, and conceivably might go into action without universal apoplexy. Such a condition of things. rudely counters all American notions of a civic artillery company, but when we come to look at it we rather like it. We conceive that the Honourables may be on their good behavior, and we sincerely condole with the Ancients and the Old Guard in their disappointment at finding their guests something less than heroic in accepting liquid hospitality. But we admit a cortain pleasure in discovering a city militia company whose works are not wholly comprised in the creation of records

Boston Herald

Among the interesting trophies of the Ancients and Honorables displayed by various merchants about town, few receive as much attention as a quaint for 60 years fifer, and thin Simpson, fo 55 years drummer, of the A. and H. A · low gold

THE HONORABLES IN TOWN.

THEY'RE SPRY; BUT MY! THE ESCORT OF ANCIENTS IS SLEEPY.

Visit to West Point Enlivened by an Address to Commander, "Gen. Miles"-Also by a View of the Stuff That Makes Our Real Army—That Was a Revelation

The Honorable Artillery Company of London, as well set up a body of young men as are often seen on our streets, came down from Boston yesterday and visited West Point. They were greeted on the thores of Manhattan Island by New York's own rotund, solemn and glittering Old mard, and were by that organization enters ned at dinner last night. Other militia ompairs with more or less history attarled to them participated in the wel-

The London soldiers were accompanied on their travels by a very weary, not over fattr of of gentlemen attired in all the different a forms that the militia-uniforming gentures of the Commonwealth of eres have ever devised These were the members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston.

If ey were not so young as the Londoners, and they were terribly tired. Some of them were so tired that when they marched up Fifth aronus yesterday afternoon they stepped on their own feet and then frowned at the same most flercely. One bewhiskered Bostonian showed his military indifference to lariships at Sherry's last night by accompasting the difficult feat of going to sleep with his head in his soup plate. When rous d, he cleared his throat with a hoarse makery nep and a swallow of sherry Avg 11, whereas with the edge of the tablecloth and said brusquely:

o mare had a hard, hard day. Awful bariour - riact, hardes' day-ever-eawl

At i the Brit shers didn't seem to mind I won es of the day at all They looked " 'wed a' the end of their sighthat hone of them felt the need cort of st.mulation stronger than "made and horses' necks. They t tre ad with a swing and a spring, kept that their eyes were always to ents and Honorables and their has around the city at day og down the Sound from Fall Purlan At the Fall River In the was waiting to take West Point The scenes going f. partien arly the battlefield of regested the visitors greatly. " it trulk," said one of them " ra'ton "flat it would have or y in pleasant place for orplained a somnolent Boston ... ly roused from standing " a granohion; "why, the rible Artilleryman turned required mildly surprised to " " has host had returned to an official guide aboard. with commute who took a particular to '... olding out intureding apole. To Burlah apv. Andre, the 1. file rayor Arnold, was hanged. charter, on the return true and " () to or that he had been thrown the the Catalilla," naid an Amer-" " " l'a l'unerables, who at once ordered! Oh., dear yes! J. Richt creentalness as a creating in our Winkle who went to sleep."

"Why, of course, of course! How awfully stupid! Rip Van Winkle, of course!" rejoined the Britisher, with happy contrition. "Why, of course, ha, ha, ha! It was Hendrick Hudson who gave him the schnapps, now wasn't it? Why, of course!"

He was so mighty nice about it that the American didn't have the heart to undeceive him. But an Ancient who had overheard the conversation murmured, as if in a the conversation murmured, as if in a reverie:

"And still Sarah can't understand why
I should take to drink on this trip."

A domestic touch on the decks of the Sirius was furnished by Lady Denbigh, the wife of the commander of the Honorables, accompanied by Mrs. Courtney Baylor, the daughter of Col. Hedges, the commander of the Ancients. Lady Denbigh was dressed with the plain severity characteristic of the Englishwoman when she is not dressed up. She busied herself on the trip up the river and down again with kuitting a woollen stocking. knitting a woollen stocking.

At West Point the Honorables took it for granted that they were to march into the Academy grounds under arms. The Ancients, who had heard about that steep half mile hill which climbs up the face of the Palisades to the reservation, wouldn't hear of it.

Col. Denbigh was firm. The Ancients were not only firm but solid, and the Ancients took to the mongrel and assorted lot of conveyances which await visitors at the landing. The visitors walked.

At the top of the hill near the edge of the barracks, the Ancients dismounted and got in some sort of line. The cadet corps were drawn up in front of the barracks. As the motley array, in gray and red and black and white and blue and gold puffed by, never a boys' face cracked a smile, never an eyelash quivered, not an elboy moved toward a white and blue and gold puffed by, never a boys' face cracked a smile, never an eyelash quivered, not an elbow moved toward a nudge. It was all for the world like Buffalo Bill's Congress of Rough Riders of the World grown portly and bleary. But it might have been a collection of tent poles for all the cadets showed.

Then came the British. First Col. Denbigh, spruce, clear-eyed, stiff and straight as a ramrod and as springy, a representative worthy of the Captain-General and Honorary Colonel of the company, King Edward VII. Then the Royal Horse Artillery, with their dark blue coats, laced with yellow, and rakishly set busbys, carrying sabres, and the infantry corps, in the red coats of the British grenadiers and tremendous black bearskin shakos.

They marched at a clip of 128 steps to the minute, eight steps faster than our own quick step. Their lines were stiff as boards. One could almost imagine a stiffening of the rigid West Point line as the Englishmen passed; here was stuff to make sold irs of-on both sides of the curbstone.

The visitors were conducted to the parade ground and Col. Mills had the cadets go through the regular drass parade and a brief drill. Men who have seen scores of West Point dress parades said yesterday that they never saw the boys do the thing better. The Englishmen's eyes grew big and then bigger and bigger.

It the end, when the gray companies went fashing by at the double time, the English-bigger and bigger.

At the end, when the gray companies went fashing by at the double time, the Englishmen, who were standing at "present arms," were so carried away by the wonderful speciacle that they let their sabres sink this way and that and leaned forward and exclaimed in their admiration.

"Peally, you know," said one of them afterward, "I hope you won't misunderstand me, you know, and that what I say will not be taken as a discourtesy, but really we had a rather mistaken idea of your army and your military establishment."

"Did you think that this sort of thing was representative," asked the man to whom he spoke, pointing to the kaleidoscopic blage of color which represented the Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Boston. The handle handle artillery of Boston. The handle handle artillery of Boston. The handle handle artillery of Boston and Honorable handle artillery of Boston. The handle ha

At the end of the drill (ol. Denbigh, who teemed not to understand exactly who Col Milbi was, primed to him and addressed

Col Mills was, primed to him and addressed him as follows, somewhat, it was apparent, to the discomfort of the commandant:

"Gen Milles: We have heard very much of the wonderful discipline and the fine spirit and wonderful accuracy of drill of these, your West Point cadets. It has been a great pleasure for us to-day to see them our deet, and to know that all we have heard to but a small part of the truth "We are, sir, in the malst of a delightful visit to the traitest States, but this is the first opportunity the layer had to see anything if you Regader army The memory of the day of the reasonable with discovering the proportunity of the reasonable with discovering the proportunity of the layer have endure with discovering the proportunity of the layer and also we endure with discovering the proportunit lesson when have here. It has been an opportunity for which we are very grateful."

Col. Mills said in reply that he was very glad indeed to have had an opportunity to show to such a distinguished body of soldiers as composed the Honorable Artillery of London what the United States was doing in the way of training officers for its Regular army.

when the visitors had returned to their steamer, Col. Denbigh caught sight of Col.
Mills on the pier. The Earl ran up and down along the decks among his men calling:
"Now, men, let's give a 'fire' for Gen.
Miles."

The Honorables responded with a series of huzzas which more nearly resembled an American college yell than anything heretofore imported to these shores. Somebody asked Col. Denbigh if it was something new. There was a glitter in the noble lord's eye (which may lend a clue to the disappearance of the megaphoned guide who was so full of Major André's vicissitudes) as he answered: The Honorables responded with a series so full of Major André's vicissitudes) as he answered:

"On the contrary, it is very old. It has been heard in this country before, once at least. Yes, at Bunker Hill, I believe. Luncheon was served on the trip down. Most of the Ancients awakened from their slumbers at the pop of the first champagne cork and were fairly animated for a while cork and were fairly animated for a while they soon lifted their voices in song, in They soon lifted their voices in song, in the highest the Britishers joined not infrequently. But it was observed that when the Honorables of London were through eating and drinking they stopped. Only that physical weariness which has been remarked upon before slackened the appetites of the Ancients.

The truly grand spectacle of the day physical weariness which has been to the upon before slackened the appetites of the Ancients.

The truly grand spectacle of the day awaited the visitors at the foot of West Twenty-second street when they landed. There was a wonderful array of spectacular militia companies to greet them.

First there were the Minute Men of Washington, D. C., who were organized as far back as 1901 and have been drilled for three weeks in the tactics of Baron Steuben. They are armed with flintlock muskets remodelled from Springfield rifles of the civil war pattern, and their uniforms are patterned, according to their commander, after a uniform in a glass case in the National Museum.

Then there were the Governor's Foot Guards, Second Company, of New Haven, Conn., whose belts betoken their organization in 1775 and who proudly boast Benedict Arnold as their first commander. There was the Newport Artillery, who are still in active service. although they were organized in 1741. There were scattered delegations from the Providence Light Infantry, the Cleveland Grays, the Albany Burgesses and the Hartford company of the Governor's Foot Guards, and, of course, there was the Old Guard.

And, of course, there was the Old Guard.

And, of course, there was the Old Guard.
The procession moved up Twenty-fourth street to Fifth avenue and from Fifth avenue to the Waldorf, where it was dismissed with the cheers of the awed multitude missed with the cheers of the awed multitude

At Sherry's last night the Old Guard gave a banquet to the Honorables and the Ancients. The room blazed with United States and British flags and the red uniforms of the militiamen of both nations. Not one in twenty of the diners was without some sort of a uniform. The discharge of corks was heavy and continuous.

Col. Denbigh spoke for the Englis hmen.
He dwelt humorously on the ample proportions of American hospitality and said that the West Point cadets were a wonderfully drilled set of young men.

Col. Sid. Hedges spoke for Boston and Mayor Low for New York. The Mayor said that he was surprised to find men who enlisted in 1537 and 1638 so well preserved.
He begged to remind the gentlemen from London and Boston, however, that they had come to proper entertainers when they visited the Old Guard.

"The Old Guard, I violate no confidence in telling you," he said, "dyes, but never surrenders."

Gen. Ian Hamilton said he had just come

Gen. Ian Hamilton said he had just come Gen. Ian Hamilton said he had Just com-from the manceuvres at which the lessons of the Boer war were being worked out. He said that the British took particular pleasure in letting the American officers there see everything there was to see, even though the British had spent blood and treasure to get it treasure to get it.

"We feel," he said, "that the stronger the army of either nation, the stronger will be the army of the other nation in time of

Gen. Adna R. Chaffee spoke for our army and said he wished that representatives of the military establishments of both countries might meet in large numbers oftener on both sides of the ocean.

To-day the visitors will be taken around unobe on at Chremont. To-night they will yish the Old Chard Fair. Then they will go on to Washington.

Falence Gazette

SOLDIERS' UNIFORMS.

The gorgeous uniforms of the Honourable Artillery company of London have caused much comment among the military men who have seen them in Boston and Providence during the past few days. The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Mess busetts presents a fairly brilliant appearance when seen in juxtaposition to troops of the state militia, but is quite overwhelmed, says the Worcester Cazette, by the showing of the Londoners when the two commands appear together. Even the redoubtable Governor's Foot guard of Hartford is a sombre appearing force in contrast to the Honourables. The scarlet uniforms of Eng. lish troops naturally set off any body of men and when the red is ornamehted with much gold lace, as is the case of the artillery company, the effect is bound to be still greater. Even the privates of the Royal Garrison Guard of Halifax and the marine from H. M. S. Retribution, now in Boston harbor, attract much attention as they saunter along the street in their bright tunics, forage cap perched on the side of the head, elbows well thrown out, with one hand holding gloves. and the other a swagger-stick. They present a very smart appearance and it is not strange to hear American officers lamenting the fact that their men cannot be made to appear equally natty. The soldiers and sailors of the United States army and navy are admirably uniformed for the service, but it is true they never do look very trim. The marine corps is the only branch of the service that approaches foreign troops in jauntiness. That the advantage of presenting a good appearance is appreciated by the officials of the government, is shown by the proposition now under consideration to provide a hob-tailed dress coat or muster jacket for sailors, so as to enable them to appear on the streets of the cities they visit without displaying so much of their chests and the lacings of their trousers. It is argued that when well-dresed the soldier and sailor will behave better than when he presents a sloppy appearance, and that good clothes will be herter cared for than those of an inferior grade. The moral tone of any man is apt to be improved by correct dress - a truth so well established that Englishmen make it a point when campagning in remote countries to dress for dinner and for church service as punetually as though at home. By so doing they maintain their own self-respect and command that of subordinates and even

Dress alone does not make the man and there can be no question but that the American soldier is the superior of any other in the world as regards individual intelligence and initiative. The question at issue is whether he might not be still further improved by a little judicious spacing up for service in the field the American equipment is well-nigh perfect. but for show it is lacking and it is barely possible that a little more show in the times of peace might serve to raise the oneral tone of the service,

Beockton Enterprise

... Rev. Alan Hudson believes that America and Great Britain should get loser together. And to give emphisis to his convictions he goes in and sits at the fraternal banquet with the Ancients and Honourables of London and HAPPY LONDONERS CABLE TO KING

Honourables Send Word Home of the Royal Time They Are . Having Here, PARTICULARLY PLEASED WITH WEST POINT

Ancients of Boston and Old Guard Accompany Britishers to Central Park and Claremont.

Bubbling over with enthusiasm and gratitude for the cordial welcome accorded to them in this and other cities along their triumphant tour from Boston, the Earl of Denbeigh, commanding the Honourables of Londan, to-day cabled a long message descriptive of their trip to King Edward, their commander-in-chief. Particular mention was made of their visit to West Point.

The English visitors were deeply impressed with the discipline and conditions prevailing at the army school on the Hudson and were to-day unstinted in their praise of the exhibition drill of our future praise of the exhibition drill of our future solders. For weeks the London press, in their accounts of the scandals in their War Office, published stories of West Point, and the Honourables were impatient to verify these reports by personal observation. They were not disappointed.

Spick and span, with accourrements reburnished, their spurs clanking on the mosaics of the Waldorf lobby, the Honourables were up and doing at an early hour to-day, fraternizing with their hosts, the Ancients of Boston, and eager for another taste of the royal hospitality of Old Guards. The anticipated pleasure of the automobile drive through Central Park, preceding luncheon at the Claremont, was somewhat marred by the inclement weather.

Even the Police Please Them.

"Beastly weathaw, this, don't ye think, Lowe," said Captain Tiffy to his roommate, Captain A. E. Lowe, as he viewed the rain pouring down upon a squad of the rain pouring down upon a squad of mounted policemen at the Thirty-third street entrance.

"But, I say, Lowe," he continued, "those pobbles' out there are well set-up chaps. Fawney, they are jolly good riders."

Captain Lowe, sitting on the edge of his ped, engaged in polishing up his sform acabard, walked to the window and remarked, "Jolly fine! Jolly fine indedd!"

Then in answer to a question by an anything Telegram reporter as to what he and his companions thought of their visit, both exclaimed, "Why, bully, me boy, pully!"

"We've never received such a royal welcome, and the Old Guard are bully good chaps. We're feeling fit as fiddles, despite the run we've been getting. And say; that dinnoh lawst night was bang-up, swell, foncher know."
"But speciment what about these pulse."

"But, gentlemen, what about these published reports of lack of capacity?" was

It Made Them Smile.

Captain Tiffy stopped in his search for a boot and Captain Lowe passed in his a boot and Captain Lowe passed in his attentions to manicuring his dapper mustasche. Then with a significant glance they both grinned expressively.

"Well we had to surrender to the Ancients," said Captain Thy. "We had to keep our appearances, ye know. Really the pace was killing."

Lord Denbeigh and Lady Denbeigh were the centre of an ever increasing group of friends and acquantances all morning.

"What have I to say?" repeated the Earl in reply to a question. "Well, really, you must pawdon me. Delighted, delighted. And, I say, your West Point is very time."

Lady Denbeigh, with a charming smile, echeed her husband's sentiments.

Colonel Helges, of the Ancients, said when approached."

"We'll different time of our lives and we have not one distrality to report. Pre-used with our New York reception? Well. I Should say so. But wait till we get the Old Guard up in Poston.

"They have done things so royally that we must have a reckoning."
When asked what pleased the English visitors most, Colonel Hedges said:—
"The visit to West Point, by all means. It was grand, that exhibition of yesterday afternoon, and Lord Denbeigh and his staff were sincere in their admiration."
Among the most picturesque companies of those who gathered in the Waldorf were the Amoskeag Veterans, of New Hampshire. Their gorgeous costumes of blue and buff, with lace and gold trimmings, were the most brilliant in all that gay gathering.

Faster Advertis COT 5, 505

GUESTS OF OLD GUARD

HONOURABLES IN NEW YORK

Boston Ancients Also Gathered Around the Festive Board-Gala Spectacle at Sherry's.

New York, Oct. 7 .- On their return from West Point today the Honourable Artillery Co. of London and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co. of Boston were met at the pier by the Old Guard of New York and the Newport Artillery Co., and escorted to the Waldorf-Astoria where a reception was held by the Old

Tonight a banquet was given in honor of the visiting artillery companies by the old Guard at Sherry's. Maj. E. S. Briggs, commander of the Old Guard, was toastmaster, while on his right was seated Lord Denbigh, commender of the London Honourables, and on his left, the Markham a bern of the S. A. Gen. Ian Hamilton, a hero of the S. African war. Beside the later sat Maj. Gen. Chaffee and Col. J. J. Astor. The scene was a brilliant one when all the guests had assembled.

There were fully 500 men in gala uniforms. The first toast was to the president and King Edward, repres nutitives of two nations "united and invincible in influencing the world."

Coi. Sidney Hedges of Boston was the first speaker. Lord Denbigh followed, thanking the company for the hospitality shown and voicing the hope that the visit of his command might "premote that great friendship that now exists between the two great English-speaking peoples.

short speeches were also made Mayor Low, Gen. Ian Hamilton, Maj. Gen. Chaffee, Sir Thomas Litten. Col. Astor and Chaplain W. N. Rider of the Boston Ancient and Honorable Artil-

After the banquet many of the Ru sts paid a visit to the Old Guard fair in Madison Sq. Garden.

AT WEST POINT.

London Hononrables Witness a Review of the Cadets.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 7.—The Honourables of London and Angleichts of Poston arrived here today on the str. Sirius to a drizzling rain.

They were met at the landing by Capt. of the queriermaster's department Alis Mills, daughter of the superintendent, met the only two wom n with the party met the only two word it with the party Lady Denbligh and Miss Courtney Dav-ler. The British artiliery marched up from the landing, the Anctonics richia.

Arriving at the top of the bill a was fired and the battalion of endets w. paraded in front of the barracks. The guests were escerted to Supt. Mills quarters, where a reception was given.

The olders of the post were present
The reception was followed by a receive of the callets, after which the visit of returned to the bout and salled down the · Keir Tock J. F.E. Telegraph!

'ANCIENTS' AND 'HONOURABLES' MOVE UPON THE OLD GUARD

Slaughter, and Excitement ice. He said: Along the Shore.

Result of Battle at Sherry's Sherry's, and I am tired. Bear Evidence of a Fierce are imitators and counterfeits. Conflict.

Abrients to the right of you, Honourthe left of you, corks to the rear bromo in future-marched the . l. f |red or more amiable, ancient

. "I de or udants of the organization I by Henry VIII, for the ... ce of the "science and fete of a in Longbowes, Crossbowes and I connes," were as plentiful as poli-. . . ut they were not bent on prebusiness their royal founder . .. ed for them.

. line akin to fatigue marked " al tread; instead of the smoke ... the aroma of the banquet 1. f " clung to their scarlet coats, belts with the twenty-five holes n lengthened to the limit of ex-

th them was another squad of hon-... dowing fewer marks of duty . " e skirmish line where the fusilnd din of battle cries would let the Day Was koung.

. ... the Honourables of London .. lients of Boston had stormed displaying a supply of amch made the enemy tremble. heing to the charge with the "lied veterans, "Inti deated on the bosom of the C Ancients and Honourables ourables awaken. Junk dealers little to be desired,

llin trums protect in fee

· hetry's was a success wose who attended it. qined that im

Progress of the Invaders Along banquet personally. As a master of ceremonies is said to be without a peer. the Sound and Down the Mr. Bacchus when approached by a re-Hudson Is Marked by Great was sitting with his crown packed in has had such long experience as myself in conducting pleasing little entertainments of the kind that took place at

"I do not remember anything better Still in Doubt, Though Many when Nero and I cut things loose in Stragglers from the Field Rome. I am the original fellow who made the same Rome howl. All others

Coming Down the River.

"I will say, however, that the three colections I superintended during the last twenty-four hours are good stayers. They juggled the chianti in excellent manner. "I regretted to observe, however, that at West Point they were somewhat restrained. They did not let themselves go. Possibly they thought it would be a bad example for the younger asnirants

Commissariat of the Ancients. LIGHT LINCH

	LIGHT HUNCH.
		Pints.
100	baskets champagne
4	cases Rhine wine	96
ŝ	Other willie willer and and	100
, 4	cases rye whisky	. 192
	cases Scotch whisky	96
2	cases brandy	48
20	CHROS ROUR.	480 -
8	Regn ale	248
62	kegs beer	1.800
800		75
6	hattles "Bromo"	10
	chses seltzer	144
- 6	Citata Kinpor alo	1914
100	Burnus Coffee	800
75	VELLE SELECTION AND ASSESSMENT OF THE PARTY	4.8
75	boves cigars
400	Dadaves cirarettes	1
	Powerful de les les engles
1 125	basehed flasks, hip pocke	0.00
, 51	Ze	. 650
		7,221
	r)	1
0.1	I'	ounds.
to n	ampers sandwiches	420
40	er telegies	320
20	lucks	100
1 'CT	Vrk1	40
20	cans caviar	10
10	hottles olives	10
Cine	isa Change	00
1737	iss cheese	20
1 (2)	Helting at the second second second	10
1 18	DORES BRITAL WELCH	18
50	loaves bread	40
1
	12, - 1	788
1	er capita tog 650 artille	TOD TO AN
b	1-5 pints. 1 1-5 popuda	amen,

lunched, and the evening for the Pretorian Guard. Coming down of their heated brows and the river, however, they made up for it. "The Boston mon are certainly persein made in barrels, cracked j vering imbibers. The chaps from London cade, and ice water by the are also sincere drinkers, and the Old expected to be in demand, Guard, having had such a long training forenoon when the Ancients and in many hard fought budge battles, leave been securing the Sound and the "I am entisted with my proteges. I light, and have reported an am now going to sleep notil the boys ludes. At a late hour last hit Philadelphia, I understand Capt, of bottles were col. John Groome of the Philadelphia City Troop has had his men in training some time for the event.

Excitement on the Hudson,

"He has wired me to take charge, He has also told me to draw on his warehouse to any extent. He is a good hand almself, but his men are rather slow They require coaching. They have no been in the habit of doing rapid-fire work. They are still in the muzzle-loading class. So long. See you in Phila-

Mr. Bacchus set the alarm clock for Philadelphia and turned over and went to sleep again.

Residents of the small towns along the Hudson watched with anxiety the careening of the boat bearing the artillery men yesterday. Then they went out in small boats with nets hoping someone would list heavily to starboard and fall an easy prey. No casualties were reported, however.

"The siphon exercises for to-day are comparatively simple. They will be taken straight. Wide-bore Scotch bottles will be the arms, Gentlemen owning the old-fashioned single-charge flasks are requested to exchange them early for the new magazine rifled pattern, at the Garden.

Jalend News!

THE HONOURABLES IN NEW YORK.

Visit to West Point Yesterday and Dinner Last Evening.

Every day since the Honourable Artillery company of London landed at Boston has been a busy and an enjoyable one, but yesterday was a trifle busier and a bit more enjoyable than any of the previous days.

With their hosts, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston, the Honourables yesterday visited West Point, and witnessed the evolutions of the cadets on parade. The British military experts declared that they had never seen such perfect marching and company and battalion movements. The cadets, however, saw little to admire in the marching of the Honourables—but then, the visitors have been too busy hus far to pay much attention to marching.

marching.

Last evening there was a big banquet at Aherry's in New York, when the Old Guard of New York entertained the Englishmen and the Bostonians. Sir Thomas Lipton was one of the guests at this banquet. The health of President Roosevelt and King Edward was drunk together amid tremendous cheering. It was very late when their rooms at the Waldorf-Astoria were reached. Today a visit to Central park is scheduled, with a luncheon and a visit to the fair of the Old Guard in Madison Square garden.

ingrafacturing Jawel

HIE greatest scene of enthusiasm in the city of Providence since the first Rhode Island regiment started for the Spanish war was shown on last Saturday, when the Honourable Artillery Company, of London, escorted by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Boston, and the First Light Infantry of Providence, marched through our streets. The genuincness of the welcome given these Englishmen was evidenced on every side. Such public feeling is a good omen in regard to that union and solidarity of the Anglo-Sayon race for which many are striving and hoping. With England and America standing together, the peace of the world seems assured, for no country or conbination of countries would be likely to be strong enough to challenge their supremacy.

, Honourables und , Afreients' Helben des Tages.

ANCIENT WEDS IN WALTHAM

and a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, was married this afternoon to Miss Ruth Challis Nichols, by the Rèv. Dr. C. G. Hanson of the Congregational Church. The best man was Abbott S. Mitchell of Lexington, and the bride was unattended. She wore a travelling gown of French blue broadcloth. were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Bridge and Mrs. G. E. Kirwin, mother and sister of the bride. This evening Mr. and Mrs. Tyler left for Washington, where they will attend President Roosevelt's reception to the London Honourables and Boston Ancients.

Tyler, a prominent manufacturer of Athol at 29 Alder street, where the happy couple and a member of the Ancient and Honor- were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Bridge

Bostone Pacocal

DENBIGH LAUGHS AT AMBASSADOR STORY

he said emphatically, but with a hearty | sador."

New York, Oct. 8.-Lord Denbigh was | laugh. Pressed for a more definite anasked what he had to say about the ru-mor that he was to be appointed am-mor that he was to be appointed am-walked a dozen steps and said: "The bassador to the United States to suc-ceed Sir Michael Herbert. "Get out," the qualities necessary in an ambas-

Oct. 8, 1903

So the Englishmen thought the West Point boys beat anything they had ever seen when it came to drilling. We also have found them pretty good when it comes to fighting.

> · law in lat 27 11 NATHAN HALE FLAG WRAPPED

> Bronse in City, Hall Park Decorated with Motto.

The attention of the police of the City Hall station was this morning called to flag which had been wound about the state of Nathan Hale, in City Hall Park. The flag had been torn into strips. On one of them was a card bearing the letters, "S A. R.," perhaps meaning "Sons of the American Revolution." On the reverse side were the words, "Lest We Forget."

The flag, with the motto, the police be Heve, was placed on the statue some time during the night by an over-patriotic American, because of the whit of the Honourable Artillerymen from London Th police tore down the flag, and detective are trying to find the man who place

Honourables Are Due Here Today, Boston, Oct. 6.—The tour through this cour

try and Cauada of the Ancient and Hono able Artillery Co. of Massachusetts, having as guests the Honourable Artillery Co London, began today after four days of tertainment and sightseeing in Boston. start was made by special train for River, whence boat will be taken tonight

Och . 1, 9.00 VISITING WEST POINT.

New York, Oot. 7 .- The Len lor and Boston artillery companys ar rived today from Boston and wence

LONDONAND BOSTON ARTILLERY, OLD GUARD AND LADIES' COMM

Toolt row left to right-Major C. E. D. Budworth, Honourable Artillery Company, I onder. The Earl of Denbigh and Desmond, lot the London Honourables, Colonel Sidney M. Hedgas, of the Boston Honorables, Colonel Charles R. Darling, Boston Honorables, row, left to right-First Licuterant W. H.; Onkes, Serguant Major Quimby and Second Licuterant Nichols, of the Boston Honorables.

MISS AGNES G. KENNELLY, Ladies' Committee Old Guard Fair

MAJOR R. H. NUNN, Vice President H. A. C. of London. Photo by Elmer Chickering, Bosi

MRS. E. S. JOYCE, Secretary Ladiest Poir Committee.

MAJOR C. E. D. BUDWORTH, R. E. A., Adjutant H. Photo by Elmer CA. C. of London.

MRS. A. A. BUTTERFIE Ladies' Fair Committee. Mf shores of the Hudson during the day, the Honourable Artillery Company of London, accompanied by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, landed at the foot of West Twenty-second street yesterday afternoon, marched through the town, with bands playing and colors flying, and are now safely encamped at the Waldorf-Astoria, where they will remain until to-morrow, when they will set out to invest Washington and capture the President.

The invaders were first sighted yesterday morning coming up the river on the steamer Puritan. On landing they were immediately transferred to the steamer Sirius and started for West Point about 8 o'clock.

Make Splendid Appearance.

Make Splendid Appearance.

Going up on the boat one had a good chance to get acquainted with them. The Britishers are a fine body of men and look well in their red and gold uniforms. They were all willing to tell of their experiences so far in this country. They expected a big time, but nothing like what they have time, but nothing like what they have treceived. "We don't have time to think, let alone sleep," said Private D. Duncan, one of the H. A. C. men. The trip up the river was comparatively quiet. The landing at West Point was made at 11:30.

Carriages were placed at their disposal and they were driven up to the academy, forming in marching order at the top of the bill. The tradets were lined along the front of the barracks two deep, and a wonderful line they made.

Welcomed by Cadets.

Welcomed by Cadets.

Welcomed by Cadets.

As the English colors came in sight the cadet band struck up "God Save the King," and a salute of twenty-one guns was fired. It was a thrilling moment for all who were there, for the first time the colors of England blew across the parade ground of West Point.

The visiting troops were then marched past, saluting the American colors and were lined up on the west side of the parade ground. Then, with their band at their head, the cadets began their review.

It was an inspiring sight, and the most perfect example of military mechanism to be seen.

Down the ranks of the visitors, Britishers and Bostonians alike, the murmur of praise, increasing almost into applicate, could be honed. Even the United States officers build not the United States officers build not refrain from words of admiration.

Colonel Denbigh, of the Honeurables, in a short speech said: "The sight that I have witnessed to-day will be a lesson that I shall never forget, and the wonderful accuracy of the drill will last in my momory forever.

"The reception that we have received has surprised me. I knew with what cordiality we should be greeted,

Major General S. S. Sumner, just back from the Philippines, was on the ground, and remarked: "Such a drill could not be done better any-

Colonel Mills, the commandant at West Point, together with the Academic Board, consisting of Colonely Larned, Gordon, Dudley, Wood, Edgerton, Havard, Hobbs and Patrick, were on hand to receive the visitors, Miss Mills, the Colonel's daughter, was at the dock to receive Lady Den-

Embark for New York.

The review was over at 12:30, and by I o'clock all were embarked and started for New York. Then came luncheon. This was served on the lower deck, and from that time the carnage commenced, the popping of corks might well have been taken for the firing of half a dozen guns, so fast and furious did the quarts come and go. From that time on things were livered up. The band on things were livened up. The band played many popular airs, the "Soldiers of the Queen" seeming to be the favorite with those from across the water.

Water.

Colonel Sidney M. Hedges of the Boston contingent said of the review:

"Just at present the English press, in criticising their own army for inefficiency have drawn attention to the work done at West Point, in comparison to Sandhurst, the English army college. "This," continued the Colonel, "will show our English cousins what we really can do."

Prepare to Face Old Guard.

The trip down the Hudson passed quickly enough. The weather was not encouraging, but music and song kept everyone happy and even the realiza-tion that the City of New York was almost upon them did not dampen

They had all heard of the Old Guard, the heroes who dodge neither cannon ball nor high ball, and were out for them. They had lived through the banquet in Boston, and had withstood the clambake in Providence, but New York was to be the crucial test. Sherry, with all his forces, was ready to throw one regiment of watters on top of another, armed to the teeth, at them. That was only one of the affrays that they had before them, but they were ready, and not for a moment did a man of them waver.

Escorted to Hotel.

The dock was reached about 4:30.

The dock was reached about 4:30. As soon as the first man had touched ground, a twenty-one gun salute was fired, and once more the band played "God Save the King."

The parade was quickly formed, the Old Guard leading. Next came the Governor's Foot Guards, of New Haven, then the Newport Artiliery Company, under command of Colonel John D. Richardsou, followed by the Minute Men, from Washington, the First Light Infantry, of Providence, and representatives of the Richmond Blues, and Cleveland Greys. Then the Ancient and Honorable Artiliery, headed by Colonel Sidney M. Hedges and his staff, and finally the Englishmen, and a magnificent showing they made. The crowd all along the line of march to the Waldorf-Astoria cheered and yelled, and it was good hearty applause.

OLD GUARD BANQUETS

THE BRITISH VISITORS.

The Old Guard of New York banqueted the Honourable Artillery Company of London and the Ancient and Boston won the fifth game of the World's Championship series. This makes the series stand 3 to 2 in Pitts-

MISS AGNES G. KENNELLY,

MATOR R. H. NUNN.

eting for the first time this sea-

MRS. E. S. JOYCE. Secretary Ludies! Fair Committee

HUNOURABLES ARE LOUD IN PRAISE OF WEST POINT BOYS

HOW THE

made, but Noyes

oval between the

Bates proved ve.

fensively and defe

boys had the ball t

their total gain wa

on three tricks (

Just before the er

when Harvard had

8-yard line, the Ci

Maine got the ball

unable to make

Visiting British Artillerymen Impressed With Work of Cadets.

ENJOY TRIP ON HUDSON

Bombardment of Hospitality Overwhelms Them. Banquet at Sherry's.

Since last night the City of New York has been in the hands of the enemy. After a reconneiter of the shores of the Hudson during the day, the Honourable Artillery Company of London, accompanied by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, landed at the foot of West Twenty-second street yesterday afternoon, marched through the town, with bands playing and colors flying, and are now safely encamped at the Waldorf-Astoria, where they will remain until to-morrow, when they will set out to invest Washington and capture the President.

The invaders were first sighted yesterday morning coming up the river on the steamer Puritan. On landing they were immediately transferred to the steamer Sirius and started for West Point about 8 o'clock.

Make Splendid Appearance.

Going up on the boat one had a good chance to get acquainted with them. The Britishers are a fine body of men and look well in their red and gold uniforms. They were all willing to tell of their experiences so far in this country. They expected a big time, but nothing like what they have received. "We don't have time to think, let alone sleep," said Private D. Duncan, one of the H. A. C. men. The trip up the river was comparatively quiet. The landing at West Point was made at 11:30.

Carriages were placed at their disposal and they were driven up to the academy, forming in marching order at the top of the hill. The cadets were lined along the front of the barracks two deep, and a wonderful line they made.

Welcomed by Cadets.

As the English colors came in sight the cadet band struck up "God Save the King," and a salute of twenty-one guns was fired. It was a thrilling moment for all who were there, For the first time the colors of England blew across the parade ground of West Point.

land blew across the parade ground of West Point.

The visiting troops were then marched past, saluting the American colors and were lined up on the west side of the parade ground. Then, with their band at their head, the cadets began their review.

It was an inspiring sight, and the most perfect example of military mechanism to be seen.

Down the ranks of the visitors, Britishers and Bostonians alike, the murmur of praise, increasing almost into applause, could be heard. Even the United States officers could not retrain from words of admiration.

Colonel Denbigh, of the Honourables, in a short speech said: "The sight that I have witnessed to-day will be a lesson that I shall never forget, and the wonderful accuracy of the drill will last in my memory forever.

forever. "The reception that we have received has surprised me. I knew with what cordiality we should be greeted, but I never expected anything like this."

Major General S. S. Sumner, just back from the Philippines, was on the ground, and remarked: "Such a drill could not be done better any-drill could not be done better anywhere."

Colonel Mills, the commandant at West Point, together with the Academic Board, consisting of Colonels Larned, Gordon, Dudley, Wood, Edgerton, Havard, Hobbs and Patrick, were on hand to receive the visitors, Miss Mills, the Colonel's daughter, was at the dock to receive Lady Denbigh.

Embark for New York.

The review was over at 12:30, and by 1 o'clock all were embarked and started for New York. Then came luncheon. This was served on the lower deck, and from that time the carnage commenced, the popping of corks might well have been taken for the firing of half a dozen guns, so fast and furious did the quarts come and go. From that time on things were livened up. The band played many popular airs, the "Sol-diers of the Queen" seeming to be the favorite with those from across the water.

Colonel Sidney M. Hedges of the Boston contingent said of the review:
"Just at present the English press."

Little of the pown army for inin criticising their own army for inefficiency have drawn attention to the work done at West Point, in comparison to Sandhurst, the English army college. "This," continued the Colonel, "will show our English cousins what we really can do."

Prepare to Face Old Guard.

The trip down the Hudson passed quickly enough. The weather was not encouraging, but music and song kept everyone happy and even the realiza-tion that the City of New York was almost upon them did not damped their spirits.

They had all heard of the Old Guard, the heroes who dodge neither cannon ball nor high ball, and were out for them. They had lived through the banquet in Boston, and had withthe banquet in Boston, and had witn-stood the clambake in Providence, but New York was to be the crucial test. Sherry, with all his forces, was ready to throw one regiment of wait-ters on top of another, armed to the teeth, at them. That was only one of the affrays that they had before them, but they were ready, and not for a moment did a man of them waver. moment did a man of them waver.

Escorted to Hotel,

The dock was reached about 4:30. As soon as the first man had touched

As soon as the first man had touched ground, a twenty-one gun salute was fired, and once more the band played "God Save the King."

The parade was quickly formed, the Old Guard leading. Next came the Governor's Foot Guards, of New Haven, then the Newport Artillery Company, under command of Colonel John D. Richardsou, followed by the Minute Men, from Washington, the First Light Infantry, of Providence, and representatives of the Richmond Blues, and Cleveland Greys. Then the Ancient and Honorable Artillery, headed by Colonel Sidney M. Hedges and his staff, and finally the Englishmen, and a magnificent showing they made. The crowd all along the line of march to the Waldorf-Astoria of march to the Waldorf-Astoria cheered and yelled, and it was good hearty applause.

OLD GUARD BANQUETS

THE BRITISH VISITORS.

The Old Guard of New York hanqueted the Honourable Artillery Company of London and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston at Sherry's last night. The brilliant uniforms of the three organizations made a pretty picture in the large banquet room. After a sumplarge banquet room. After a sumptuous dinner, Major S. Ellis Briggs, commander of the Old Guard, introduced Mayor Low, who welcomed the two visiting companies. Among other things, he said that New York was chiefly famous as the home of the military company known as the Old Covered.

military company known as the Old Guard.

Lord Denbigh responded for the visitors in a witty speech, in which he aroused enthusiasm by calling attention to the growing relations of sympathy and friendliness between America and England. Some old lady, he said, had once remarked that "wonders would never stop ceasing." After seeing West Point and New York, he thought she was right. The West Point Cadets had drilled before him and his friends with a precision that could not be equalled anywhere that could not be equalled anywhere else in the world. His speech was followed by one by Lieutenant General Hamilton, of the London Honourables. This and others were cheered to the echo.

Tross St.y Leiterick) Oct. 8,01903 "Sonourables" hier.

Sogar bie Bferbe ichenten beim Anblid ber Uniformen.

Die Hon=ou=rable Artillern Com= pany von London, England, begleitet von ber Honorable Artillerie Company bon Boston und ber Newport Artillern traf geftern Morgen auf bem Fall River Boot "Puritan" in New Dorf ein. Die Londoner Son=ou= rable mit ben Boftoner Honorables idifften fich fofort auf bem Dampfer Sirius" ein und ftatteten West Point einen Befuch ab, mahrend bie Newporter Kanoniere nach ber oberen Stadt marfchirten, um alles für bie Rnetperei am Abend vorzubereiten. Die bligenben Uniformen erregten beträchtliches Auffeben und follen fogar mehrere Pferde scheu gemacht haben.

Boston Post

DENBIGH FOR AMBASSADOR

British Consul Talbot Says He Knows Nothing to Prevent it

"I know of nothing that might stand in the way of Lord Denbigh becoming embassador to the United States," said

Hon. Wm. A. Morse attended the banon given in Boston on Tuesday evening by the Ancients of Boston to the Honourables of London, said to have been the finest affair of ils kind ever given in the city.

Lowell Citizen, Oct. 8, 1903

IN NEW YORK.

Ancients and Guests Arrive From Fall River.

TO WEST POINT.

locton and London Forces Board Steamer for Trip to Military Academy.

New York, Oct. 7 .- The Ancient and nomble Artillery company of Boston and the Newport Artillery company, recording the Honourable Artillery company of London, arrived here on a eamer from Fall River today. Waiting for them with steam up was a secand stemmer ready to take the visitors to West Point.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 7.—The Hon-urable Artillery company of London had the Ancient and Honorable Artil-ity company of Boston arrived here elsy on the steamer Strius in a driz-ling rain. They were met at the nding by Cept. Geo. Coe, the post ad-tant, and Capt. King of the quarter-asier's department. Miss Mills, taghter of the superintendent, met the only two women with the party, and Denbigh and Miss Courtney Bay-r. The British artillery marched up in the landing, the Boston Ancients ding. Arriving at the top of the hill salute was fired and the battalion of this was paraded in front of the bar-

Lynn Towd Oct 8. 1903

Entertained by Old Guard

New York, Oct. 8.-On their return from West Point the Honourabe Artillery company of London and the Incient and Honorable Artillery comminy of Boston attended a reception hold by the Old Guard of New York. had night a hanquet was given in honor of the visiting artillery com-Paules by the Old Guard. The principal toast was to President Roosevelt and King Edward, representatives of two nations "united and invincible in in-fluencing the world,"

New York, St. 31,) impany carrying arms had been seen in his country since the stirring times of 1812. At least so eald the Ancients, and they should know. The Earl of Denbigh, C. V. O., Lieuenant-Colonel of the Honourables, whose country home is just outside of Rugby, in England, and who is the father of ten promising children, led the British delegation of is in a brilliant red coat, BRITISH ARTIMERY MEN VISIT WEST POINT.

Providence (96.9.)

Banquet Given in Their Honor by the Old Guard of New York.

New York, Oct. 7.—On their return from West Point to-day the Honourable Artillery Company of London and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Com-

Artillery Company of London and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston were met at the pier by the Old Guard of New York and the Newport Artillery Company and escorted to the Waldorf-Astoria, where a recention was held by the Old Guard.

To-night a banquet was given in honor of the visiting artillery companies by the Old Guard at Sherry's. Maj. Ellis S. Briggs, commander of the Old Guard, was toastmaster, while on his right was seated Lord Denbigh, commander of the London Honourables, and on his left Gen. Ian Hamilton, a hero of the South African War. Beside the latter sat Maj. Gen. Chaffee and Col. John Jacob Astor. The scene was a brilliant one when all the guests had assembled. There were fully 500 men in gala uniforms. The first toast was to the President and King Edward, representatives of two nations, "united and invincible influencing the world."

Col. Sidney M. Hedges of Boston was the first speaker. Lord Denbigh followed, thanking the company for the hospitality shown and voicing the hope that the visit of his command night "promote that great friendship that now exists between the two great English-speaking peoples." Short speeches were also made by Mayor Low, Gen. Hamilton, Maj. Gen. Chaffee, Sir Thomas Lipton, Col Astor and Chaplain William H. Rider of the Boston Ancient and Honorable Company. After the benquet many guests paid a visit to the Old Guard fair in Madison Square Garden.

Visit te West Point.

in Madison Square Garden.

Visit to West Point.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 7.—The Honourable Artillery Company of London and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston arrived to-day on the steamer Shius in a drizzling rain. They were met at the landing by Capt. Coe, the post Adjutant, and Capt.

with the party, Lady Denbigh and Miss Courtenay Bayler. The British Artillery marched up from the landing, the Boston Ancients riding.

Arriving at the top of the hill, a salute was fired and the battalion of cadets was paraded in front of the barracks, where a reception was given. The officers of the post were present. The reception was followed by a review of the cadets, after which the visitors returned to the boat and sailed down the river.

Newport (B. J.)

ANCIENTS IN NEW YORK.

Trip to West Point the Principal Feature Yesterday.

New York, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Bos-ton and the Newport Artillery Company, escorting the Honourable Artillery Company of London arrived here on a steamer from Fall River today. Waiting for them, with steam up, was a second steamer ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston and its guests, the Honourable Artillery Company of London, to

Without loss of time the two companies in full uniform descended the gangway of the Fall River boat and marched in a column of two across the pier and up the gangway of the excursion boat. Five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and with the united bands of both companies playing proceeded up river. The Newport Artillery Company which had lined up in company front on the pier while the Boston and London organizations were embarking proceeded to a hotel to spend the day intending to meet the London and Boston Honorables on their return from West Point late this afternoon.

New Bedfoel Frankast

If there are two organization on earth which are purely ornamental in character and which can have no possible relation to warfare now, or at any future time, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery com-pany of Boston and their guests, the "Honourables" from London, must be so classed. Yet one would hardly have expected to remind them of the fact, as did Governor Garvin of Rhode Island at the clambake on Saturday, when he expressed the hope that every military organization in the world would become merely ornamental It was a most Christian sentimental It was a most constant state ment in the worthy governor's heart, and yet it was one of those things which had been better said on some other occasion. There are some harmiess fictions that must be tolerated for civility's sake, and which should not be "referred to in the presence of company."—Hartford Times.

ENIERTAINING THE ANCIENTS.

London Men to Be Taken Over New York in Automobiles-At the Old Guard Fair.

The Honorable Artillery Company of London were given a fair glimpse of New York city to-day in automobiles. The morning was spent at the Waldorf-Astoria where, shortly after noon, the visitors, es-corted by the Old Guard of New York and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, started for Clare-mont, where tunch was served. This at-ternoon the visitors will be mobiled through Central Park and the principal street, To-night they will be the guests of the Old Guard Fair at Madison Square Garden. The London soldiers will leave at 8:30 Oct . 8 . 1903

"OLD MOTHER ENGLAND."

Senator Hoar's Gracious Welcome to the Honourable Artillery Company at the Boston Banquet.

George Frisbie Hoar, senior Senator from Massachusetts, responded to the toast, "Old Mother England," at the banquet to the Honourable Artillery Company. The Boston Transcript says that the address was a gracious welcome to our English guests, mingled with delicious pleasantry and more serious reference to the good fellowship of men and nations which this visit of the Honourable Artillery Company must foster. In brief the Senator said: "The first speech ever made on this continent is still one of the best. It continent is still one of the best. It was made by the Indian Sachem Samoet to the Pilgrim Fathers, at Plymouth, on the sixteenth of March, 1621, It sums up in two words everything needed to be said on this occasion: "Welcome Englishmen!"

"We are people made up of many races and nations. The instinct of race is strong in the bosom of all of us—Celt and Swede and Frenchman and Saxon. Yet, England is still the mother country. We owe great debts to each of the other great nations of Europe, But surely there can be no greater debt, no greater benefit conferred on one people by another than law, liberty, language, literature. All these we owe to England. We have had our differences ad, unhappily, our wars. We could, to find the fustification of our wars in English principles and on English authority. The severest critics of America in England are the men who have severely criticised England for the same faults. And the severely criticised their own country for the same faults. criticised their own country for the game faults.

"The leaders of our Revolutionary war, so far as the debate was concerned, were Englishmen—Chatham and Burke and Fox. Our fathers placed the justification for it upon the fundamental doctrines of the English constitution. It was for a pure, simple English doctrine that our fathers raised their flag against England, and not for any considerable practical grievance whatever. I suppose that before our Revolution Massachusetts had the best and mildest government on the face of the carth; better and milder than that which England Burke, the home. But, as Edmund Burke, the greatest English statesman of his day, greatest engage statesman of his day, declared. 'It was the English constitution which triumphed in the American revolution.' It was a theory, and not a practice of taxatlon against which we revolution.' It was a theory, and not a practice of taxation against which we took up arms.

"Our English friends may be sure of their welcome. They are in the house of their friends, in the dwelling place of their brethren. We cannot show you wonders like those you have left behind. We have few glories of architecture and of art. We have little antiquity. We have no palaces or castles. Yet possibly we also may have something to exhibit, in a modest way, of the fruitage of the tree of English liberly. We must yield the paim to other nations in art and architecture and music. We have tried to emulate them, if not to excel them, in the things which constitute the strength and happlness of a free people. We have gone without the architectural glories of palaces and castles and cathedrals. We have tried to perfect the architecture of people's dwellings, and you will find the English Bible and the English Shakespeare upon their shelves. The canvas does not live or breathe for us under the fouch of Guido or Raphael, we have no Lawrence or Reynolds to preserve the features of high-born beauty. But health paints here with hier roses the check of the factory girl. The music of Beethoven or Handel may not here rise and swell till it fills the dome which Angelo or Wren builded. But we have the music of children's voices in the well-paid workmen's home."

Boston News ..

TORN BRITISH FLAG DRAPED HALE'S

Revolutionary Hero's Memorial Decorated With Slashed Emblem of England, an Incident of Honourables' New York Visit.

VISITORS WELL RECEIVED

With Ancients of Boston and the Old Guard, They Tour the Metropolis and Everywhere Are Right Royally Welcomed.

British Invasion Displeases Someone

A British flag that had been cut into ribbons was found hanging about the base of the statue of Nathan Hale in New York City Hall Park today. Attached to it was a card bearing the inscription: "LEST WE FORGET. S. A. R."

Special to The Boston Evening News. New York, Oct. 8.—The London Honourables and Boston Ancients have practically a day off today, as an automobile trip through Central park and Claremont is the only thing scheduled for the day. The Londoners are immensely taken with New York, and were up early this morning in spite of the festivities of yesterday to visit the many points of interest in the city.

One Unpleasant Incident.

British flags are displayed all through the city, and the Britishers are receiving an enthusiastic welcome, marred by only one unpleasant incident. This morning a British flag, cut into small pieces, was found about the base of the Nathan Hale statue in City Hall Park. The flag was instantly removed, but not before it was seen by one of the Boston Ancients and one of the Londoners, who were out seeing the city. Police Capt, O'Brien will try to capture the guilty person or persons who placed the flag there.

Both the Ancients and Honorables and the Honourable Artillery Company attended the Old Guard fair today. The headquarters of the visitors is the Waldorf-Astoria, and they will stay at that hotel until after breakfast Friday, tak-ing their special train at 7.45 on the Pennsylvania railroad for Washington.

Auto Parade Cheered.

One hundred and fifty automobiles, were in the auto parade which left the Waldorf-Astoria at noon, and the visitors were heartly cheered by large crowds as they started through the city, with Col. Hedges and Lord Denbigh at the head of the parade.

Many invitations from clubs, theaters and private parties were received by the Honourables and Ancients, and during the afternoon the visitors were widely scattered through New York. The New

New Bedford Flandard

LADY DENBIGH'S ESCORTS.

Her Entertainers Are Daughters of Col. Hedges-Wives of Local Men.

Among the women who have been conspicuous in entertaining Lady Denbigh, wife of the commander of the Honourable Artillery company of London, are Mrs. John J. Tillinghast of Pittsburg and Mrs. Courtenay Baylor, daughters of Colonel Hedges.Mrs. Tillinghast's husband is son of John T. Tillinghast of this city, and Courtenay Baylor formerly lived in this city. Mrs. Tillinghast was with Mrs. Hedges when Lady Denbigh was met on the arrival of the Mayflower Friday, while Mrs. Baylor waited at the Touraine with Mrs. John L. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Tillinghast and Mrs. Baylor attended the dinner party given by Mrs. Hedges at Hotel Somerset in honor of Lady Denbigh Friday evening. Saturday morning when Lady Denbigh visited Harveyd sha morning when Lady Denbigh visited Harvard she was accompanied by Mrs. Courtenay Baylor, who wore black nuns veiling with a black picture hat, as the Hedges are in mourning. Saturday afternoon, Lady Denbigh was guest at a luncheon given at Newton by Mrs. Alexander M. Ferris, wife of Colonel Ferris of the Ancients, and Mrs. Tillinghast accompanied her during this trip.

Bostone Transcript, Oct. 8, 1903

The Earl of Denbigh's given name Ru-dolph sounds odd as that of a British peer, and thereby hangs a tale of in-terest to genealogists. The earls of Denbigh claim descent from the counts of Hapsburgh, with whom Rudolph was the historical name. The first of the family in Great Britain was Geffrey, who entered the service of King Henry III., who died more than six hundred years ago, This Geffrey claimed the dominion of Lauffenburg and Rheinfelden in Germany, and the surname of Feilding, Fielding, or Filding is derived from "Felden." The Fieldings have been divided in spelling and in politics. Some of them have been royalists and others have been militant Liberals, as was illustrated in the time of the great civil war, when father and son took opposite sides, the Earl of Denbigh and Viscount Feilding appearing in arms against one another. The present Earl of Denbigh owns one of the most interesting and most valuable of the souvenirs of that troublous time, the jewelled miniature which Charles I. gave to Sir Henry Firebrace or the scaffold. This descended to the earl through the marriage of one of his ancestors to a granddaughter of Sir Henry Fire brace. The Fieldings have been divided in religion as well as in politics. The present earl is a Catholic, but others of his name have held high preferments in the Church of England.

Bootone Thinkright

Arthur Fitz Tyler of Athol, a member of the Boston Audient and Henorable Artillery Company, was married in Waltham, yesterday afternoon, to Miss Ruth Challis Nichols, daughter of Mrs. Challinda Bridge of Waltham. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride, 20 Alder street, and was followed by a reception from four to six. Rev. Dr. C. E. Flarrington, paster of the Congregational Church, officiated the Congregational Church, officiated.

Bostone Globel

Busy Day Ended With a Banquet By the Old Guard.

Trip Up the Hudson and a Review Of the Cadets at West Point.

Earl Denbigh and His Men Gratified by Splendid Work of the Boys-Return at 4:30, Short Parade, Through Crowded Streets, Then the Feast.

NEW YORK, Oct 7—The Honourable artiflery company of London has made another conquest, and today has been one of unalloyed pleasure for both the Hriushers and the Ancient and Honorable artiflery company of Massachu-able artifle with a trip up the Hudson, a visit to west Point, and a review in their human, and a magnificent banquet to wind up with, the Earl of Denbigh's oup of happiness must indeed be fail to the burn, as in addition to all the above his command was met at the library escort, and the two miles' making to the waldorf-Astoria was tanugh a solid make of humanity, but thinks to the waldorf-Astoria was tanugh a solid make of humanity, but thinks to the excellent police arrangements, the atreet were well kept which all along his been quite a revealent to the grant to the waldorf-Astoria was tanugh a solid make of humanity, but thinks to the excellent police arrangements, the atreet were well kept which all along his been quite a revealent to the waldorf-Astoria was the coutingent, after a rather quiet thank on the sound, were up early. Hrasktast was served on the steamer at a m, but it was after 7 when the majority turned out to east it. Many preferred to be out on deck to get a minutes, enabling the visitors to get an occasional glimpse of the shores on each side of the revolutionary period, were pointed out to the revolutionary period, were pointed out to the visitors, and to were pointed out to the revolutionary period, the band played some entirely to the revolutionary period, the band played some entirely to the revolutions, the band played so and of the wharf and passengers were

At 2 a starl was made up the river, and interest she is taking in this visit. The party made up for what they wither of the top a the rain. Those conditions were related to the condense of the started by a most second not see of nature by a most second not second not see of nature by a most second not see of nature by a most second not see of nature by a most second not secon both commands became better ac-

Maj Budworth Popular.

Next to the earl in popularity is the handsome adjutant of the command. May Budworth, who has made a host of friends, both civic and military, since he arrived. It is not generally known that Maj Budworth is a member of the Royal horse artillery, and is only de-tailed by the war department as adjutant of the Honourables. The major, although he will not talk of it, has a atthough he will not talk of it, has a fine war racord.

It was near if when the steamer reached West Point, and at the wharf were over a score of vehicles of all kinds to convey the companies to the parade ground. The distance is less than half a mile, but if you ever should attempt to walk it you will think you have walked 10 miles, as it is like climbing the side of a house.

ing the side of a house.

The Ancients accepted the kindness of the officers of the academy and rode, but Earl Denbigh, when he heard what the distance was, declined the ride and marched his men up in good shape.

Delighted at West Point.

What they saw during their hour's stay at the Point was a revelation to the visitors and all were extremely the visitors and all were extremely pleased with the magnificent exhibition made by the cadets, Col Mills having kindly ordered out the battalion and tendired to the two companies a review in honor of their visit.

The function, manual and passage, was as perfect as it is possible for human beings to make it. The visitors were just carried away with it, and Earl Benbigh at its close addressed Col Mills, thanking him most cordially for what he had done for them, and complimented him highly on the magnificence of the exhibition just witnessed.

During the review Lady Denbigh was the guest of Mrs Mills and witnessed the review from the plazza of the colonel's residence, and at its close Col Mils entertained the officers of the two commands.

Many regretted that they could not is entertained the oldest imands. any regretted that they could not lain a few hours and go over the demy, but the time was limited, and o'clock the steamer headed for New o'clock the steamer headed for New k.

here was a slight change for the ter in the weather conditions, and a te better view could be had of the r. After the steamer had straighted out for home, the whole party sat in to dinner, which was served on lower deck, and as all hands were gry and the viands good, it was ckly disposed of here was heaps of fun on the way in Jean Missud giving a "request" cert in the cabin, any Rags?" "Mister Dooley" and Idiers of the Queen" were the favorit, the former being asked for three es. All the boys joined in singing they had a jolly time all the way in the river.

and they had a jolly time air the way down the river.

They arrived at 4:30 and were most cordally received, and on reaching the Waldorf-Astoria, the keys were delivered and rooms assigned, and at 6 o'clock the two companies marched to Sherry's and were banqueted by the Old Guard.

BY THE OLD GUARD.

Honourables, Ancients, Rhode Islanders and Washington Minutemen Magnificently Entertained.

NEW YORK, Oct 7-Sherry has never vitnessed such a charge as tonight when the Honourable artillery company of London and the Ancient and Honorartillery company of Boston, abet-by the Washington Minute Men, Newport and Bristol artillery and 1st light infantry of Providence, ended upon and captured his buig-

The state dining room was decorated with American and British flags. Maj S. Fills Briggs presided. On his right were Mayor Seth Low, Rev Dr Philippe Mayor Seth Lo lips, Brig Gen Louis Fitzgerald, Col Daniel Appleton and Judge H. A. Gildersleeve. On his left were Col Sidney M. Hedges of the Boston Ancients, the earl of Deublish and Desmond, commanding the Honourable artillery company of London, Gen Ian Hamilton, Maj

ment his courage waned and he sent amessage of apology.

Eut enough were there and plenty was said to make the banquet given the Ancients of Boston and Honourables of London by the Old Guard of New York an historical event. The tables were arranged in the form of 50 British squares.

Running the entire length of the room at the northern end was the table of henor at which were:

Maj Ellis S. Briggs, commander of the Old Guard, toastmaster, while on his right was seated Lord Denbigh, commander of the London Honourables, and on his left Gen Ian Hamilton, a hero of the South African war.

Beside the latter sat Maj Gen Chaffee and Col John Jacob Astor. The scene was a brillant one when all the guests had assembled. There were fully 500 men in gala uniforms.

The first toast was to the President and King Edward, representatives of two nations "United and invincible in influencing the world."

Col Sidney M. Hedges of Boston was the first speaker. Lord Denbigh followed, thanking the company for the hospitality shown and voicing the hope that the visit of his command might that the visit of his command might promote that great friendship that now exists between the two great English speaking peoples,"

Lord Denbigh made the chief address.

"This is a historic occasion. Not for "This is a historic occasion. Not for ourselves is this so, but for the wider interests it stands for. This gathering its symbolic of the feeling that animates is symbolic of the feeling that animates, was allowed on the sacred soll of Westlevel Sunday of the hope and the sacred soll of westlevel such perfection of drill possible unless I had l colors."

Short speeches were also made by Mayor Low, Gen Hamilton, Col Astor Chaffee, Sir Thomas Lipton, Col Astor and Chaplain Wm. N. Rider of the Boston Ancient and Honorable artillery company.

After the banquet many of the guests paid a visit to the Old Guard fair in Madison-sq garden.

Boston fourme

GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY

Incidentally Recalls the Ancients Visit to England.

A most appreciative audience was present yesterday afternoon at Marshall P. Wilder Hall when Judge Charles Cowley I.I. Cowley, LL.D., of Lowell read a paper on "Queen Victoria and Her Relations with the American People." the occa-sion being the stated monthly meeting of the New England Historic Gene. alogical Society. The speaker had much alogical Society. The speaker had much to tell about the visit of Boston's Anderson and Honorable Artillery to hands for the late Queen.

Bughkeefidee fine and heart flower.

Boston, Oct. 6.—The much heralded tour throughout this country and Can tour throughout this country and Can nda of the Ancient and Honorable Ar. tillery Company of Massachusetts having as its guest the Honorable An tillery Company of London, has begun after four days of entertainment and sightseeing in this section. All officers and members of the London company about 105 in number, started on the trip. The escorting column of the An-

SIGHT OF THEIR LIVES

LONDON HONOURABLES AMAZED AT THE PERFECTION OF DRILL AT WEST POINT.

Another Great Dinner in Their Honor Tendered by the Old Guard of New York-Brilliant and Inspiring Scene.

In decidedly bad weather and falling rain, the Ancients and the Honourables sailed up the Hudson river, Wednesday, to West Point. When the Sirius, the steamer which carried them, was abreast of the Soldiers' and Sallors' monument, the Londoners rose and stood with bared heads, and again did they salute, standing for several minutes uncovered, when the Sirius bore them above Grant's tomb. Of the Hudson and its shores, seen dimly in mist and rain, the visitors knew much. An officer of the steamboat also had a fund of information at their disposal. He pointed out where the battle of the Harlem had been fought, and where Andre had been captured and hanged. The British heard him with polite in-

Between retrospects of history, the soldiery sang. The minstrel fervor of the British would not be gainsaid. They had learned the lyric known as "Rags," and sang it whenever the Salem Cadet Band would play, and then the younger Honourables danced, who Ancient and Honorables sat on the The Ancient and Honorables sat on the cushions in the saloon and smoked.

West Point was reached at 11:30 a.
For the first time in its history the m. For the first time in its history the military academy received as guests an arméd force representing Great Britain, and paid that representation the highest honors it were possible to pay. The entire corps of cadets was under arms, and the magnificent display of the evolutions of a battalion in formation and review, the salute to Lord Denbigh, preceding the formative and the review itself, gave repulsive. review. and the review itself, gave review. and the review itself, gave the gentlemen from England a stronger presentation of the fact that they were indeed welcome to the United States than they have had before. States and cities have received them with royal honors since they arrived, and yesterday the government of the whole people gave them its first forand yesterday the government of the whole people gave them its first formal recognition and welcome.

mal recognition and welcome.

Declining an offer of carriages, Col.
Denbigh marched his command from the wharf to the Academy, the Cadet Band escorting them. It was a stiff climb for the boys, but they got there at last, to find the entire corps of cadets and Ancients awaiting them.

Without a moment's loss of time, the Ancients and the Honourables started down the line, the Cadet Band playing "The British Grenadler." The camerce drawn up in line on the sidedets were drawn up in line on the sidedets welk facing the parade, and as the column passed they gave a present that made the hearts of those who witnessed it jump with pride at the vim and precision of it all. Down the main road of the academy marched the visitors and there formed in line facing from which would be seen as the control of the co main road of there formed in line facing the parade from which position they witnessed the review.

For the ceremony the cadets were in gray coats and white trousers, every man immaculate in outfit and equipment and appearance. Within a few minutes the Academy Band struck up "The Steel King" march, and from the south side of the parade came the marching companies of cadets, every man and every company moving to its position with perfect and marvellous alignment. There was no hitch and no hesitation, The companies swung across the parade in perfect unison, wheeled the parade in perfect unison, wheeled to their places in line without the loss of an inch in the entire corps. Then followed a salute to Lord Denbigh, and then came a critical inspection of the line by his lordship and the visiting of-

Lord Denbigh made something more than a perfunctory inspection along the line, and when through said to Col. Mills that the corps was wonderfully fine, in fact he had never seen or expected to see anything like it.

Following the inspection came a magrollowing the inspection came a magnificent passage of the corps in quick time, and then a second passage at the double. These two passages were simply superb, and the Englishmen were quick to say so. It was the sight of their lives, they said, and they meant it. meant it.

Wednesday night, the Old Guard of New York gave a banquet in honor of the Honourables of London in Sherry's l'avern, at which were present not only Tavern, at which were present not only the Boston company, but many officers of the other colonial troops. The sight presented was one of the most spectacular ever seen at a banquet given in this country. And when the eight score members of the Honourables of London stood in their places, they gave such a cheer for America and for the Old Guard as never was heaved on this side of the water out-heard on this side of the water, out-side a football field, and seldom there. The artillery, in their royal blue coats, and the infantry, in their scarlet uniform, standing at attention and then in absolute unison, arms to the right and arms to the left, cheered their King, the President of the United States, the city and their hosts.

With a "three times three" the Old

Guard and the Ancients from Boston returned the cheer with the hearty good ill which was the feature of the ban-

Not less than 500 men in white, blue and red uniforms fought hard to see who could be most enthusiastic in his expresssions of good fellowship and international and intercity good will.

Clasping hands and waving arms in unison with the music, British and Americans vowed an everlasting friendship, which Lord Denbigh delegand never was more markedly shown clared never was more markedly shown than on "This historical occasion."

than on "This historical occasion,"
In the absence of Mayor Low, who, however, arrived later in the evening, Major S. E. Briggs, commander of the Old Guard, officially welcomed the Ancients of Boston and the Honourables of London to New York.

"The city is all yours," he told them.
"You have captured it, and yours are the greatly of Warr do with it what will."

Colonel Sidney M. Hedges of Boston was the first speaker. Lord Denbigh followed, thanking the company for the hospitality shown and voicing the hope that the visit of his command might "promote that great friendship that now exists between the two great English speaking peoples." Col. Denbigh's speech was most enthusiastically received. He said in part:

"After five days' experience in this country. I can most emphatically in-

"After five days' experience in this country, I can most emphatically indorse what we were told we would find to be true—that in America they know how to do things." So far as I can see the triumphs of the old Roman emperors were nothing in comparison with the triumphs of the Honourable Artillery.

Without disparaging anything else that has been done for us, however, I may say that the perfection of the drill of the West Point Cadets which we saw to-day, such perfection as could not be seen elsewhere in the world, did us all good. To use some of your own charming vocabulary, which I wish we had in part, at least, on our side of the water, we were 'simply tickled to death' at our reception."

Short speeches were also made by Mayor Low. General Hamilton, Major General Chaffee, Sir Thomas Lipton, Colonel Astor and Chaplain William H. Rider of the Boston Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company.

After the banquet many of the guests pald a visit to the Old Guard fair in Madison Square Chrden.

Pettoberty (Jal.) Press,

The Boston papers are almost losing interest in the ball games. But they are full of the London Honourables.

Visit West Point and Are Banquetted in New York City.

New York, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Hoperable Artillery Co. of Boston, and the Newport Artillery Co., escorting the Honourable Artillery Co. of Lonarrived here on a steamer from Fall River, Wednesday.

Waiting for them with steam no was a second steamer ready to take the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co. of Boston, and its guests, the Honourable Astillery Co. of London, to West

Without loss of time the two compaies in full uniform descended the gang way of the Fall River boat and marched in column of twos across the pier and up the gangway of the excursion boat. Five minutes later the steamer swung out into the stream and with the united bands of both companies playing, proceeded up the river.

The Newport Artillery Co., which had lined up in company front on the pier while the Boston and London organizations were embarking, then proceeded to a hotel to spend the day, intending to meet the London and Boston Honourables on their return from West Point, late in the afternoon

On their return from West Point, today, the Honourable Artillery Co. of London, and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co. of Boston, were met at the pier by the Old Guard of New York and the New Port Artillery Co., and escorted to the Waldorf-Astoria where a reception was held by the Old

Tonight, a banquet was given in hone

Tonight, a banquet was given in honor of the visiting artillery companies by the Old Guard at Sherry's. Major Ellis S. Briggs, commander of the Old Guard, was toastmaster, while on his right was seated Lord Denbigh, commander of the London Honourables, and on his left Gen. Ian Hamilton, a hero of the South African war. Beside the latter sat Maj. Gen. Chaffee and Col. John Jacob Astor.

The scene was a brilliant one when ail the guests had assembled. There were fully 500 men in gala uniforms. The first tenst was to the President and King Edward, representatives of two nations "United and Invincible, influencing the World." Col. Sidney M. Hedges of Boston, was the first speaker. Lord Denbigh followed, thanking the company for the hospitality shown and voicing the hope that the visit of his command might "promote that great friendship that now exists between the two great English speaking peoples."

Lewiston, (me!,

HONOURABLE ARTILLERY

New York, Oct. 7.—On their return from West Point today the Hon-ourable Artillery Company of London and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston were met at the pier, by the Old Guard of New York and the Newport Artillery Company and escorted to the Waldorf Astoria, where a reception was held by the Old Guard.

Tonight a banquet was given in hon or of the company. Short speeches were made by Mayor Low, General Hamilton, Major-General Chaffee, Sir Thomas Lipton, Col. Astor and Chap-lain William N. Rider of the Boston Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co.

Edgartown Jugarte The Boston Ancients and the London Hon-ourables are now the guests of the Old Guard of New York, Lientenant S. L. H. Ward, well known here, is one of the Old Guard's

THE ARTILLERY IN NEW YORK.

Pleasant Night on the Sound, and Much Appreciation for Band and Company on the March.

[Special correspondence of the News.] NEW YORK, Oct. 7 .- The trip to New York of the Artillery proved a complete success. Upon going on board the Furitan the company was greeted with the cheer of the Honourable Artillery of London, and Colonel Dendigh immediately called upon Colonel Rich-ardson and congratulated him upon the military appearance of the men and the condition of the pieces and uniforms. He then requested Colonel Richardson to present his officers, after which Lord Denbigh sent for Lady Denbigh and presented the officers and also the vetallar and the colonial sent for Lady Denbigh and presented the officers and also the vetallar and the colonial sent for the colonial s

The boys fraternized with the Honwealing, 12 o'clock seeing most of them still awake and extending and returning calls of the hondoners. They were quite enthusiastic over the condition of the pieces, the fact that immediately upon the arrival on the boat the rubber coverings were put on neing new to them and attracting their attention. Almost every one who examined the arms stated they could not how they were kept in such condition.

to clock Wednesday, reveille was for the visitiog soldiers, who had call breakfast served for them, so they could see the Cate of Hell, ey indisted upon calling it. Many if boys explained the various s to them as they passed by. The assoulte thick as we neared New and caused them to miss seeing they all seemed to know about deare to see, the Statue of Libraling expressions of disappointed to the buildings as we neared aftery caused many expressions of the Britishers lieurd to ask when the people sorked in them started to elimby that time they stopped so as to home at night. The Flatinon impossite the hotel caused if as much comment from our They all want to see a blow and sit at their windows and see circus."

the 'circus.'

The Artillery article at the Hotel Batholdi about 9 o'clock and were infined ately assigned rooms, which prove 1 to be very good and mainly on the second floor, a thing almost unheard of before—placing a military company 60 a lower floor. After assignment to rooms the boys scattered to see New York by daylight. At 2:45 o'clock the company assembled and marched via Theory-third street to the North river, to meet the London and Boston troops on their return from West Point. After a tedicus wait and various manoeuter, as the companies were moved their return from the booming of carmon of the Second battery, N. Y. N. C., and the second battery, N. Y. N. C., and the second battery, N. Y. N. C., and the second battery, in the second battery, in the second battery, in the second battery, in Y. N. C., and the second battery, in Y. N. C., and the second battery, in Y. N. C., and the second battery, in the second battery in the boat. Atter a wait of a few minutes we marched to the Waldorf-Astoria, where the companies were wheeled into line and the Honourables and Honorables received the proper honors as they have determined the second the positions of sabrea and rifles were interesting to the love, being different from the American. being different from the Ameri-

The parade was formed of the Old Guard of New York, the Governor's Foot Guard of New York, the Governor's Foot Guard of New Haven, the Artillery Company and the Minutemen of Washington, who were accompanied by a Confinential drum corps which was the nearest approach to a Salvation Artily sand of anything the boys save seen or heard. They had "Yanthe Doodle" and "Rally Around the Flag," and they kept it up to the deliment of our step, playing those two times from the beginning of the match to the and, under all times and measures. Our band, the Seventh Armentures.

lery, especially on the march back from the Waldorf to the Bartholdi, where the company was dismissed until Thursday at 9 a. m. Colonel Richardson has just left to go to the banquet at Sherry's.

Gardiner Tree! Oct. 8, 1903

The visit of the Honourable Artillery company to this country, must have made the members believe that there is considerable real friendship in this country for Englishmen. The parade of the company and its escort would of course draw a crowd, as any spectacle would, but not so large a one as witnessed their parade in Boston. And there were many evidences every where of cordial good ill and esteem. At the close of the rebellion England was cordially detested in the United States for her sympathy with the rebels, and probably even the Honourables as guests of the Boston company would have been given scant courtesy. But England has done the United States many favors since then, and the people of the two countries have grown in friendship as have their commercial interests. It is not impossible that the two may have a war again, but it is not probable. Each is too enlightened to give the other cause for one, and such a war would be too damaging to the business of both to allow them to proceed to any such extremities if it could possibly be prevented.

· lew Bed sell Merkery Oct. 8, 1903.

Jaunty as they appeared Tuesday in Boston and Fall River, the Honourables were far from "right," to use one of their expressions. Clams, tight boots, climatic changes and the wear and tear of "the round of pleasure" here have had their effect in a greater or less degree upon all of them, and have slightly impaired the health of a few for a brief spell, although the illness in no case has been serious. Thanks to the efficiency of Dr. Pulver James, their regimental surgeon, the indisposed were promptly restored to their customary health. The big clambake in Rhode Island on Saturday was the first thing felt by the king's soldiers, because none of them ever had a shore dinner before or knew much of clams.

The fare was foreign to them and did not agree with many. Then in coming eway from the land of their birth all hands desired to look their very best, so they were new boots. They had little opportunity to ease up these on the passage over, and the constant marching has played havoe with some. Not only were the boots tight, but the rough pavements of the streets were strange and bother-

Since landing here few of the visitors have been able to get more than three hours sleep in every 24, so that the feasting, lack of rest and excitement of the Whole trip left a lot of tired young men, who fancy they will have plenty of time for repose on the trains that whirl them from city to city.

The Honourable Artillery Company of London has at last left Boston for its tour of the United States and Canada. It is pretty safe to say that the gallant solers will have about as good a time wherever they so as they have had in Boston, though or a different kind.

Tronscested Times,

LOVING CUP.

Gloucester Members Lost Souvenir of Ancients' Banquet,

Seven of Delegation Drew Tickets to Return Banquet.

At the recent banquet given by the Ancients of Boston to the London Company, loving cups were given to the visiting English brethren, while similar ones were purchased by the company for its own members as souvenirs of the occasion. During the dinner in Faneuil Hall, it seems that the cups were placed on the table beside each member's plate. While some of the party retired, it is alleged that in some instances the cups disappeared

Among those of the Gloucester delegation who were losers were Messrs. William B. Lantz and John J. Flaherty. The latter protested against such proceedings, the result being that after a while his cup turned up. Mr. Lantz did not fare so well, he being unable to locate his token. The gentleman would like to find where it went, as souvenirs of the occasion such as loving cups are well worth keep-

On the return of the Ancients from their tour, the visiting organization will give a dinner complimentary to the Americans. As it would be almost impossible to accommodate all for the occasion it was decided to extend invitations to the members by lot. Seven of the members of this city were among those fortunate enough to be chosen.

Boston Transcript, Oct. 8, 1903,

LADY DENBIGH APPRECIATIVE

she Acknowledges Flowers and a Letter of Welcome Sent Her by the Flower Mission Department of the Massachusetts Woman's Christian Temperance Union

When Lady Denbigh arrived in Boston, a magnificent bouquet was sent her from the flower mission department of the Massachusetts Woman's Christian Temperance Union, whose headquarters are at 14 Beacon street. The note accompanying it read, "Since one gracious English lady is the president of our world-wide organization in Lady Henry Somerset's behalf and in our own we welcome you to our shores and hope that your visit here will be both pleasant and profitable." This was signed by Mrs. Samuel Wright Simpson, State super-intendent.

Lady Denbigh was much gratified by this attention, and sent a graceful acknowledgment, as follows: "Dear Mrs. Simpson—I should like the soshould like, through you, to thank the so-ciety of which you are the superintendent. for the beautiful flowers sent me and for the kind message of welcome accompanying them, which have both touched me greatly. These last few days have been full of a cordiality and accord which were totally unexpected, and the warmth of which should do much to cement the friendship between our two countries. between our two countries, which to our delight grows deeper each day. Yours very truly, Cecilia Denbigh."

Oct. 7 1903

Fall River evidently apreciated the visit of the distinguished members of the Ancient and Honourable Artillery Co., of London, was glad to entertain them and will be happy to welcome then at some future date.